A delegation composed of Messrs. S. J. Ritchie, President of the Ontario Central Railway Company; G. W. Ostrom, Mayor of Trenton; Daniel Murphy, Town Councillor; and George Dench, Railway Superintendent, accompanied by Mr. John White, M.P., and Alex. Robertson, M.P., waited upon Sir Hector Langevin, Acting Minister of Railways, to urge that a subsidy should be granted by the Dominion Government towards extending the Ontario Central Railway from One Hill to Callander, on the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Ritchie, Minister of Customs, was also present. Mr. Ritchie submitted a proposition to build the whole distance of 130 miles, the work to be commenced at once, provided that the Government will grant a subsidy of $5,000 per mile for the first twenty miles, and $3,200 per mile for the remaining 110 miles. The delegates from Trenton presented a petition signed by two hundred ratepayers of that place in favor of the project. The petition points out that the proposed extension would give Trenton, Belleville, Kingston, Napanee and other places in that vicinity direct communication with the Canadian Pacific at Callander. The distance from Trenton to Callander by the proposed road is 130 miles, while by the way of Toronto and the Northern Pacific Junction, the distance is 342 miles. Sir Hector promised to submit Mr. Ritchie's proposition and the petition from Trenton, to his colleagues. The total subsidy asked for is about $532,000.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT
THE FOURTH SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Conveyance of North-West Lands—A Printing Bureau—Reform Standers—Protecting Our Fisheries.

WEDNESDAY, May 26.—Several measures were advanced a stage.

NORTHWEST LANDS.
MR. THOMSON'S bill for the conveyance of land in the Northwest past through committee.

THE PRINTING BUREAU.
MR. CHAPLEAU moved the second reading of the bill to establish a department of public printing and stationery. He explained that the better service and the saving in salaries would make this change not only satisfactory but not costly.

MR. SOMERVILLE, Mr. Mills and other Reform members connected with printing offices opposed this plan.

After some discussion the bill was read a second time.

THE INCH ARMAN SLANDER.
MR. DAVIES on the motion to go into supply brought up his refuted Inch Arman slander and endeavored to raise a discussion.

MR. McLELLAN declined to be led into a debate, when they would soon have the evidence published.

SATURN LANDS.
MR. ALLEN ventilated a grievance of some settlers who had brought Indian lands in the Saguenay Peninsula and now did not wish to pay for them.

SIR H. LANGEVIN showed how the Indian department was endeavoring to look after the interests of the Indians without being harsh with the settlers.

THE FISHERIES.
In Committee of Supply a number of items were passed.

On the votes for protecting the fisheries the Opposition asked a string of questions, seeming anxious to obtain information for the United States as they were last year to keep Riel and the other rebels well posted in the movements of our forces.

MR. BLAKE AND THE C.P.R.

When Mr. Blake delivered his latest anti-Canadian Pacific Railway speech we challenged both its propriety and its usefulness, and we took occasion to suggest that such continuous and uncalculated assaults on a great Canadian enterprise, honorably engaged in and honorably carried out, were injurious to his party, and we were avowedly, contrary to the wishes of many of his most influential supporters. It is now an open secret that the principal points of attack in that speech were cabled to England and were quickly utilized by stock jobbers to "bear" Canadian Pacific securities. Later the full text was revealed in England and on Mr. Blake's ill advised statements the London Standard based criticisms adverse to the railway as a property. There has, we learn by cable, been a drop of several points in Canadian Pacific on the London Exchange, and the only lever for the operations of the "bears" has been the material so unwarrantably disclosed up by the leader of Her Majesty's Opposition in the Canadian Parliament. If the earnings had not shown up so remarkably well the fall would, no doubt, have been much greater, but the satisfactory character of the earnings have been at once a refutation of Mr. Blake's pessimistic speeches, and a bulwark to sustain the value of the securities. As the value of the great railways of this continent are showing no increase, or very light ones, since the opening of the year, the Canadian Pacific continues to return excellent yields over last year. This for the week ending May 7th, an increase of $45,000; week ending May 14, $63,000; or an increase at the rate of nearly three million. The fact is that the traffic of the Canadian Pacific is already fully up to, if not greater than, the capacity of its rolling stock; and in the face of such a state of things even Mr. Blake's violent and not vicious assaults are powerless to do more than temporary injury. But what a strange position for the leader of a great Canadian party to place himself in! He could not join with the great majority of his countrymen in applauding the skill and energy and courage which have turned what many were disposed to regard as a phantom scheme into a great and enduring and successful reality. If he could not do that justice to his countrymen which foreigners have not scrupled to extend to them and their achievements in railway construction he might at least have remained silent. In view of the failure of all his sinister predictions he might have bowed his head and curbed his tongue. Montreal Herald (Indep.)

Great Fire in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 28.—A disastrous fire occurred in a large brick and stone structure on the corner of Congress street and Wabash avenue this morning. The loss will approximate $1,000,000. The building was filled with material of the most inflammable description. The occupants were Bedford, Clark & Co., publishers, whose loss is $300,000; Van Antwerp, Druggists & Co., in the same business; Donaghy & Henderson, bookbinders; R. H. Todd & Co., lithographers; and the Central Lithographing Co., a panic occurred among the guests of the Hotel Brunswick, directly opposite. The heat was so intense that every pane of glass in the Wabash avenue front was broken, and sashes and window frames were scorched. Several firemen were injured.

The Keppel Murder Case.

TORONTO, May 27.—Ellen McElary, the young woman who gave important evidence in the Keppel murder case, against the prisoners King and Wilson, was given bail in the sum of $1,000 to appear to give evidence at the autumn assizes. She could not get the necessary sureties, and the Government decided yesterday to allow the girl out on her own recognizance to appear when called upon. The order was sent to County Crown Attorney Frost, at Owen Sound, and Ellen McElary will be liberated from gaol. The prisoners King and Wilson have not yet been able to furnish the bail fixed by Judge O'Connor, and are still in gaol.

Cornell's Rich Legacy.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 26.—Judge Marcus Lyon, a surrogate of Tompkins county, today filed a decision in the famous McGraw-Fiske will case, decreeing the legacies of Jennie McGraw Fiske to Cornell University of $1,500,000 for literary purposes. It all respects valid; ratifying the payment heretofore made, and directing the executor to pay the balance of Miss Fiske's estate to Cornell University, as residuary legatee.

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small fru for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $3.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

GLADSTONE'S FOLLOWERS.

Liberal Meeting in London—Gladstone Announces Modifications.

LONDON, May 27.—The general Liberal meeting called by Mr. Gladstone assembled at the Foreign Office this afternoon. The meeting was well attended by the Premier's supporters, but none of the known Hartington or Chamberlain dissidents were present. Mr. Gladstone was cheered when he entered. He at once proceeded to the business on hand, and announced that the Government had decided to modify clause No. 24 of the Home Rule Bill, excluding Irish representatives from Westminster. He did not state what the nature of the promised modification was to be, but he did state that the Government had decided to modify the clause provided the bill passed its second reading, and was referred to a select committee for action during the Autumn session of Parliament. The meeting cordially approved of the position taken by Mr. Gladstone. The Premier's followers now express themselves as sanguine of the success of his Irish policy. They do not speak as if they feel at all that any concession has been made to Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Hartington's followers, but maintain that Mr. Gladstone has defined the Government policy in a way so clear and satisfactory that the Liberal waververs can no longer withhold their approval and must rally to his support. This, it is thought by the Government party, must result in practically breaking down the so-called dissident faction, as it will leave no Liberal not actuated by purely personal motives any further grounds for hostile affiliation. Mr. Gladstone declared that he would at the Autumn session of Parliament introduce an amended Irish Home Rule Bill. A number of Liberal dissidents, who did not care to risk compromising themselves by attending the meeting, have hailed with undisguised satisfaction the attitude of apparent conciliation adopted by the Premier.

AN IRISH NOVELIST.

Charles Lever's Knight of Gwynne on the Union.

Charles Lever, the celebrated Irish novelist, in one of his works, "The Knight of Gwynne," published six years ago, put the following words into the mouth of the Knight in a conversation with Lord Castle-rough, on the subject of the Union:—"That's a point your Lordship has not touched upon, but I'll tell you. The demagogue, the public disturber, the licensed lawbreaker of small grievances, every bribeless lawyer of bad fortune and worse language, every mendacious patriot that can minister to the passions of the people deserted by their natural protectors, the day will come my lord, when these men will grow ambitious; their aspirations may become troublesome, if you were then they are martyrs; what will happen then? You will be asked to repeal the Union, you will be charged with all the quality with which you carried your bill, every injustice with which it is chargeable, and with a hundred other faults and crimes with which it is unconnected. You will be asked, I say, to repeal the Union, and make of this rabble, these dregs and sweepings of a party, a Parliament. You shake your head. No, no, it is by no means impossible, nay, I don't think it even remote. I speak as an old man, and age, if it have many deficiencies as regards the past, has at least some prophetic foresight for the future."

CHEESE MARKET.

The first meeting of the Peterborough Board this season.

The first meeting of the Peterborough cheese board, for the purpose of selling cheese, was held on Thursday afternoon, May 27th. Mr. James Drummond, President, presided and Mr. Warren Taylor acted as Secretary.

The cable price of cheese was 45c. The cheese offered for sale, being the first half of the May make and all colored, was from the following factories:

Keene	55
Warminster	54
Westwood	50
Norwood	50
Warsaw	50
South Dunsmuir	50
Trewn	50
Cherry Grove	50
Lakefield	50

Balances were present from several other factories which had not commenced operations in time to offer any at this meeting. The following buyers were present: Messrs. W. Clifton, W. H. Clifton, W. H. Wrighton, Ben. Green, and J. W. Flavell, of Peterborough, and Mr. Cook of Belleville.

The President said that at the commencement of another season he was pleased to see so many salesmen and so many familiar faces present. He hoped they would get better prices this year and get along as harmoniously as usual. At their annual meeting they had changed one of the rules, and Mr. W. H. Wrighton had been appointed arbitrator in place of the instructor, on account of the difficulty in getting the services of the instructor in time. Mr. Wrighton's appointment would, he was sure, be satisfactory to all, as they had confidence in his ability and integrity.

Mr. T. Bledzard asked the President to remind the buyers that more lively bidding and less waiting would not be objected to. He also said that the buyers would visit the factories now, and make any suggestions they thought necessary, it might be of advantage to both the factories and the buyers.

The first offer was from Mr. Wrighton, 65c, but the buyers did not appear to have taken Mr. Wrighton's timely remarks to heart, as it was some time before another bid was received. Then it was raised to 67c, and another bid was made for selections.

Mr. W. Clifton bought the Trewn, Cherry Grove, South Dunsmuir, Warminster, and Warsaw cheese at 70c.

A discussion arose as to whether there was any fadder cheese in the lot, but there did not appear to be any. Most of the rows seemed to have been on the grass on May 1st, the first year, one salesman remarked, that he had known it to be the case.

Mr. Clifton offered 67c, for the cheese of the Keene, Norwood, Westwood and Lakefield factories. Mr. Cook offered 67c.

The representatives of these factories refused to sell at the price offered.

Mr. Flavell brought before the board the matter of changing the market day. The Allen line steamer had changed their day of sailing from Montreal from Saturday to Tuesday. It would be impossible for buyers to get the cheese forwarded within a week, and so they would have to wait till the next sailing of the steamer.

Mr. Clifton agreed with Mr. Flavell and urged the detriment which would occur through the cheese lying on the docks for a week.

A motion was passed changing the market day from Thursday to Tuesday.

Mr. Clifton also purchased 25 boxes from the North Smith factory.

Possibilities of a Goose Farm.

Several gentlemen from Virginia have been looking around through the mountain counties of western Pennsylvania for the past week with a view to establishing a "goose farm." Among the party are James Bench, Henry Bailey, and James Connor, all of whom are from Baltimore, Md. The latter said:

"Yes, we want to secure a farm of several hundred acres, with a stream of water with rock bottom running through it, to start in the business of raising geese. It may seem like a rather curious business to engage in, but there is money in it. We got our idea from the great goose farm started some time ago down on the western shore of Virginia. Within an area of about 3000 acres there live 5000 geese of several varieties, attended by herders, and regularly fed with corn, etc. The object is the collection of down for quilts and pillows, and over six weeks a plucking takes place, only the breast and sides under the wings being plucked. Every goose will produce one pound of feathers per annum, which can readily be sold at 50 cents per pound. We want to start with about 500 geese, and calculate that they will raise 3000 geese a year."

In addition to the money received for feathers, we propose to sell off the young geese, and can realize from 75 cents to $1 apiece for them. We have several farms in view along the line of the Pennsylvania road and up the Monongahela River, but we will not make a definite choice for the farm for a few days yet. Geese live forever, your night say. Five hundred geese will weather the storms of 40 winters at least, barring accidents. They raise their young with the utmost care, and, counting six geese to a brood, you have 3000 geese, able fowls each autumn besides the down. Of course, we expect to increase the stock as circumstances will permit."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

WORTH REMEMBERING.—There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagar's Yellow Oil. It cures Mrs. John Haddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain.

One hundred kegs of powder exploded on a flat car at the Rocky Mount, near Nashville, Tenn., on Wednesday. Two cars and a locomotive were wrecked. Wm. Lloyd, David Harper and Ike Ramsey were blown to atoms.

The Great Source of Consumption and many wasting forms of disease, is scrofula lurking in the system. The true specific for this condition is found in Burdock Blood Bitters; that medicine purifies the blood and builds up the enfeebled frame.

A USEFUL HINT.—It may be useful for the reader to know that the popular preparation known as Hagar's Yellow Oil has proved a sovereign remedy for deafness, many certified cures being on record. Hagar's Yellow Oil also cures aches, pains, and lameness, and may be used internally as well as outwardly.

Samuel Mitchell, a young man of Montreal, is under $200 bonds to appear for trial next week for threatening violence against Mr. Bernadine, a hotel proprietor of Terrebonne, Que., because the latter would not allow Mitchell to marry his daughter.

Never drug the stomach with nauseating and weakening expectorants and opiates; Hagar's Pectoral is pleasant and reliable in its effects, and safe in all throat and lung complaints that, if neglected, end in consumption.

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE.—Mrs. Cyrus Kilborne, Beamsville, Ont., had what was supposed to be a cancer on her nose. She was about to submit to a cancer doctor's treatment, when she concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, internally and externally, a few bottles of which entirely cured her.

Burdock Acid Phosphate for Wakefulness. Dr. Wm. P. Clothier, Buffalo, N. Y., says "I prescribed it for a Catholic priest, who was a hard student, for wakefulness, extreme nervousness, etc. He reports great benefit."

Don't Be Deceived. Beware of any druggist who will try to induce you to take anything in place of McCreight & Parke's Carbolic Ointment. It is a marvel of healing for Sores, Cuts, Burns, etc. No family should be without it. It has no equal. Get McCreight & Parke's, and have no other. Only 25 cents per box at John McKee's.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphates. It is more reliable as an agent in the cure of Consumption, Chronic Coughs, Emaciation than any remedy known to medical science. It is so prepared that the potency of these two most valuable specifics is largely increased. It is also very palatable.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

The Matched Race.

The matched race between Grey Bird and Maggie Roach is to be run the best three in five, half mile heats, not mile heats, as previously announced.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

A Concert.

Another evening concert is on the tapis. Mr. Parker, organist and choir-master of St. Paul's Church, proposes to give a grand evening concert on June 15th. Arrangements for talent are being made, which, under Mr. Parker's selection, will doubtless prove satisfactory.

Grand Picnic.

A grand picnic will be held at Hargrove on the 8th of June under the auspices of the Rev. J. Sweeney. The picnic will be conducted by Misses Mabel Halpin, of Peterborough, and Miss Kate of Harwood. Boys, keep your watch keyed home. An excursion will sail from Peterborough to Harwood at reduced rates on 8th June.

An Unsubstantiated Charge.

In reference to a letter written to a local paper by someone signing his name "Lex," Capt. Cooper says that the charge made as to his laziness of doing his duty cannot be sustained. He was on the P.A.A. grounds when he heard that there were three card monte men in the vicinity of the Driving Park. He immediately drove there, but found no one practicing such games.

Important Sale.

On Monday, May 31st, the beautifully situated and valuable property of Mr. C. A. Mitchell, in the North Ward, lot No. 1 and 2, on the corner of South Street and Communication Road, will be offered for sale on the premises, by C. A. Mitchell, auctioneer. On lot No. 2 a fine brick dwelling, with kitchen and suitable outbuildings, is erected. This will be an excellent opportunity to secure valuable properties at reasonable prices.

Medical.

Dr. F. H. Brennan, formerly of Norwood, has commenced the practice of his profession in Peterborough, his office being on Hunter street, opposite St. John's Church. He is a graduate M.D. and C.M.J. of the University of Trinity College, a Fellow of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario. Dr. Brennan passed his examinations very creditably. He is not unknown to many in Peterborough, who will welcome him as a resident of the town, and wish him success in his profession.

Forgery.

Mr. Frank Perry, of Rubidge's tobacco store, was to-day made the victim of a forged cheque. An individual named Feegan, or some such name, came in and presented a cheque for $13, to which the name of John E. Belcher was signed, requesting Mr. Perry to confer a favor by cashing it. Mr. Perry cashed the cheque. He took it to the bank and got his money, but was surprised to find that in a short time it was returned, with the statement that it was a forgery. Mr. Perry is minus $13, and, from what he can learn, the town is minus a Feegan.

Royal Society.

At Wednesday's session of the Royal Society of Canada, now sitting in Ottawa, a paper on "Some prehistoric remains of Manitoba," was read by Mr. C. N. Bell, brother of Mrs. Dr. Kincaid, of this town. The author's correspondent in a lengthy notice of the paper says that "considerable interest has been aroused by the paper." "It was well received and caused a good deal of favorable discussion. The paper, which was of great length, dealt with every point of interest in connection with the subject." Mr. Sandford Fleming also read a paper on "Time reckoning for the twentieth century," arguing for the adoption of the twenty-four clock system.

FIREMEN'S GRIEVANCES.

They do not wish to strike but want Proper Appliances.

A meeting of the Fire Brigade has been held to discuss the matter of means to obtain new appliances for the departments. For years the firemen have dragged the heavy hose reels, in all sorts of weather to fires. They are tired of this sort of thing, and this they have told the Town Council several times. They have applied for horses to draw the hose reels, but their applications have been referred to the committee, and there have been buried, no more to be heard of.

At the meeting several were in favor of striking, but were overruled, and it was decided to put in another application to the Council. The firemen will ask for the purchase of a new hook and ladder wagon, and a hose wagon, to take the place of the old hose reels, which, they claim, will not do to be drawn by horses, and a team to draw the wagon. Then they want their rooms properly furnished so that a number of the firemen will be able to sleep on the premises. With these provided, they claim that there will not be the trying delays which now frequently occur, annoying as much to the firemen as to the proprietors of the burning property. The firemen are satisfied with the supply of hose, but state that there is not other efficient appliances in the department. They will urge the thorough overhauling of the engine.

When the petition is presented it should be fairly discussed.

Rifle Association.

A meeting of the County of Peterborough Rifle Association was to have been held at the range on Thursday, but on account of lack of ammunition none was held. The first meeting will be held on Thursday next.

Ginger Beer.

The Grangers of Hastings will hold their annual picnic at W. J. W. on Wednesday, June 1st. Parties can be secured through wishing to join it can go by steamer White-Wing from Peterborough 75 cents. Boat will leave at 7:30 a.m.

Personal.

The Toronto World says that Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan has completed a series of three articles for the American Catholic Quarterly Review on the Church in Canada, for which he received $200.

Mr. J. F. White, Inspector of Separate Schools, is in town inspecting the Separate Schools of this place. Mr. White is visiting the convent this afternoon.

Resulted Fatally.

Mr. Charles Robinson, who received a paralytic stroke on Wednesday, May 19th, while at work painting at Mr. Constock's, lingered in pain until 9 o'clock this morning, when he expired. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, and will be attended by the members of Court Peterborough, C.O.F., of which deceased was a member.

It May be Remarkable.

—That the informant in the Roddy case has flown.

—That the Court has issued a warrant and will patiently wait for him.

—That though Mrs. Dancy was fined three times, the fine remained at the monstrous $50 this morning.

—That Rossiter says it was a mistake; the information should have read "for the second offence."

—That the firemen refuse to make horses of themselves any longer.

—That Capt. Edwards meets his men at the drill shed to-night.

The First Seizure.

The first seizure of goods on account of payment of Rent Act fines was made on Thursday afternoon, when P. C. Pidgeon and Adams made a seizure of a horse and buggy belonging to Wm. Kennedy.

It is said that if the goods be sold Mr. Kennedy will enter an action against the prosecutors. Mr. Moore, his counsel, is of opinion that no distressing can be made under the provisions of the Rent Act; that if fines are to be collected they must be sued for. More seizures will be made this afternoon.

MIDDLE LIFE.

BY A. D. GALLIVAN, ON A FRIEND'S BIRTHDAY.
Life's breezy hill-top, where the sun
Sheds its warm rays, and the good brother,
Tossing his head, and his mid-sonnet
You first did meet me and another.

That other was a maiden fair,
With gentle heart, a brother's pride,
In time of grief a comforter,
And her you made your loving bride.

When backward over the slopes of life
We glance along its zig-zag way,
From the dawn of our first day,
With whom we spent our youth's joyday.

Scenes of our infancy and youth,
With joy and sorrow we recall,
Some glided over with gleams of hope,
Some clad, alas! in funeral pall.

How oft, with hearts aching, we would
When life was robed in purple dew,
All heedless of the world's care,
And now, dear friend, you're forty-two.

Yet will we not despair, my friend,
But face the future, day by day,
And gaze with hope upon the scene,
That stretch beneath life's breezy height.

Pence be to thee, my brother dear,
Sweet peace to thee and thine be given,
And when life's troubled day is o'er,
Oh, grant them, Lord, Thy rest in heaven.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

The principal honey plant in Cuba is the morning glory. The honey is very good. The bees gather the year round.

An English farmer remarked that "he fed his land before it was hungry, rested it before it was weary, and weeded it before it was foul."

A farmer should be the architect of his own farm, but when he builds his house he ought to leave the arranging of the interior to his wife.

If you want to get the full capacity out of your horses without injury use moderation at the beginning of every task you impose upon them.

Henry Stuart writes that he rode 800 miles through the southern states, without seeing one barn or one load of manure that would fill an ox cart.

The botanical department of Michigan Agricultural College reports in the most imposing building especially erected for a botanical institution in the country.

Professor Cook recommends planting potatoes the first year after plowing up greenward if wireworms attack the crop. The grubs live nearly three years as larvae.

In Spain, when a person eats a peach or a pear as he passes along the road, he immediately plants the seeds. Fruit trees are plenty and free to every passerby.

Last year the average yield of wheat per acre in England was 31.5 bushels. In Scotland the average was 31.7. The average yield of oats in England was 35.3 bushels.

It is believed that unless France and Germany manifest a more friendly attitude towards American pork products, retaliatory legislation will soon be adopted by Congress.

West Shore fruit growers depend largely on plowing under green crops, such as rye and clover, for fertilizing their orchards. The rye is plowed under as soon as fully leaved.

Don't let the horses pass the night with all the sweat and dirt upon them that accumulates upon them during the day. It may be a little trouble to remove it, but it should be done every evening.

Success with sun flowers in Kansas last year has aroused much interest in the crop, and the papers of that state announce that considerable acreage will be planted this year as a hopeful venture.

S. Hollingsworth, an Indiana potato grower, strongly advocates the rotation of crops as a means of avoiding the scab. He manures his crop lightly on account of this disease, which he says is increasing.

Last year there were 154,722 acres of fruit orchards in Great Britain. This year the area has increased to 157,532 acres. Last year 52,975 acres were devoted to market gardens. There are now 53,437 devoted to this purpose.

The earlier in its life a calf is used for any purpose whatever is trained to be gentle, the greater will be its usefulness. There would be neither kicking cows nor bucking cows if they were properly trained from early childhood and gently handled afterwards.

Because you have but a short distance to go is no reason why you can drive a ter or put on a heavier load than usual. To go two or three miles at too rapid a rate is much harder upon a horse than it would be to go five times as far if it were properly driven.

A centrifugal milk separator in the creamery at Burlington, Ill., burst recently. One of the fragments struck the foreman, cutting off a leg near the hip, and causing his death in a short time. This is the second accident in the vicinity this week from these separators.

In the hot regions of Central Africa sheep imported from colder regions lose their wool in the course of a year, and this hair takes its place. Southern wool growers will always have to come north for new fleeces if they want to keep up the size and quality of their fleeces.

The Guernseys are fast coming into favor as rivals of the Jerseys, being larger in size and harder. They are said to give deeper colored milk than the Jerseys, and, though not so numerous as the latter, can compare with them, proportionately to numbers, in butter production.

The Journal of Agriculture says the value of fresh eggs for toning up a horse's system is well understood by most managers of fine horses. Farmers having good horses and very cheap eggs would do well to break one in each horse's feed occasionally during the Spring of the year.

The Prize Farm Competition.

About a dozen entries have already been received in the Provincial sweepstakes prize farm competition in connection with the Agricultural and Arts Association. In former years prizes were offered for the best farm in certain groups of counties; this year farms in every part of Ontario may enter the competition. Entries will be received up to June 15. The judges will visit the farms during the last week in June. Prizes of $100, $50 and $40 will be given.

Strikers Expelled.

YALEBURG, Ill., May 28.—The Grand Lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Brakemen has expelled twenty-six of its members for originating a strike on the Union Pacific Railroad, and has suspended thirty more for ninety days for participating. The Grand Lodge is now considering the cases of these members who took part in the Missouri Pacific strike, and intends to expel those who destroyed or injured property. The action has created a profound impression in railroad circles here. The Grand Lodge will be sustained.

William Rye, a wealthy and well known farmer of Pilkington, Wellington county, was crushed to death on Wednesday by a tilting machine falling from its supports. He had lived in Pilkington for forty years, and was collector of taxes for the township.

The death is announced, from Yamaheche, of the widow of Antoine Gerin Lajoie, at the advanced age of 82. Mrs. Lajoie was the mother of the late well known literateur, Antoine Gerin Lajoie, of the Hon. Mr. Gerin, Legislative Councillor of Quebec, and of the Rev. Denis Gerin, Parish Priest of St. Justin, Que.

An accident which nearly terminated fatally occurred at Ridgeview, Ont., the other evening, the victim being Miss Minnie Vactor, aged 16. She was seated near a pan of coals, when her dress caught fire, and before the flames could be extinguished she was terribly burned. The doctor in attendance pronounces the injuries serious, but entertains hopes of her recovery.

MEMOR.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.—Osmo's 24th celebration gave entire satisfaction to the large crowd of spectators present.

A FINE CAPTURE.—On the 24th of May Mr. T. B. Laidly and Mr. W. Adams of Emily, found and captured a nest of full grown foxes, there were five in the nest. The old fox could not be caught, although a Winchester rifle was used, and these gentlemen make another lucky capture like this we would advise them to commence a fox farm. Mr. R. Bennett, of Emily, also captured three fine foxes and a raccoon one day this week. —Herald.

CAMPBELLFORD.

IT MADE THEM CRUZY.—The hotel-keepers demand a fee for the use of their sheds now that the sale of liquor is prohibited. Two men were obliged to pay 25 cents each for putting their teams under a shed at one of the hotels, and they felt rather cruddy about it.

THE CRACKER NUISANCE.—The evils arising from the crackers are without number. On Monday last, while some boys were amusing themselves with these explosives one of them was thrown into Mr. Stephens' barber shop under a chair in which a stranger was sitting, while he was being shaved. The explosion caused the man to jump suddenly just as Mr. Stephens was passing the razor over his throat, and he received a severe cut on the forehead. Fortunately the razor was withdrawn at the instant the explosion occurred, otherwise there might have been an accident of a very serious nature. —Herald.

STURGEON POINT.

THE CANOE MEET.—It was a very lively day at the Point, on Monday, and the meet of the canoeists was an event which will long be remembered. The day was fine, and though there was a little more wind than was desirable, making the water rather too rough for light canoes, the weather on the whole must be pronounced favorable. There were not less than 800 persons assembled at the Point. The Eva made two trips from Lindsay, the Beaubien and the Palace. The Eva, made one trip from Lindsay, and the Esturion a trip from Lindsay. There were two races both sailing. Though about thirty canoes were assembled, the rough water prevented all but seven starting in the race, of these Mr. Edwards, of Peterborough, came in first, and Mr. J. Read, of Balgavoy, second, the rest were demolished in the heavy sea. The stiff race was won by Mr. W. Kilmer, of Balgavoy, Mr. J. Godfrey second, and Mr. P. Holman third. There were some games on shore, and great fun prevailed. The hotel arrangements were excellent, and the Sault Act was enforced very fairly. —Independent.

NEW BOARDING HOUSE.

MR. ALEX. H. KENNEDY, who was to open a Boarding House on Water street, having secured more convenient premises on Alymer street, formerly occupied by Mr. R. H. Green, will be pleased to secure a number of respectable Boarders. Suitable rooms for married or single gentlemen. Farmers can also be supplied with meals and accommodations for their horses. Apply on the premises, or by letter to Box 25, Peterborough, P. O. d12

TAR AND FELT ROOFING.

THE UNDERSIGNED is prepared to do all kinds of Roofing, Repairs, Scaffolding, etc. at his shop, corner of Brock and Chamber Streets. JOHN P. LONG. d10

PRIVATE BOARDING.

THE UNDERSIGNED having leased the house recently occupied by Dr. Sproule, is prepared to receive a limited number of boarders at reasonable rates. JOHN P. LONG. d10

JAMES BOCUE,

BUILDER AND CONTRACTOR, residence, 414 Alymer street, Peterboro'. Having finished his recent contract, the rebuilding of St. Peter's Cathedral, he is now at liberty to take jobs in all classes of house or bridge masonry. Parties wishing to get their cemetery lot situated with stone borders, can have the same done at the cheapest rate by communicating with him. Box 40, Peterborough, Ont. 18424

BOBCAYGEON.

NAVIGATION.—The steamer Maple Leaf is making occasional trips to Bridgeport, where it makes connections with Peterborough. The steamer Esturion is running with great punctuality, and is doing a large amount of business in both freight and passengers.

MASKALONGUE.—The extension of the close season for fish is having a good effect, and fish will soon be more plentiful than ever. As Mr. J. T. Robinson was walking along the lake side last week he counted no less than twelve maskalongue in the lake, all engaged chasing the minnows. Some of the fish appeared to be nearly three feet in length.

ANOTHER PARK.—On Tuesday the citizens made a sort of a kind of a tree and closed up the open ground in front of this journal and planted it with trees. It is a very pretty site, bordered by the canal on one side and the main street on the other.

RESPONSIBILITY.

UNDER our theory and system of government the Administration is responsible for the conduct of public affairs to the representatives of the people in Parliament and thus almost immediately to the people themselves. But this constitutional responsibility does not relieve others from their proper responsibility, especially in the case of an organized opposition. Neither does our system assume that such responsibility applies to the results of the policy or acts of the Administration if such results are due to unavoidable circumstances, or to obstacles placed in the way by others whom the Administration cannot control. An Administration is no more supposed to be infallible or all powerful than any other human organization.

The census shows that the growth of population in the Northwest has not been so great as the people of Canada would gladly have seen it. Though the increase has been great, enormously greater than it was under the previous administration, there is a feeling of some disappointment that it has not equalled the sanguine anticipations that had been formed.

The Opposition alleges that the increase is not so great as it should have been, and that the Administration is responsible for this.

We grant that the increase of population was not so great as it should have been. We distinctly deny that it is the Administration that is responsible for this.

Under the Macdonald Administration public land regulations have been adopted far more liberal in every respect than those in force south of the boundary line, and which therefore should be more attractive to settlers. A great through railway has been pushed from the older provinces of Canada through the whole length of the Territories with a rapidity and efficiency that has excited the admiration of the civilized world. Freight rates have consequently been lower and prices of produce higher than on the other side of the international boundary so that wheat has been teamed across the line to C. P. R. stations. Representation has been provided for the people at an earlier date and with a smaller population than in any previous instance in the history of constitutional government. A tariff has been devised with duties lower than those of our neighbors, and under which agricultural implements and other goods have been greatly cheapened in comparison with former prices. Every reasonable aid and encouragement has been afforded to these and other respects for the settlement and progress of the country. Under these circumstances, combined with the great natural advantages, it was reasonably anticipated that there would be a larger influx of population.

What is the cause of this partial failure? And who are responsible for it?

There were two great and obvious causes. One was that settlers instead of being invited were warned not to come and were told of asserted greater advantages elsewhere. The other was the deterring effect of rebellion and murder, and of the fear that such outrages might be renewed.

The responsibility is no less obvious.

It was the Opposition and its friends, not the Government, who issued a manifesto warning settlers not to join them in the Northwest. It was the leader of the Opposition, not of the Government, whose portrait and speeches were used by the land and emigration agents of the United States to lure settlers to their country in preference to Canada. It is the Opposition members, Opposition journals, the Opposition as a whole and their friends, not the Government and their friends, who have systematically deceived our country, its laws, its position, its circumstances, so as to convey the idea that it was a good country to avoid.

It was the Opposition and its friends, not the Government and its supporters, who incited, promoted and agitated for the rebellion before it took place, who encouraged, aided and sympathized with it when it broke out and till it was suppressed, who justified it when it was put down and punished and who have endeavored to create the false impression that its renewal was probable.

It is the Opposition and its friends who are responsible to their country for the mischief they have worked.

The Administration procured good measures, adopted a wise policy, and did all that was possible to encourage and aid the settlement of the country. They are not responsible for their beneficial efforts being partially thwarted and counteracted. They are not even responsible for the incomplete fulfillment of their favourable estimates. They could not be expected to foresee that Canadians would have the unprecedented baseness to injure their own country deliberately, that the Opposition would adopt the satanic policy of endeavouring to ruin, if they could not rule, that they would incite, encourage and justify a murderous rebellion, or that they would warn and dissuade settlers from coming to the country. The Administration could not be expected to foresee or guard against such attempts to injure the country. In the United States and in Australia they have not heard of a party rejected by the people endeavouring to avenge itself by thwarting the development of the country and warning settlers from its lands. The present Canadian Opposition stands alone in this degraded position.

The people of Canada will hold the Opposition, not the Administration, responsible for any disappointment of their hopes for the rapid settlement of our unoccupied territories.

HERR MOST AND HIS FRIENDS.

The New York Grand Jury Finds Three of Them Guilty.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Herr Most, the Anarchist, was brought to court this morning handcuffed to a thief. His associates, Schenck and Baunschwieg, were with him. The court room was crowded. Most looked very savage and scowled viciously at every man's eyes fell upon it. It was said he was greatly annoyed at the spread of the statement which the official journals of the socialist party have been giving publicity to for years, that he (Most) was in the pay of the German Government and his presence in the country was for the purpose of destroying the labor movement here. The defence called witnesses who gave testimony to Schenck's good character. Each of the prisoners were heard in defence. The jury found the whole three guilty of the charge in the indictment—misdeemeanor—and recommended Schenck to the mercy of the court. They will be sentenced on Wednesday.

The Chicago Anarchists.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Anarchist spies said last night: "If it will do capitalists any good I am satisfied to let them hang me now. They may take my life and they may take the lives of any of my friends, but revolution no man can hold down, and if revolution break out you will not be able to suppress it." Meiden declared he was a martyr, was not guilty, but would not be surprised if the police tried to put a lot of evidence against him. A conference between Police Captain Schenck and State Attorney Grinnell occurred to-day. It is supposed to have been about the conspiracy which the captain has been credited with discovering. Starting as the rumor is, it is said that Schenck has in his possession the details of a plot concocted by the Anarchists which contemplated the blowing up of the Board of trade, the Police Station and various other buildings in the city on June 1st.

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

GOUGH, THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN
ARCADE BUILDINGS, PETERBOROUGH.

LINDSAY.

BREWERY CLOSED DOWN.—On Saturday night Haslam's brewery at Lindsay shut down, stopped the manufacture of ales and beer, and the hands were all discharged.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday morning a little son of Mr. R. J. McNeil fell out of a high chair at the breakfast table and broke his right arm above the elbow. Assistance was at once called and the arm attended to, but as the little fellow is delicate and not very strong, fears are entertained that the accident may prove very serious, if not fatal.

DREDDING.—Down the river the Government dredge is at work deepening the channel through the "cut." The passage of steamboats seems to draw in stuff from the sides of the cutting filling up the middle until it is almost impassable for anything drawing more than an inch or two. Twelve feet additional depth will be scooped out for a good part of the width and for the entire length of the cut, the stuff taken out being dumped in the bay, where there is ample depth of water.

THE SCOTT ACT.—The question is frequently asked by visitors to Lindsay, "How is the Scott Act working in your town? Has it stopped the sale of liquor?" In reply it may be said in general terms that the act is working well. No doubt liquor is sold to some extent, but to nothing like the extent as before the act came into force. The facilities for selling are so limited and if sold has to be done under such privacy and caution that it takes time to get a drink down the throat of thirsty customers. The time since the act came into force is so short that an opinion based on its operations for that time would be merely inferential.—Post.

FIRE.—We learn with regret of the loss by fire at Foulton Falls, early on the morning of May 26th, of the mill belonging to the mills together with a large quantity of stock, the property of John Foll, Esq., M. P. P. How the fire originated is a mystery.

A BUSINESS COLLEGE.—On Saturday last Mr. Sawyer, Principal Peterborough Business College, visited Lindsay to locate here a branch of his already successful school.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—On Friday night last a terrific thunderstorm passed over Lindsay; but with one instance excepted, did little damage. That exception, however, was almost incredible. At 3.30 a. m. the dwelling house, a substantial building—of Mr. A. J. Welsh, in the south ward near Old Deacon's was struck by lightning, the roof being completely broken in. Mrs. Welsh was asleep in the dwelling. Mr. and Mrs. Welsh and the baby in one bedroom, while an adjoining room was their boy. Mr. Welsh awakened by being struck on the head by falling bricks. For a time he says he thought he was dreaming; but soon the terrible reality dawned on his brain. On investigation it was found the electricity had made a large hole in the roof through which the chimney fell, crushing its way through the ceiling and falling on Mr. and Mrs. Welsh. The house is otherwise completely wrecked. Mrs. Welsh was knocked senseless, while her husband had several scalp wounds. The children escaped unhurt. The shock has been a serious one for Mr. and Mrs. Welsh, and while condoling with them in their heavy loss, we cannot but think the latter very fortunate to escape with life and intellect unimpaired. Mr. and Mrs. Welsh are very highly respectable citizens, and have from the public sympathy for their loss; and congratulations for their escape.—Warrior.

TELEPHONE COMMUNICATION.

BLAINE OF MAINE.

O Blaine of Maine,
We hear your fog-horn voice again.
With patriotic fervor now you wish
To let your Maineans steal our fish;
But Blaine of Maine,
Let us explain:
Your men may fish where'er they wish,
But not, in spite of all their boasts,
Upon Canadian coasts.
Nor must they look to us for bait.
From your own state
We take one stern condition—
Strict prohibition.
In days of old, we're told,
The men of Egypt, all grown bad and bold,
Holding the captive Jews within their toils,
Were plagued with blains and boils.
But Blaine, O Blaine,
Worse than the Pharaonic train
Which truth and honesty and law deter,
Is plagued with Blaines and Fries.
O Blaine of Maine,
Hear us again:
The fish is a mighty power,
Nor were mere transient creature of the hour.
But ones whose native darts float to the breeze
In every clime and glorifies the seas.
Beneath that flag we sit, nor fear a bit,
But fish where'er we wish.
In Britain's arm we must Forever trust.
Her thunders never sleep,
But roll across the mighty pathless deep.
Forget not this, O democratic Blaine—Britannia rules the main.
—Hudson Spectator.

RULES FOR MILK PRODUCERS.

The Michigan Dairymen's Association adopted the following rules for the use of those who ship milk to cheese factories or butter dairies:—

1. Cows must have abundance of good, wholesome food, pure and not too cold water, to which they can have access at all times.
2. Cows must not be overheated or unduly excited or worried at any time.
3. The udder and teats should be thoroughly cleaned before milking, by washing, if need be, and the teats should not be wet during the process of milking.
4. Kindness and gentleness should be used at all times. Cows should not be excited by loud talk or other noises.
5. Cows should be milked by the same milker, and as quickly as possible, and good, pure water and salt placed in easy access.
6. During cold weather cows should be comfortably housed, their stalls well cleaned and littered, and an abundance of good and not too cold water accessible.
7. Milk, if kept over night, should be placed in a tank surrounded by cold water or ice.
8. If the milk is for butter, or cream for the creamery or market, cool the creamer to about 40 or 50 degrees before turning the milk into it. Put the milk in the creamer as soon as drawn. It should remain from twelve to twenty-four hours for complete separation.
9. If the milk is for cheese or for sale, thoroughly strain and cooling to 75 degrees before starting to factory.
10. Milk should never be allowed to stand where it is subjected to foul odors of any kind.
11. Nothing but bright, absolutely clean, tin pails and cans should be used in handling milk.
12. Milk must never be allowed to stand in cans after being returned to the farm, and they should be thoroughly washed in warm water, and then scalded with boiling hot, and thoroughly scoured with salt at least twice a week. Soap, soda, or such alkalies should not be used to clean pails or cans.

SEED CORN.

In a recent bulletin of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station, Dr. Sturtevant calls attention to the loss which may occur during the period of planning through the use of poor seed. Last year, as published before, it was determined that the kiln-drying of seed corn greatly increased its value and certainty for seed purposes. Other experiments at that time indicated a larger germinating quality in corn that was kiln-dried than in the best selected corn of the same variety from the crib.

This spring experiments in the same line have not indicated the same difference in germinative properties. They have, however, indicated the greater vigor of the plant which is grown from the kiln-dried seed. While in germination in one trial the vitality, as expressed in per cents, was precisely the same between two lots of 500 seeds, the one corn from the crib and the other thoroughly dried over a radiator, namely, ninety-four per cent. Yet when this same corn was planted in the earth the difference became very marked, the corn from the crib giving but twenty per cent vegetation and the same corn kiln-dried giving eighty per cent vegetation. The difference was even more marked in the growth, the corn from the crib only attaining a height of three inches, while that from the kiln-dried seed has reached a height of five inches in the same time.

While it is not safe to generalize from single instances from a set trials, yet these results are sufficiently striking to call attention to the fact, since there is always much loss in practical farming arising from the non-germination of seed, and variant causes which would have been filled providing the seed had been of the best quality.

Freshness of seed alone and careful selection alone is not sufficient in every case to furnish the results. In addition, the method of preserving the seed must be considered as of importance. Seed which is most carefully preserved and kept over will not only retain its vitality longer but will also give better results in planting.

Farmers should select carefully their seed corn from the blue, better still, from the field, and carefully keep over until the next season in a warm and dry place. Our present experience justifies the farmer in selecting his seed corn by taking the best ear, and, after shelling, to put in a warm place and allow it to thoroughly dry before using in the spring.

Seed corn, when planted too early, is often destroyed in the ground. The destruction does not come from the cold, as often assumed, but from other conditions, the most important of which is the slow germination of the seed and a vitality which cannot endure this circumstance, and also the action of mold, which grows rapidly at a lower temperature than will suffice for the corn. Particularly to those who plant early is the very best of seed of the greatest importance. The experience at the station indicates that early planted corn usually yields a larger crop than will the same variety planted at a late period.

Fire at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 29.—Fire assailed in the inland Revenue buildings all night, and burst forth this morning. The firemen speedily subdued the flames, but not before the place was deluged with water. The fire caught in the second flat flooring from a spark from an open fireplace. The damage to the building is $2,000, on which there is no insurance. Government property was damaged to the extent of $3,000 or $4,000. Valuable instruments in the Revenue Department, weights and measures, and the Inspector's office, were injured by water. The records, vouchers and letters were destroyed, but the ledgers, stamps, etc., were saved in a damaged state.

NATIONAL PILLS is the favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine, they are mild and thorough.

A SECRET FOR THE LADIES.—The great secret of beauty is pure blood. Eruptions and all blotches that disgrace the face, may be quickly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters.

Annie Heath, of Portland, certifies that she was cured by this remedy, after suffering for two years.

Argument in the celebrated Toronto appeal case of Dumoulin v. Langtry was concluded on Friday before the Supreme Court, judgment being reserved.

WORTH REMEMBERING.—There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagar's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orono, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain.

Some of Mr. Gladstone's supporters urge that the consideration of the Home Rule Bill be not resumed until 1887, but to this the Parliaments will not assent.

J. D. Tully, druggist, will gladly inform anyone enquiring as to the wonderful merits of West's Pain King. The standard remedy for dizziness, summer complaint, cholera morbus, cholera, colic, etc. Price 50 cents.

The memorial tablet to Lieutenant Fitch, of the Royal Grenadiers, who were killed at Batoche, as unveiled at St. James' cathedral, Toronto, on Sunday.

If any of our readers that are afflicted with rheumatism have never tried West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment, we advise them to do so at once, and be convinced of its extraordinary merit. It is a never-failing remedy for cuts, sprains, bruises and all complaints requiring external treatment. Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by J. D. Tully.

The Great Source of Consumption and many wasting forms of disease, is scrofula lurking in the system. The true specific for this condition is found in Burdock Blood Bitters; that medicine purifies the blood and builds up the enfeebled frame.

WATER.—We earnestly urge every purchaser to ask for that which is properly labeled "Lanman & Kemp, New York," who are the sole proprietors of the pure perfume. All others so-called Florida Waters are only ordinary Colognes.

A USEFUL HINT.—It may be useful for the reader to know that the popular preparation known as Hagar's Yellow Oil has proved a sovereign remedy for deafness, many cures being on record. Hagar's Yellow Oil also cures aches, pains, and lameness, and may be used internally as well as outwardly.

The Queen has created Mr. Donald Smith a Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George, in recognition of his services in connection with the Canadian Pacific railway. Her Majesty has also created ex-Chief Justice Meredith a Knight-Bachelor.

Never drug the stomach with nauseating and weakening expectorants and opiates; Hagar's Pectoral Balm is pleasant and reliable in its effects, and safe in all throat and lung complaints that, if neglected, end in consumption.

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE.—Mrs. Cyrus Kilborne, Beamsville, Ont., had what was supposed to be a cancer on her nose. She was about to submit to a cancer doctor's treatment, when she concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters internally and externally, a few bottles of which entirely cured her.

MONDAY, MAY 31, 1886.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Town Council.
 A meeting of the Town Council will be held this evening.

P. M. C.
 The regular meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club will be held at the boat house at 7.30 o'clock this evening.

The First Anniversary.
 Our evening contemporary, the Daily Examiner, has celebrated the first anniversary of its birth. We are pleased to learn that its success has been equal to expectations.

One of the Nearest.
 The Peterborough Times says:—
 "Our next door contemporary, THE EVENING REVIEW, appeared on Friday in a new dress throughout. It has always been one of the neatest papers printed in the Dominion and now presents a more attractive appearance than ever."

Cricket.
 An exciting game of cricket was played in the P. A. A. grounds on Saturday afternoon, between junior eleven from Lakeside and Peterborough, resulting in a win for the former by the narrow majority of two runs.

Grangers' Picnic.
 The Grangers of Hastings will hold their annual picnic at Idyl-Wild on Wednesday, June 2nd. Parties from Peterborough wishing to join it can go by the Summer Whistle-Wing. Return tickets 75 cents. Boat will leave wharf at 10 a.m.

Removal.
 Mr. Francis Mason, florist, is about to remove his green house, now situated on Water street, to a plot of ground north of the Barnardo Home. Here he will re-build the green houses in two sections, each 100x50. Mr. Mason also intends to build a house at the same place. He will retain his down town office and green house.

In New Quarters.
 Mr. J. M. Irwin has removed his office from the town hall block to the Cox block, above the telegraph office. Here a very neat convenient suite of offices have been fitted up. The rooms are light, airy, and neatly furnished. A large fire-proof vault adds to the convenience of the general office.

Boating.
 The boats belonging to the Peterborough Boating Club are now in first class order and are all ready awaiting the boatmen's above to dimple the lake. For the past two weeks Mr. K. O. Lech, the captain of the rowing department, has made the best of his time, and under his superintendence a thorough overhauling of the crafts has taken place. It is expected that to-morrow evening will "open the season." Mr. Lech proposes to hold regular fortnightly regattas and desires those who intend to take part to leave their names on the book provided for the purpose at the boat house.

Funeral of the Rev. Mr. Lech.
 On Sunday afternoon the funeral of the late Charles Robinson, conducted by Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters, proceeded from the family residence, Water street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The Fire Brigade Band were at the head of the long procession. Arrived at the cemetery the pall bearers removed the coffin from the hearse to the chapel, followed by the brethren, where Mr. H. A. Hammond, lay reader of St. John's Church, conducted the funeral service. The body was then taken to the grave and lowered into it. Mr. H. A. Hammond read the Church of England burial service, after which the burial service of the Order was conducted by Mr. A. McNell, R. W. H. C. W. The brethren all then passed the grave dropping in sprigs of evergreen as the band sweetly played "There's a Land That is Fairer Than Day." After the one hundred and thirty brethren from both local courts joined hands around the grave and as the chaplain finished the closing prayer, the three fifteens were taken and the people moved away.

QUEEN VS. RODDY.

The Case Disposed of Members of the Scott Act Association in the Box.

The Queen vs. Roddy case was resumed at the Police Court this morning. John White the informant, was present.

Mr. Edwards appeared for the prosecutor and Mr. J. O'Meara for the defendant.

Geo. Ball was called.

Mr. O'Meara objected to the issue of fresh subpoenas since the adjournments. The case was adjourned to obtain the evidence of John White. Now others had been subpoenaed. He held that it was unfair. It was a thing that had never been done before.

Mr. Edwards—What never!

Mr. O'Meara said that the case was already of a "fishy" nature and it was not fair of his learned friend to fish up any new evidence.

J. S. MURRAY, sworn, said: I have not been at Roddy's hotel since May 1st. I have never been into it. I was not there with any of the striking tailors.

Wm. LAIDLAW, sworn, said: I was out on strike with the other tailors. I was at Roddy's hotel on 24th of May. I did not get intoxicating liquor to the best of my knowledge. I got lemon soda, didn't know that there was any hard stuff in it. What I got came out of a pop bottle. I thought at the time that I was getting a little extra touch of something. I can't tell whether it was whiskey or not that was in it. I'm not much of a judge of whiskey, though I'm a good judge of beer. To the best of my knowledge I didn't get anything intoxicating at Roddy's since May 1st.

JOHN WHITE, sworn, said: I was at Roddy's since May 1st. I got something to drink there. I got the drinks from strangers. What I got was paid for. To the best of my knowledge it was whiskey I got. Several others drank with me. Young Laidlaw was one of them. It was some kind of a holiday the day I got the whiskey. I don't remember exactly what day it was. The man that was behind the bar pulled out a flask from his pocket, poured the whiskey into a glass and we drank it. I paid for it. On May 24th I got a "little off." You couldn't keep sober very long on the "ginger ale" they sold at Roddy's. The stuff was poured from a ginger ale bottle; it was neither whiskey nor ginger ale that was bottled up. I don't know what it was.

To MR. O'MEARA—When I went into Roddy's on May 24th I was perfectly sober. We asked the bartender for a drink. Roddy refused us and told us to get out d—n quick. One of the party pulled out a flask. We had a drink around. I didn't take a long pull, because the crowd was big and the flask was small. We went out and came back in about fifteen minutes. We had a drink of the stuff out of the ginger ale bottle. I was not at all "sprung" then, no more than I am now. This stuff made me a little boozey. We didn't ask for anything. The bartender produced the "pocket pistol" when we went in. We drank and paid over the money.

JAMES WELSH, sworn, said: I was a little intoxicated on Sunday and Monday last. Before that I got some ginger ale or what Mr. Roddy called ginger ale. I didn't get intoxicated on it, not that I mind of. I couldn't say for sure whether there was anything in the ginger ale or not. I know what sort of stuff that it is that "sets a man up." It was my opinion that there was some hard stuff in it. I didn't get enough to make me feel good. It takes a good deal to make me feel good.

To MR. O'MEARA—When I went into Roddy's I says "let us have something to drink." Mr. Roddy said that he had nothing but Montreal ginger ale. Says I, "that'll do."

ROBERT McDONALD, sworn, said: I am a tailor. I was out on strike. I was at Roddy's since May 1st. I had a couple of glasses of whiskey there. A bracklayer by the name of Waller and myself went in and were served by the little girl. I paid her ten cents for the two glasses.

To MR. O'MEARA—I don't expect to get paid for giving evidence. I got no promise of money to come here.

WM. ABRAHAM swore that he got nothing but ginger ale to drink at Roddy's; that he got no intoxicating liquor there during that time.

J. W. FLAVELLE, sworn said: I know John White, the witness. I did not offer any reward to him to give evidence here. I offered nothing to Robert McDonald. I offered nothing to any witnesses. I subscribed my name to a fund for $10 for the purpose of enforcing the Scott Act. Mr. Dumble is not a member of the Scott Act Association.

The MAJISTRATE—That is a very improper question. Mr. O'Meara.

Mr. O'Meara—I might as well settle these matters once for all; it will save me trouble in the future.

Witness: Mr. Dumble did not subscribe anything toward that fund.

Geo. Ball here appeared in Court and said that he knew nothing about the case. He was allowed to go.

Geo. A. Cox, sworn, said: I do not know John White. Yes, I know him since I knew him. I have had no conversation with him in regard to Roddy's case. I know Roddy McDonald. I have had no conversation with him in respect to Roddy's case. I am a member of the Scott Act Association. The fund subscribed by members is not for the purpose of securing convictions; it is for the purpose of enforcing the law. I don't know what arrangements have been made by the Association with Mr. Rosseter. I am a subscriber to the fund to the extent of $700 or $800. I have not been called on for any money for the purpose of the enforcement of the law.

The case was closed.

Mr. O'Meara submitted that there should be an acquittal, the only evidence given being that of Mr. McDonald. There was nothing to connect the little girl with the hotel. Before His Worship made a conviction he should have conclusive evidence laid before him. This case was a hardship. There were a great many witnesses called here—and in nine cases out of ten his learned friend got nothing out of them.

Mr. EDWARDS—I have got a good deal out of them this morning.

The MAJISTRATE said that the evidence of McDonald, taken in connection with that of White and others, made a strong case. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed to be paid within five days, in default of distress, imprisonment for three months.

Bright and Clever.
 The Port Hope Times of Saturday says:—"The Peterborough Review appeared yesterday in an entirely 'new dress,' and looks as bright and clean as a new pin. We congratulate our clever contemporary on its prosperity."

Lacrosse.
 The twelve of two junior clubs, the "Y. M. C. A.'s" and the "Etnas," from Edinburgh street, crossed sticks in the Central park on Saturday afternoon. After about one hour's hot play the "Etnas" record stood 3 to the "Y. M. C. A.'s" 0. The first game lasted half an hour, and the other two each fifteen minutes.

Streets and Bridges.
 The Street and Bridge Committee, Messrs. Cahill, Menzies, Hartley, Davidson, McClelland and Yolland, accompanied by Mr. J. E. Bolcher, Town Engineer, started out this morning in Mr. Snowden's big bus on their annual excursion. The party spent the forenoon inspecting the state of streets and bridges within the corporation, and again started off on another trip at two o'clock this afternoon.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW MCNEIL'S.

Nine Hundred and Sixty.
 The effect of the Scott Act crusade up to date is the securing of sixteen convictions, fourteen town cases and two county cases. The Scott Act Association have been the prosecutors, through their agent, Henry Rosseter, in every case except four, the License Inspector for the West Riding the prosecutor in two, the License Inspector for the East Riding the prosecutor in one, that of George Lipsett's, and the Chief of Police the prosecutor in one, that of the Italian. The fines up to date amount to $800, and the costs, which average about $10 in each case, $160, making altogether, $960.00. Of these fines and costs $305.35 have been paid in to the Clerk of the Court, Wm. Kennelby $122.40; T. Cavanagh $63.05; W. H. Chamberlain, $62.35; and Wm. Clancy $37.75. Mrs. Darcy has not yet paid any of the fines, which matured on Saturday. It is her intention to resist payment.

Extension of Territory.
 Mr. W. H. Hill has returned from Montreal, the headquarters of the Sun Life Assurance Company, where he has succeeded in completing satisfactory arrangements in regard to the additional territory given to his care by that company. Mr. Hill's territory will now be known as the Central Ontario Division, with headquarters at Peterborough. This division will consist of the counties of Victoria, Haliburton, Peterborough, Durham and Northumberland. Mr. Hill has appointed Mr. R. A. Hamilton, of Foxton Falls, to operate with sub-agents the county of Haliburton, and Mr. P. G. McGrogger, with sub-agents, the county of Victoria. General agents for Durham and Northumberland have not yet been appointed. Mr. Hill will manage Peterborough affairs himself. Arrangements are being made by Mr. Hill to engage a competent inspector of agencies.

INVASION OF INDIANS.
 American Red Men in Camp in the Cypress Hills, N.W.T.

MEDICINE HAT, N.W.T., May 29.—On Thursday an outbreak in the Cypress Hills, in charge of Corporal Ritchie, Mounted Police, discovered a band of American Indians camped a few miles from the outpost. The corporal and a squad went to Indians and asked their business. Being answered by a shower of bullets which fell within of the mark, the squad returned the fire dropping one Indian. The rest of the Indians escaped.

KILLED BY A COIT.—A five-year-old son of John Bombaugh, who works on Mr. Harford Ashley's place in Foxboro, was killed in the field on Friday. The little fellow was in a field with his father, who was engaged plowing, and getting tired, started for home. Twenty minutes afterwards he was found in an unconscious state at the rear end of the field. He had been struck on the forehead and the back of the head cut which was caused by the fall. It is thought that one of the coits in the field kicked the boy. The injured lad died at three o'clock on Saturday morning.

Rev. J. C. Pallas, Dutton, certifies: "For some years my wife has been troubled with Dyspepsia, and has tried one thing after another recommended with but little or no effect till advised to give McGrogger's Speedy Cure a trial. Since taking the first bottle I have noticed a decided improvement, and can with confidence recommend it to be one of, if not the best medicine extant for Dyspepsia. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestible Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at John McKee's Drug Store, Trial bottle, given free."

TUESDAY, JUNE 1, 1886.

MIDLANDERS! ATTENTION!!
THAT organ of the Rielites, the Toronto Globe, by the pen of its "own correspondent" on the Saskatchewan, whose slanders it cordially adopts and displays, has another foul attack upon the Canadian forces and Canadian authorities for suppressing the rebellion.

In his latest letter this disloyal slanderer says:—
"Is it not to be deplored that the senility or stupidity of statesmanship should set that tide allowing which leads to the cruellest of looting and robbery: killing or taking away every four-footed beast, rejecting as the sufferings of a frightened human being, and admiring the flames of those once happy homes which had long before, been raised by the untutored pioneer who tamed the ferocity of the wild Indian, and made the white man's encroachments bloodless?"

What do our gallant volunteers, what do their admiring friends, what do all loyal Canadians think of this description of our brave men as thieves and robbers, as incendiaries, as inhuman fiends, revelling in the sufferings of innocent men, and in the destruction of their property? What a reward for risking their lives, yes, and losing them too, for enduring hardships and privations, pain and loss, in the service of their country.

These sympathisers with rebellion, these friends of criminals, these criminals themselves, indeed, grow more and more outrageous in their vile insults to all loyal Canadians.

BOYCOTT RUN MAD.
WHILE the sensible and trusted leaders of organized labour are disconcerting "boycotting" as a dangerous and generally unjustifiable weapon, to be used only with great caution in very exceptional circumstances, the Toronto News is endeavoring to organize a "boycott" of the most unjustifiable nature and for the most inefficient cause. It is endeavoring to stir up the working men to boycott politically every Conservative in the land—the majority of the people of Canada. The reason given is that Mr. Frank Smith has acted wrongly as manager of the Toronto Car Company towards his former employees, and that he is a member of the Conservative Cabinet of the Dominion.

Now we may say at the start that we have no sympathy with Mr. Smith in his refusal to employ Knights of Labour, for we think he was and is wrong. Though he may be within his legal rights, we believe it was an unfair and unjust use of his rights, as we think it would be unfair and unjust for Knights of Labour to refuse to work with non-members of this society though they would have legal a right to do so.

But we contend that however wrong Mr. Smith may be in his manner of conducting his business, that is not sufficient cause for boycotting Sir John Macdonald, still less for boycotting us and other Conservatives.

Mr. Smith is in the Cabinet as a politician, not as a street car proprietor. The Premier has no light task in the fulfilment of his public duties, and if he had in addition to devote time to the consideration of the private affairs of all his colleagues, no man could fill the position and live. However clear the individual case might be, it would be out of the question to recognize such a responsibility, for it would establish a precedent, and it would be impossible to draw any line. The Premier might even be called upon to consider the case of a colleague who had dismissed his coachman for insufficient reasons. Such a theory would make any government impossible.

As to the political boycott of the whole Conservative party, following as a necessary consequence, how can that be justified? The majority of the people of Canada believe that the present Administration has pursued and is pursuing a policy that is beneficial to the country, that it is developing its resources and fostering its industries. Why should we be punished, why should the country be injured, as we believe, by the reversal of this policy, because Mr. Smith is in the wrong in a dispute with his employees as to the management of his business?

And we would ask the News to explain what benefit the workmen would derive if they succeeded in turning out the Conservative Administration and changing the policy of Canada because Mr. Smith had wronged some of them. As parties are organized at present it would mean the placing in power of Mr. Blake, whose dirty prying into the own private affairs the News most righteously denounced not so long ago. And what policy would thus be adopted? Sympathy with rebellion, tardiness in the development of our country, and most especially important to workmen, the encouragement of the use of articles manufactured by foreigners, and the discouragement of the use of articles manufactured by Canadians.

The action of the News is as absurd as it is disgraceful. It will not succeed, for the workmen of Canada are too honest to commit such an injustice, and too sensible to reverse a policy favorable to them in order to return to a policy which favored foreign rivals. They know well who are their true friends.

CLEVELAND-FOLSOM.

The President Invites the Cabinet to His Wedding.
WASHINGTON, May 29.—The President worked at his desk all of yesterday and did a big day's work. The members of the Cabinet all saw him and to each he announced his forthcoming marriage; and informally extended an invitation to the wedding. At nine o'clock the president's carriage went to the station and a little later Miss Cleveland and her brother were discussing many details of next week's great event.

New York, May 29.—The first person to call upon Miss Frances Folsom at the Gilesey house yesterday was the president's sister, Miss Folsom wore a gray cloth dress and a very little turban. The dress was of Paris make and showed her tall, fine figure to good advantage. Her fresh complexion had a tinge of brown lent by the ocean weather; her hair is brown and her eyes are blue, and she appears to be in vigorous health. Miss Folsom's departure for New York by the Nostrand was duly announced in the Antwerp papers, one of them declaring not a day passed that she did not receive some token sent from Washington by the president of the United States, and that flowers plucked by his own hand came to her often during her stay abroad. Soon after the boat got to sea, Miss Folsom went to her room and remained there the greater part of the time for several days. When the deep water was reached and the choppy channel seas left behind, she appeared on deck daily, fresh faced and good humored. She impressed her fellow passengers as being not only a handsome young lady, dignified and graceful of carriage, but also a being the possessor of a very amiable disposition with a pleasing freedom from affectation and mannerisms. Of course, everybody understood that she was to marry the President of the United States, and she was consequently the object of constant curiosity, but she bore her part with great composure, and entered with interest into all the little devices which were invented for the purpose of killing time. It was decided that Captain John Codman, who was a passenger, should be editor of the manuscripts written by the passengers, and that collected stories should be preserved in the form of a pamphlet, which should be called the North Atlantic Spray. In a very short time, Captain Codman had a formidable collection of verses and stories. He read aloud in the cabin several members of the Spray. One evening in the cabin he produced four pages of foolscap, closely written on both sides, and announced a story called Little Moll, from the pen of Miss Folsom. Captain Codman proposed to send type written copies of this number of the Spray to Miss Folsom and a few other passengers as mementoes, but he will not confide Miss Folsom's story to the newspapers.

ENVELOPED IN A FOG.
Disasters to Shipping—Evidence Against American Schooners.
HALIFAX, N. S., May 31.—The coast has been enveloped in a dense fog for several days, and a number of disasters to shipping are already reported. The ship Kate C. Maguire, owned by Messrs. Maguire, of Quebec, from New York for Quebec, with a cargo of lumber, was driven ashore near Shearwater, and is leaking badly. She will be towed here for repairs. Although the Allan Steamer Siberian, bound for St. John's, Nfld., is now eight days out, and should have made it in forty hours, no very deep anxiety is felt for her. Among her passengers was Capt. Mylins, one of the most experienced navigators of the Newfoundland coast, and his caution in a fog, and his knowledge of ice and great experience would be invaluable to the Siberian's new captain.

Despatches from Canada say that Captain Leary, of the cruiser Houlitt, has obtained evidence of the purchase of bait by two American schooners, and he is keeping a sharp lookout for them. He boarded one hovering within the three-mile limit, and ordered her to sea. He says large quantities of mackerel are swarming around the eastern coast, and the American mackerel catchers have failed, he expects their fleet in our inshore waters. To get any mackerel, they must run the risk of seizure. The short American catch will materially increase the price to Canadian fishermen.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 31.—H. S. Bellefleur, the flagship of the Earl of Clanwilliam, commander-in-chief of the North American squadron, arrived here from Bermuda to-day. The Bellefleur was on this station eight years ago. If the fishery question does not become too troublesome she will probably visit Quebec this summer.

The steamer Portia, Captain Dawson, just arrived from St. John's, reports that she came up in a heavy fog and passed the two American schooners. She saw nothing of the fishery.

Consul-General Phelan is very much exasperated over the seizure of the American fishing schooner Mary-Kearney, near Souris, P.E.I., last week for purchasing ten bushels of potatoes. She was subsequently released, as the Customs Collector was convinced that the captain did not know he was violating the treaty.

Among the incidents at the coming trial of the captured schooners Adams and Doughty, will be the refusal to allow the two American lawyers to conduct the defence. No foreign lawyers can practice in the Nova Scotia Admiralty Court, and if these two lawyers attend the court proceedings they will merely be spectators.

General Outbreak Feared.
CHICAGO, May 29.—A despatch from Tucson, Arizona, asserts that the Indian situation is growing serious. It is feared that a general outbreak from the San Carlos reservation will take place. It is said the hostiles are being reinforced from the reservation, and that the long success of the hostiles has emboldened others. Gen. Miles is very actively engaged in enlisting rangers from the most determined men. South Arizona is stated to be in a state of terror.

WILCOX, Ariz., May 29.—On Wednesday night Indians attacked Jones Brothers' ranch, near Hooker, Hot Springs. The owners made an effective defence, and killed three Indians, whom they scalped.

NAPANEE, Ont., May 31.—Edward Smith, who has been breaking on the N. T. & Q. R. R. for a couple of weeks, fell between the cars this afternoon while coupling. The cars passed over his abdomen, killing him instantly.

The section devastated by the flames covers an area of forty acres. The loss is estimated at $750,000, distributed among many sufferers. The only casualty reported is the burning to death of an old woman. One fireman was overcome by the excessive heat, but was restored to consciousness. A number of live stock perished in the flames.

THE REPORTED ORANGE ARMY.
LONDON, May 31.—The Pall Mall Gazette, alluding to the reported organization of the Orange Army, says it may possibly be only "a paper army," but declares at the same time, that "it is an ugly reminder of possible ugly risks," and urges upon the Government the necessity of instant action in order to be prepared for any emergency. The Gazette regards it as extremely doubtful whether the British army could be relied upon to force Ulster to submit to Mr. Parnell.

Training the Memory.
"Practice makes perfect in everything," said a philosophical passenger on a suburban train, "a few months ago I began an experiment which has taught me the truth of this saying more forcibly than I ever knew it before. I once read that the memory could be trained to almost anything asked of it, and the idea occurred to me one day that I would employ the time spent traveling to and from the city in training my memory. As you know, there is a line of freight cars standing on the side track all the way from Chicago to Englewood, and these were just what I needed. I began with two or three cars, reading the numbers painted on their sides, and then I took them down on a piece of paper and putting the paper in my pocket. After reaching my office in town I tested my memory by ascertaining if I could tell these numbers. At first it was hard work, and I made several mistakes, but I persisted day after day and finally got so I could remember five numbers without fail. Then I began to increase the dose. Every other day I got so I would add one more number and now, after four months' practice, I can remember about thirty-five numbers, some of them of five figures. Maybe you don't believe it, but it is a fact. Practice and application have so developed my retentive faculties that I have no longer need of memoranda. I can remember numbers, amounts, figures and such things as I wish to remember, and I find it a surprisingly long time. "That may be all true," spoke up the conductor, "but it seems mighty queer to me that you should so soon have forgotten that ride you got off in one day when you said you had left your commutation ticket in your other vest, and which you promised to pay me next day. I wouldn't give much for a memory cultivated like that, I wouldn't."—Chicago Herald.

No Lawyer Here Need Apply.
Bill Wilberly, a lawyer, made application to join the Knights of Labor. "They won't let you in, Wilberly," some one remarked. "Why?" "Because you are a lawyer." "That's against me, I admit, but the Master Workman of the assembly which I want to join is a great friend of mine, and will do anything to help me along. Wilberly admitted. Shortly afterwards, meeting the Master Workman together with a number of other acquaintances, Wilberly said:—"John, did you have much trouble in getting Seers' Pills?" "Not much." "Objections were raised, of course," said Wilberly, glancing at his friends. "Yes; several men got up and objected to you because you are a lawyer." "How did you quiet them?" "Well, I says, says I: 'Boys, be ain't lawyer enough to hurt nothing,' and they withdrew their objections." Wilberly has withdrawn from the Order.

A Lady's Bad Flight.
DUBLIN, May 28.—A lady who is the owner of property valued at between £400 and £500 a year, has applied to the Kilkenny Outdoor Relief Bureau for assistance. She said she was ashamed to apply for aid, but was unable to obtain her rents, and only asked a shilling a week for a few months. It is stated that the members of the Board, who are all Nationalists, refused to grant her request, but offered an order admitting her to the workhouse.

Bad Fire in Winnipeg.
WINNIPEG, Man., May 31.—A fire occurred yesterday, originating in McGovern's confectionery store, Main street, the total loss being about twenty-five thousand dollars. The principal losses are by the destruction of the Cleveland, Windsor and Norfolk hotels and Clark's grocery store. There was but little insurance.

A Sure Thing.
There are very few things in this life of which we may be absolutely certain, but this is one of them: that Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have no equal as a cathartic in its effects on the liver, stomach and bowels. They are very small and their action is pleasant. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. 2 cents a box. All druggists.

THOMAS CAHILL, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor MCNEIL—that the Street and Bridge Committee be requested to have a sidewalk laid down on the south side of Brock street from George street east to St. John's Church.

Here a scene occurred. Councillor KELLY had spoken to this question when the report was being considered, but had only spoken once to his motion. As mover, he had the right to reply, and was on his feet to reply to an assertion that had been made.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON said Councillor KELLY was out of order. A heated discussion ensued, when the Mayor told Councillor KELLY to sit down.

Councillor KELLY demanded his rights—be refused to sit down.

The Mayor: If you don't sit down I'll leave the chair.

Councillor KELLY—Leave it then; I'm going to be heard.

The Mayor beruppon arose and left the chair. After some parley the Mayor was induced to return. Councillor KELLY's motion was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

GRANT GRANTED.

The notice of motion moved by Councillor Kendry, to grant $300 to the Horticultural Society for the purpose of beautifying the Horticultural Garden, was put. The motion was carried, the whole Council voting for the motion, except Councillor Menzies, who maintained that the grant was too great.

THE TELEPHONE.

Councillor Rutherford's notice of motion, in regard to removing the telephone from the fire station to the police station, was carried.

BILLIARDS.

Councillor MCNEIL moved as a notice of motion, seconded by Councillor KELLY—that the by-law regarding the closing of billiard rooms be amended so that the billiard rooms be allowed to keep open on Saturday nights as long as on other nights.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor MCNAUGHTON—that the petition of William White be referred to the street and bridge Committee with power to act.—Carried.

WHAT ARE ITS RIGHTS?

Councillor MOORE moved, seconded by Councillor YELLAND—that it be referred to the Town Solicitor to ascertain what are our rights in the matter of compelling the Grand Trunk Railway Company to fill up those portions of Bethune street on either side of the track, or to lower the track so that it will be in the position required by law.—Carried.

Councillor HARTLEY moved, seconded by Councillor MOORE—Ordered, that in future no member of the police force be permitted to leave the town on country business during the time that such member be on duty in town.—Carried.

THE STREETS.

Councillor MOORE moved, seconded by Councillor YELLAND—that the Street and Bridge Committee be directed to repair the sidewalk on the south side of London street, between Bethune and Aylmer, and that the Street and Bridge Committee be directed to place a proper water table on the West side of Bethune street between the foot of Smithtown hill and McDonnell street.—Carried.

SCOTT ACT.

The Mayor suggested the advisability of engaging some extra constables. At present the police force were so worked with Scott Act matters that other important duties were neglected. He asked the Chairman of the Police Supervision Committee if he had ordered the force to specially carry out the provisions of the Scott Act.

Councillor KENDRY replied that he had. It was only a part of the police duties, and so, and he did not care to have the Mayor meddling with his affairs. He understood that the Mayor ordered the force to not enforce the Scott Act.

The Mayor stated that he had done nothing of the kind. But he did not want to see the whole attention of the police directed to Scott Act affairs. There were other duties to perform.

Councillor DAVIDSON asked who ordered the Chief of Police to go to Blizard's to serve a subpoena.

Capt. Cooper, heard, said that Mr. Blizard had been served in town, but it was held the duty of the police to serve all subpoenas issued by the court.

Councillor MCNEIL asked the Chairman of the Police Supervision Committee if he had authorized the Chief of Police to pay money to the officers for securing convictions.

Councillor KENDRY—No.

Councillor MCNEIL—Then how is it, Capt. Cooper, that this money has been offered to your officers?

Capt. Cooper read the letter which he had written to the members of the force in regard to Scott Act enforcement. He then explained that complaints had come in to the effect that the police were afraid to do their duty, on account of no information being laid for Scott Act infractions. While conversing privately with the men he did say that he would give $10 to the first man who would give evidence to the effect that he had obtained evidence that would lead to a conviction. It was given out of his own pocket as a reward, and not as a bribe. It was at present not offered to any one.

The Scott Act Association had held out no inducement whatever for him offer such rewards.

The Mayor held that a reward was given for services already rendered.

Councillor KENDRY held different views. It was perfectly right for Capt. Cooper to encourage his men, and any one of them giving evidence to private matters were unworthy to be on the force.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor MCNEIL—that the Chief of Police and members of the force be having forbidden to receive any pecuniary remuneration from any source for supplying information which may lead a conviction, for any infractions of the Scott Act and all other laws.

Councillor MCNEIL urged the advisability of this measure. At a public meeting held in Bradburn's Opera House Mr. G. A. Cox, was heard to say that that would not be like the Duncan Act, for they have money to carry it out. If this money was to be used in this thing, it would be difficult to foretell the result, at any rate the Police force should be plainly told their duty in the matter. He strongly denounced the mole adopted by the Scott Act Association for obtaining convictions, terming them mere "baiting excursions."

Councillor YELLAND followed with a ten minutes speech. The Scott Act Association were not the sneaks. They were the catchers of sneaks. They did not do the sneaking but watched the speakers. So far their "baiting excursions" had been pretty successful.

A motion was passed to continue in session.

Councillor HARTLEY waxed eloquent over the matter in hand, and excited so much applause from the audience that the back seats as to cause the Mayor to order Capt. Cooper to arrest those who offered further disturbance. He declared that this law, as every other law, should be enforced with the utmost rigour. He would vote against that motion, for it looked as if the Council were encouraging laxity in respect to the Scott Act.

Councillor MCNEIL—Enforce it; only do it legitimately.

Councillor HARTLEY—Yes, sir; (thumping the desk) this law shall be enforced.

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small fru for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

Council for YELLAND—Hear, hear!

Councillor CAHILL agreed with Councillors Hartley, Kendry and Yelland that the law should be enforced, but he did not believe in any but fair means adopted to enforce it.

He thought the Chief of Police was wrong in offering money. The constables should do duty without rewards.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY.—That the words "Scott Act" be struck out of the motion.

The amendment was carried and the Council adjourned, at 12 o'clock, for two weeks.

Opposed to Annexation.

It happened in a town near Bangor.

There was a proposition to annex a part of the town to that city. A meeting was held to consider it, and the pros and cons were set out by one party and the other. The discussion proceeded with great seriousness, until old Uncle Johnson, a tall and solemn man who lived on the territory to be annexed, arose and said: "I had given the matter careful thought, in fact had pondered it over and over. His deliberations had led him to believe that it was un-healthy to live in the city, and for that reason he preferred to live in a town, and he didn't want to be annexed." There was not much solemnity in the meeting after that, but the measure was voted down.

A Mormon Invasion.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The Herald's Geneva special says: "The latter day saints" lately invaded Switzerland, and have pitched their tents in twenty or thirty places, notably, Berne, Bale, Geneva, Zurich and Schaffhausen, where they number several hundred strong, and have led astray many maidens. Public attention was some time ago directed to this. The increase of the nuisance has now grown, and the Swiss are beginning to clamor for the rejection of the invaders. The headquarters of the Mormon army at present seemed to be at Berne, whence the movement is gradually spreading to the rest of Switzerland and Germany.

ASBURNHAM AFFAIRS.

The Regular Meeting of the Village Council.

On Monday evening the regular meeting of the Asburnham council was held. Previous to going into session the members met as a court of Revision.

The assessment of the Grand Junction Railway was confirmed and the name of T. P. Pearce was put on as owner. Martin Hyly was assessed for lots one and two, west of concession street, north of Dufferin street now on the non resident lot. H. A. Faucett was assessed for a dog instead of a bitch. D. W. Dumble's assessment was confirmed. Wm. Swanson's assessment was reduced to $1,000; that of A. H. Peck to $3,000, and that of H. Calcutt to $3,500.

After this the court adjourned and met in open council. A communication was received from H. T. Strickland, regarding the holes in Lake street, where it is crossed by the Canadian Pacific Railway track, and asking that measures be taken at once to remedy the evil.

An account of $17.14 for the late municipal election was ordered to be paid.

The Reeve and Councillors Wand and Faint were appointed a committee to examine the approaches to the railway track in the village.

A reward of $5.00 was offered for such information as will lead to the conviction of the boys or other persons that throw stones at the passers by at the north end of the village.

It was made unlawful to herd cattle or horses on the streets, and that all such animals are liable to be impounded.

POLICE COURT.

VAGRANCY.

WEDNESDAY, June 2.—Paddy Handraban, the well known vag, again stood before His Worship this morning.

Officer McGinty sworn, said: This is the man I took up last fall.

The MAGISTRATE—Can he run the mower in the gardens?

The OFFICER—Oh, yes.

The MAGISTRATE—June, July, August, September, October, November—six—(writing the commitment.)

The CLERK—You've got six months months holidays this time, Paddy.

The prisoner protested that he was this very day going out to work in the country, but as officer McGinty becoming from the door, stated that he had a story to tell as they walked up to the hill, Paddy mowed followed as far as the door. Here, pricked by impulse, he suddenly turned round and marched up to the bench, and said, how much did you give me this time?

The MAGISTRATE—Six months.

PADDY—Six! and in the summer, too. The prisoner would have stayed to argue the matter for a shorter bill, but had not officer McGinty taken him under his care.

INSULTING LANGUAGE.

Mrs. Lizzie Root charged John Dwyer with having used insulting language towards her. The defendant was not present. The case proceeded in his absence. From the evidence of the complainant it appeared that the defendant had gone to her house a little after dinner time yesterday. There was no one in the house but herself when he entered. When told to leave he had made improper proposals to her and had used insulting language.

A fine of $10 and costs was imposed, in default of payment distress, and in default of distress imprisonment for twenty days.

WARSAW.

Mr. H. Maw, Captain of the Warsaw Baseball Club, writes that an arrangement was made between the Warsaw and Norwood clubs to play at Norwood on May 24th, the Norwoods to pay the expenses of the visiting nine. He says that the Norwoods failed to carry out their part of the contract, only paying part of the expenses, and that they have refused to carry out their agreement in regard to playing a return match at Warsaw on Dominion Day. The Warsaw Club think that if the Norwoods fail in this engagement they will be acting unfairly, and that even if the Norwoods were beaten on May 24th, they should toe the mark and try to make amends on the 1st of July.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

THE FOURTH SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

The Poor Indians—The Pen and the Sword—A German Senator—Northern Pacific Junction—Customs Seizures.

MONDAY, May 21.—A number of questions of minor importance were answered by Ministers.

INDIANS RIGHTS.

Sir J. MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Cook, said that the Saugean Chippewa Indians had complained of settlers not paying for the lands they had purchased and stealing timber; also depositing sawdust in their river.

A GERMAN SENATOR.

Sir J. MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Krantz, said he was aware there was 200,000 Germans in Ontario, and he fully appreciated them, but as in the case of the French in Ontario he could not reveal the advice he would give the Crown as to Senators.

THE PEN AND THE SWORD.

Sir J. MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Royal, said it was not intended to give the Northern war material to newspaper correspondents.

THE SCOTT ACT.

Sir J. MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. McCraney, said it was the duty of the Provincial Government to punish such offenders as those who had destroyed houses at Orangeville and Clondelby, and to offer rewards for their apprehension, if considered necessary.

NORTHERN PACIFIC JUNCTION.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD moved that the Northern Pacific Junction bill be placed on the Government orders.

Mr. MURPHY moved that it be referred back to the Railway Committee.

After some discussion the amendment was lost and the motion was carried.

THE DOMINION FRANCHISE.

The Dominion Franchise Act Amending bill was recommitted. After much discussion and some minor changes it was reported as amended.

Mr. MILLER in amendment to the third reading moved the substitution of the Provincial Franchise, but was defeated by 92 to 54.

The bill was then read a third time.

NORTHERN PACIFIC JUNCTION.

Mr. MILLER, on the question of Concurrence in the Senate amendments of the Northern Pacific Junction Bill, repeated his objections and again moved its reference to the Railway Committee.

Mr. HALL said it was an excellent road, and only asked the same power to bond as other Companies. Even if the Government had to assume it they would get good value.

It was not fair to cripple the Company in efforts to raise money to complete their work. As to the connection of members with railways, he thought any abstinence of the opposition was due not to any delivery of sentiment, but to their indisposition to help in the development of the country.

Mr. MCCARTHY said he had the correspondence to show that Mr. Mulock's antagonism arose from the refusal to grant him special privileges and lower rates than other people, so he was not very disinterested.

Mr. MULOCK would hardly question Mr. Chas. Mose's word, and he stated that there had been no impropriety in the letting of the contracts. The Government would have had value for their money, and to interfere with the bonding power would only render the road more costly and its rates higher.

Mr. LISTER talked vague scandal.

Mr. MULOCK's amendment was negatively by 80 to 45, and the amendments of the Senate were concurred in.

CUSTOMS SEIZURES.

Mr. HOLTON, on motion to go into Committee of Supply, condemned the seizure of the goods of Peterson & Kiosock, of Montreal, for alleged customs frauds and asked if the officers had not exceeded their duty.

Mr. MACMASTER thought it was not fair to seize the goods of the grocer and value for their money, and thus to shut up the business. The enquiry also should be expedited, and he would propose legislation next year on the subject if the Government did not.

Mr. BOWELL said that there had been certain irregularities by the firm and they had refused to show their books and papers requested, and so they had seized an alternative but to make the seizure. It was in the interests of every honest importer that the law should be carried out, and he would administer it as he found it as long as he remained in office.

After some further discussion the matter dropped.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

After midnight B. U. Nelson & Co's. Literary Association of Toronto will be represented by R. S. Cook with sample room at Dominion Express Co's. office, George street, with a full line of standard and miscellaneous goods can be seen and all information given. Trusting you will favor our agent with a share of the patronage so liberally extended to us during our short stay.

Respectfully, S. C. NELSON.

Personal.

Mrs. John Taberner and Mrs. Harry Drake left town by the Grand Trunk this morning for Montreal en route for Europe.

An Alarming Report.

St. John's, Nfld., 1.—A schooner arriving here passed a three-masted steamer off Cape Race on Wednesday. The steamer was firing rockets and blowing signals of distress but the fog was so dense that the schooner could render no assistance. Icebergs were seen in every direction. After the schooner had passed a short distance to the leeward of the steamer, a terrible crash was heard, the whistle ceased to blow, and no more rockets were seen. No tidings have been received of the missing steamer Siberian, and the above steamer may prove to have been her.

GREECE NOT DISARMING.

LONDON, June 1.—A circular from the Porte to the powers contains the statement that Greece are delaying in disarming. The Porte says the Greeks are fortifying, and will attempt to enter Vigos. This is probably the reason for the continuance of the blockade.

AN AMERICAN PROTECTORATE.

MELBOURNE, June 1.—Advice from Samoa state that a German man-of-war proceeded to the territory of King Tomaseo, whom German upholds against Malletto. The British and American consuls at Apia drew up a formal protest against Germany's subversion of King Malletto's authority, and in response to that ruler's appeal for protection, the American consul boasted the Samoan under the American flag and immediately telegraphed to President Cleveland notifying him of his action in establishing a protectorate over the disputed territory.

OUR FORESTS FOR FOREIGNERS.

A measure for the public good can rarely be adopted without causing inconvenience to somebody. It appears that the very judicious and beneficial action of the Dominion Government in increasing the export duty on saw logs is no exception to this general rule. The Globe constitutes itself the advocate of those sufferers, and in an editorial article zealously urges their cause. Its clients are two bodies with somewhat different, though allied interests, being the saw mill men of the United States, and Mr. Mowat and his colleagues.

We are informed by the Globe on behalf of the foreign interest that "mill-owners from the United States have lately purchased large timber limits on the North Shore of Lake Huron, &c.," that these men will consider the increased export duty a fraud upon them, and may, therefore, induce their Government to retaliate. The country will not agree with the Globe in preferring the interests of these foreigners to those of Canadians. Why should our saw mills be closed, or in newer districts remain unbuild, in order that foreign mill-owners may secure the profit and foreign mill hands earn the wages gained by the conversion of our saw logs into lumber? As to fraud, the idea is absurd, for it is no oppressive duty, but merely a reasonable measure to redress the unfairness of the imposition of a duty on Canadian lumber taken into the States, while their lumbermen wish to obtain our logs free. Now that our neighbors have made preparations to carry on those operations on a larger scale, it has become necessary to redress this inequality so unfair to our country. The cry for retaliation is just as unfounded, for it is Canada that is simply protecting itself by meeting an unfair discrimination, and putting matters on an equality. The Globe occasionally pretends to have an especially friendly feeling for the Canadian "workingmen." In its course in this matter we have another proof of its impudent hypocrisy in this claim. Now, as always, it prefers the interests of foreign workingmen to those of Canada. It is bitterly aggrieved because this means has been taken to prevent the workingmen in the United States saw mills from snatching from Canadian workingmen in Canadian saw logs into lumber.

The case on behalf of Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, as put by the Globe, is no stronger. It is not to be desired that facilities should be afforded them of stripping Canadians of the profits of manufacturing lumber in favour of foreigners, merely to assist Mr. Mowat to obtain money from those foreigners to satisfy the greed of his followers, and enable him to keep up his extravagant expenditure out of capital. If the raised export duty has the effect of putting some check upon such wasteful sales this will be only an additional benefit derived from it. It is well that the property of Ontario should not be sacrificed by such improvident sales, and it is also well that the Administration should not be encouraged in extravagance by having the easy expedient of selling some more of the Provincial real estate whenever it cannot make both ends meet out of current revenue. When there is a demand for our more distant timber to convert into lumber there will be a sale for it, and it is only an improvident policy to force premature sales. This is especially the case when our property is thus sacrificed on the worst possible conditions, netting us merely the bare purchase money and dues, making an inroad on our natural resources, taking from our own people the advantage to be derived from the trade, and conferring all its benefits upon foreigners. An additional light is thrown upon the impolicy of such sacrifice sales, when we reflect that some of those purchasers from the United States have possession in their own country of timber lands which they are avowedly holding in reserve for the inevitable future rise in prices, and they are buying our timber expressly to hold back their own until our available forests are exhausted. Why should Ontario thus play into their hands, instead of securing for itself the benefit of such rising values?

While we cannot agree with the Globe in its advocacy of the claims of its foreign and domestic clients, we must congratulate it on the forcefulness with which the tenor of its editorial is described in its heading "INVITING RETALIATION AGAIN." This is precisely the Globe's position in this article. It is a deliberate appeal to the United States to inflict some injury on Canada, under the pretence that it is a fraud for Canada to protect its property, its industries and its working men from unfair and one-sided conditions. The Globe can never forgive Canada for being conservative and for refusing to entrust the management of its affairs to the Globe and its friends. Therefore it welcomes and sympathizes with any ally that is opposed to Canada and its people. It makes a hero of Riel and his fellow rebels and murderers because they fought against the authorities of Canada and killed loyal Canadians. So in commercial contests it always takes the side of foreign manufacturers and foreign workingmen against Canadian manufacturers and Canadian workingmen. It is therefore only consistent in its present invitation to the United States to inflict some injury on Canada under the false pretence of retaliation.

A Appreciative Motion—The Central School's Best Record—About the Site for the North Ward School.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday evening. There were present: Mr. James Stevenson, Chairman, and Messrs. Stratton, Savers, Wrighton, Cox, Denne, Errett, Rutherford, Dumble, Sproule and Kennedy.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The CHAIRMAN had heard nothing but high praise of the Head Master of the West Ward School.

Mr. STRATTON, as chairman of the School Supervision Committee, said that he would look into the matter. He thought Mr. McCrory had only the good of the pupils at heart.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

Dr. TANSIE announced that the aggregate attendance at the Institute during May was 140; average attendance, 137. He spoke of the excellent order and organization of the Institute, and recommended that the Head Master of the public schools visit these schools. The amount received in fees from the Collegiate Institute during May was $130.75; public schools, $12.50.

SCHOOL SUPERVISION.

Mr. STRATTON read the report of the School Supervision Committee as follows:—
To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN.—The School Supervision Committee beg to have to report that they have had under consideration the supplying of the school with articles such as maps, books of reference, globes, etc., necessary to the carrying out of the prescribed course of study and the regulations of the Department, and would recommend that your Committee be empowered to purchase the following maps:—of the Dominion of Canada, of Europe, of Asia, of the two hemispheres, of Italy, of France, of Greece, of Norway and Sweden, of the British Isles, and of three physical maps, geographical charts, two globes, a planetarium, a tellurian, etc.

The following books of reference: Hodgson's "Errors in the use of English," Bain's "Higher English Grammar," Parkham's "Old English," Lippincott's "Dictionary," latest edition ($5.00); Appleton's "Encyclopedia," (27 vols.) $6 per vol. in cash, with discount of 15 per cent. placed in school; also a rack and support for the maps and six copies of Webster's dictionary for use in the Central and Ward schools.

Your Committee recommend the procuring the above as a step towards conforming to the requirements of the Departmental regulations for the equipment of High Schools.

Your Committee submit the information of the cost of the articles embraced in the above recommendations will be about $35, part of which is for use in the Public and part in the High school, but all available for either if required.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
J. H. STRATTON,
Chairman.

Mr. ERRETT asked if the articles recommended to be purchased were recommended by Mr. Seath, the High School Inspector.

Mr. STRATTON said that Mr. Seath had recommended almost everything, but everything mentioned was necessary.

Mr. DENNE asked what had become of the old school supplies got two years ago.

Mr. STRATTON said that the Committee intended to hold the Head Master of the schools responsible for the keeping in good order of the supplies. A full list would be taken and on any Master leaving the stock in his charge be examined, and if the supplies are found to be in a state of repair better than the ordinary wear and tear, he should be held responsible. If anything be destroyed a Head Master should at once report the matter to the Board.

The report was adopted.

Mr. STRATTON moved, seconded by Mr. DUMBLE, That the resignation of Mr. E. L. Horning be accepted and that the Committee of appointment be requested to appoint a Mathematical and Science Master for the Institute, duties to commence after the summer vacation, and that Mr. Horning be paid according to law.—Carried.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Mr. STRATTON, Inspector, reported verbally, complaining of the bad quality of the ink. A new stock was coming which, he hoped, would be satisfactory. He spoke favorably as to the efforts but forth by teachers in improving the writing of their pupils. The teachers were doing everything, under the circumstances, they could do. He deprecated the "forcing" system of teaching. The amount of work demanded from both teachers and pupils was too great. He advised a longer stay of the pupils under each teacher. In his opinion the new maps should be carefully looked after—each little repairing needed should be done. The janitor should look after the matter. Twenty fingers and pointers should not be allowed to touch the maps.

Mr. RUTHERFORD asked whose duty it was to see that pupils were not forced from one room to another before they were fit. He thought the Inspector should see to that.

Mr. STRATTON moved, seconded by Mr. DUMBLE, That this Board, on the occasion of the retirement of Mr. L. E. Horning,

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

HISTORY OF THE SAW MILL.

How surprised I was on seeing in a museum, a long time ago, such things as axes, saws, rings, necklaces, and pairs of compasses, that were taken from Egyptian tombs 3,000 years old!

But, after all, men were men 3,000 years ago, and women were women. They had the wants, the needs, the vanities of men and women, and they had brains not unlike our own to supply them.

The most beautiful Yankee (not that Yankees are more beautiful than other people) in some of the rooms of the British Museum is obliged to confess that the ancients originated a great many good notions which we moderns have only improved upon.

For instance, there are few tools more ancient than the saw. All the ancient nations appear to have had it; certainly the Hindoos, the Egyptians, the Greeks and the Romans. The saw may have existed even before there were any men on earth.

There is a creature called the saw fly, with two saws in its tail, which it actually uses for sawing the stems, leaves and fruits, wherein its eggs are to be deposited. There is also a saw-fish, the long snout of which is a saw. It is said also that the original inhabitants of the island of Madeira found a ready-made saw in the backbone of a fish.

The Greeks had a pretty story attributing the invention of the saw to the accidental finding of the jaw-bone of a snake by one Talus, who used to cut through a small piece of wood. Being a slave, and finding that this jaw-bone eased his labor, he made a saw of iron, and thus gave mankind a new and most valuable tool.

The ancient saws differed from ours in two ways. The teeth were so arranged that the cut was made by pulling instead of pushing; and the teeth, instead of being set one to the right and one to the left alternately, were set so that ten or a dozen in succession were slanted one way, and the same number the other way.

The ancients had several varieties of the implement. The Greeks, for example, had cross-cut saws for two men, also saws for cutting marble into slabs. And they had a kind of tubular saw for hollowing out a marble bathtub, similar in principle to the method now employed.

Among the pictures uncovered in the buried city of Herculaneum there is a representation of two genii sawing a piece of wood on a carpenter's bench very much like ours and using a saw with a wooden frame similar to those now employed. Still more strange, the frame saw tightened with a rope and stick, such as our street wood sawyers use, was probably as familiar to the Romans as it is to us.

A saw mill, however, by which wind, water or steam is made to do the hardest part of the work, was not known to any ancient nation.

Saving by hand, next to digging a stiff clay soil, is about the hardest work that men ordinarily have to do. It is therefore not surprising that our race-loving race began to experiment a good while ago with a view to applying the forces of nature to the performance of this toil.

A learned German investigator who has investigated the subject very thoroughly states that the first trace of saw mill yet discovered is in the records of the German city of Augsburg, for the year 1337.

The reference is slight, and does not fix the fact with certainty. But there are two saw mills near that city which are known to have existed as far back as 1417, and they are still used.

Before that valuable invention, all boards and planks were split with wedges, and then hewn to the requisite smoothness with the axe.

The splitting of boards is still practiced in remote settlements, as I myself have seen, and it is recorded of Peter the Great, of Russia, that he had much difficulty in inducing the timber cutters of his empire to discontinue the method. At length he issued an edict forbidding the exportation of split planks. Even in Norway, covered with forests as it was, there was not one saw mill before 1530.

Nowhere in Europe, it appears, was the introduction of the saw mill so long resisted as in England. In 1666 a Hollander erected one near London; but it brought upon the poor man such an outcry and opposition that he was obliged to abandon it.

The driving of timber by hand furnished occupation, at that time, and long after, to large numbers of strong men.

In every town there was saw pits, as they were called, for the convenience of the sawyers, one of whom stood at the bottom of the pit and the other on the log.

We can easily imagine that when every beam, plank and board, thick or thin, had to be sawed by hand, the sawyers must have been a formidable body, both from their numbers and their strength.

After the failure of the Dutchman in 1663 there was no serious attempt to start another saw mill in England for more than a hundred years.

In 1767 an English timber dealer of large capital built a saw mill to be moved by the wind. It was thought to be a great and difficult enterprise, and it attracted much public attention. Some years before an author had explained the advantages and economy of saw mills; then the society of arts gave the scheme of building one their approval, and, finally, the mill was actually built by an engineer who had studied the saw mills of Holland and Norway.

No sooner was the mill complete than the sawyers assembled in great force and tore it to pieces. The Government compensated the owner for his loss, as was just. Some of the rioters also were convicted and imprisoned.

A new mill was then built, which was allowed to work without molestation, and proved so profitable that others were soon introduced.

In no part of the world, probably, has the saw been more minutely and curiously developed than in Great Britain, where they have saws so fine as to cut diamonds, and circular saws nine feet in diameter and a quarter of an inch thick.

They have also veneer saws so accurately adjusted as to cut 18 slices of veneer from a rosewood plank as inch thick.

In London they will put a log of mahogany upon the mill and cut it into slices so thin that the sawdust weighs more than the veneer.

Yankees have beaten this performance. They take a piece of mahogany or rosewood, soften it by steam, and cut it into veneers with a knife, without making a grain of sawdust.

Daniel Webster tells us that his father had a saw mill after his removal to New Hampshire, at the source of the Merrimack river.

Daniel, who was by no means fond of labor at any part of his life, liked nothing better than his boyhood than to attend this saw mill, because when he had put his log in position and started the saw, he had 16 good minutes for rest or reading before the business required further attention.—Journal of Progress.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Ladies' Bible Class.

The Rev. Mr. Munro's Bible Class for ladies will not meet this week.

To the Gentlemen.

We have just received and opened an elegant stock of Boys' and Men's Straw Hats, in the latest styles and shapes, the whole of which was bought very low for cash, and will be sold accordingly. See our fine Mackinaws. R. FAIR.

One of the Brightest.

The Toronto Mail says:—
 "The Peterborough Review appeared on Friday last in an extremely new and attractive dress. The Review is one of the brightest and newest of the provincial evening dailies, and deserves the prosperity which its purchase of a new suit indicates."

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

War Medals.

Sir A. Caron, the Minister of Militia, has stated in the House that it is not intended to give the Northwest Medal to newspaper correspondents. This of course referred to correspondents who were not attached to the force. Correspondents of the Review, whose reports won the admiration of our readers, have been honoured not only with the Northwest, but also with the Egyptian medal.

Canoe at the Exhibition.

The Mail's correspondent at the Colonial Exhibition in London, Eng., says:—
 "The most arduous is devoted to the boats, canoes, models of ships, and fishermen's outfits. Our great canoe builders are well represented by agents in London, and the Canadian canoe is a pretty feature in the pretty little rivers here. The little silver chance for one."

The Ontario Canoe Company and Mr. Wm. English, of Peterborough, and Mr. T. Gordon, of Lakeside, have canoes at the exhibition.

The Nichols Hospital.

The Lady Superintendent of the Nichols Hospital thankfully acknowledges the following donations to the hospital in May:—
 Mr. Wallis, clothing, rhubarb, butter and milk; Mrs. Pigeon, 3 doz. eggs; Mrs. Patterson, raspberry vinegar, eggs and maple syrup; Mrs. Rubidge, cake, oranges and custard; Mrs. J. R. Stratton, preserves; Mrs. Jas. Stratton, rhubarb; Mr. R. B. Dennistoun, flowers and books; Miss Haultain and Miss Dennistoun, flowers and books; Rev. Morrow, old muslin and cotton; the Women's Christian Temperance Union, flowers and bouquet holders.

Division Courts.

The annual report of the Inspector of Division Courts gives the following information regarding the business transacted in the Division Courts in this county during last year:—Number of suits entered, exclusive of transcripts of judgments and judgment summonses, 72; amount of claims entered, exclusive of transcripts of judgments and judgment summonses, $28,124.73; number of transcripts received from other courts, 43; amount of claims received by transcripts of judgments from other courts, $3,335.33; number of judgment summonses issued, 16; amount of suitors' money paid into court, $7,948.04; amount of suitors' money paid out of court, $7,794.00; number of suits entered where the amount claimed exceeded $100, 44; number of actions for Tort where the amount claimed exceeded $40, 10; number of actions for replevin where the value of the goods or property distrained exceeded $40, 3; number of jury trials, 13; amount paid to jurors, $85; number of jury trials called in pursuance of sec 128 of the Division Courts Act, 1; amount payable to Treasurer for Division Court Jury Fund, $30.33; number of instances in which the Judge allowed costs to be taxed for council, attorney or agents' fees, 2; amount of costs so taxed, $10. No fees or emoluments were payable to the Treasurer for the use of the province. The total amount of claims entered in the Province amounted to $3,357,142.47; a decrease of $4,027.73 as compared with the previous year.

The Conservative Club.

A meeting of the Junior Conservative Club will be held on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the club room over Mr. Geo. Stothorn's store. It is particularly desirable that all members should be present.

Ginger Ale.

Made expressly for family use. Put up in bottles or kegs, and delivered in any part of the town. Orders received by telephone. 1,000 doz. bottles wanted. H. CALCUTT, Ashburnham.

A Peterborough Contractor.

Mr. Jas. Bogue has commenced operations on his contracts in Lindsay and Belleville, the new St. Andrew's church, Presbyterian, in the former, and St. Mary's church, Roman Catholic, in the latter.

Decorations Day.

The Oddfellows of Peterborough have decided to hold their Decoration Day on June 22nd. Arrangements are being made to make the ceremony a very imposing one. Invitations have been issued to lodges of the Order throughout the Midland District.

The First.

The first rifle match of the season will be held at the Association range on Thursday afternoon. There should be a large attendance of riflemen, as thirteen prizes of ammunition are offered, and besides this will be the first competition for the Ontario Medal.

Orange True Blues.

At the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of Orange True Blues, held at Lindsay, Bro. F. Weir, of Peterborough, was elected Grand Master, the highest office in the Order, J. Craig, G. O. F.; J. J. Smith, A. G. L. and S. Weir, P. D. G. M. for Peterborough.

Excursion.

The first incoming excursion will visit town to-morrow. It is being run here under the auspices of the Presbyterian church of Uxbridge, Cannington, Blackwater and Sunderland. The excursion party will arrive per Grand Trunk Railway at the Bethune street depot at 11.35 a. m. Between six and seven hundred persons are expected.

Short Stops.

The Metropolitan Base-ball Club, of Toronto, want to play a game here with the Peterboroughs.

A match between Lindsay and Peterborough in the Riverside Park on Dominion Day is talked of.

The Lock Works nine would like to hear from any factory hands that can play ball. A club has been organized at Young's Point.

Agricultural.

A meeting of the Directors of the Peterborough Agricultural Society, was held in the Music Hall on Tuesday afternoon. There were present: Mr. John Garbutt, President, and Messrs. W. Rutherford, Wm. Collins, Hugh Davidson, Joe. Tully, J. McClelland and Robt. Vance. The principal business before the meeting was the revision of the prize list for the fall exhibition. This was satisfactorily done. Mr. J. McClelland submitted plans for the new exhibition building, the plans being drawn by Mr. E. Belcher. The plans were examined, but no action will be taken until the councils of the town and county are waited on as to grants.

The Gardens.

The Horticultural Gardens looked very pretty on Tuesday evening. The even shaven lawn in the lower part, dotted with neatly planted, varied shaped beds of flowers, cut in sections by the walks, was the most attractive part of the Gardens for promenaders; others more staid passed the spraying fountain, up the stone steps, and strayed away to select a retreat and look down on the gay throng in the walks below. The Gardens were amply lighted with gas, aided by that from the street electric light. The band stand and the members of the band were subjects of wonderment to the little boys and girls who circled around as thick as drilling soldiers. Mayor Stevenson, the chief of those who deserve public thanks for having, by persistent effort, provided such a beautiful public garden, was there enjoying himself as much as anybody. He says the new walk up the slope to the Court House will be completed next week. There were about fifteen hundred people in the Gardens, all enjoying themselves until ten o'clock, when the band played the National Anthem and everybody strolled away.

Meritorious Music.

The music furnished by the members of the Fire Brigade Band on Tuesday evening, at the Horticultural Gardens, was of such a character as to draw forth the applause of the large number of listeners several times during the evening. Their rendering of several selections was, indeed, good, and, in fact, one or two quicksteps and a set of waltzes was none the less appreciated. The solo instruments, 1st b. cornet, solo euphonium, solo baritone and the telling slide trombone, with the solo alto and that small, but nevertheless effective piccolo, are all in the hands of capable and experienced musicians, and in the piano parts, as well as the fortissimo parts, help to form a combination of harmonious sound that inspires the music lover with rapture. The members play with perhaps even better taste and effect than ever, their attacking of different passages and difficult movements in the operatic selections was excellent, while their diminuendos and crescendos were of such a finished character that the musical critics could find little, if any, fault. The several numbers on the programme were rendered in a highly creditable and very acceptable manner.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

Black Knight Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Grand Chapter of the Black Knights of Ireland held in Toronto Bro. J. McCaughey, Cobourg, was elected Grand Master. Among the list of officers appear the following names:—J. B. McWilliams, Peterborough, Deputy Grand Master; Rev. Dr. Smith, Deputy Grand Chaplain; J. Smith, Peterborough, Deputy Grand Lecturer; W. King, Peterborough, Deputy Grand Censor, and R. Weir and G. W. Hall, Peterborough, on the Grand Committee.

A Call from Belleville.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—
 "At a meeting of the quarterly Board of Bridge Street Methodist Church a unanimous resolution was passed asking the Conference now in session in Picton, to send them Rev. I. Tovey for the year 1887. As the present incumbent's time has expired, this motion will leave the hands of the Conference until in their appointment for one year."

The term of the earnest and popular pastor of the George Street Church does not expire until July 1st, 1887, and he will undoubtedly remain here for another year. His present congregation would no doubt be pleased to see him take charge of the important pastorate in Belleville at the end of that time.

Don't "Compel".

A motion was passed at the last meeting of the Council referring to the Town Solicitor the matter of ascertaining what are the town's right in respect to "compelling" the Grand Trunk Railway to fill up portions of Bethune street, etc. It is not likely that the Grand Trunk Railway Company need any "compelling." If approached in a business like manner it would be willing, if allowed to do so, to raise the street and put it in a good condition. As it was, they had to dodge the Street Inspector to get their ties out of the mud. The town and company should deal with each other in an amicable spirit.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

The Late Bishop Jamot.

At a regular meeting of the Toronto Separate School Board held on Tuesday evening the following motion was moved by Mr. Curran, seconded by Mr. Ryan, and adopted:—

"Whereas Almighty God, in His inscrutable wisdom, hath been pleased to remove from His episcopal labours an illustrious prelate, the Right Rev. John Francis Jamot, first Bishop of Peterborough, be it resolved that the trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate Schools of Toronto, at our first meeting after his decease, beg most respectfully to tender to the reverend clergy and the people of the diocese of Peterborough the expression of our sympathy with them in their hour of affliction; that knowing, as we do, the many sterling sacerdotal virtues of the deceased prelate, he having been for many years an honored associate with us, how with reverence to the Divine will, and as a mark of our respect for his memory, record this resolution on the minutes of our board, and request that an engrossed copy be forwarded to Very Rev. P. D. Laurent, V. G., administrator of the diocese, and that the secretary be instructed to forward copies of it to the press of Peterborough and of this city."

Scott Act.

The fines paid to the Clerk of the Police Court up to three o'clock this afternoon are as follows:—

	Fine	Costs
T. Cavanagh	50.00	13.00
W. Kennedy	50.00	13.00
W. Clancy	50.00	7.00
W. H. Chamberlain	50.00	12.35
A. P. Morgan	50.00	7.00
W. Kennedy	50.00	5.25
H. Calcutt	50.00	10.00
R. Hamilton	50.00	6.65
G. Lipsett	50.00	13.00
	$450.00	$80.30

Messrs. Cavanagh, Morgan, Chamberlain and Calcutt, have paid their fines under protest, as will also Messrs. Daly. It is likely that Mr. Halpin will reprieve the distress made on his goods. These cases are all appealed on the grounds before given; that the Scott Act is not in force here, and that a defendant is not compelled to give evidence until a prima facie case has been established. Mr. Rosseter received a cheque for $175.00, that being his share of the fines in the first named seven cases.

Lawlessness.

The lawless attack upon the house of Mr. Maule is a discredit to Peterborough and will be condemned by the whole community. Whatever might be the cause, and of that there is no absolute certainty, though a strong suspicion, there can be no justification for such misconduct. Our laws must be observed and enforced, and private warfare cannot be allowed unless we are to relapse into a state of savagery.

It is evident that no injury could have been intended for Mr. Maule personally, as he has not an enemy. Whether the outrage sprang from mere rowdiness, or was intended as a demonstration against the carrying out of any law upon the statute books, the offence should be severely punished, if detected, and steps should be taken to guard against any repetition.

THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1886.

T. V. C.

WHILE Ontario as a Province has no reason to complain of the appropriations made during the past session of the Dominion Parliament for public works of various kinds within its bounds, yet that section of it more particularly interested in the Trent Valley Canal has good cause for complaint against the present Dominion Government, inasmuch as, as we understand the estimates for 1886-7, no provision has been made for the commencement of another section of this most important Dominion as well as Provincial work during the present season; and we are sure we but re-echo the unanimous feeling of the political friends and supporters of Sir John Macdonald throughout this section of Ontario when we say that we are deeply grieved and disappointed at the treatment which this scheme is receiving at the hands of the present Minister of Railways and Canals.

Had the failure now more particularly complained of arisen from a decision to curtail all expenditure of this kind until the revenue was more buoyant, while we should have looked upon such a decision as a mistaken one, we would not have felt as we now feel, that we in this section of Ontario have been treated unjustly. But as it is, and in face of the fact that, so far as we know, every railway no matter how short or local in its character, applying for aid has had substantial assistance out of the Dominion Treasury extended to it during the session just closed, we do say that those interested in the Trent Valley scheme have been treated in a manner which we did not believe was possible at the hands of a Government led by Sir John Macdonald, and which we cannot yet bring ourselves to believe would have been possible had it not been that Providence prevented him from paying the same attention to such matters during the past session as he usually does, and were it not that there is some occult influence at work to prevent the speedy if not ultimate completion of this undertaking which is every day becoming more and more important.

LAWLESSNESS.

The lawless attack upon the house of Mr. Maule is a discredit to Peterborough and will be condemned by the whole community. Whatever might be the cause, and of that there is no absolute certainty, though a strong suspicion, there can be no justification for such misconduct. Our laws must be observed and enforced, and private warfare cannot be allowed unless we are to relapse into a state of savagery.

It is evident that no injury could have been intended for Mr. Maule personally, as he has not an enemy. Whether the outrage sprang from mere rowdiness, or was intended as a demonstration against the carrying out of any law upon the statute books, the offence should be severely punished, if detected, and steps should be taken to guard against any repetition.

ACCORDING to the Meaford Mirror, which says it is speaking seriously, the people of that place are all asleep, are sunk in lethargy, live in shells and have straws in their eyes! And that is not all. These singular people wake up once a year, in December, and then they only rub their eyes and yawn until the elections are over, for which laborious work they receive free drinks and hand shaking, and then "they drop off to sleep again," says the Mirror, "and that is the last we see or hear of them for another year." Arrangements should at once be made for a cheap excursion to Meaford.

COUNTRY CASES.

Inspector Cochrane Opens the Country Campaign—Two Convictions.

Daniel Costello, of Young's Point, was charged by Inspector Cochrane with having, between May 1st and 29th, committed an infraction on the Canada Temperance Act. A plea of guilty was entered and a fine of $50 imposed.

Inspector Cochrane charged William, John, and Patrick Kearns, with having between the 1st and 29th of May sold liquor, contrary to the Canada Temperance Act. Pleas of not guilty was entered.

A. TRENNIN, sworn, said: I live at Burleigh. I know Kearns place at Burleigh. I was up a week ago last Monday. I went up for a drink—ginger ale. The defendant keeps a boarding house. There is a bar in the place, when I got to the boarding house I asked for ginger ale. I don't know whether there was anything in it or not. If there was it was too little for me to detect it. There was no winking or nodding going on—I asked for ginger ale and got it.

CHAR. GOODWIN, sworn, said: I live at Burleigh. I know Kearns place. I was there the night before the 24th of May. I had something to drink. I asked for ginger wine. I was a little intoxicated when I left. It was the liquor I got there that intoxicated me. The crowd was pretty noisy. I knew at the time there was intoxicating liquor in the ginger wine. John Kearns keeps the boarding house.

WM. HURSTON, sworn, said: I work at Burleigh. I was at Kearns house on the night of May 23rd. I board there. I had ginger ale to drink that night. I called for nothing but ginger ale.

Mr. WOOD—Never mind what you called for; what did you get?

THE MAGISTRATE—Did you get any intoxicating liquor there between May 1st and 27th?

WITNESS—Yes, I did. But I never paid for any drinks. I have an account at the bar. I have had drinks charged. I expect to pay for them.

ALLEN McDONALD, sworn, said: I board at Kearns place. I was there on the night of May 23rd. I had intoxicating liquor to drink. I paid for it. It was served by John Kearns. I guess Jack keeps the place.

THE DEFENDANT said that he had evidence to submit which was not here.

THE MAGISTRATE—What do you expect to prove?

DEFENDANT—I expect to prove that I didn't sell them liquor.

THE MAGISTRATE—I suppose you could bring a thousand people here to prove that. These witnesses have proved that you have sold liquor to them.

DEFENDANT—Well, I suppose you have enough to convict me.

The matter of distress was discussed. The Inspector thought that about $20 might be realized by the sale of the property of the defendant.

THE DEFENDANT charged the Inspector with "working a job" on him.

THE MAGISTRATE—He has done what the law compels him to do and he has done it very well.

THE DEFENDANT said that it was not the Inspector alone that worked the job; the others did their work and the Inspector did his.

The Magistrate imposed a fine of $50 and $33.51 costs. The defendant had made the admission that there was not enough goods to cover the fine in his place and, therefore, he was committed to jail for two months, or till such time before the expiration of two months as the fine and costs were paid.

Here the defendant glided his hand into his pocket and passed a big wad of bills to his father, remarking that he supposed the constables would take the money out of his pocket.

Capt. Cooper seized the elder Mr. Kearns. The son went to his assistance and a scuffle ensued.

THE MAGISTRATE ordered the disturbance to cease and said: I will change this sentence. It will be three months instead of two.

DEFENDANT—You can give me six if you like. I can't make money much faster.

The defendant then followed officer McGinty down stairs. As the reporters passed him in the hall he said: "Now give me a good 'stiff' in the papers. I have lots of wealth but these Scott Act people ain't going to get it."

A TREMENDOUS SENSATION.

Caused at Halifax by a Reported Wreck—Arrival of the Siberian.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 2.—A tremendous sensation was caused here by the publication in this morning's Chronicle of an alleged despatch saying that a report had reached St. John's by a schooner that a three-masted steamer had sunk off Cape Race on Wednesday, after colliding with an iceberg. There are some sixty passengers on the Siberian, from Halifax, and as this was her tenth day out, without anything being heard of her, an unparalleled delay for an Allan ocean steamer between Halifax and St. John's, the effect can better be imagined than described. But the despatch turned out to be a heartless hoax. At nine o'clock the telegraph office displayed a bulletin saying that the Siberian had arrived at St. John's at five o'clock this morning. No particulars have yet been received, nor can be obtained in reply to enquiries, so it is taken for granted that the steamer was simply detained and met with no disaster.

There is absolutely no truth in the reported seizure of another American fishing schooner in Nova Scotia.

The safe arrival of the Siberian has relieved all anxieties about the non-arrival of the mail steamer Sardinian at Rimouski.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

LONDON, June 2.—Mr. Brand says the number of Liberals pledged to vote against the Home Rule bill is 101. The local and provincial caucuses everywhere are dividing into Unionist and Gladstone sections. Among the symptoms of the anti-Home Rule reaction may be mentioned the fact that Mr. Corbett, the Radical member for Glasgow, who, resenting the reprimand of his caucus because of his opposition to the bill, appealed to the electors, and was sustained by 798 of his constituents, while only 205 dissipated of his caucus.

LETTER FROM JOHN BRIGHT.

LONDON, June 2.—Mr. Bright has written to a Birmingham elector as follows: "There will be time to discuss the Irish bills after they have been withdrawn. The Home Rule bill should have been withdrawn before the second reading, and except for the fear of dissolution, which would decide the votes of scores, this would have been done. I intend soon to discuss the question at Birmingham. My sympathy with Ireland, North and South, compels me to condemn the proposed legislation. I believe a united parliament can and will be more just to all classes in Ireland than any parliament meeting in Dublin under the provisions of Mr. Gladstone's bill. If Mr. Gladstone's authority were withdrawn from these bills I doubt if twenty members outside of the Irish in the House of Commons would support them. The more I consider them the more I lament that they have been offered in Parliament."

EIGHT HUNDRED MILES OF FOG.

The Captain of the British Crown Describes His Experience.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 2.—Captain Smith, of the steamer British Crown, from London, says he never had such a voyage during all his experience on the Atlantic. Four days ago, at 12.45, when approaching the Grand Banks, he ran into a thick black fog, which continued all the way to Halifax, a distance of eight hundred miles. This fog never lifted once during the whole of the time except when off Halifax harbor. He could not get an observation, and was obliged to take soundings every hour and run down shore. He saw no fog, he could not see anything, the fog was so dense; but, from reports made to him of immense quantities which have drifted down from the Arctic regions, and hidden by this black fog, he fears that many disasters may be looked for. He says there are thousands of icebergs drifting about, only a few feet of which are visible above the water, while seven-eighths of their size are under water. These would hardly be visible in a fog until a collision, and as the force of the blow would be all below the water, the result would be disastrous. The British Crown brings eighty tons of powder and a large quantity of other munitions of war for the Imperial forces at this station.

DOUBLE EXECUTION.

A Canadian Sailor Hanged in England for Murder at Sea.

LONDON, June 2.—A double execution took place at Winchester, Eng., on Monday morning. The culprits were Albert Edward Brown a waterman of Greenwich, for murdering a youth named Parker, and James Whelan, a seaman from Nova Scotia, for murdering the second mate of a vessel on high seas. The execution took place at eight o'clock, Berry being the executioner. He is some years since an execution has taken place in this city. A newly designed scaffold sent him from the Home office was used, in order to prevent a scandal similar to that which occurred at the last execution of John Lee last year. The men both passed the night well, partook of breakfast, and submitted to plucking with great firmness. They walked to the scaffold and took their places on the drop without the least show of fear. Brown, the lighter man, was given a drop of six feet and six inches, Whelan one of four feet. In the case of Brown death was instantaneous, but there was a slight twitching of Whelan's body for a few seconds. On the scaffold Brown said, "Lord Jesus receive my soul." Whelan, who was a Roman Catholic, kissed a crucifix. Both men said they died penitent. Brown admitted the justice of his doom. The usual inquest was afterwards held, when the bodies were interred in the jail.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

PETERBOROUGH has a fire brigade, in which there are members of long standing and experience, which has demonstrated that it can do good work. It has a waterworks system through a considerable part of the town, including the business portion, and has a steam fire engine for use in the other parts of the town. There is all the hose that is necessary. In the fire department, and reels on which it is drawn to fires. There is also a hook and ladder division in the brigade. With the fire department as it now stands, with the exception of the hook and ladder wagon, very efficient service can be rendered by the brigade.

While this is undoubtedly true, the suggestions made by the brigade deserve careful consideration, and for two reasons of weight. Although the firemen do receive some remuneration, the brigade is essentially a volunteer one; and if their suggestions were acted upon the efficiency of the department would be materially increased. It is too much to longer expect the men to drag the heavy hose cart to fires. They are their services voluntarily and their labor should be made as easy as circumstances will permit. Besides, if the hose was drawn to the fires by horses, much valuable time would be saved, and the firemen would not be wearied with drawing a heavy load when they reached the scene of the fire. As it is at present, after a long run with the carts the men are already fatigued before their work proper—fighting the flames—is begun. The interests of the firemen and the town, as far as this matter is concerned, are identical. The improvement suggested, if made, would lighten the labor of the firemen and would increase the security of the town against destruction by flames.

The swinging harness, which the brigade ask to have provided, would enable the driver to get the engine out much more quickly when a fire occurred at night, and, with the hose carts taken to the scene more rapidly, the water could be thrown on the flames without the loss of time that now cannot be obviated. And while the Committee have this matter under consideration, it would be well to bear in mind that it has happened that the engine and hose have been on the ground in a short time, and that delays have occurred because the engineer had to wait for steam to generate. If the other improvements are made, a heater should be furnished, or some change made, that would avoid any chance of such a delay.

The fitting up of rooms for four men to sleep at the hall would certainly be of advantage, as, when the alarm was sounded at night, they could attend to the getting out of the hose at once, and the other members of the brigade could proceed direct to the scene of the fire. Again another consideration arises. How, with the present method of sounding the alarm, would the firemen know where a fire was, without coming to the hall to ascertain its whereabouts?

The suggestions of the brigade include the purchasing of a hook and ladder wagon (with ladders), a hose wagon and swinging harness, the furnishing of rooms for four members of the brigade, and the hiring of horses to draw the hose wagon. The carrying out of the suggestions would incur the expenditure of a considerable sum, and would increase the annual charge upon the town treasury for the maintenance of the department. The expenditure should not be incurred without due consideration. If the new appliances are to be procured it would not be a wise policy to get inferior articles that would have to be replaced again in a few years, especially in view of the rate at which the town is growing. Any suggestions made by the brigade deserve respectful consideration, and these suggestions have a greater claim upon the consideration of the Town Council because the firemen ask for nothing that would not increase the efficiency of the department.

PRESERVING OUR FISHERIES.

The pretence of some of the disloyal section of the Reform press that it is a hardship upon our fishermen to prevent them from selling "bait" to the fishing vessels of the United States is completely refuted by the evidence of the fishermen of the Maritime provinces. So far from favoring this suicidal traffic, they denounce it as most injurious to the industry by which they obtain a livelihood. It is not they who sell their bait, but poaching trappers, who find it less laborious to net bait than to embark in honest fishing, and who therefore care nothing if they thereby ruin our fisheries. The real fishermen are utterly opposed to such an improvident practice.

This being the case it seems that one good way of assisting to protect our fisheries would be to restrict this dealing in bait. The manner of catching it might possibly be regulated so as to restrain these poachers without impeding genuine fishing, and a heavy export duty on or the prohibition of exportation might obviate diplomatic difficulties, for nothing could be more clearly within our rights under any interpretation.

Another Fishery Trouble.

CELEBRITY, Fla., June 1.—The revenue cutter Dix arrived in port on Sunday with the Spanish fishing smack Chlotilde, of Havana, which she captured off Ancho Key for violating the fishery laws by fishing within three leagues of the American shore and irregularly in her papers. The Chlotilde is a small vessel and has a crew of ten men.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

THE FOURTH SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

The Slanderers Rampart—Untruthful Edgar and his Friends—Export Duty on Logs—Mr. Mills Wants more Indians to Pilech.

THURSDAY, June 1.—The Speaker took the chair at 3 o'clock.

REFORM INVENTIONS.

Mr. EDGAR read a statutory declaration from the Secretary of the Toronto Reform Association, backing up his attacks upon the Judge.

Mr. SMALL read a letter from the Revising Officer's Clerk, saying that there had been no irregularities as charged, and offering to testify to this under oath. The counsel for the Reform party has publicly thanked the Revising Officer for his strict impartiality and his manner of conducting the business.

THE SLANDERERS.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD condemned and fitly characterized the slanderous attack made upon him, Sir C. Tupper and their sons by Mr. Cameron (Huron). He went serially into the chief charges and showed that they were gross and wilful falsehoods by Mr. Cameron. Though these young men had obtained no unfair advantages, had been treated just like other people, and had merely carried on their profession like others, they were attacked through political malignity for mean, base and low purposes by less honest men.

EDGAR AND HIS PALE.

The House went into Committee on the bill for land grants to North-West Railways.

Mr. EDGAR read declarations by few and his man Macdonald, bringing charges of corruption against Mr. Beatty and the Hon. Thomas White.

Mr. WHITE (Cardwell) pointed out that it had been proved that the oaths of these friends of Mr. Edgar were totally unworthy of belief. In reply to Mr. Mitchell he said that the deposit had not been made by the Northwest Central, but the time had not yet expired.

The bill was reported.

Mr. WHITE (Cardwell) moved the third reading.

Mr. BLAKE objected to taking another reading that day. He wanted to see if the deposit would be made.

Sir H. LANGRISH said that this would delay the proposition, and the third reading was carried.

PIG IRON.

Mr. McLELLAN moved the House into committee to continue the bounty on pig iron. After some opposition from the Free-traders the resolution was carried.

EXPORT DUTY ON LOGS.

Mr. McLELLAN, in Committee of Ways and Means, moved they make the duty on spruce logs $1, and on pine logs $2 per thousand, leaving the right to make it $3 by order-in-Council.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT and Mr. Blake objected to this, but the resolution was carried.

OLEOMARGERINE.

Mr. McLELLAN introduced a bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of oleomargarine, etc. It was put through all its stages.

SOUR GRAPES.

Mr. MILLS moved in amendment to supply to the Government for military equipment of Northwest affairs. He dwelt on the disappointment as to the sale of lands and increase of population. He objected to the expenditure to develop the country and particularly found fault with the extent of the surveys.

Mr. WHITE (Cardwell) showed that the surveys were necessary, and that they had cost only 4.65 cents an acre, while under Mr. Mills they had cost 12.14 cents an acre. Mr. Mills and his friends had spent $34,000 more than they had received from the Northwest lands, while the present Government had spent less than a quarter of the receipts. Mr. Mills and his friends had issued 637 patents and the present Government 49,217. He refuted other false statements by Mr. Mills and his friends.

Mr. LAUREL, the avowed rebel and perjured Privy Councillor, attacked the Canadian authorities.

After some further debate Mr. Mills' amendment was negatived by 71 to 31.

PROBATION.

Sir J. MACDONALD announced that the House would probably be prorogued on Wednesday afternoon.

STUFFY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed some items.

REVIEW.

THE CANADIAN METHODIST MAGAZINE.—In the June number of the Magazine, John T. Moore, Esq., contributes another of those superbly illustrated articles on "Wonderland and Beyond," which have attracted so much attention. This paper carries the reader to the Pacific coast, and portrays with vivid pen and pencil its striking scenery. The Rev. W. R. Blackstock has another striking illustrated paper on "Among the Eskimo." "Cameo Life in the North-West" and "Grimby Park Past and Present" are also well illustrated. The Rev. R. S. Dunn contributes, under the title of "Consecrated Culture," an admirably written sketch of the late Benjamin Gregory, Jr., an accomplished young Wesleyan minister; and Miss Tweedie an excellent paper on Charles Kingsley. The Rev. Walter M. Roger writes ably on the labor problem of the times; which is also treated, in prose and verse, by the Editor. The same question comes in "Notes on a Curious Old Play," by R. W. Boudle, Esq. The number completes the 23rd volume, which is in every sense the most successful that has been issued of this magazine. Among special features on the 24th volume will be a steel portrait of the late Dr. Rice, with memorial tributes by the Revs. Dr. Douglas, Dr. Harper, Dr. Dewart, and the Editor; a graphic story of Irish Methodism by E. M. Morphy, Esq.; the absorbing serial "Jan Velder's Wife," a score of splendidly illustrated articles, and a condensed record of the approaching General Conference.

An Awful Explosion.

PALESTINE, Tex., June 1.—A locomotive in the round house of the International & Great Northern shops exploded yesterday, killing the engineer, Henry Rhody, and the machinist, D. W. Riggs, and injuring eight others, some fatally.

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

THE CANADIAN FISHERIES.

Their Value and Their Customers.—The Latest Figures on the Subject.

OTTAWA, May 30.—In the report of the Fisheries Department, which has been brought down in Parliament, the statistics are of interest in view of the present dispute with the States. The report gives the total number of men engaged in the fisheries of Canada as close on sixty thousand; to be exact, 59,493. According to Provinces, the numbers are as follows:

Nova Scotia	20,905
New Brunswick	18,089
Prince Edward Island	2,535
Quebec	11,222
Ontario	2,716
British Columbia	1,280

These sixty thousand men are employed in 117 vessels of 48,728 tons measurement, and $2,021,633 value; and in 25,472 boats of $452,257 value.

The official figures of the value of the fisheries last year are as follows:

Nova Scotia	$2,838,922
New Brunswick	4,005,451
Quebec	1,718,459
Prince Edward Island	1,285,429
British Columbia	1,078,038
Ontario	1,285,421

The most valuable fish to Canada is the cod, of which $4,536,732 worth was caught last year. The other chief fish were: halibut $2,615,731, herring $2,475,118, mackerel $1,304,429, salmon $1,152,348, and haddock, whitefish, trout and sculpin, from half to a quarter million worth each.

The exports of Canadian fish are, however, of special interest, as the figures show where our greatest trade lies. The Canadian fish exports last year were as follows:

United States	$2,500,771
Great Britain	1,543,731
British West Indies	1,152,348
Spanish West Indies	718,459
French West Indies	180,225
South America	256,547

Besides these, the most important customers for Canadian fish are Portugal and Italy, taking about $100,000 worth each. The total Canadian exports amounts to a few thousand short of eight million dollars ($7,960,001). The total cost of the Dominion fisheries service is given by the report as $153,215, a small sum for the protection of an industry producing nearly eighteen millions a year, and exporting eight millions.

A Canadian Market in London.

It has been arranged that during the time of the Colonial and Indian Exhibition a market for colonial products shall be conducted under the direction of the Royal Commission. Sir Charles Tupper, it is understood, has selected a competent gentleman to assume charge of the Canadian restaurant and market, and arrangements are being made for the regular shipment of supplies. Nova Scotia is already sending fish, and Ontario and the other provinces are expected to contribute meat, poultry, vegetables, fruit, eggs, etc.—Toronto Mail.

The Quaker City's Marble Pile.

Philadelphia's marble pile, the City Hall, is still unfinished. Between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000 have been expended upon it since the laying of the corner stone in 1872. It is the largest building, finished or in course of completion, in the United States, and is estimated to cover 2,400 more square feet than the capitol at Washington. The tower on the north side will be surrounded by a statue of Penn, and its extreme height when completed will be 335 feet. It has now reached a height of 270 feet.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

WHEN DAVID IS IN OFFICE.
Saw mills are not the only kind of Mills Mr. Cook makes money out of.—Ontario Packet.

THE LIBERAL NOTION.
Mr. Mercer complains that "Dumais and Dumont are languishing in exile." Mr. Mercer's notion appears to be that the Government ought to apologize to them, send them return tickets and present them with a purse of money, not merely as a slight token of esteem, but for its intrinsic value.—Toronto World (Indep.).

A CHAMPION SLANG-WHANGER.
Contrary to expectation, the slang-whanging American press has something to borrow of the Canadian article. The Toronto Globe has just got off the line: "The Bawling Brood of Boodle Buggers." Nothing has been produced on this side of the line forty-five to surpass the Globe's contribution. In rankness it takes the blue ribbon.—Buffalo Courier.

IN THE BLOOD.
Blood will tell, Mr. Mills being of the Plymouth Rock breed, naturally sympathizes with the New England Irish theives.—Hamilton Spectator.

"MAIL" ARTICLES.
All this we fear, was written by one called a Catholic.—Toronto Tribune (Roman Catholic and Reform).

CHURCH UNION.
The idea of union between the Presbyterians and Methodists of Canada has been making steady and rapid progress since it was first suggested in these columns less than a year ago. It is as yet more in the air than a matter of formal discussion, but the effort of the Montreal Synod and the Montreal Conference to divide the purely mission ground between the two churches, and to come to a proposition before the National Conference and assembly, will necessarily raise the whole question, and that in the particular connection which affords the readiest and most effective argument in its favor. As was recently remarked by a clergyman of one of the bodies, the movement is more advanced to-day than the Methodist Union was ten years ago.—Montreal Witness.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.
The success of the company is as remarkable as its success in overcoming difficulties of construction. The latter has won the admiration of the whole Dominion, and compelled acknowledgments from quarters where bitter opposition and dismal prognostications were once the rule. The financial success of the company is no less striking, and the action of the stockholders in assisting the great undertaking has been amply justified by the result.—Montreal Times.

SENATOR FRYE'S LITTLE BILL.
It is legislation sought in the interest of a lot of tricky Maine fishermen, who insist on taking Canadian fish out of the mouths of their fellow-countrymen and then insist that the nation shall protect them in poaching upon the fishing privileges of their neighbors. It is essentially the post-terrestrial Maine idea, and the result of the country is getting heartily sick and ashamed of it. The West especially is weary of it. It is time for moral ideas to awaken in national and municipal life to cast out the Maine idea.—Chicago News.

VERY SHADY.
The settlement giving up to Mr. Cook this considerable amount of public money and the renewal of license that occurred some time after the Mackenzie Government were defeated at the polls, after power had absolutely passed from their hands, while the Ministers were resigning their portfolios, and when Mr. Mills was, in effect, not Minister of the Interior. To say the least, the whole transaction has a shady look, especially the setting up, four years after the alleged event, that the quantity of logs sawn to as having been received here never cut on the Indian lands, and the last settlement of the Government's claim by Mr. Mills when he was virtually without power to dispose of it.—Montreal Herald (Indep.).

THE PRINTING BUREAU.
The Government is to be congratulated on its pluck in introducing a bill for the establishment of a Government Printing Department. The argument that the bill has been introduced too late in the session has of course some weight, but after all the question is one on which there can be very little difference of opinion. These papers on both sides of politics that have job offices will be, of course, but their lamentations will be prompted rather by feelings of self-interest than by any serious regard for the interests of the country.—Montreal Star (Indep.).

ATTACKS ON THE N. P.
The Montreal Witness calls upon its allies to once more "pluck up courage and attack the N.P." It might as well counsel Jumbo's stuffed hide to take another whack at a railway train.—Toronto World (Indep.).

WHAT IT AMOUNTS TO.
The Grit newspapers in other provinces still insist that the New Brunswick elections were run on party lines. Are these journals aware that they are accusing the Hon. General Blair of being a liar and a hypocrite and are declaring that he builds the Government through the support of fourteen Grit members of the legislature who falsely and treacherously assert that they are Liberal-Conservatives?—St. John News.

CHRONIC HOSTILITY.
The Toronto Globe is very sorrowful because an export duty having been placed on pine and spruce logs, the Americans who have purchased large timber limits on the north shore of Lake Huron will either have to pay a large tax to Canada, which will help to lighten general taxation, or else have the logs sawn into lumber in Canada, so give employment to Canadian labor instead of having the work done in Michigan mills. There does not seem to be any reason for the Globe's attitude on this question, except its recognized chronic hostility to Canadian industrial enterprises.—Montreal Star (Indep.).

IDiotic.
From the way the Globe waited on Thursday over the death of the late Mrs. Louis Riel, one might have imagined that the Deacon had just lost his great grandmother. It is a palpable truism that many women suffer for the sins of their husbands, and Mrs. Riel was one of the many, and one for whom it was impossible not to feel sympathy; but laying her death at the door of the Government is one of the most idiotic things that the Globe has ever been guilty of, even under the Disraelian dispensation.—Toronto World (Indep.).

His Punishment was Wasteful.
There wouldn't be much chance for an Anarchist paper in China. A Chinese newspaper writer named Wonglai was recently sentenced to be quartered, because in a scientific article he had enumerated the names of several dead emperors, an act contrary to court etiquette. Afterward his punishment was mitigated to decapitation. His children will be put to death in the autumn for the sin of their father.—N. Y. Tribune.

For the Review.

SOLILOQUY OF THE NOCTURNAL BOVINE.

How sweet to be roaming unbound,
To eat the grass forlorn;
It's little I care for the pound,
Or the four of being child.
By owners of defenceless lawns,
Who me with grass provide
When trampling bullocks at dawn—
Likewise at eve-tide.
I stray around on Water street
To reach the shady park;
I tread the flowers with cloven feet
While feeding after dark.
When all unweary by poster's eye,
I mock the fountainer, the Mayor,
Who'd like if I were found,
And horticulturist's vile prayer,
A dollar in the pound.
I laugh at them and chieftain too,
With myrmidonian gang,
I grow my last nocturnal tooth,
Where never cowbell rang.
My stomach gave a joyful thrub
When fence were pulled down.
The fever's spreading, so I'll rob
The laws of half the town.
Yes, cows must, too, their habits change—
Feed where and when they can,
Developing in newer range,
Just like that creature, man.

—W. M. BEATTIE.

If any of our readers that are afflicted with rheumatism have never tried West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment, we advise them to do so at once, and be convinced of its extraordinary merits. It is a never-failing remedy for cuts, sprains, bruises and all complaints requiring external treatment. Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by J. D. Tully.

An English paper states that shop-keepers in the town of Bacup, in Lancashire, England, can buy sugar in London, send it to New York via Liverpool, order it back to Bacup, again via Liverpool, at ten pence a ton less than they can get it carried for over the railroad from London to Bacup direct.

The Montreal city authorities intend taking legal measures immediately to rid the city of a large tallow and soap manufacturers and other kindred nuisances.

During last week 750,000 bushels of grain were shipped from Montreal to Great Britain, the heaviest week's shipment on record. The wharves are so insufficient to meet the demands of vessels that the harbour commissioners intend extending them to Hochelaga.

For the past quarter of a century West's Cough Syrup has given relief to thousands, and no medicine compound can show such a vast number of unsolicited testimonials. Ask your neighbor as to its merits. It is an unfailing cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, consumption in its early stages, whooping cough, and lung diseases. Price 25c. and 50c. per bottle. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Steps are to be taken immediately for the annexation of East and North Gravenhurst to the village of Gravenhurst and the incorporation of the united municipalities as the town of Gravenhurst. The new town has a population, according to a census just completed, of 2,410.

The gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for April were $35,542, leaving a net profit over expenses of $37,782, an increase of $33,229 compared with the profits for April, 1885. For the four months ending April, the total earnings were $235,238, and the net profits $289,085, an increase of $1,232 over the profits for the corresponding period last year.

West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment has proved to be one of the greatest blessings of the age. It is a never failing remedy for rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, headache, toothache, and all other pains. Call on J. D. Tully for a trial bottle and you will use no other.

McGregor and Parke's Carbolic Ointment is invaluable for all skin diseases, such as Boils, Burns, Scalds, and sores, as a healing and purifying dressing. Do not be imposed upon by other natural preparations, recommended to be as good. Use only McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Ointment. Sold by John McKee.

A Wonderful Remedy.

The value of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, Mr. M. Sargent, 41 August st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral about the year 1842, as a family medicine, for Coughs and Colds, &c. About three years ago I had a severe attack of Bronchitis, which resulted in a chronic cough. By the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral I have since cured myself. I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for many years, and have no hesitation in recommending it to my neighbors. Several members of my family have suffered severely from it, and have been cured by it in a few days. It is an admirable remedy for Coughs and Colds, &c. I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twenty years. For throat and lung diseases, I can recommend it as a wonderful remedy."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

It cures Cough in a few doses. It always relieves irritation of the lungs or throat, and arrests the tendency to inflammation. It strikes at the foundation of all Pulmonary diseases, is without a rival as an expectorant, and is a sure cure for the most obstinate Coughs and Colds. L. Garrett, Texana, Texas, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twenty years. For throat and lung diseases, I can recommend it as a wonderful remedy."

FRIDAY, JUNE 4, 1886.

A COWARDLY DODGE.

KAGER to place himself upon the same low level as Edgar, Cameron, Davies, &c., Mr. Somerville, Member for North Brant, at the end of the season, brought a charge against a fellow-member in a manner that could not be surpassed for meanness and cowardice. He deliberately planned to make his attack so late, that the charge might be hanging over Mr. Hector Cameron's head all the recess without investigation being possible, and thus leave to Mr. Somerville and journalists of his calibre an opportunity of assuming the truth of his charges and insinuations. He pretended that he had delayed his attack till he could get a particular witness, and then to show his cowardly mendacity had to admit that he had only waited till his informant was able to bolt the next day, and from a safe distance refuse to give evidence.

Of course under these circumstances any judgment as to this case should be suspended, but that was not the object of this dastard and his tribe, who will howl away as if their word were to be believed.

If Mr. Somerville has one atom of sincerity in the matter, there is one point in connection with these questions on which he might employ himself during the recess. If he thinks the present state of the law is wrong that allows Mr. Hector Cameron, Mr. Edward Blake, and other legal members to act as professional advisers in regard to railways aided by the Dominion, he might frame and introduce a measure to alter that law. He might find members on both sides of the House to support him. But he displays no purity, but simply political malignity, while he supports men of his own party for acting in accordance with the law, and at the same time calls his opponents corrupt for acting also on their legal rights.

ALL FAIR FOR THE REFORMERS.

In an article to prejudice Mr. Hector Cameron before the enquiry, the Globe says:—"It would be absurd to hold that Mr. Somerville, in a matter of grave public interest involving the independence of Parliament, should hesitate to read any letter offered to him."

This is the old plan of the Globe and its friends, to steal or get their accomplices to steal private documents if they can thereby hope to gain a party advantage. And it is evident that Mr. Somerville agrees with his political friends so far.

We would like to know if Mr. Somerville also agrees with the Globe and its friends in forging or procuring the forgery of documents if none genuine and sufficiently damaging can be formed. In the very issue in question the Globe quotes from one of its forgers. If Mr. Somerville sympathizes with the Globe and its friends to this extent also, we will know what reliance to place upon his testimony or his document. But perhaps though not an honorable man he may draw the line short of this point.

The Elizabethton leading journal on Saturday published another letter from its "own correspondent" on the Saskatchewan, still glorifying the rebels and vilifying the Canadian authorities. He says among other things:—"As a big reserve for worthless duties and most pliable placenten, the Canadian Northwest stands alone in this primary planet of ours. From Judge to bum-bailiff every official big and little has been smuggled into office by the craft of gobbling party." And honest able men, as are the great body of the Northwest officials, are to be thus culminated merely because they represent the authorities of Canada, and not the rebels against our country. Probably all the officials are not immaculate for what body of men is, but we will venture to say that the worst among them is superior to this hindling slanderer or his rebel employers.

Reform paper.—The Dominion Government assists Quebec railways but gives nothing to Ontario. It is always milking Ontario for the benefit of other Provinces, and the people of this Province should overthrow it. Conservative.—The Government has given bonuses to railways in many parts of Ontario this year. Reform paper.—Has it? Every honest man in Ontario should condemn this corrupt Government which would thus try to bribe the freemen of this Province. How could a Reform paper be satisfied by a Conservative Government?

It is now commonly considered that the old boast that "Britannia rules the Main" is a specimen of the figure of speech called hyperbole or in ordinary language exaggeration. But in this respect from a two boastful claim, the pendulum has hardly swung sufficiently far to warrant the contention that Maine rules Britannia or even Canada.

A weak leader, without a policy regarding public affairs, scandal hunting and slander loving lieutenant, a fondness for rebels, a hatred of loyal volunteers and Court Judges, and hungry for office—the Opposition is the House of Commons.

The "Wild West Show" is evidently not coming to Canada this season. Gabriel Dumont has become one of its members.

The Reform "policy" in Quebec Province appears to be Revenge for Brel and Anti-Vaccination.

Chasing American Seamen.—HALIFAX, N. S. June 4.—The cruiser Howitt, was chasing two American schooners along the coast between Port Hood and Judique, C. E. yesterday, but they escaped to sea.

FRANCES FOLSOM'S STORY.

The Pretty Tale Written by the Mistress of the White House.

A New York despatch says—Miss Folsom's story of "Little Moll," written for the amusement of the passengers on the Noordland, as stated in Saturday's despatch, greatly delighted all who heard it. Every effort to induce Captain Cadmon to part with a copy of the production has failed, but the following is the story in skeleton form:—One of the reporters on a big morning newspaper, a number of years ago, was a bright young fellow named Bartley—not Hardy Bartley—whose branch of work lay in the criminal courts. The work of the detectives, the ferretting out of crime, the arrest of criminals and their punishment, was told day after day by his ready pen. He grew familiar with the records of the men whose deeds are now a part of the criminal history of this city. Day after day he saw unrolled before him stories of crime as black and foul as any ever written. He retained through it all his purity of character and his frank, generous disposition.

Frequently at night, in his hurried journeys to and from the newspaper office, he had seen a poor little news girl flitting about. A little bundle of papers was always under her arm, and never seemed to grow less despite her plaintive pleadings to the passers by. In rain and snow as well as when the weather was clear and warm the little figure could be seen. The reporter, his brain teeming with the particulars of a horrid crime, was rushing into his office one bitterly cold night when he saw her, standing half frozen, near the door. Moved to pity, he stopped and spoke to her. With tears in her eyes she told him of a brutal father who drove her out to get money for him, either by begging, stealing or selling papers—he did not care which. The poor little creature said she couldn't beg or steal, and when nobody would buy her papers she was afraid to go home, for her father always beat her when she had no money for him.

The young reporter gave her all the money he could spare, and bade her whenever she failed to sell her papers to come to him and he would help her. Nearly every night thereafter he found her waiting for him. He became accustomed to seeing her, and whenever she failed to meet him he would chide her for what he called neglect. He frequently talked with her, and learned that she was known as Little Moll, and that she was about as ignorant a little creature as ever lived.

The young reporter's work had made enemies for him among the criminal classes. One night he found Little Moll in a great state of fear. Her father, she said, had threatened to kill him because he had ferreted out a robbery and had had two of her father's cronies sent to prison. The reporter laughed away her fears, but in order to comfort her promised to be very careful of himself.

One night, however, her father caught him, and would have killed him but for the little girl, who was rewarded with a frightful blow for her interference. The man was arrested. The little girl was alone in the world then, but the young reporter took charge of her. She was sent to school, and when years had moulded her into a handsome woman and brushed the cares and sorrows of her childhood from life, the old reporter married her. He had bought a farm with his savings, and they went to live on it.

THE SCOTT ACT.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—The Committee having in charge the enforcement of the Scott Act desire to make public the following facts in order to correct the many false impressions and rumors that are afloat in the town and county.

In the first place the Scott Act Association has deemed it to be its duty, having been largely instrumental in having the Act introduced in this county, to see that it is enforced. The work of stopping the liquor traffic would be less than half done if the Association now ceased its efforts. In this direction, however, there is no intention of interfering either with the town officials or license inspectors if they choose to enforce the law. On the contrary, the Association would be only too glad if both would aid in the work, or if either would rigidly enforce the Act. It is recognized, however, that all the agencies combined will be necessary to effectually cope with the liquor traffic in its violation of the law. But the Association desires to give all to understand that the law will be enforced.

The object of the Association is neither to persecute the liquor sellers nor to make money out of the fines; but now that the law is in force, and to remain in force for at least three years, to see that it shall be respected and that no one shall be allowed to defy it or break it with impunity. Not only is it intended that every dollar in that may be awarded to the prosecutor out of the fines imposed shall be used towards enforcing the Act, but the members of the Association have also formed an ample fund for the same purpose. The person whose name at any time may be used as private prosecutor will have no interest in the fines nor derive any personal advantage from them.

Mr. Rossiter, whose name was used as private prosecutor in the first batch of cases, had no more interest in the matter than any other member of the association, but as it was necessary that some person's name should appear on the papers to set the law in motion, Mr. Rossiter had the courage to say his name might be used for that purpose. At this time the Government Inspector for the West Riding had not received his commission, and a fourth requested to act was not in a position to do so. Since the first convictions were made the work has grown so much that it has been deemed necessary that there should be a local Inspector for the town, in addition to the Government Inspectors for the East and West Ridings, neither of whom reside in the town, and Mr. Rossiter has been engaged by the Association in that capacity. The information and evidence are for the most part obtained from other sources, and Mr. Rossiter occupies in connection with the Association not the position of an informer but that of an inspector, with duties similar to those of the Government Inspector.

The methods of the Association in procuring evidence are perfectly legitimate and fair; no person has been sent to any hotel to drink or to bring about the violation of the law. But nothing more clearly shows the growing feeling in favour of the Act than the fact that from all parts of the town and country information is voluntarily given to the committee of violations of the law.

Signed on behalf of the committee,
O. A. COX, W. M. YELLAND,
JAMES STENNIS, JAMES KENDRY,
J. W. FLAVELLE.

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent. it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small fru for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JUNE 4, 1886.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

That Midnight Attack.

Mr. E. Mannel wishes us to say that the statement that the attack on his house arose out of a trouble in the shoemakers' Union is not correct. He has not had any trouble with shoemakers, neither union or non-union men. Officers of the Union corroborate Mr. Mannel's statement.

A Reward Offered.

The Mayor has had posters issued announcing that the Town of Peterborough will give a reward of $100 for such information as will lead to the conviction of the person or persons who threw stones, fired shots and injured Mr. E. Mannel's house, on Murray street, during Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

The Fur Trade.

The fur trade of this district is still of importance; it has not dwindled down to what some seem to think it has. On Thursday Mr. W. Lech shipped seven thousand muskrat skins to Mr. Theo. Thorer, Leipzig, Germany. This consignment is valued at $1,200. In a few days Mr. Lech will ship a quantity of beaver and bear skins to Montreal. This consignment, also, is valued at $1,200.

Court of Revision.

A meeting of the Court of Revision was held on Thursday evening. There were present: Mr. W. H. Moore, Chairman, and Messrs. Menzies, Yelland, McClelland and Davidson. Seventeen appeals were considered, four of which were disposed of. Mr. L. F. Carpenter's assessment was confirmed; the Rev. G. H. Davis' appeal, on account of being a Minister of the Gospel, was allowed; the assessment of $300 personal property on Mr. J. M. Maason's account was struck off, but his other assessment was confirmed. Mr. J. Booth's assessment of personal property was confirmed. Several hotelkeepers have appealed their assessment. John Burnham, Elias Burnham, and the E. Chamberlain Estate, have appealed on the ground that their property should be assessed as farm property, instead of town property.

Seen and Heard.

A soft glove set-toe between two local aspirants in the manly art took place in a Hunter street back shop on Thursday evening. The defiance with which each dealt in their rights and lefts tickled the favored few immensely. It is said that a $5 gold piece gave extra courage.

Scene—Police Court. Time—five past ten. The Magistrate has just adjourned a case for want of the testimony of an important witness. The important witness appears. Magistrate—Now you see what inconvenience you have caused by your lagging. See that you are here on time tomorrow. Witness—I will if nothing happens. You see the time rolled on so quick this morning that I didn't know it was ten o'clock until it was too late. Magistrate—but you must not let the time roll by. Witness—I can't help it; it won't stop for me. Bystander—Canute and the waves again.

"Gathering of the Clan" in Belleville. At a special meeting of the Executive Committee of St. Andrew's Society held last evening, the President, Mr. John Erskine, read a letter he had received from Mr. Hugh McKinnon, President of St. Andrew's Society, of Belleville, inviting the members of the Peterborough society to participate in a grand gathering of the clans to be held in Belleville on Dominion Day, whereupon the following resolution was carried unanimously:

"Moved by D. McLeod, seconded by Mr. Quinn, That having been the letter of invitation from the President of the St. Andrew's Society, of Belleville, inviting this society to take part in the Scottish gathering to be held in that place on Dominion Day, this Society urges upon as many of our members to attend on that occasion as can make it convenient to represent this society; and we hereby tender our thanks for the courtesy of the Belleville invitation, and request that a copy of this motion be sent to Mr. McKinnon."

AT THE RIFLE RANGE.

The Association Members Meet in the First Monthly Match.

The first of the four monthly rifle matches, under the auspices of the County of Peterborough Rifle Association, was shot on Thursday afternoon. The attendance was not as large as it should have been. The day was clear, but a harassing wind, blowing in stiff gusts, prevented good scores. The ranges were 200, 500 and 600 yards, five rounds to each range. The principal scores made were as follows:—
 Major Bell 37
 W. Bell 37
 F. Hall 37
 W. A. Mason 34
 W. H. Hill 31
 D. Cameron 31
 R. H. Smith 31
 T. Rutherford 30
 Geo. Fitzgerald 30
 The precedence of scores on the tie is given to him making the highest score at the longest range. Thus Major Bell was the best shot of the day. The medal given by the Ontario Rifle Association is to be awarded to the riflemen making the highest score in any three out of four monthly matches.

SCOTT ACT.

Fines and Seizures—Two Hotelkeepers in Gaol.

All of the Scott Act fines have been paid except six. Instead of paying the fine under protest Messrs. Daly and Halpin have adopted the replevin plan; giving security to the Sheriff that the fine will be paid if it is lawful.

The three fines imposed against Mrs. E. Darcy, amounting in all, with costs, to $167.55, have not been paid. A seizure was made but it appeared the goods did not belong to her. Mrs. Darcy has not yet been arrested. The fine imposed against J. B. Dunn has not been collected, on account of there being a default of distress to cover the amount of the fine. The alternative was enforced and he was committed to goal on Thursday evening. The term is two months. This is the second hotel keeper that has been imprisoned, J. Kearns, of Burleigh, being the first.

The appeal cases are to be argued in Toronto to-day; Mr. Edwards for the prosecution and Messrs. Blackstock and O'Meara for the defence.

Mrs. Darcy's goods, our own make, at $2.00 each, if it is lawful for the money.

COBBOURG.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Saturday afternoon, Mr. Edward Thomas, of the woollen mills, met with an accident at the Grand Trunk station, which will prevent him from going his rounds for at least two weeks.

He was engaged with a number of others in removing the new carding machinery for the Woollen Company from the freight sheds. They had succeeded in placing six of the heavy frames upon the truck, and were securing them with ropes, when by some means they overbalanced and fell heavily on the platform. Mr. Thomas, who happened to be standing where they fell, made an effort to get out of the way. He did not succeed in time, and the whole of the weight (about 2,000 lbs.) rested upon one of his legs. Had it not been for a slight curve in the frame, it would have been our painful task to record an accident of a more serious character. Happily, no bones were broken, and we trust that we may soon see Mr. Thomas around again.

VERY SERIOUS.—On Friday of last week a distressing accident occurred at the machine factory, which may probably prove fatal. A number of the employees, having partaken of their dinner, resorted to the garret, where they erected a swing. One of them, boy named Harry Lynch, son of Mr. Michael Lynch, proceeded to take an oscillation, and while in the act was seized by a fit of dizziness, lost his hold and fell heavily to the floor, his descent striking his head on a large iron spike that projected from a grindstone, which cut an ugly gash two inches in depth, and laid bare the skull. Dr. Nicholl was immediately summoned, but the boy grew very weak from loss of blood before his arrival. After dressing the wound, the doctor ordered his patient to be removed to his home, where he now lies in a critical condition.

ALMOST TRAGIC.—On Friday evening, an accident bordering on the tragic took place in the west end of the town. Julius Niessa and Chas. Gillard, step-brothers, about 14 years of age, were in their bedroom preparing to go to sleep for the night. Niessa was flourishing a revolver and Gillard a horse-pistol, two weapons which had done loyal service on the green. A discussion arose about the respective value of the characters represented, and for the sake of argument the pistol was produced. Niessa, never thinking for a moment of what the fearful consequences might be, he pulled the trigger, and to his utter astonishment the terrible discharge of his pistol, a charge of powder and shot was fired right into the mouth of the latter, carrying away his upper front teeth and gum, and giving the patient knocking out two of his lower teeth, and filling his eyes and face with powder. The explosion of the powder was undoubtedly caused by the heat which the frequent use of the trigger had engendered. If the pistol had been loaded with ball instead of shot, Niessa would have been killed on the spot. As it was his escape is marvellous. The shot struck his teeth with such force that it was flattened. Dr. McNicholl is the medical attendant of the wounded lad, who is doing well considering his painful condition. It is not yet certain that all the shot has been extracted from his mouth. The affair is a warning to lads imbued with the piratical spirit of Jesse James.—World.

HASTINGS.

A CURIOSITY.—A curiosity in "hen fruit" was found by Mr. Fuller, near, of this village, last Friday night, and set of play the small hours of Saturday morning, less than three business houses having been raided. Mr. Wm. Kennedy is the greatest sufferer, not so much in the loss of cash, which was only some $50 but in damage to the safe, the door of which was blown off. A Mrs. Elliott resided over Mr. Kennedy's shop and heard the robbers but was too frightened to give the alarm. Mr. Neville's shop was visited but there being no safe on the premises nothing was taken. The grist mill also received a call, here the burglars found the safe unlocked from which the light-fingered gentry inferred that there was no money in it, and therefore did not institute a very close search as was evident from the fact that about $100 which was in the safe was left.—Star.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

THE FOURTH SESSION OF THE FIFTH PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

The Prorogation—Conclusion of Business—Fishery Bill Reserved—The Speech From the Throne.

WEDNESDAY, June 2.—Attention was called by members to several matters.

THE NORTHWEST CENTRAL.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Mitchell, said that the deposit for the Northwest Central Railway had been made in New York, but he would not say if it was satisfactory.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed the remaining items.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

Mr. BLAKE and other members speaking on the vote for the Franchise Act expenditure, complained bitterly because Reform printing offices had not been allowed to monopolize the printing of the voters' lists.

Mr. SOMERVILLE (Bant) grumbled at a suggestion, not carried out, that the Bant should not be allowed to print the voters' lists, though he showed at the same time that Mr. Nowat had ordered the sheriff to take all provincial printing to the Bant on pain of dismissal.

CONCURRENCE.

The House concurred in the Items reported from Committee of Supply.

THE C. P. R.

Mr. TASSER, after recess, eloquently described the magnitude and importance of the great work accomplished in the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

THE SESSION.

Mr. TROW gave his usual general review of the session, and several other members also made some remarks.

LEGISLATION.

The GOVERNOR GENERAL came down to the Senate and the Commons being summoned he gave the Royal Assent to the bills passed by Parliament.

RESERVED BILL.

The Governor General announced that the Act as to the Fishing by foreign vessels was reserved for Her Majesty's pleasure.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

His Excellency then delivered the following speech:—

Honourable Gentlemen of the Senate,—Honourable Gentlemen of the House of Commons,—

I desire to convey to you my best thanks for the earnestness and assiduity with which you have performed your important duties.

The legislation of the session has been of an eminently practical character, and cannot fail to aid in the promotion of the material progress of the country.

The grant of representation in the House of Commons to the North-West Territories will, if sanctioned by the Imperial Parliament (of which there is no reason to doubt), give the people of that vast region an interest and voice in the affairs of the Dominion, and enable them to lay the wants and requirements of their young country with authority before the great council of the nation.

You have at the same time conferred upon them the boon of an efficient judicial system, and a speedy and inexpensive mode of transfer of property in lands.

The measure for the establishment of a central experimental farm, with auxiliary stations for the provinces, will be greatly appreciated by our agricultural population.

I congratulate you heartily on the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and on the repayment in money and land of the advances made in its aid from the public treasury.

The future prosperity of this great enterprise, and the consequent advantage, to the best interests of the Dominion, I now consider as fully assured.

The appropriations in aid of the various railways will tend largely to increase the trade and develop the resources of the districts traversed by them, and I am especially pleased to know that by the provision made for the construction of a railway through Cape Breton the historical island will at last be brought into connection with the railway system of Canada.

Among the many useful measures you have passed may especially be noticed the amendments of the Franchise Act, rendering its working more simple and less expensive, the consolidation of the statutes, the arrangement for the organization of a better and more economical system of parliamentary and departmental printing, and the amendment of the Dominion Lands Act.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,—I thank you in Her Majesty's name for the supplies you have granted for the public service.

Honourable Gentlemen and Gentlemen,—In bidding you farewell until next year I rejoice to be able to congratulate you on the general prosperity of the country and the good promise of a plentiful harvest.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ACCIDENT TO A CRICKETER.—On Saturday, while the boys of Mr. Sheldrake's school were on their way to town to play a cricket match with the Peterborough juniors, their "bus" upset at Nassau and Master Noble was unfortunate enough to dislocate his arm at the elbow. A buggy that was passing at the time picked him up and drove him into Peterborough, where the limb was set. The remainder of the boys walked in, and though tired and bruised were able to win a hard fought game by two runs.

LOW WATER.—The water in the river has gone down very much during the last few days, and is now very low for the time of the year.

THE ARMY CASE.—Notice to stay proceedings against the members of the Battalion Army convicted a short time ago, has been served, and the appeal will be heard in Toronto.

Backache, stitches in the side, inflation and soreness of the bowels, are symptoms of a disordered state of the digestive and assimilative organs, which can be corrected by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. As dinner pills, and aids to digestion, they have no equal. They cure constipation.

LONDON, June 4.—The following note was left at the lodge of Knoll park, Seven Oaks, yesterday evening, addressed to the keeper of the lodge:—"Request Minister Rockville West to be well on his guard, as a villainous attempt is being made here to bring on a war between England and America. Nemesis! The note was turned over to the police and diligent search is being made for the man who delivered it."

THE SESSION.

Much important and valuable, if not showy, work was done by the session of Parliament just concluded. The measures were chiefly such as would perfect and complete plans for developing the progress and well being of the country, already flourishing under a wise policy and statesman-like administration.

One characteristic and satisfactory measure was that providing for Parliamentary representation of the Northwest Territories. Their advance under the Macdonald Government has been so great as to warrant their having a voice in the affairs of the country, and the readiness with which this boon has been granted contrasts favorably with the far less liberal policy of the United States. Other measures, dealing with the judiciary of the Northwest, the conveyance of land, &c., will facilitate their development.

The concluding arrangement with the C. P. R. is another measure not only satisfactory in itself, but for the progress it shows. That $30,000,000 of our loan should be returned to us so soon, when factions opponents alike of the C. P. R. and of Canada told us it had been thrown away for ever, shows how much more far-sighted were our leaders than their critics. That such generous assistance, combined with the energy and enterprise of the Company, should have given us a great national road linking together our Provinces, is a reason why Canadians should feel proud, as it has excited the admiration of the civilized world.

The establishment of experimental farms will be of great service, and will show to our great agricultural industry that its interests are not neglected. The prohibition of bogus butters is another safeguard for our farmers against fraudulent competition.

Our lumbermen and the working men will alike welcome the raising of the export duty on saw logs, thus keeping for Canadians the benefit of developing our own natural resources. Those who consider the general welfare of the country will also approve of this step to check improvident squandering of our forest wealth.

The measure as to fishing by foreign vessels, shows that our Government is fully determined to afford fair protection to our hardy fishermen, while carrying out this policy in no unneighborly spirit.

The establishment of a bureau of printing is a sensible adoption of a plan that has worked well both in Great Britain and in the United States and will no doubt be as successful in Canada.

The consolidation of our statutes is a very useful step, the importance of which is naturally hardly recognized by the general public.

The purity of our food, the facilitation of navigation, rewards for our brave forces, protection for person or property, and a variety of other matters of importance, have all received their share of the attention of our legislators.

It certainly has not been an unproductive session.

A word must be given to the defeat of the conspiracy to displace the Administration of the day for daring to allow judgment to be carried out in the case of a convicted criminal. There could be no doubt that it would be defeated. It is, however, a subject of gratulation to have it proved that an overwhelming majority of the members, Reformers as well as Conservatives, are too loyal to be led into countenancing murder and rebellion. The Rielites were not only defeated, but rendered powerless to harm their country.

THE DOMINION OPPOSITION.

In a constitution such as ours the Opposition has important functions to perform, even though it has not such responsibility nor such onerous duties as the administration. In ordinary legislation, and even in a lesser degree as regards administration, it should fairly criticize and even suggest amendments.

In more important questions and especially when it claims that popular opinion has really come to be in accord with it, the duty devolves upon it of laying before the country an alternative policy, not in detail but as to its main principles.

During the session just concluded the Opposition wholly failed in these duties. Instead of fair criticism their sole object seemed to be to attack the Government whatever it did or said. Its platform had only two planks, sympathy with rebellion and murder, abuse and slander of political opponents.

Mr. Blake said at London that he would not construct a party platform out of the Regina scaffold, or cement party ties with the blood of the condemned. At Ottawa, sitting shoulder to shoulder with his brother leader of the party, Laurier, the avowed rebel and perjured Privy Councillor, Mr. Blake found that he had to yield to the contagion and to eat his own words. He endeavored with his own hand to convert the murderous rebel's scaffold into a party platform, and to cement the party with the convict's blood. In one sense he was a true prophet, for he could not lure all his party unto such a vile platform, and the blood proved to have a disintegrating instead of a cementing effect. Though Mr. Blake and other leaders of the party ranked themselves with the rebels dead and alive, honest Reformers in the House refused to follow them into such ignominy, and their supporters in the country have left them by hundreds.

The other policy of Mr. Blake and his lieutenants was vulgar abuse and false charges against Conservative members. With the dirtiest allies, servants discharged for drunkenness, witnesses whose neighbors swear their oath is unworthy of belief, personal enemies running away as soon as the scandal was started, and other confederates of this calibre, they concocted their scurrilous inventions. They read lists from blue books and then falsified the headings to suit their dishonest purpose, representing rejected applications as equivalent to free gifts received, and the mere forwarding of a constituent's letter as an attempt by the member to get public property for himself. Reformers who could rob Indians, who could blackmail railways by parliamentary opposition in revenge for being refused free or cheap tickets, who could take up vast tracts of public lands in the names of bogus settlers, such men as these held up their hands in pretended horror at the idea of a Conservative member endorsing a Department of the regulation application of a Reform constituent. Time after time these calumniators were proved to have uttered unscrupulous falsehoods, but they unflinchingly continued to vomit forth their foul inventions, careless of exposure if they could provide matter for future platform use.

As to any policy, except rebellion and slander there was not a vestige. They jibed at the N. P., but no longer squarely attacked it. They talked of economy, but only in the same vague way as before their previous opportunity of showing their own extravagance. They criticised the management of Northwest affairs, but had no better alternative to offer, than the inefficient, costly and corrupt regime of Mr. Mills. Petty carping at whatever was proposed, and an absence of any policy of their own, such were their tactics.

The Opposition may make up their minds that slanderous abuse of others will not be sufficient to induce the people of Canada to entrust them with power.

CANADIAN FISHERIES.

WHILE our fisheries are under discussion it is well that we should be reminded that this important industry is by no means limited to the Maritime Provinces. The official returns give the value of the yield of fish last year in Canada as nearly $18,000,000. The value credited to Ontario is greater than Prince Edward Island, a third of New Brunswick's and a sixth of Nova Scotia's yield. Quebec is ahead of our Province in the value of its catch, and British Columbia not far behind. The Territories do not make a show at present, but at some future time the rich fisheries of our great inland sea, Hudson Bay, will become of importance. In concluding any permanent arrangements as to Canadian fisheries, it would be well to bear in mind that it is not a question almost exclusively affecting the "Bluenoses," as is apparently taken for granted very often. It is of general importance now and will be of still more wide-spread consequence in the future, so no policy should be countenanced that may impede future developments or be detrimental to our Dominion's fisheries.

REVIEWS.

ST. NICHOLAS.—J. T. Trowbridge's new serial, "The Kelp-Gatherers," is the leading feature of the June St. Nicholas. It is a story of boy-life on the Maine coast, with a strong flavor of adventure and a keen sense of boy-nature. "Little Lord Faudler" is continued in a much longer installment than last month's, and we are told how that young nobleman learned to ride, and many other interesting items about him. "How shall we spend the Summer?" is a question more often asked that satisfactorily answered at this season; but the two articles, entitled "The Boys' Paradise" and "A Boy's Camp," will throw a great deal of light on this perplexing subject, especially for those city boys who like to "rough it," but whose parents prefer them to do so "with all the comforts of the home," while those who prefer to pass their vacation in Europe can join Frank R. Stockton's "Personally Conducted" party and visit all the beauties and wonders of "Queen Paris." "Mother's Idea" holds an idea for girls as well; and "The Satchel" contains a grotesquely amusing mixture of fairy tale and science by Tudor Jenks, and five illustrations by J. E. Kelly. Boys are fond of base-ball and dogs, and are certain to be interested in reading about a remarkable canine that played as "The Left-field of the Lincoln Nine." The story of George Washington through the exciting events of 1776; Henry Eckford has more "Wonders of Alphabet" to relate; and there are sketches and poems by E. P. Roe, who contributes two dog stories, Helen Gray (nee, C. F. Holder, Mary A. Lathbury, Laura E. Richards, Edith M. Thomas, and others.

Mixed Up.

The mixing up of attorneys in the trial of the Adams before the Admiralty Court at Halifax will make a little drama in itself. In the first place, in accordance with the custom of the court, the American attorneys selected by Secretary Bayard will be excluded. In the case of the seizure of the American schooner J. W. Nickerson, some sixteen years ago, James McDonald and Wallace Graham were for the defence and Nicholas Meagher aided in the prosecution. In the present case, which is similar to the Nickerson seizure, McDonald is the Chief Justice, while Graham and Meagher exchanged positions. They will be able in the trial of the Adams to quote against each other the speeches made in the Nickerson trial. And as for James McDonald, who has since been elevated to the bench, Lawyer Meagher can ask his Honour to put into his decision the cream of his argument when defending the American boat 16 years ago. But his Honour, should he decline, may will defend himself by quoting from Meagher's argument at that time. It may prove a brisk little legal comedy of errors.—Springfield Republican.

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent. it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

THE SARDINIAN SAFE.

The Delayed Mail Steamer Passes St. John's, N.S.

MONTREAL, June 3.—The Star this evening says:—The anxiety naturally felt by the friends of passengers of the overland Allan Line Royal Mail Steamer Sardinian was allayed early this afternoon when a telegraph message was received at Messrs. Allen's office stating that the Sardinian had passed that port bound west at noon to-day, and signalled "All well."

The fog in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, which delayed the Sardinian and the other steamers which should have arrived at the beginning of the week, is reported by the vessel, which managed to work their passage through to have been one of the densest ever experienced. It is presumed that the Sardinian remained on the outskirts of the fog until it lifted, the captain following out the cautious course which is in practice in the Allan service. The fog began on the twenty-third of May, and the fog whistles at the Gulf station were sounding continuously for about 250 hours. Capt. Hundewadt of the Hansa line SS. Wandrabn, from Antwerp, which arrived in port to-day, reports that on May 26th, p.m., a dense fog was met with. On May 27th they passed through an ice field some lumps being pretty big, and they had to use much time in finding a way through without sustaining damage, on account of the fog remaining so heavy. Officers were employed measuring the water constantly. On the 28th, the ship sighted two small icebergs about 50 feet long and thirty feet high. Careful courses were kept and the lead going all May 31st, at 2 o'clock, when the fog parted for a short time and the horizon showed the light on the St. W. Point of Anticosti. Soon after it came on very foggy again and kept on for 10 hours more. The whole distance made in this impenetrable thickness was 900 miles.

The Dominion Line SS. Toronto, which left Liverpool upon the same day as the Sardinian, was reported inwards at Fox River yesterday afternoon, and reached Quebec to-day.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, and cures the colic, soothes the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE RIELITES' TACTICS.

THE slanderer engaged by the chief Rielite journal in Toronto to write up the rebel cause on the Saskatchewan in his latest effusion gives us an account of his method of obtaining material for his calumnies. He reports himself as putting the following question to William Bremner:—

"You are on the lands of the Prince Albert Colonization Company, Mr. Bremner, I believe?"

Of course this emissary of the Rielites believed nothing of the kind, for he must have known the contrary, but by this suggestion of falsehood he hoped to draw forth some reply that might be utilized for his base purpose. Part of the answer he received throws some light on the subject, for Mr. Bremner said:—

"Indeed, I hardly know whose lands I am on. One tells us we are on the lands of that company; another comes along and says we are not."

Now, it is very evident that no Conservative would tell such a falsehood to stir a settler up against the country and its Government. It must evidently have been a Reformer—one of the rebel section of the Reformers—who by false information incited him to resist the Canadian authorities by inspiring him with unfounded fears that his property would be confiscated. This is only an addition to the many previous instances of its being shown that the political opponents of the Government, and of the country so long as it entrusts the Conservatives with the direction of affairs, deliberately fomented and induced rebellion by the use of the basest means. These Reformers, of the Blake-Laurier section, went through the country telling the half-breeds and Indians that they had been robbed and defrauded, that they should repel the invasion of Canadians into their wide lands and resist the authorities. Thus it was hoped that disturbances would be excited that would "embarrass the Government," and by injuring the country render it impatient of Conservative rule. They were partially successful, but their friends and allies were suppressed and they stand discredited in the eyes of the people of Canada for their alliance with treason. And the loyal men of their party are leaving them in troops to avoid such contamination.

THE SLANDERERS AGAIN.

Among the most outrageous of the false accusers of the Dominion Government is the London Advertiser. In its issue of June 3rd, it has a column of calumnies headed "A Vandal Government." We will give a specimen of its method. It says, among other false charges:—

"Mr. Costigan has obtained grazing lands in the Northwest Territories to the extent of 33,000 acres."

This is an evident attempt to make its readers believe that the Hon. John Costigan, the Minister of Inland Revenue, is in possession of public lands obtained unfairly. The Advertiser well knows the truth to be that the Hon. John Costigan neither has nor ever had any grazing lands in the Northwest; that another Mr. Costigan, not the Minister, had, under regulations open to all, but has not now, a lease of grazing lands, with the result of having paid money into the public treasury without obtaining any benefit; that the only connection of the Hon. John Costigan with the business was to assist in cancelling the lease after these payments, because the condition of stocking the ranch was not carried out. This is only a sample of this column of false accusations. Amidst all these slanderous charges we notice that the Advertiser does not find space to mention one real case of abuse of his position by a dishonest Minister of some notoriety, the abstracting from a trust fund of money, the property of Indians, for the benefit of a corrupt political friend, by the Hon. D. Mills, formerly Minister of the Interior, this being done after the people had given him notice to quit, on the basis of his formally handing over his trust to one in whom the people had more confidence, and on the strength of a claim of such a doubtful nature, to say the least of it, that no business man, no jury, would have recognized it in a private case. No honest trustee would have abstracted trust funds under such circumstances.

A DASTARD'S ATTACK.

One of the most dastardly of the series of slanderous attacks brought by the Opposition against the Administration and its supporters was perpetrated by the unscrupulous Edgar. When he knew his base calumny could not be investigated by the House, he laid before it an accusation against the Hon. Thomas White of requiring a payment of $100,000 for renewing a land grant. He did this on the testimony of one Pew, who has been proved in court to be unworthy of belief on his oath, and of Pew's man Machonachie. This was evidently done for the purpose that has been effected, viz: that unscrupulous Opposition papers, like the Belleville Ontario, might assume the calumny to be true. Certainly Mr. Edgar disclaimed his personal belief in the slander he was deliberately circulating, but he well knew that the press in sympathy with him would ignore this as a mere cowardly evasion and would not publish it. Besides such a pretence was simply adding insult to injury, for a man of honor like Mr. Thomas White can only despise a pretended certificate of character from a common slanderer and self-confessed utterer of false statements in the House, of which he is not a member by virtue of the choice of the people, but as Mr. Blake's personal retainer, and to fill a vacancy corruptly purchased for him by Mr. Mowat.

DEFEATED BY WOMEN.

Tactics of the Wives of Chicago Strikers—Passage of an Engine Barred.

CHICAGO, June 4.—There was a report this morning at Cummings that the Rock Island road would move four cars loaded with the rails made by the new men at the Cummings rail works. As several of the strikers had been enjoined from interfering in any way with the working of the mills, the removal of these cars was prevented in a peculiar way. Ten o'clock was the hour when the engines were expected from South Chicago, and before that hour women and children to the number of 200, the wives and families of former employees, assembled with sticks in their hands around the terminus of the railroad tracks, and opposite the entrance of the rail works. Female spies were sent down the tracks towards South Chicago to apprise the party of the approach of the engines.

While they were keeping guard a contingent was detached to the residence of Tom Bethel, an old union man who was moving to Colehour for safety. Mrs. Bethel was alone superintending the household goods when she was startled by the beating of tin pans and the wildest yells and screams imaginable. Several windows were smashed by boulders and she was berated soundly by women and children until the police dispersed the party. They returned to the depot, and at the same time one of the pickets came running breathlessly along the track, waving her shawl and shouting, "To the cars! This was signalling the approach of the engines. Then there was a rush to where the loaded cars were standing. Mothers with infants in arms and dragging youngsters by the hand hurried along. The mothers grouped their little ones along the track some distance ahead of the first freight car, and placed them on the rails, the youngest towards the engine, the mother and grown-up daughters taking positions in the rear. The engine steamed up slowly, but seeing the living obstacle on the track, reversed and returned to South Chicago. Then the women dispersed. On their return they jeered and abused the representatives of the company at the gate, calling them offensive names, the presence of the police only preventing the infliction of violence by the infuriated women.

At 2 o'clock, when the engines appeared again, fully two thousand women and children were thronging the tracks and apparently as determined as before to hold them. Capt. Hunt, with sixty policemen, attempted to clear the track, but could do it only with great difficulty. The women, feeling sure they would not be clubbed, refused to move, or moved very slowly when told to do so, and closed up again on the tracks unless absolutely held back by the officers. The engines were unable to get by them without killing them. The greatest excitement prevailed, and all attempts made to move the cars proved futile.

PARNELL'S HOME.

A Vegetable-Laden Wagon the Means of its Disclosure.

A London, Eng., despatch says:—One of the most mysterious matters connected with the Home Rule movement to Englishmen has always been to know where Mr. Parnell lives. If anyone asked his address of an Irish member he was always directed to write either to the House of Commons or to the general office of the Irish Parliamentary party. Even members of the party who are known to be on terms of the greatest intimacy with Mr. Parnell have always declared that they had not the slightest idea where he lived beyond the fact that it was somewhere in the country, not far from London. Every few months, occasionally, critical notices, Ireland's Uncrowned King would disappear entirely for a week, nobody knowing what had become of him. A narrow escape from an accident which he had the other day has led to the discovery of his little retreat. On the South-eastern Railway, about ten miles from Charing Cross railway station, lies the small village of Eltham. In Kent, one approaches the small village by a pretty road, such as Kent is famous for, and passing through the village turns into a secluded street of semi-detached villas. A brougham meets him at Eltham, and carries him to Venerable Lodge, the home of Mrs. O'Shea's, the fifth of the row. This is Parnell's mysterious home. It is not his home exactly, but the home of his devoted followers and recent Parliamentary colleagues, the famous Capt. O'Shea, negotiator of the Kilmainham treaty and many other similar things. There Mr. Parnell is either as a guest or helper of Mrs. O'Shea, the Irish dictator seeks repose from the bitter struggles of the House of Commons and periodically hides himself away from the world. He generally leaves Charing Cross Station by a late train, after the sitting of the Commons is over. The accident mentioned above was caused by a large wagon laden with fruit and vegetables, going in the early morning to Covent Garden Market, coming into collision with the brougham, the latter being considerably damaged, but Mr. Parnell escaped without the slightest injury. He will owe that market wagon a grudge, however, as long as he lives for causing the betrayal of his well-kept secret. The villagers of Eltham, I may add, know little about Mr. Parnell's life, but speak of him with admiration and respect.

SEIZURE AT CHICAGO.

The Steamer Nepigon Labeled for Overlooking U.S. Marine Regulations.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 5.—The Canadian steam barge Nepigon arrived here to-day in a sinking condition and under circumstances possessing peculiar interest in view of the clashing between the American and Canadian maritime interests. Her crew were completely worn out by excessive labor at the pumps, and were almost ready to give up the fight to keep the vessel afloat. The Nepigon was loaded with stone at Verrill Island, Lake Superior. While proceeding towards the barge she was overtaken by a severe northerly gale, which shook her up so that she began to leak. By the time the boat reached the Straits she was making water at the rate of a foot an hour, and the steam and hand pumps had to be worked to their fullest capacity to keep her from sinking. Capt. Corlan, wishing to get to Chicago with all possible haste, did not stop at Mackinaw or Cheboygan, as the law requires, to report the entrance of the vessel into American waters. While this law has been regarded as altogether formal there is a severe penalty for its violation, the penalty is not less than the forfeiture of the vessel and cargo. The Captain has forwarded a statement of the facts to the Treasury Department at Washington. Until the Collector hears from Washington nothing will be done here, but the Nepigon will not be allowed to leave port. Capt. Corlan says that for three days and nights his entire crew were compelled to labor incessantly to save the vessel from going to the bottom.

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

MISCELLANEOUS.

It was estimated that the strike of the yard hands in Chicago entailed a loss of $10,000 on the laboring men of Muskegon, Michigan.

A. T. STONE recently shipped 110,000 maple trees from Manton, Mich., for resitting on his tree claim in Dakota.

GILMORE's big mill at Trenton commenced operations on May 3rd. The drive of logs down the Trent is expected here this month.

It is said that the Ontario Lumber Company are making preparations to rebuild Dollar's mill. The mill will be completed this fall.

The first drive of logs down the Moira has all arrived at the Bay of Quinte and booms of them are being taken to Trenton and Deseronto.

It is reported from Manistee that Milmo & Stokes, of Jeanerette, La., are trying to introduce cypress lumber and shingles in that market.

LATE hemlock and hardwood land purchases within a few miles of the mouth of the Menominee, in Wisconsin and Michigan, are said to amount to 12,000 to 15,000 acres.

The oldest and the largest tree in the world is a chestnut near the foot of Mount Etna, Italy. The circumference of the main trunk is 212 feet.

Do not force a boiler. If you do you are liable to hot water some fine day, and brickbats, not words, steam and pieces of the overburdened boiler will go with you.

The gang board or plank has an ancient history. It was the plank of the ship that passed from stem to stern across the seats of the rowers, and along which they passed, and upon which the mast was laid when it was unhipped.

A SIMPLE method, which is very closely correct, is as follows: The sum of the diameter of the roll and the eye in inches, multiplied by the number of turns made by the belt, and this product multiplied by the decimal .1308, will be the length of the belt in feet.

On May 29th, at Sandy Cove, Ont., a boy named Greaves, son of Wm. Greaves, was drowned near Thos. Greaves' saw mill. The men at the mill went to the rescue, but were too late, and while they were away the mill took fire and was burned, together with a large quantity of lumber and logs.

MESSES McArthur & Thompson's drive containing over 14,000 logs, says the Minden Echo, has passed this point and now hurries onward with rapid pace towards their destination. We understand these enterprising lumbermen will be on the market next season, buying all kinds of timber and railway ties.

QUININE, an important article of medicine, much used in fevers, ague, &c., is obtained from Peruvian bark, cinchona, or Jesuit's bark. It obtained its name cinchona from the Countess del Cinchon, wife of the Conde del Cinchon, Viceroy of Peru, who first sent the bark to Europe, and Jesuit's bark because it was introduced into Spain by the Jesuits, who had it sent to them by their brethren in Peru.

THE Port Arthur Lumbering Company, of Port Arthur, Ont., cut 750,000 feet of logs at its limit on Cloud river, the past winter, employing 30 men in the woods. The same company last season cut 3,000,000 feet on Pine river, but owing to low water the logs were hung up. An effort will be made to drive out these logs this spring. Hammond & McDougall, at Fort William, near by, last winter, got out 30,000 ties, 300 piles and 1,500 cords of wood, employing 60 men at Fort William and Fire Steel river.

A LOG CARRIER.

There is being built and nearing completion at the shipyard of Capt. James Davidson, of West Bay City, a vessel which is a novelty in more ways than one.

In the first place she is the first vessel ever constructed specially for the purpose for which she is intended,—transporting saw logs from the place where they are harvested or put into the water to the mill which is to convert them into lumber, and in this respect she is an experiment, although the projectors and owners have the utmost confidence in the enterprise.

In the next place she is a novelty as well as a wonder from the fact that she will be the largest vessel which has ever been put afloat on the great inland sea on this continent. Her capacity is 3,500 tons and she will carry 700,000 feet of saw logs, or 2,500,000 feet of manufactured lumber, sufficient to load an ordinary tow of vessels plying between the Saginaw river and the distributing centres; or in other words, she will carry as much lumber as six ordinary lumber barges. She is 175 feet long, 31 feet beam and 12 feet depth of hold. The reason for her comparative slight depth of hold is the fact that no logs are to be put below the deck for transportation, but they will be loaded entirely on deck. She has on board machinery, and all the appliances for loading the logs expeditiously; and hence can be loaded and unloaded in an incredible short space of time. She is a veritable floating monster or will be when she is launched next week. She has five centre gunwales, from bottom to deck, all edge-bolts, the same as a centre board boat, and diagonally braced on each side of gunwale and fore-locked on gunwale. The name of this laviathan of the lakes is to be the Wahnapetee, which is the name of the river in the Georgian Bay country from whence she is to transport logs to West Bay City and Tawa. Her cost is $65,000, and she belongs to Emery Bros., who own pine in the Georgian Bay country and projected the enterprise.

There is also being built at the same yard, and nearly completed, and which will be launched about the same, a large lake tug, to tow the above vessel. She is a beauty, and will cost $17,000. She is to be called the Temple Emory, after one of her owners.—Lumberman's Gazette.

Secretary Manning has tendered his resignation, but the President declines to accept it.

McGregor and Parke's Carbolic Cerate is invaluable for Wounds, Sores, Salt Rheum, Cuts, Burns, Scalds, and other skin diseases, and for dressing. Do not be imposed on with other useless preparations, recommended to be as good. Use only McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Sold by John McKee.

WORTH REMEMBERING.—There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagar's Yellow Oil. It cures Mrs. John Biddle, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain.

A USEFUL HINT.—It may be useful for the reader to know that the popular preparation known as Hagar's Yellow Oil has proved a sovereign remedy for deafness, many certified cures being on record. Hagar's Yellow Oil also cures aches, pains, and lameness, and may be used internally as well as outwardly.

Dr. O'Reilly has been asked by the Superintendent of the Kingston Lunatic Asylum to make an investigation into the drowning of Mr. R. M. Moore, in consequence of the reflections cast on the management by the verdict of the coroner's jury.

Never drug the stomach with nauseating and weakening expectorants and opiates; Hagar's Pectoral Balsam is pleasant and reliable in its effects, and safe in all throat and lung complaints that, if neglected, end in consumption.

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE.—Mrs. Cyrus Kilborne, Beamsville, Ont., had what was supposed to be a cancer on her nose. She was about to submit to a cancer doctor's treatment, when she concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, internally and externally, a few bottles of which entirely cured her.

Mr. Alfred E. Finnemore, an extensive produce commission merchant of London, Ont., left that city hurriedly on Thursday and is reported to have located himself across the border. THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Men's sewed Oxford Shoes. our own make, at $2. The best shoe in Peterborough for the money. J. CARRY.

Town Buildings. The town buildings are being neatly tucked pointed, which, when completed, will considerably improve the appearance of the civic capital.

Mineral Waters. Mineral waters at Carleton Place, Ontario, are being sold at John McKeen's. Wonderful cures for purifying and invigorating.

Mr. H. W. Kent, Manager of the Peterborough telephone exchange goes to Millbrook to-morrow to open an exchange with that village. There are a number of orders to commence with.

Runners Postponed. The running race between "Goody-bird" and "Maggie Roach" which was to have taken place this afternoon in the Driving Park, has been postponed until Wednesday afternoon at the same time and place.

Choice Family Groceries. If you wish to get good value for your money leave your orders with Morrow, Tierney & Co. Special inducements in Tea, Coffee, Sugars and general Groceries.

To the Gentlemen. We have just received and opened an elegant stock of Boys' and Men's Straw Hats, in the latest styles and shapes, the whole of which was bought very low for cash, and will be sold accordingly. See our fine Mackinaw. B. FAIR.

Enjoying Himself. The Napanee Express of Friday says:—"The steamer yacht 'Dot' has been plying to and fro in the river and bay this week. It is owned by Mr. John Miller, of Peterborough, who is enjoying himself in regal style." Mr. Miller is simply doing what he yachts to do.

Cricket. A practice cricket match was played on the P. A. A. grounds on Saturday afternoon, between six benedictes and about a dozen bachelors. The contest appeared to be a very stubborn one, inasmuch as the play was kept up through a heavy rain storm. The match ended in a win for the bachelors.

Personal. On Monday afternoon Mr. Long, Mayor of Whitby, and thirty or forty prominent citizens of that town, met in the Council Chamber, and presented Mr. J. M. Kennedy, late editor of the Whitby Chronicle, with a flattering address, and a beautiful silver ice pitcher and goblet. Several complimentary speeches were also indulged in.

Baseball. The Peterborough Baseball Club have several challenges to consider. The Ottawa was the Peterboroughs to go to the capital on Dominion Day. They say that they have defeated all the eastern clubs, such as Kingston, Brockville, etc., and are obliged to come west to get a team that will give them a decent game. (Of course the Toronto are left out.) If the Peterboroughs cannot come on July 1st they will be welcome any time during July or August. The Uxbridge say they have been here three times now without a return match having been played. The Cobourg and Port Hope Clubs also want to arrange matches. A meeting will be held in the back parlor of the City Cigar Store this evening to consider these and other matters.

Facilities at Kingston. Kingston, June 5.—Yesterday the E. & P. R. R. train killed Mrs. Leduc near Renfrew. She was 70 years of age, and so deaf that she could not hear the train. Joseph Morton, aged 80 years, an old hunter, dropped dead on the road to the city this morning.

SCOTT ACT.

Another Charge Laid by H. Rositter—Judgment Reserved.

HENRY ROSITTER charged Henry Calcutt with having on May 24th sold intoxicating liquors in quantities less than eight gallons, contrary to the second part of the Canada Temperance Act. The information was laid as a second offence.

The defendant pleaded not guilty.

Mr. E. B. EDWARDS appeared for the prosecution and Mr. John Burnham for the defence.

H. MARSHALL, sworn, said: On May 24th I was on the Golden Eye. I went down the river. There was a bar on board the boat. I got beer to drink. It was paid for. It was ordinary malt beer.

To Mr. BURNHAM—I didn't get anything to drink till the boat was a couple of miles below the locks.

Mr. BURNHAM said that as far as the offence was concerned it had been proved. The question was, was Mr. Calcutt responsible. On May 24th an excursion was run down the river by another party who had the boat chartered for the day for a certain sum of money. He held that Mr. Calcutt was not responsible but that the person who had the boat chartered for the day was to be held accountable.

WM. MARKS, sworn, said: I was on board the Golden Eye on May 24th. I drank beer on board the boat. I drank several times, but I was not intoxicated.

Mr. J. BOWEN, sworn, said: I was down the river on May 24th on board the Golden Eye. I got nothing to drink on board the boat which was at all intoxicating. There was a large number of people on board.

WM. PAYNE, sworn, said: I was on board the boat on May 24th. I work on the boat on excursion days. I helped at the bar on May 24th. Beer was sold. I don't know how much beer there was on board or how much was sold. I did not put the beer on board. I don't know where it came from. I don't know who Mr. Rogers is. He was on the boat.

To Mr. BURNHAM—The bar is the same as it always was. I am paid by Mr. Calcutt. I am paid by the week. The captain of the boat told me that Mr. Rogers had chartered the boat for the day. I did not receive any instructions from Mr. Calcutt, but acted under the Captain's orders. Beer was sold by a few miles below the locks, between Ottonabee and North Monaghan, in this county.

H. THOMPSON, sworn, said: I was on the boat on the 24th. There was a large crowd on board. There was lots of fun. Some people seemed to be intoxicated. I drank something that tasted like beer. I cannot say who served me. I did not drink going down, but did coming up. I asked for a drink at the bar and got beer.

To Mr. BURNHAM—I saw people on board with baskets. I was served either by Chas. Calcutt or Payne. The beer was not as strong as some I have tasted, and did not make me drunk. I saw Rogers. He took the tickets and sold them. Rogers ordered the people about. I bought my ticket from Rogers.

A. CHARMAN, sworn, said: I was on the boat on the 24th of May last. I drank ginger ale and beer. The latter was poured out of a pitcher and paid for. I drank going down the river. Payne served me. Young Calcutt was also behind the bar, I think. A number of persons drank with me. I am going on 19 years of age.

THOS. WAND, sworn, said: I was on the boat on the 24th, and drank ginger ale and ordinary ale. I do not know who made the ale. He drank both going down and coming up. He paid for the drinks.

To Mr. BURNHAM—I bought my ticket from the man who chartered the boat. The man had charge and told the people on different occasions. I did not see any intoxicated persons on board. I do not know who Rogers is, but heard him ask persons to drink. I did not see him pay for any drinks.

WM. WEATHERHEAD, sworn—I drank beer on the Golden Eye on the 24th of May. I drank about three or four miles below the locks. I do not know who served at the bar. A number of persons were drinking.

THE DEFENCE.

ROBT. W. CARSON, sworn: I am captain of the Golden Eye. It is owned by Mr. Calcutt and I am employed by him. There was an excursion on the 24th of May last. The excursion is an annual affair. Mr. Calcutt gave notice of the excursion. I advised Mr. Calcutt to charter the boat for $75, that figure having been offered. The boat was chartered to a Mr. Rogers. I saw the agreement signed. It was signed on the 22nd of May. When the boat is chartered we obey the orders of the man who chartered the boat. The owner always supplies the hands, fuel, etc. I helped Mr. Rogers to sell tickets and started when he instructed me. The conduct of the excursion was in Mr. Rogers' hands. I simply navigated the boat. There is a bar on board. Rogers took the tickets at Idylwild. I kept the money. I took and handed it over to Mr. Calcutt and Rogers on the morning of the 25th. The larger the crowd the more men are required to run the boat. I had nothing to do with selling liquor. I never interfere with the bar. When a man chartered the boat he can run the bar or shut it up as he sees fit.

To Mr. EDWARDS—The charter was spoken of some days before the agreement was signed. I do not know who Rogers is or where he is now. I have not seen him since the 25th. I do not know anything about the bar. Mr. Calcutt did not speak to me about not being able to run the bar himself. I do not know that the boat was ever chartered before on the 24th of May, but it was on the 1st of July, one year. A difference is made to societies. They get it cheaper, for instance Sunday schools. If ordered the bar was closed, and if not it was kept open. The boat has not been licensed to sell liquor since the first of May, 1886. I suppose that I paid the money I took in to Mr. Rogers. I offered him the money in the night of the 24th, but he told me to hand it in the next morning at Mr. Calcutt's office. I took in more than $25, but cannot say that it was $50. I did not notice who took the money I paid in. I cannot say what the gross receipts of the day were. I don't know who put the beer on board, nor can I swear that it was Calcutt's make. I don't know when it was put on board. I won't swear when it was put on. I never interfere with the bar business.

HENRY CALCUTT was called by Mr. Edwards and sworn. He said:—I own the Golden Eye. I advertised an excursion on her to Idylwild on May 24th. I had leased the steamer on public holidays for from $20 to $75; when the bills were got out for this excursion, I intended to run it myself; Mr. Rogers spoke to me about five days before the 24th about leasing the boat; Mr. Rogers has not been in my employ since May 24th, or before it. I made the bargain on the Saturday night before the 24th; did not say anything about the Scott Act when talking with Rogers about leasing the steamer; spirituous liquors have not been sold on the steamer for several years; after the bargain was signed Rogers said he intended to sell liquor; told him if he would not I would make him a present of some beer; he agreed to that; gave him four half barrels; he did not say he would sell beer; suppose I knew he would sell it; Payne and Charlie Calcutt were employees of mine; Rogers paid me $75 for the boat and paid me for cigars, pop and ginger furnished.

CROSS-EXAMINED.—I run the boat in connection with my place at Idylwild; the boat was chartered in the usual way; the captain runs the boat as the charter requires, otherwise the person chartering it has control; the bar is a place where we formerly sold liquor, when we had a license, and now sell cigars, &c.; last 24th was an extra good day.

RE-EXAMINED.—I got no deposit from Rogers as a guarantee that I would get my pay; Mr. G. W. HAD recommended him to me and we belonged to the same lodge and I accepted that.

CROSS-EXAMINED.—I never got a deposit when I chartered the boat.

Mr. BURNHAM submitted that Mr. Calcutt was not responsible for the sale of liquor on the boat, as the boat was under the control of Mr. Rogers, who had chartered the boat and crew. Mr. Rogers was in the same position as the tenant of a house, and it had not been shown that Mr. Calcutt had profited by the sales of liquor.

Mr. EDWARDS argued that Mr. Calcutt, as owner of the boat, was responsible under the wide language of the 9th sec. of the Canada Temperance Act, and that, as he would not have given Rogers the beer if he had not chartered the boat, he indirectly received a consideration for the beer.

The MAGISTRATE said it was a painful case for him to try, on account of the public spirit and generosity of Mr. Calcutt. If he could say that there was a reasonable doubt that the law had not been violated he would gladly dismiss the case, but the impression left on his mind by the evidence was that there was a contract, and he must consider the speculation made after the charter was signed as part of the contract. He could not separate the beer from the contract. Mr. Calcutt's men handled the money taken in at the bar. He considered that all the matters were one transaction, and that Mr. Calcutt was paid for the beer. He therefore found him guilty.

Mr. BURNHAM suggested that if this case was, as Mr. Edwards said, a test case, there was no necessity for laying it as a second charge.

The case was adjourned until Thursday to give time to consider whether the case would be pressed as a second offence.

A Stage Robbery in B.C. VICTORIA, B.C., June 6.—The British Columbia Express stage was "held up" by highwaymen on the Cariboo road. The treasure box was stolen, but the robbers overhauled a $10,000 package. The amount stolen is unknown.

Apaches Driven to Bay.

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., June 6.—A courier from the Maragon Mountains, fifteen miles north, brings news that the soldiers have driven fifteen Indians into the natural fortification known as Lone Creek stronghold. A company of troops are behind the fortifications, and two other companies are trying to head them off. A fight is expected.

Is a well known fact that the "Cable" and "El Padre" brands of cigars are the oldest, most reliable and best value in the market. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of close on to one thousand operatives. Smokers will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above mentioned brands, and not allow greedily and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at John McNeill's Drug Store. Trial bottle, given free."

PRESENTATION.

How Auburn Woollen Mills Employees May Farewell to One of their Number.

Mr. Emmett Kendry, who has held the position of boss weaver in the Auburn Woollen Mills for some time, departed this morning for Chatham, to take a somewhat similar position in a factory there. On Friday evening the weavers and other employees, who were desirous that he should not go without receiving a token of their esteem for him and good wishes on his behalf, surprised him by presenting him with a large family Bible and a splendid silver butter cooler. The Bible was a magnificent copy of the scriptures, splendidly bound and profusely illustrated, and containing Cruden's complete concordance, apocrypha, psalms in metre, &c. The butter cooler was also a fine article, and would, indeed, of itself have been a present to be proud of. On a blank page of the Bible the following was written:—"Presented to E. Kendry by weavers and other employees of the Auburn Woollen Mills, Peterborough." The gifts were accompanied by the following address:—

AUBURN MILL, Peterborough, Ont., June 2nd, 1886.

To Emmett Kendry, Esq.:

Sir,—We the undersigned weavers and other employees of the Auburn Woollen Mills, beg to express our regret at your leaving us, and beg your acceptance of the accompanying Bible and butter cooler, as a small token of our esteem, respect and good will.

We cordially wish you every success in your new sphere of labor, and with our very best wishes for the health, happiness and prosperity of yourself, Mrs. Kendry and family, we beg to subscribe ourselves,

IN POWER AND OUT OF POWER.

WITH its customary disregard of facts, the London Advertiser says that Sir John Macdonald "has laid violent hands upon the authority reserved within the exclusive control of the Local Legislatures." The truth is that in only one respect, that of the liquor trade, has Sir John Macdonald been held to have been wrong in his interpretation of the British North America Act regarding the division of jurisdiction. And what a doubtful and knotty point that is, may be judged from the fact that he was supported in his view by the Mackenzie Administration, by leading Reform lawyers, and by previous divisions of the Privy Council. Our own town and county are at this very moment under the rule of a liquor law passed by the Reform Administration.

Mr. Blake has been one of the foremost in making this dishonest charge, and in bounding on the disreputable portion of the press supporting him. It is especially dishonest of him to do so, because he only does it out of petty jealousy of the greater confidence reposed by the people of Canada in his political rivals, thereby placed in power. When Mr. Blake was in office he held, or at least expressed diametrically opposite views. Then he claimed that the Dominion jurisdiction while he was a Dominion Minister.

In 1876 when Mr. Blake was Minister of Justice he reported as follows:—"There is, however, a growing tendency toward the invasion of the criminal law by Local Legislatures which is obviously objectionable, and he (Mr. Blake) suggests that the attention of the Lieutenant-Governor should be called to the fact now under consideration, with the request that he would move the Government to recommend to the Legislature a measure repealing such sections as trench upon the criminal law."

This was not an isolated case. He reported in these identical terms as to more than one Province. There was hardly a session, if one of a Local Legislature that was not followed by complaints from Mr. Blake of unconstitutional invasions of jurisdiction of the Dominion as to criminal law. In hundreds of cases he reported that there were infringements of our constitution in this and other respects, and took steps to prevent them. Not a Province escaped his strictures, and Mr. Mowat came in for a full share of his charges of unconstitutional attempts to violate the organic law of Canada. According to Mr. Blake this was done in almost every possible way. The following is a list of some of the points as to which he reported that infringements had been made by the Provincial Legislatures:

Criminal Law.
Trade and Commerce.
Insolvency.
Navigation.
Judicial Appointments.
Dominion Railways.
Powers of Lieutenant Governors.
Interprovincial Railways.
Parliamentary Elections.
Interest and Usury.
Dominion Lands.
Fiscal policy of Canada.
Insurance throughout Dominion.
Indian Affairs.
Charters for Canadian Companies.
Banking.

This is not an exhaustive list, but it is sufficient to show how multifarious were the points at which Mr. Blake accused the Provincial authorities of invading Dominion jurisdiction, and at which he checked and repelled them without scruple, and on hundreds of occasions.

Now we are far from assuming that Mr. Blake was right in all these contentions. In fact when he was in power he seemed as anxious to stretch the Dominion jurisdiction as he is to curtail it now that the people of Canada refuse to trust him with power, and on some occasions at least he seems to have done so unfairly over the Province, merely to satisfy his own egotistical love of rule. What we maintain is that Mr. Blake's tactics, in accusing and inspiring his supporters to accuse the Macdonald Administration of invading Provincial rights, are untruthful, dishonest and paltry, as is proved by the fact that when he was in power he held it to be the Province who were the invaders, and that he was absolutely tyrannical in his claim and enforcement of assumed rights of the central government.

ANOTHER phase of the Home Rule question is brought forward in the demand of the Highland Reform League for a separate legislature for Scotland. A not improbable solution of the difficulty is the establishment of provincial legislatures for the management of local affairs, with a central parliament at Westminster having jurisdiction over matters affecting the three Kingdoms and the principality as a whole, while relieved of the overpowering and growing burden of the numberless details of local requirements.

THE United States policy seems to be to keep its own fish for itself and to poach at the same time upon its neighbour's fisheries. A fishing vessel from the Spanish West Indies has been confiscated and sold for fishing within three miles of the coast of Florida, at the very time that the fishermen of Maine and Massachusetts are claiming a right to fish in our waters. Even Mr. Gladstone and Lord Granville may be able to see the absurdity of such pretensions and the impossibility of yielding to them.

Exhibition Car Returned.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 7. Messrs. Bedford and Bailey, who had charge of a Canadian Pacific Railway Exhibition car in Ontario, returned on Sunday.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

AWFUL THINGS IN SNIFF'S SYSTEM.

There are now five or six comets knocking around within the limits of our system. And on Wednesday evening of last week another one was discovered in Cassiopeia. It was detected by astronomer Brooks. It is a large, faint, nebulous object, having neither nucleus or a tail. Its just about as useless as a footless stocking without a leg to it. We are getting tired of this comet business.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

HE TAKES THE BACK SEAT.

Mr. D. Mills has lost a fine opportunity. The session has now closed, and yet he has failed to produce that telegram from Sir A. Caron, which the Free Press has not hesitated to denounce as "bogus." When an ex-Minister undertakes to formulate a charge such as that which Mr. Mills essayed to do, he must either substantiate it or take a back seat—away back.—London Free Press.

A FRIENDLY WARNING.

Maine fishermen will get themselves thoroughly disliked unless they moderate their claims. They not only want to fish in Canadian waters, but to buy bait in Canadian ports with which to fish just outside of the line, but they have had a bill passed through the House which, under the guise of protecting the mackerel fisheries, reserves those fish to be caught off New England coast. By the establishment of an ingeniously devised close season, New Jersey and New York fishermen are to be prohibited from taking mackerel, except in certain small ways, as they pass up the coast, and allow them to fall into the nets of the New England fishers. It is a smart scheme, but it is doubtful whether it will get through the other stages of legislation required for its enactment.—Philadelphia Ledger.

MOTOR AND POLICY.

Canada also has her Keely motor, which is always about to moto, but never quite succeeds. Our Keely is Mr. Blake. That amiable and eloquent inducer of vibratory impulses and idyllic ethical titanic force is always about to propound a policy which shall put the Reformers in power, give every Reformer a fat office, and make all Canadian happy, prosperous and virtuous. But, like the Keely motor, Mr. Blake's policy always fails to materialize at the critical moment, and he is always forced to ask another suspension of judgment and another assessment. His followers are always asked to continue their faith in Mr. Blake, who, notwithstanding his repeated failures, is the most virtuous, wise, eloquent and witty statesman the world ever saw or ever will see. We are always touched by the large faith which some men continue to have in Mr. Keely and Mr. Blake. For ourselves we are unable to believe that the one ever had the conception of a real motor of the other of a real policy; but it is pleasant to know that there is faith in the world—that there are innocent and trusting souls undismayed and undiscouraged by the want of faith all around them, who continue to believe that Mr. Keely will yet produce a motor which will move and that Mr. Blake will yet reveal to his followers a policy.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE RELIABLE LEADER.

One Liberal member, the foremost, the leader, convinced himself and endeavored to convince his followers that there was nothing wrong in hacking at the root of the Liberal cause for the purpose of ascending to power. His legal mind, accustomed to marshal its powers upon either side of a question at will, enabled him to fortify himself upon the anti-Government side of the Liberal question. Upon this question, not upon ordinary political lines, or questions of party purity, will any change of Government come in the near future. The Liberals depend upon the vote of Quebec province to put them in power, and the Liberals of Quebec province have formed a battle array upon the scaffold of Regina. If the Liberals go into power at Ottawa over the next general elections, their victory will be vaunted in Ontario as the triumph of political purity, with which we shall not quarrel, but in Quebec as the avenging of Reg, and the destiny of this country will be placed in the hands of Edward Blake, whose speech in condemnation of the Government for the death of the old form of the advance guard of the campaign literature which the Liberal party is disseminating in Quebec. Montreal Star (Indep.)

CARDINAL TASCHEREAU.

Official Telegram Received by His Eminence from Rome.

QUEBEC, June 7.—His Eminence Cardinal Taschereau received an official telegram at 10 a.m. to-day from Rome, notifying him that he had been proclaimed as such this morning at the consistory just opened in that city. The official documents will arrive about the end of the month by the hand of a Papal delegate. Immediately on the receipt of the news the Cardinal and other flags were hoisted from the Archbishop's palace. Loyal residents followed the example. To-night the palace will be illuminated and the same program will be repeated for the two following nights. The general illumination of private residences throughout the city, and other ceremonies attending the fête will take place until the arrival of the delegate who is to conduct the enthronement and installation of the new Cardinal. The parliamentary resolutions of congratulation to the new Cardinal have been drafted and signed. As the House will be prorogued before the official documents can arrive, it is probable that they will be moved this afternoon, with the leader of the Opposition as speaker, and the leader of the Opposition as second. In this case the Legislature will doubtless wait upon His Eminence with the resolutions to-morrow. His Honor, Lieut. Governor Mason has arranged to call upon Mr. Taschereau with his personal congratulations at ten a.m. to-morrow.

Bad Fire at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 7.—At 8.50 o'clock, a fire broke out in the new Grand Theatre, which was destroyed. The building occupied by the Kentucky school of medicine, a restaurant on Green street, in rear of Denzio's fruit store, and a barber-shop on Jefferson street, were burned out. Serious damage was done to other stores on both Green and Jefferson streets. The theatre was one of the finest in the West or South. The block was valued at $100,000, and is a complete loss. At 4 o'clock the flames broke out with renewed vigor in the medical college building. The roofs have all been burned, the structures have fallen in and the block is threatened with destruction.

Disturbance by Socialists.

NEW YORK, June 7.—A party of Bohemian Socialists were last night, at Newton, Long Island, very noisy and boisterous. After drinking they attacked ex-Abernethy Murray of Long Island City, without provocation, and beat him until insensible. Railway employees intervened, and a dozen or more Socialists were cut. Four of the principals were arrested.

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Cough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $300 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small fry for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

Victims of A Mock Marriage.

OTTAWA, June 5.—Dr. Lovell, who in today's Canada Gazette gives notice of an application to be separated from his wife, is the victim of a mock marriage ceremony. Popular rumor has spread it about that he was to marry Miss Ada Mary Caton of Newburgh. They have been friends from childhood, but no thought of marriage had ever entered in their minds. The young couple chanced to meet in September, 1882, in a friend's house in Hamilton and went through the marriage ceremony as a joke. The ceremony was performed by a young clergyman, and sometime later it was discovered that the ceremony was really binding. Miss Caton got married to another man before the mistake was discovered, and application for a separation is made to endeavor to right matters.

A Strike Abruptly Terminated.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The presidents of a number of the street railroads which were tied up in this city and suburbs yesterday visited the headquarters of the Empire Protective Association last night and induced the Executive Board to withdraw the order tying up the surface roads. To-day all the roads resumed business. Much dissatisfaction exists among the men, and loud threats were made against the Board. A special meeting of District Assembly 75 K of L will be held to-morrow to depose the present Executive Board and elect successors. The Third Avenue strikers threaten violence, and claim they have been sold out by the Board.

A Lady's Secret.

"I'd give a good deal if I had such a pure, healthy skin as you have," said a lady to a friend. "Just look at mine, all spots and blotches, and rough as a grater. Tell me the secret of your success in always looking so well." "There is no secret about it," was the reply. "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cleansed my blood, and when that was done my skin, which was worse than yours, began to look smooth and healthy, as you see it now."

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Wool Market.

Messrs. W. D. Mathews & Co., Toronto, have opened out a wool market under the Parlor Roller Rink. Mr. James Stevenson is the agent and Mr. J. Hurley has charge of the place.

Band Uniform.

The new uniforms for the Fire Brigade Band are to be built by Mr. D. Cameron, merchant tailor. The color of the uniforms will be dark blue, the trimmings to be of gold. The mode of head dress is not yet decided on, but it will probably be of low peaked caps.

Its Political Opinions are all Right.
 The Ottawa Free Press says: "The Peterborough Review comes to hand in a new spring dress. Our contemporary's typographical appearance is always neat and its taste in news selections sound. We wish we could say as much for its political opinions."

A Model Newspaper.

The Belleville Intelligencer says: "The Peterborough Review, always a model newspaper typographically, now presents a finer appearance than ever, owing to its donning of a new dress of type. The Review is one of the best conducted journals in Canada, and this evidence of its prosperity is welcome."

The Methodist Church.

At the Bay of Quinte Conference the Rev. L. Tovey and the Rev. W. Joliffe were among the clerical delegates elected to attend the meeting of the General Conference, and the Rev. F. H. Wallace was appointed an alternate. Mr. Geo. A. Cox, Peterborough, and Dr. Ford, Norwood, were among the lay delegates elected.

To Move.

Mr. Riddell, the Superintendent of the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk railway, in consequence of extended duties, will shortly move his headquarters from Peterborough to Belleville. His staff consists of two private secretaries and six dispatchers. A boarding house near the Grand Trunk station, Belleville, is being suitably fitted up as an office for the Superintendent and staff.

Baseball.

A meeting of the Peterborough Baseball Club was held in the back parlor of the City Cigar depot on Monday evening. The challenges from the clubs of Uxbridge, Cobourg, Port Hope, Ottawa, and of the Metropolitans, of Toronto, were considered. After discussion it was decided that the nine commence practice, the grounds being now ready, and that the first challenge accepted be that of the Port Hoppers. The nine commence practice in the Riverside Park this evening.

Wants Information.

Mr. Jeffrey H. Burland, of Montreal, writes to Mayor Stevenson stating that some time ago he noticed an advertisement in a Montreal newspaper offering inducements to any manufacturer locating in Peterborough. If this offer still holds good, he says, he will be obliged for information as to Peterborough in regard to population, means of communication with the outside world, possible lease of water power, factories now in operation and prospect of obtaining labor, be forwarded to him. The Mayor will at once reply.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Monday afternoon. The meeting opened with the usual devotional exercises. Mrs. Fife occupied the chair. It was decided that the essays which were to be received in June be left over till September. Communications were received from Brantford and Ottawa, the latter urging the organizing of a Young Women's Christian Temperance Union. It was decided that $7 of the funds be devoted to benevolence. Those who are willing to send flowers to the hospital this week will kindly leave them at Miss Sanderson's store not later than Wednesday.

HIS HONOR'S ELEVATION

JUDGE WELLER ADDRESSED BY THE LOCAL LAW

Association, on His formal Investiture into Office—A Pledging Reply—The Court Business.

The spring session of the County Court was opened at 10 o'clock this afternoon, His Honor, Judge Weller, occupying the bench as County Judge, for the first time.

At one o'clock His Honor appeared in his official robes, and on his ascending the bench the members of the bar present rose to their feet in acknowledgment of the event—the de facto elevation.

The members of the bar present were: Messrs. A. P. Possette, Q.C., D. W. Dumble, John Burnham, R. E. Wood, E. B. Edwards, W. H. Moore, C. W. Sawers, Geo. Roger, J. O'Meara, Geo. Edmiston and E. A. Peck. The Grand Jury were impaneled as follows:

John Finlay, Foreman,
 John Cardwell, Jas. Gordon,
 John Ferguson, Alex. Fitzgerald,
 Samuel Falkner, Duncan Fife,
 Geo. Houston, D. D. Galletly,
 David Henderson, Robt. Handbridge,
 Joseph McKie, Robt. Lindy,
 R. Mahood, A. McNeil,
 W. A. Morrow, John R. Moore,
 Neil McDonald, Francis Mason,
 J. V. Strickland, Thos. McKee,
 Wm. Webster, W. A. Sanderson,
 A. Watts.

His Honor addressed the Grand Jury, stating that he had opened the Court at one o'clock, instead of at the usual hour, twelve o'clock, on account of its being more convenient to the most of those who attend Court. In regard to the calendar, he had to say what had been said by many other judges from this bench, that the duties of the Grand Jury would be light. The only case that needed their attention was that of John Whiteman, charged with bigamy. He explained the duties of the Grand Jury in regard to the matter. On his first occupancy of the bench he took the liberty of addressing a few personal words to the Grand Jury. Some months ago his predecessor, Judge Denison, had been attacked with a severe illness, which was of a character to prevent the performance of the onerous duties of his position for a considerable period. Knowing this he made up his mind to resign his office, which he did. He, Judge Weller, was appointed to fill the vacancy. He had had the honor and pleasure of knowing Judge Denison for a great number of years, had known him when he had acted as solicitor for the town of Peterborough. During Judge Denison's professional career he had acquired the reputation of being of great legal attainments, besides the reputation of being an honorable and upright man. Throughout his professional as well as his judicial career, Judge Denison had retained, and now retains, that reputation. He was glad to state that although Judge Denison could never expect to regain that robust health with which he was heretofore blessed, that nevertheless he was improving and was likely to regain reasonably fair health such as would assure him the enjoyment of that ease and retirement to which he was so well entitled, after having spent a large part of his life in the service of the state.

The Grand Jury retired, but were recalled. The members of the bar again arose, which salute was acknowledged by His Honor with a graceful bow. Mr. DUMBLE, with an address in hand, said that as Vice-President of the Peterborough Law Association, the office of President being vacant through the elevation of the late President to the bench, it was a pleasing duty to present an address passed unanimously at a meeting of the Law Society.

Mr. Dumble read as follows:—

To His Honor Charles Alexander Weller, Judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough:

The Peterborough Law Association desires to give expression to the feelings of its members on the occasion of your first occupancy of the bench of the County Court sittings. For many years associated with you in the practice of law, and for a long period brought into contact with you while you discharged the responsible duties of Local Master in Chancery, we have learned to respect your legal attainments, your painstaking discharge of duty, your impartial judgments, and your ever kindly and courteous bearing to all.

At the time of your appointment you received the hearty and unanimous endorsement of all the members of the local bar, as the one entitled on every ground to the position of Judge, and it is with the warmest feelings of personal pleasure that we now tender to you our hearty congratulations on your elevation to the bench.

We wish you a long incumbency of the office, and trust that the satisfactory and happy relationship which has hitherto existed between us may ever continue.

Signed on behalf of the Association,

D. W. DUMBLE, Vice-President.

His Honor replied, acknowledging the kindness of the Association. It was gratifying to him to know that he had gained the respect and esteem of the members of the Association, none of whom were here when he came to Peterborough. The members gave him credit of high legal attainments. He did not venture to foster the hope that they would at all be benefitted by any attainments possessed by him, but could assure all that they could rely on being impartially treated in the courts under his administration. He hoped that impartiality would always characterize his judgments. It would be his endeavour to be just to all. He wished the members of the Association success in the great profession to which they had attached themselves.

The regular business of the Court was then proceeded with.

Boulevarde.

The citizens of Peterborough appear to have been struck with the boulevard fever. This disease is epidemic, but no one need fear to be affected with it, for it does good to the person affected, the neighbors and the community. The amount of attention bestowed on the construction of boulevards this season is pleasingly large. There have been several miles built up to date and still the work progresses. The most of the work has been done in the suburbs, but several pretty strips have also been made in the business part of the town, that along Water street from the Ontario Bank north, being the latest addition.

THE MONTH'S MIND.

A Solemn Ceremony in St. Peter's Cathedral.

It is just one month ago to-day since the late lamented Bishop of Peterborough breathed his last.

In conformity with the church's provisions the Month's Mind was held to-day, at which the burial service was repeated.

Since four o'clock this morning until ten o'clock, masses were continually celebrated, there being about twenty masses celebrated altogether. These were all well attended.

At half past ten o'clock the celebration of the solemn requiem mass was commenced. The clergy marched from the Palace to the Cathedral. Those present were: His Grace Archbishop Lynch, their Lordships, Bishop Mahony, Toronto; Bishop Carberry, Hamilton; Bishop Cleary, Kingston, and the priests of the diocese.

Bishop Carberry acted as celebrant, Father Hutton, Superior of the Jesuits, Montreal, as priest, and Father Laurent, of Toronto, as Deacon, and Father Murray, of Cobourg, as Sub-Deacon.

At the conclusion of the mass His Grace the Archbishop addressed a few words to the concourse of people present. He was pleased to see so many present on the occasion. In simple but impressive language, he went on, bringing to the minds of the people the edifying life of the late Bishop and drawing lessons from it. He announced that in all probability the Bishops of the Arch Diocese would meet to-morrow to select three names to forward to the Supreme Pontiff, from which to choose that of the second Bishop of Peterborough.

The music furnished by the choir was appropriate to the occasion. Prominent parts during the service were taken by Miss A. Dunn, Miss M. Tierney, Mr. Geo. Ball, Mr. W. Ball, Mr. Jas. Coughlin, and Mr. A. Loney. During the offertory Mrs. J. E. McIntyre sang very beautifully Recello's "Requiem Jesu Pie." Miss Morrier presided at the organ.

THE HOME RULE BILL DEFEATED.

Second Reading of Mr. Gladstone's Bill Voted Down by a Majority of Thirty.

LONDON, June 7.—Mr. Gladstone replying to a question on the paper said the Government was unable to promise to incorporate measures for the Home Rule Government in England, Wales, and Scotland in the revised Home Rule Bill, when it was brought in during the Autumn session, in the event of its passing the second reading now.

HOME RULE DEBATE RESUMED.

MR. GEO. J. GOSCHEN (Liberal) resumed the debate on the Home Rule Bill. He strongly opposed it as containing the elements of commercial, financial and legislative friction.

Mr. PARNELL following and replying to Mr. Goschen, said he too denounced the outrages in Kerry, but he denounced all outrages, whether in Kerry or Ulster. He attributed the riot in Belfast to the language of Lord Randolph Churchill and Mr. Chamberlain, and described the origin of the riot as being the dismissal from work of an Orangeman. He said that the Conservatives had, previous to the last election, promised Home Rule, and that he recognized this settlement as a final settlement.

Sir MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH followed. He denied the charge of the dismissal of the man with his knowledge any promise of home rule was made by a member of the late Tory Government and demanded the name of his colleague, to whom Mr. Parnell referred.

Mr. PARNELL said the demand was a safe one and could not be complied with unless the gentleman referred to unseated his lips. Mr. GLADSTONE summed up the debate eloquently but briefly.

THE DIVISION TAKEN.

The House then divided. The vote was 311 for the measure and 341 against. Mr. Chamberlain's prediction of the result being exactly realized.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

The excitement during the division had no parallel in the history of the House of Commons. Lord Randolph Churchill was the first to discover that the Government was defeated, and by waving his hat and indulging in other joyful demonstrations he aroused the enthusiasm of the members of the Opposition, who, rising, waved their hats and cheered again and again. When the figures were announced the noise was deafening. The Parnellites rose and challenged the vote. Mr. O'Connor called for cheers for the "Grand Old Man," which were given with a gusto by the Government supporters and Sir Wm. Harcourt and his companions rose and bowed to Mr. Gladstone, who was somewhat embarrassed. The Parnellites called for cheers for Mr. Chamberlain, which were given with shouts of "Traitor" and "Judas Iscariot." Mr. Chamberlain merely laughed.

THE HOUSE ADJOURNED.

When order was restored Mr. Gladstone arose, white and trembling, and moved to adjourn till Thursday.

Messrs. Healy and O'Connor again challenged the vote, saying they would not offer opposition, but wished to express their repugnance to the conduct of many members of Mr. Gladstone's party. During the but-but which followed Mr. Gladstone left the House wearing a haggard look, cheered by his supporters.

Wags and Water.

A day or two ago some Water street wags worked a sell on P. C. McGinty. A pint black bottle had been carefully filled with water and sealed neatly with green sealing wax, so to all appearance it was "green seal." It was stowed away in a convenient corner, awaiting an opportunity. At last the fun was precipitated. Chas. McGinty, P.C., was seen away up street coming that way. The unbetrustful bottle was slipped in the grass on the boulevard and the parties interested retired. The P.C. when passing at once spied the bottle and picked it up. Then the interested parties emerged and surrounded the P.C. All sorts of suggestions were made—dynamite, nitroglycerine, etc. But Charles didn't believe in any of the yarns. He broke away from the crowd and bore off the bottle intact upon making an examination at the police station.

FIGHTING.

TUESDAY, June 8.—Michael Larone was charged by P. C. Adams with having fought, and having created a disturbance in a public place. The defendant pleaded not guilty. He said that he had a tussle with a commercial traveller, but the commercial traveller commenced it first. He did not hit the latter, merely held him.

The Magistrate said that a fight had taken place and the defendant was in it. A fine of $2 and costs was imposed and paid.

Is is a well known fact that the "Cable" and "El Padre" brands of cigars are the oldest, most reliable and best value in the market. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of close on to one thousand operatives. Smokers will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above mentioned brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. S. EDITORIAL NOTES.

The platform of the Reform party, concisely and plainly stated, is in Nova Scotia "rum, repeal and ruin," in Quebec "Rouge, Riel and rebellion," in Ontario "ram, ribaldry and Reform," and the general platform, upon which the whole party is expected to gather, is "rule or ruin."

"The Ottawa Free Press" utters a great truth when it re-models the old saying to read, "The Tory party is the mother of rebellion."—Bruckville Recorder.

The Conservative party did not foster the late infant of the Northwest, and the chief complaint against the Government is that it, through the loyal volunteers of Canada, gave the troublesome youngster such a severe spanking.

Some Reformers have a great deal to say in a vague way about gerrymandering. Without discussing just at present his wholesale performance in that respect, we would ask these critics if they can anywhere duplicate Mr. Mowat's dirty, dishonest little trick of providing that the Conservative city of Toronto shall only count for one Conservative vote on a division? An early answer will oblige.

In order to break the force of the condemnation of the disgraceful transaction of Messrs. Mills and Cook in regard to an appropriation of Indian funds, their friends are reiterating that it is the common practice. This is simply a falsehood used as a cloak. The transaction in question was unprecedented, at least in Dominion affairs; it has never been repeated, and stands altogether alone as an unparalleled case. For the good fame of our country and its public men, may it ever remain so.

THE ARROW, among other capital cartoons, has a view of E. Blake's second-hand clothes shop. He has contributed to his stock in trade his own cast-off political suit, for over the inscription "Wardrobe of E. Blake, the great political lightning change artist," hang an independence coat, a green coat, a blue coat and a coat of many colours. He has also for sale cheap the rebel Privy Councillor Laurier's little musket. The proprietor, sitting at a table, is trying to write a circular, but having penned "Blake is the voters' friend," he has stuck for an idea, not being able to call to mind any evidence of such friendship. He has before him also a previous failure, his policy, which he could not make out, in which he is not alone, for no man can make it out.

Our reform, and one reform only, does the Montreal Star recognize as being advocated by the Reform party, and that is its advocacy of an elective Senate. But the Star assumes too much in supposing that the party is unanimous on that subject, notwithstanding Mr. Mills' vague resolution. One prominent Reformer, the party candidate for North Victoria (Mr. John A. Barron), in his speech accepting the nomination, said:—

"I do not want an elective Senate, because such would be tantamount to increasing the membership of the Commons. It would be virtually tearing down the wall between the two chambers."

Mr. Blake must keep his political carpenter's work on his scaffold platform, for while Mr. Barron's views prevail they cannot be given employment in tearing down the Senate wall.

A MORE disgracefully dishonest trick was perhaps never perpetrated by any journal than that of the Globe with regard to the Rev. C. Trivet's letter. The reverend gentleman wrote a communication to the Mail, which at once inserted it, but fearing it might be refused, he sent a copy to the Globe, with a request for it to be published after a fair interval, if it did not appear in the Mail. These letters the Globe published with a foot note that they had been received by it ten days previously, thus deliberately conveying to the minds of its readers the false impression that publication had been refused by the Mail, which had, as the Globe knew, not only published the letter, but had tendered its aid to Mr. Trivet. Association and connection with criminals has plainly had the result of enrolling the Globe in the criminal ranks.

A LIBERAL POLITICIAN.

The Montreal Star published a short time ago in its Ottawa correspondence some figuring by the Hon. D. Mills as to a majority the Reformers or rather the Rielites hope to get at the next general election. We have seen such calculations by Mr. Mills' friends on previous occasions, with the proverbial result attending the counting of chickens before they are hatched.

In an article republishing these absurdities the London Advertiser modestly ascribed them to "a Liberal politician." The happiness of this description must be acknowledged. Mr. Mills is indeed liberal—with other people's money. Finding that a political friend, who has boasted of spending enormous sums corruptly for the party, had made a bad speculation, he resolved to come to his assistance. Mr. Mills had in his charge some money, belonging to some Indians, though he was then in the position of a discharged trustee, only holding the trust fund till he could transfer it to his successor as soon as one could be appointed. He took $2000 of this fund and handed it over to his corrupt friend on the strength of a claim, not made till years after the event, contradicted by all his previous statements, and so doubtful on the face of it that no honest trustee would have entertained it. Mr. Mills was consistent. He does not like Indians, probably from jealousy at finding many of them far superior morally and intellectually to himself; he thinks they should not have votes, and apparently he also thinks they should not have money if a cooked account can relieve them of the burden. And Mr. Mills is also, as the Advertiser tells us, liberal—very liberal.

MR. COSTIGAN'S RESOLUTION.

The progress of events has fully justified the Canadian House of Commons in preferring Mr. Costigan's Home Rule resolution to that of Mr. Blake. Mr. Costigan's motion advocated Home Rule with due regard to the unity of the Empire and the rights of minorities, a programme which will undoubtedly be adopted ere long, and in favour of which, we may say, we wrote editorially several years ago. Mr. Blake's resolution proposed the endorsement by the Dominion of the particular measure introduced by Mr. Gladstone. Apart from any objection to the bill itself, it is obviously objectionable thus to interfere with the details of Imperial legislation, and this inference would certainly have placed us in a false position now that the bill has been defeated. The defeat of the bill failed to secure the acceptance of the foremost men of any party with the sole exception of Mr. Gladstone; the leaders of the Radicals, Whigs and Conservatives, all opposing it and even the friends of the Home Rulers, when relieved from restraint as in the United States, repudiating the idea of its being accepted as a final settlement. The defeat of this bill is a very striking evidence of its unpopularity, when we consider Mr. Gladstone's personal prestige and influence, his promise to withdraw the measure after the second reading, his assurance that a vote in favor of the second reading should only be considered as a general acceptance of the principle, and the great effect of the threat of an early dissolution on members only recently elected.

Another weak point in Mr. Blake's resolution was that it would have exposed us to the risk of a rebuff by Mr. Gladstone and Lord Granville, the very men who had insultingly snubbed us before.

Mr. Costigan's resolution was fortunately free from these objectionable features. By adopting his motion Canada has shown its sympathy with the principle of Home Rule for local affairs with due qualifications and of such a nature as may be adopted for other kingdoms also, while it saved us from committing ourselves to a measure so faulty that no possible means could save it from rejection.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

Toronto 90 months in office.—
Increase of public debt in that time..... $108,000,000 00
Increase per month..... 1,177,000 00
Increase per day (24 hours)..... 49,400 00
Increase per minute..... 750 00
Increase per second..... 12 1/2

Thus we find that every three years our watch ticks or your pulse beats this government increases the debt of the country $125,—Quebec Mercury.

Let us see about that. In 1873 the debt was $29,343,461.64. In 1878 it was $140,352,009.31. Increase during five years of Gilt rule—$111,008,547.67. In 1883 it amounted to $195,407,632.14. Increase during seven years of Conservative rule, $84,405,622.23. The Mercury was in error only by the sum of fifty millions. And about such a trifle as fifty millions he permitted to stand in the way of a good round whopper against the Conservatives? Since the Mercury was undertaken to figure the thing down to minutes and seconds, suppose to give the actual facts. The real interests have been as follows:

	Reform period, Cons. period.
Total increase	$111,008,547.67
Increase per year	$19,835,092.76
Increase per month	$1,652,924.39
Increase per day	$55,097.48
Increase per hour	$2,291.94
Increase per minute	38.19
Increase per second	0.64

The increase per second during the Conservative period was just one-fifth the amount stated by the Mercury. One-fifth of that tremendous journal's statement was fact; four-fifths romance.

But the whole story is not yet told. While the Reformers increased the debt by $40,718,607.37, they expended on capital account only $28,515,995.19. In other words they borrowed the money for all their capital expenditure, and then borrowed two millions more for ordinary expenditure. While Conservatives increased the debt to the extent of $84,405,622.23, they expended on capital account, $20,786,178.30. In other words they met all current expenses out of current revenue, and had a surplus of nearly $55,000,000 for public works and assumption of provincial debts.—Hamilton Spectator.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

The Mercury Against the Home Rule Bill a Surprise Disillusion Inevitable.

LONDON, June 8.—The majority against the Home Rule bill surprised even the Unionists. Several members supposed to favor the bill went into the Opposition lobby. The crowd outside attempted to mob Lord Hartington when he emerged from the House after the division. It is supposed that Sir Wilfrid Blunt was the intermediary between Mr. Parnell and the Tories during the last election, and that he undoubtedly did lead the Parnellites to believe that the Conservatives would introduce a Home Rule bill. Lord Churchill is generally believed to be the member of the Conservative party who made the promise for his party. Eighty-five Parnellites voted with the Government. The 5th, Capt. O'Shea, whom Parnell insisted on having the league elect to represent one division of Galway, walked out of the House and abstained from voting. About twelve Liberals refused to vote on the division. The Liberals who voted against the Government are said to be almost identical with those whose names were on the list prepared before the recent Liberal meeting at the Foreign Office. The only members who were absent were Charles Pelham Villiers, Liberal member for South Wolverhampton; Sir Frederick A. Miles, Liberal member for the Richmond division of the North riding of Yorkshire; Frederick W. Grafton, Liberal member for the Accrington division of North-east Lancashire; and William Ellison MacCartney, Conservative member for South Antrim.

After the announcement of the vote made in the commons last night, members rushed to the telegraph wires to inform their electors of the result of the division. Great crowds remained outside the house until the vote was taken. The majority received the result with enthusiastic cheers.

Ninety-four Liberals and radicals voted against the home rule bill. There is intense excitement throughout the country over the outcome of the contest. Conservatives and whigs are everywhere making the day one of jubilee, ringing bells, lighting bonfires, firing cannon and singing "God save the Queen." Dispatches from Ireland state that in Belfast, Londonderry, Lurgan, Armagh and other towns the loyalists have been stoned during their parades and demonstrations, but up to a late hour this afternoon no case of fighting or extreme violence had been reported. The cabinet will meet at two o'clock this afternoon to consider what action is incumbent on the government as the result of their defeat last night. Gladstone rose this morning earlier than usual. During the forenoon he had two hours conference with Earl Rosebery, foreign minister.

The Nova, ministerial, says: Dissolution has been rendered inevitable by last night's vote. Parnell's emphatic declaration that Ireland would accept Gladstone's bill as a final settlement will have a wider influence with the nation to-day than all the astute and minute criticisms of Gueschen. Considering the democratic spirit of the nationalists Parnell declared that the opinion that the provision creating the first order in the proposed Irish parliament was a salutary provision, was significant. Parnell's bill as less spoke the liberal truth, so far as he knew it, but we need not suppose that Churchill always takes his advice. Gladstone's speech was worthy of himself and the occasion. The whole case is now before the country for decision.

The Times says: The vote will encourage the Loyalists in Ireland to hope that their kinsmen here will never abandon them to the uncovenanted mercies of the Irish National League and its paymasters in America. Gladstone's speech of the all his marvellous powers of intimation, mystification and persuasion in favor of his bill. We rejoice that the majority against it was decided and crushing. The speaker well for the independence and courage of the House of Commons. It is strong testimony in favor of encouraging the belief that Englishmen and Scotchmen are not yet ready to submit themselves to the leveling influence of the machine politics of America. The point is, if the Government had been graded and second reading they would have introduced the Home Bill. On this issue the division was taken and the bill was condemned in both the present and future terms.

New York, June 8.—United States Marshal McMahon said, concerning the defeat of the Gladstone bill: This is only the beginning. Home rule will win in the end. It will be carried into the country throughout England and Scotland. The fight will be warm. America will spend speakers and money.

Best Act in Brighton.

BRIGHTON, June 7.—The residence of a gentleman in this village was visited early on Sunday morning by a gang of roughs. The windows in the front part of the house were demolished, and a valuable mirror in the drawing room destroyed. The sin committed by the gentleman was that he was an active part in the circulation of a petition to the county council for the appointment of a police magistrate for the east riding of the county of Northumberland.

A Lady's Secret.

"I'd give a good deal if I had such a pure, healthy skin as you have," said a lady to a friend. "Just look at mine, all spots and blotches, and rough as a grained log." The secret of your success is always looking so well. "There is no secret about it," was the reply. "Dr. Parke's Golden Medical Discovery" cleansed my blood, and when that was done my skin, which was worse than yours, began to look smooth and healthy, as you see it now."

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small fry for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

FORTY-SIX FISHERMEN MISSING.

Several Wrecks Reported on the Newfoundland Coast.

St. John's, Nfld., June 8.—A four masted steamer went ashore on French Mistaken Point yesterday, and so far had not been identified.

The schooner Advance was totally wrecked at Samaline. The crew was saved.

Twenty-three dories, containing forty-six men, are reported by recent information from the Grand Banks as astray from their vessels. They have been absent several weeks, and it is feared they are lost.

The bank fishing has been unusually successful thus far, but the weather is very stormy. The catches have been large and the fish are big and of excellent quality.

NORTH SYDNEY, C. B., June 8.—The barque Arlington from St. Ann's for Montreal, with a cargo of plaster, is ashore at the Bird Islands, the entrance to Bras D'Or Lakes. No Particulars. A tug has gone to her assistance.

HALIFAX, June 8.—The cruiser Terror has arrived at Digby, from St. John. Neither Yankee fishermen nor Digby chicken have been seen in Annapolis Basin for the last few days. The cruiser Hunter coasted along the north shore of Cape Breton and put into north Sydney last night. The Americans are getting pretty scared of this cruiser and are keeping well off the shore. A despatch from Port Hawkesbury says: The schooner Everitt Steele, of Gloucester, which was here three weeks ago, on her way to the Magdalen Islands for bait, was here again to-day on her return with over 700 quibags of cod fish, caught off Ingonish. The Captain says if he could have baited at St. Ann's or Ingonish, as usual, he would be well off with his second trip. He reports mackerel schooling on Sunday very plenty along the coast off Ingonish.

Digby, N. S., June 7.—At Cape Island, instead of Cape Sable, several United States fishermen yesterday sought to buy bait, but the Canadian fishermen preferred to let their mackerel spoil rather than sell to Americans and refused to trade. The sellers, however, sent their own sailors and caught their own bait without murdering. The schooner Orient and Elvaz, which put in at Cape on Thursday night and announced that they would fish in Chedabucto Bay, just outside the three mile limit, irrespective of headlands, so as to test that important question, caught 142 barrels of mackerel near Cape Sable.

East of Cape Breton a large number of United States fishermen are reported by the steamer Newfield, the Canadian lightship and buoy tender, as having trawled east yesterday, and destroyed fisheries about a mile and a half of St. John's Island, northeast of the light. Owing to the threatening weather, they got underway in the afternoon and made for harbor. Two of them were within half a mile of the Newfield and anchored. One of these was a large two-master. These schooners, running trawls most of them, are fitted out for halibut fishing.

BANOK, Me., June 7.—The fishery question is the uppermost subject of discussion among all the fishermen and sailors down East, and while recognizing the absolute necessity of the United States attempting decisive measures against the British, who have such powerful vessels as the Northampton, Empress and Belknap, with our North Atlantic squadron, consisting of such rates as the Tennessee, Brooklyn, and Yantic, yet the Yankee fishermen are so mad that, were the word given, they would sail into the Canucks in a way that would make their hair stand up. The Portland men and the Eastport fishers also have said that they fear lack of support on the part of our Government, and they are almost afraid to say that their souls are their own as long as the Washington Government keeps mum. Secretary Bayard and Mr. Cleveland too are in very bad odor here, on account of their inactivity in this matter, which is really a more important and grave question than most people realize. The expressions of Mr. Blaine, so far from being censured, are applauded in Maine, and this applause is echoed among the Nova Scotians who depend largely for their living upon the sale of bait to Yankee Grand Bankers.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

To Vancouver, B. C., in 136 Hours—The Canadian Pacific Schedule.

The Canadian Pacific authorities have drawn up the time schedules between here and Vancouver. The first train will probably leave Montreal on Monday week at 8 p. m., and will reach the new city of Vancouver the following Sunday, making the journey of 2800 miles in 136 hours, beating the time between New York and San Francisco by twenty hours. When the road is thoroughly ballasted and in good working order the trip across the continent by the Canadian Pacific will be made in 120 hours and eventually the authorities hope to be able to reduce this further to 100 hours.

The first train will, so far as the company is concerned, be sent off without any fuss or ceremony. The civil authorities purpose getting up some kind of demonstration, but no special train will be despatched. The splendid new sleepers and dining cars for the through service are being collected here for the opening. When about half of them have reached the other end, the first train east will be despatched. Latest intelligence from Vancouver states that the town lots are selling rapidly and that the place is going ahead at a pace which promises to make it a second San Francisco.

Owing to the cut in the transcontinental fares the passenger rates have not yet been made up.—Montreal Star.

HARVEY.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Harvey Council met at the Town Hall on the 31st May, 1886. Members all present, minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. The councillors made and subscribed the required oath as members of the Council of Revision, and proceeded to hear the appeals against the assessment. Angus MacMartin, Agent, appeared for Benedict & Son, the court ordered their assessment on mill property to be lowered $2,500.—Charles McGuire's assessment of house, reduced to $800 on west half of lot 5, concession 13th. The roll as revised was passed by the court and the members resumed in Council on general business. By-laws were passed, signed and sealed, re-appointing the Harvey Clerk, Charles McMillan, Robert Renwick and Thomas Flynn as health officers for Harvey for the current year. A circular was read from the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, requesting suggestions or approval of certain bills now before the House re country councils, assuming control of certain roads, and bridges over a road over 100 feet in width; also width of wagon tires on wheeled vehicles with heavy loads; also tax and tags on dogs. The sum of $400 was granted for roads and bridges in Harvey. Orders were drawn on the Treasurer as follows: James Richmond, salary as assessor for 1886, $40.75; James Hicks, for clerk, $8; Robert Renwick, for running side line of road between lots 10 and 11, con. 16, Harvey, $2. On motion passed the Council adjourned, to meet at the Clerk's office on Monday, 6th July next.

FROM ALL OVER.

Lord Headley's debts amount to $220,000 and his assets are nil.

Worms often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy worms, and expel them from the system.

Over 1,300 of the striking iron miners at Decaturville have returned to work.

A CATYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when worms is the cause. D. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all worms.

To REMOVE DANDRUFF.—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet.

Robert Pasha's health is failing, and he has written from Italy resigning the Sultan's service.

NATIONAL PILLS is the favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine, they are mild and thorough.

A movement is on foot to bring about an alliance between Turkey and Greece to check Russian aggression in the Balkans.

J. D. Tully, druggist, will gladly inform anyone enquiring as to the wonderful merits of West's Pain King. The standard remedy for flux, dysentery, summer complaint, cholera morbus, cholera, colic, etc. Price 25 cents.

The Bell Telephone Company's Trunk Line has been extended to Annapolis and the construction gang is now en route to Pembroke.

The Great Source of Consumption and many wasting forms of disease, is scrofula lurking in the system. The true specific for this condition is found in Burdock Blood Bitters; that medicine purifies the blood and builds up the enfeebled frame.

A man living near Napanee was fined $40 for making maple syrup of slippery elm bark, maple bark and leaves.

A SECRET FOR THE LADIES.—The great secret of beauty is pure blood. Eruptions and all blotches that disfigure the face, may be quickly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. Annie Heath, of Portland, certifies that she was cured by this remedy, after suffering for two years.

Prince George, the second son of the Prince of Wales, is said to be madly in love with Princess Helena, daughter of the Comte de Paris.

WORTH REMEMBERING.—There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagar's Yellow Oil. Heured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bowels, pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain.

The French Conservative Republicans are thrown into despair by the weakness of M. de Freycinet's government in dealing with the demand of the Extremists for the expulsion of the Orleans princes.

If any of our readers that are afflicted with rheumatism have never tried West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment, we advise them to do so at once, and be convinced of its extraordinary merits. It is a never-failing remedy for cuts, sprains, bruises and all complaints requiring external treatment. Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by J. D. Tully.

McGregor and Parke's Carbolic Cerate is invaluable for Wounds, Sores, Salt Rheum, Cuts, Burns, Scalds, and festering sores, and is a purifying dressing. Do not be imposed on with other useless preparations, recommended to be as good. Use only McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Sold by John McKee.

It is understood that the result of the investigation held on Monday by Dr. O'Reilly into the drowning of Mr. Moore at the Kingston lunatic asylum will completely exonerate the officials of the institution.

A USEFUL HINT.—It may be useful for the reader to know that the popular preparation known as Hagar's Yellow Oil has proved a sovereign remedy for deafness, many certified cures being on record. Hagar's Yellow Oil also cures aches, pains, and lameness, and may be used internally as well as outwardly.

Never drug the stomach with nauseating and weakening expectorants and opiates; Hagar's Pectoral Balm is pleasant and reliable in its effects, and safe in all throat and lung complaints that, if neglected, end in consumption.

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE.—Mrs. Cyrus Kilborne, Beamsville, Ont., had what was supposed to be a cancer on her nose. She was about to submit to a cancer doctor's treatment, when she consulted to try Burdock Blood Bitters, internally and externally, a few bottles of which entirely cured her.

For the past quarter of a century West's Ough Syrup has given relief to thousands, and no medicine compound can show such a vast number of unsolicited testimonials. Ask your neighbor as to its merits. It is an unfailing cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung diseases. Price 25c. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by J. D. Tully.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THE OPPOSITION SLANDERS.

The members of the Government were in no respect shown to be personally affected by these charges, nor was it shown that they individually or collectively departed from the regulations of the departments in favour of their supporters.—Montreal Star (Independence).

PROVINCIAL PRINTING.

Mr. Mowat has been giving out public printing, in spite of the fact that this violates the provincial printing contract, to some of the journals supporting him. The Belleville Ontario owns up to a $25 job, and Mr. H. M. J. of Guelph, confesses to a take of $800. It is about time that the virtuous Mr. Somerville, of Brant, opened out upon these—let us say, what is his expression—"third and subsidized organs of a debauched and corrupt Government."—Toronto Mail.

ITS REAL TROUBLE.

The Conservative St. John, N.B., Sen. claims that the Globe accuses Sir John of "losing his faculties." That is what the Globe said, but its real grievance is that he is not losing his faculties. Where he is to do so, the Globe would like to see the contentment of his office.—Toronto World (Independence).

THE SCANDAL FACTORY.

It is well known that the common custom of people who have any business with the departments is to come to their member and get him to write, communicating their request, and in that way we venture to say the great majority of applications for lands or timber limits have come through members of Parliament. It would be thought that such a commonplace matter afforded little chance for cavilling, but Mr. Cameron seemed to think it opened up an almost limitless field for slandering Conservative members, and in speeches in the country and afterwards in the House he paraded long lists of Conservative members who had made application for lands or timber limits, as if they had done so for themselves. We venture to say a more outrageous attempt to distort facts, and give them a meaning which they do not fairly admit of, has never been made in Parliament. Almost any other man would have retired abashed from such a list of names, but Mr. Cameron seems to have been brought to a fresh lot when one lot had been declared untrue.—Ottawa Standard.

POWDERY ON STRIKES.

Some of the Work Accomplished at the late Cleveland convention.

SCANTON, PA., June 9.—Mr. Powderly denies that he has been captured by the Communistic elements, and further that there is no truth in the rumor that his views in regard to strikes, etc., were over-ruled at the Cleveland convention. "Horseflesh" he says, "no local assembly of the Knights of Labor can inaugurate a strike until the members have first voted on the question by secret ballot. Each man must record his vote, and the Executive Board of the district will be called in and endeavor to effect a settlement by arbitration, so that a strike is not to be undertaken except as a last resort. Not only this; every week during the continuance of the strike the men will vote secretly whether they will continue it or not. The feeling of the order is strongly against strikes. If a strike exists beyond the district in which it originated it becomes a matter for the General Executive Board to determine. There is absolutely no opposition to me in the Home City at present. Most of the unions were set apart by reporters, who were indignant because I did not spend valuable time in giving them news. That the convention was within me is proved by its adoption of all my resolutions. Our congressional committee is made up of free traders and protectionists."

A Gift to Home Rule.

LONDON, June 8.—The Secretary of the British Home Rule Association has received a letter, accompanied by a donation from Mr. Blake, leader of the Opposition in the Canadian Parliament. Mr. Blake promises further pecuniary assistance.

The total catch of the five Dundee steamers at the Newfoundland seal fishery is estimated at 880 and young seals, little more than the number captured last year.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW MCNEILL'S.

ELECTION MANIFESTOS.

To be immediately issued by the different Party Leaders.

LONDON, June 9.—Mr. Gladstone, after announcing the dissolution of Parliament, will issue a manifesto to his Midlothian constituents, which will serve as a general appeal to the country. He will visit Midlothian to inaugurate the electoral campaign. Lord Hartington's address to his electors will be used as a unionist counterblast to Mr. Gladstone's manifesto. A manifesto from Sir Michael Hicks-Beach or Lord Salisbury is expected to refer to Mr. Parnell's disclosure. A conference of Mr. Chamberlain's followers will probably be held on Thursday, and their manifesto will follow. The Whigs have virtually decided to oppose Gladstone in Midlothian. The lists of Government candidates have been almost completed.

Mr. Chamberlain has arranged to hold a meeting of his followers to decide whether they shall act with the Hartington committee or as an independent political party. The present Mr. Chamberlain favors the latter course. The National Liberal Federation have prepared a manifesto to the electors of Great Britain. It adopts Home Rule as the Liberal party platform in the coming election. The Radical dissidents will organize a Radical union, with headquarters in Birmingham. Their programme will include a large extension of local self-government in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, coupled with the supreme control of all by the Imperial Parliament.

A meeting of the party of several peers and members of the House of Commons was held yesterday. Lord Roseberry presided. A committee was appointed to propagate the Irish Home Rule doctrine in the South constituencies. Measures were adopted for the establishment of Home Rule literature and speakers' funds.

A NICE LITTLE DISPUTE.

Mr. Chamberlain, on May 31, wrote to Mr. James O'Kelly, the Pall Mall for North Essex, as follows: "You wrote to a New York paper, dating your communication from the House of Commons, that I publicly described Mr. Gladstone in language usually reserved for the South constituencies. Measures were adopted for the establishment of Home Rule literature and speakers' funds."

To this Mr. O'Kelly replied: "The statements were given to me by English members of the House of Commons, and were not intended for publication, but the responsibility of publishing them, however, and I decline to withdraw them, because I have confidential information in my possession which convinces me that you have used expressions in reference to Mr. Gladstone similar to those I imputed to you."

A LARGE VESSEL WRECKED.

Why the Gloucester Fishing Schooner sought Shelter at Halifax.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 9.—The names of the Gloucester schooner which put into this port yesterday for "shelter" were the Elvasser Boynton, Pioneer, and Martha A. Bradley. Their excuse was looked upon as exceedingly ludicrous, seeing that yesterday was one of the most sultry days of the season. As they came up the harbor they met the cruiser Conrad sailing out.

All the cruisers are now patrolling the coast except the Critic, which is believed to be at Prince Edward Island. The four Gloucestermen really but in here to consult with Consul General Phelan. Only one of them had a fare. The other three had not one hundred dollars of mackerel between them, as the result of three weeks' fishing. They were told, so they say, by the customs collector at Canoe that they could not fish within three miles of the headlands of Chedabucto Bay. This, they claim, excludes them entirely from the rich fisheries of Chedabucto and St. Peter's Bay, and leaves them an average of fifteen miles out from shore, where there are no fish at all. Being large owners in the vessels, the captains cannot run any great risk of capture. So far their voyage has been a complete failure, and as they are constantly running the gauntlet of the cruiser Roulet, and being keenly watched by Customs Officer Young at Canoe, they are at their wits' end. Consul-General Phelan could give them very little information, but it is understood he advised them not to run the risk of seizure unless they were sure they were not violating the Dominion law or treaty. The Gloucester fishermen are already realizing the huge mistake they have made. As they have no reasonable excuse here, collector Ross will probably order them to sea to day.

WRECK OF A LARGE VESSEL.

The brigantine Sappho K. Brinkman, from St. Kitts, reports that on May 20th in lat. 21-40, lon. 64-35, she passed the wreck of a large vessel, bottom up. A moderate breeze was blowing at the time, with the sea washing over the wreck, which could only be seen in the day time. The partly submerged vessel lay right in the track of shipping coming from the Sombra passage, and is a great danger to navigation. In the gulf stream, lat. 37, long. 65-30, she passed the body of a large whale, 60 feet long, in an advanced state of decomposition. The carcass was swollen to an enormous size and had been badly torn by sharks and other fish. For miles around the surface of the water was covered with oil.

A Disastrous Windstorm.

OTTAWA, June 9.—Reports received from the vicinity show that the windstorm on Monday night did considerable damage. At Templeton, amongst the chief sufferers were John Shaw, who lost two barns, which were utterly demolished; Richard Burke lost a shed, the roof being carried a great distance; B. Murphy and Corby both lost sheds, trees being uprooted in the latter's orchard. The damage from the storm in Templeton amounts to between four and five thousand dollars. At Lechabour, about three miles east of Buckingham, several barns were blown down, and a house belonging to Isidore Goulet was utterly destroyed, and his effects scattered far and wide.

CAPT. O'SHEA RESIGNS.

LONDON, June 9.—Captain O'Shea, the Nationalist member for Galway, who was the only Parliamenter who abstained from voting on the Home Rule bill, announces that he has withdrawn from politics. Captain O'Shea, in his farewell address, says he is aware that his views are not shared by his electors, and that an honorable feeling suggests that he should resign.

A SECRET FRENCH EXPEDITION.

LONDON, June 9.—Advice from Noumea, the capital of the French colony of New Caledonia, states that two French men-of-war, with troops aboard, have left New Caledonia with sealed orders. It is supposed for the New Hebrides Islands. The British consul of Noumea has telegraphed to Lord Granville, confirming the reported departure of the French men-of-war. The vessels carried building material and three months' supplies of provisions. There was kept a secret in order to forestall the British.

CRICKET MATCH.—On Saturday a cricket match was played here between the Peterborough juniors and the Lakefield juniors. Owing to the rain the match was decided on the first innings and resulted in a victory for the home team by two runs. Lakefield making 25 runs against Peterborough's 27. Atwood made the top score for Lakefield and Hamilton for the visitors.

THE TRAIN SERVICE.—Last definite arrangements have been made as to an improved train service between here and Peterborough. On Tuesday Mr. R. C. Strickland received a letter from Mr. Stevenson, General Superintendent, Montreal, stating that trains will run as follows:—

This is not only a boon to Lakefield people, but also to the many hundred from Peterborough and other places who will doubtless avail themselves of the facilities now offered by train and boat to spend a pleasant day amidst the beautiful scenery of Stony Lake, and see the work that is now being done on the Burleigh Falls section of the Trent Valley Canal. It is understood that this new service will come into effect on Monday next, the 14th inst.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1886.

ENTRUSTED BY THE MAJORITY.

In discussing the constitution of our Dominion as throwing a light on the question of Home Rule, the London Advertiser makes a very important admission. It says:—

"We have nothing of which to complain in our Confederate Union except the abuse of authority by those to whom the authority has been entrusted by the majority of the population."

Here we have a distinct admission of a truth that the Reformers almost invariably make a practice of ignoring, that the Administration has an authority entrusted to it by the majority of the people of Canada. And we may ask if it is not likely that the statesmen entrusted and the majority who trust them are better judges as to whether that authority is abused or properly used than an Opposition, disinterested at the refusal of the people to trust them with such authority. The truth is that the complaint of the Opposition is really not so much against the abuse of authority by the Administration as against the majority of the people of Canada for entrusting that authority to Conservatives and refusing to entrust it to Reformers. Hence springs the constant antagonism of the Reformers to Canada and its people; their sympathy with rebellion against the Canadian authorities; their constant aid to the rivals of our great national highway; their disparagement of our lands, our regulations, our laws, our position and our finances, as compared with those of other countries; their systematic efforts to obstruct and impede the public business of Canada. In short they cannot forgive the people of Canada for rejecting them, so they are "boycotting" Canada, its people and its friends until they are again given employment.

PARLIAMENTARY DEPUTY HEADS.

Is an editorial on a question that has been raised as to the hours and the method of conducting business in the Canadian House of Commons the Montreal Gazette says:—

"Under the British system the deputy heads of the departments occupy seats in the house, answer all questions relating to administrative work, and so permit the members of the Cabinet to occupy themselves wholly with the shaping of general lines of policy, while in Canada the Ministers have to perform the dual work."

This affords a very forcible argument in favour of our repeated advocacy of the adoption of a system of parliamentary deputy heads of departments or assistant Ministers. In both Houses during the recent session, it so happened that it was even more evident than usual how greatly the transaction of public business would be facilitated by the presence of authorised representatives of departments in the absence of their heads, to answer questions, take charge of Government measures, attend to legislative or administrative details, and in a variety of obvious ways relieve the Cabinet Ministers from the numerous and often overwhelming calls upon their time and energies.

We need hardly repeat at length the other reasons we have given in favour of such appointments in both Houses; the facilities for placing in the ministry representative men from the smaller Provinces, the territories and minorities in the larger Provinces; the opportunity for training our rising politicians, and of testing the qualifications of aspirants for portfolios, &c.

We hope that we shall now have the welcome support of the Montreal Gazette in favour of this plan.

KING KALAKUA, whose seat of Government is in Honolulu, H. I., appears to be a ruler of a practical turn of mind. Recently a disastrous fire swept over the Chinese quarter of Honolulu, destroying buildings that covered sixty acres of ground and depriving from six to eight thousand people of their homes. His Majesty did not wait until the ruin was complete to render royal assistance, but when the battle with the flames was fiercest, the King, according to the Honolulu Advertiser, "encouraged the firemen by his presence and example. The King, lent a helping hand where he could be of service. The interest which His Majesty takes in the fire department," adds the Advertiser, "is well known, and his appearance among them and encouragement will not soon be forgotten." King Kalakua will not need a guard of soldiers to frighten away gentlemen with dynamite bombs. He can reign in peace.

THE Globe defends its falsehood as to the letter of the Rev. Mr. Trivett by alleging that it did not know that the Mail had published it. This line of defence accounts for the astounding slanders with which the Globe teems. When the Globe does not know the truth about anything, and that seems to be its normal state, it considers itself justified, according to its own showing, in supplementing its ignorance by the vile inventions that its own depraved imagination can supply.

THE Milwaukee Rioters Arraigned. MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 8.—This morning 49 of the riotously arrested men indicted by the grand jury for rioting and conspiracy were arraigned in court. All pleaded not guilty and were held for trial, the bail ranging from $100 to $300 each.

WHEEL Train Wrecking. SAVANNAH, Ga., June 8.—The night express on the Georgia Central Railroad was wrecked at Rogers, six miles west of Savannah, this morning. A block of wood tightly wedged between the rails at a switch threw the engine and three cars off the track. The engineer was killed and the fireman badly injured. It was a deliberately laid plan to wreck the train.

"HANDS UP."

How "Crackerbox" and a Companion Foiled a Police Sergeant.

"Crackerbox," a well known character in this country, and Gallagher, one of the notorious police at Edmonton, broke jail at Edmonton ten days ago and escaped. A man may break jail and pike along the south country trail without doing anything remarkable, but Gallagher and "Crackerbox" not only made their journey exceedingly venturesome for some of their fellow-creatures, but showed a genuine pluck and daring which must excite a certain amount of admiration. After having been in the trail some days they were captured by Sergeant Gordon and a constable of the Edmonton police on Saturday last at the Lone Pine, 60 miles north of Calgary, handcuffed and put in a wagon to be driven back to Edmonton.

The party reached Barnett's about 8 o'clock on Sunday morning and sat down to breakfast, each of the prisoners having one hand loosened from the handcuffs. They had finished breakfast, and were preparing to pull out again, when "Crackerbox," who was sitting at the table, stepped toward them, saying, "Boys here's a trick you don't know. So saying, he sat down to the table and Sergeant Gordon, his assistant, Constable Pat Miller, the driver of the wagon, and Barnett stepped behind him to look over his shoulder. As they stepped forward, however, Gallagher drew a revolver out of the constable's belt and before the others knew what they were about the pistol was levelled at Sergeant Gordon's head with the cry, "Hands up!" Gordon refused to throw up his hands, and commenced to draw whereupon Gallagher fired, and the sergeant still seeming uncertain what to do, a second shot followed when Gordon threw up his hands. Neither of the shots took effect. "Crackerbox" then disarmed the party and the two runaways then compelled Miller and Barnett to handcuff the police, after which "Crackerbox" went and saddled the police horses leaving Gallagher on guard.

This being accomplished, the two mounted and left for parts unknown, and have not yet been recaptured.—Calgary Herald June 1.

A Tighe's statute labour was commuted for five years. Moved by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. Crowe, that Mr. Kirk be appointed to see what can be done towards getting a road to the children of Mr. E. T. Hubble and others to get to school in S. S. No. 11.—Carried. On motion the following appropriations were made for roads:—

Kirk a commissioner, to expend not more than $60, between Dummer and Asphodel, and Dummer and Belmont. The following orders were granted:—To Donald McIntosh, heading of bridge in high water, &c., $200; John Hunter, surveying roll of 1885, $70.00; Edward Walsh, keeping of Stavin, including orders by Reeves, $10.00; Wm. F. Darling, salary as assessor for 1886, $45.00; Siles Pearson, refund statute labor tax for 1884-3, $8.13. The following by-laws were passed:—On to appoint township officers, read twice on 27th February last, and one to make read appropriations and appoint commissioners for expending the same. The Council adjourned to Saturday the 26th of June next.

REVERT ACT.—The first case here, under the Revert Act, was tried on Tuesday of last week. Mr. Smith, of the Clarendon, being charged with the breach of the law. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed.

INDIAN REMAINS.—Dr. O'Gradyman used to the other day a quantity of bones belonging to Indians, whom from the state of decay in which some of the bones were in, being soft and spongy, must have been buried for ages, others, particularly a complete skull with lower jaw were in a good state of preservation. The skull is a massive one and evidently belongs to a buck of his tribe, whose cheeks must have been immense, only to be outdone by the whitom pedlar of nickel plate. The whole grisly of them was found about two miles down the railway track by Mr. Crozier, where section men were ballasting. A singular coincidence in connection with the discovery of this old burial plot is, the selection of the contiguous plot for the Trent Valley Cemetery, with all the remotest suspicion that the red man had pre-empted the land for similar purposes.—Star.

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "jellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Cough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "jellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small fry for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

From a Parliamentary return of the amounts advanced within five years towards the construction of harbours of refuge, it appears that the total sum so advanced has been £237,300. Out of this £78,000 was for harbours in England and Wales, £109,000 for Scotland, and £50,300 for Ireland.

The Queen takes a very keen interest in the newspaper descriptions of economies in which she figures, and this interest has been prominently shown in connection with her visit to Liverpool. Special orders were given on behalf of Her Majesty to the daily newspapers to furnish a supply of copies for use at Newsham House.

The disused burial ground of St. Mary-le-Strand, off Russell-court, Catherine street, a spot described as being identical with "Tom All Alone's," in "The Black Man," was recently, owing to the action taken by the Metropolitan Public Gardens Association, opened as a playground for the children living in the neighbourhood of Drury Lane.

Headache in School Children.

Professor N. J. Byström has examined 7,473 boys and girls in the St. Petersburg schools during the last five years, and found headache in 68; that is, in 11.6 per cent. He states that the percentage of headache increases almost in a direct proportion with the age of the children, as well as with the number of hours occupied by them for mental labor; thus, while headache occurred in only 9 per cent. of the children aged 8, it attacked from 28 to 40 per cent. of the pupils aged from 14 to 18. The author argues that an essential cause of obstinate headache in school children is the excessive mental strain enforced by the present educational programme, which leaves out of consideration the peculiarities of the child's nature and the elementary principles of scientific hygiene. The overstrain brings about an increased irritability of the brain and consecutive disturbances in the cerebral circulation. Professor Byström emphatically insists on the imperative necessity for permanently admitting medical men to conferences of school boards. Of palliative measures he mentions gymnastic gymnastics, mild aperients in well nourished children, steel in the anemic, bromides, inhalation of oxygen, and in severe cases a temporary discontinuance of all studies.—British Medical Journal.

A Lady's Secret.

"I'd give a good deal if I had such a pure, healthy skin as you have," said a lady to a friend. "Just look at mine, all spots and blotches, and rough as a grater. Tell me the secret of your success in always looking so well." "There is no secret about it," was the reply. "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cleaned my skin, and when that was done my skin, which was worse than yours, began to look smooth and healthy, as you see it now."

Fall of a Free Stand.

ST. LOUIS, June 8.—During the contest for the Ellipse stake yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds the stand occupied by press representatives fell with a crash, carrying down with it the occupants and crushing those standing underneath. Following is a list of the killed and most severely injured. Charles Dyer, assistant sporting editor of the St. Louis Republic, killed. Charles J. Osborne, agent of the Associated Press, spine severely injured. James B. McCallage, managing editor of the Globe-Democrat, wrist and ankle sprained. C. F. Botone, of Silver City, Col., shoulder broken, also injured about the head; Patrick S. Kousle, broken shoulder; A. L. Cary, bruised about the head and limbs; August Gussler, arm broken. Many others were slightly injured. The accident occurred during the last half mile of the race. Every eye was strained to catch the exact position of the horses and the nearest rail leaned over in the excitement, while those from the rear crowded up. The combined weight proved too great and the accident followed.

Sparrows Attack a Boy.

One day last week Officer Collins, of the Intercolonial at St. John, observed a small boy walk into the train shed. Proceeding along the middle of the floor of the train shed he noticed the little fellow picking up a young fledgling which had no doubt fallen from the nest in the roof. In a few moments a large number of sparrows swooped down upon the urchin, huffing and chattering as if remonstrating with him for taking it. The little fellow heeded not their stings and proceeded to walk off with it. But the birds were resolved that he should not, and set to work in a lively manner with their bills. The little chap cried piteously, and if it had not been for officer Collins it is believed they would have picked his eyes out.

THE QUEEN AND THE CANADIAN SECTION.

From the London. Eng., Canadian Gazette of May 27th we take the following notes regarding the Colonial Exhibition:—

The s.s. Ulanda, with 800 tons of exhibits from Canada, reached the London Docks on Tuesday last, and so excellent were the transport arrangements under the charge of Messrs. T. and E. Kenny, that active work in the unpacking and arrangement in the various courts was possible as early as 4 a.m. on Thursday morning. The new exhibits comprise the Dominion Government's interesting ornithological collection to form part of the Natural History court; a variety of excellent photographs and pictures, which already add brilliancy to many portions of the Canadian section; silk and other textile fabrics of much merit; Canadian machinery of the famous Corlies type; and also considerable additions to the furniture, metal, educational, and agricultural exhibits, such as will, it is hoped, enable the Canadian section to assume a complete form in the course of the present week.

The commercial interests of Canada are already beginning to benefit by the display. During the past week very large orders are reported by various Canadian firms, including organs, spring mattresses, and various manufactured goods. Representatives of the London School Board are among recent enquirers, with a view of large purchases of school desks, seats, appliances, while deputations with a similar object have come from as far north as Halifax in Yorkshire.

The Exhibition Conference Committee has drawn up a preliminary programme of papers to be read at the Exhibition during the season. Among the contributions we notice that those touching upon Canada will include one by Professor F. W. M. Macdonald on Canadian agriculture, and another by Professor Macdonald on the botany and vegetable products of the Dominion, while Dr. Selwyn and Mr. Alexander Begg are also to read papers. Mr. Begg will treat of "The Great North-West."

The record of the Exhibition opened well in the way of numbers, and last week full sustained the high figures previously reached. In the course of the week as many as 140,533 passed the turnstile. For the corresponding period, dated from the opening, in former exhibitions the official returns were: 1883, 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887, 1888, 1889, 1890, 1891, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1942, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, PRESENTATION.

Brockville's Farewell to Prof. Seward.

Who Came to Peterborough.

The Choral Society of the First Presbyterian Church, Brockville, gave a concert on Tuesday evening, June 8th, in honor of Prof. Seward, who had been organist of that church, but who was about coming to Peterborough as organist of St. John's Church. "The gathering," says the Recorder, "gave practical evidence of the high esteem in which Mr. Seward is held by the people, who are sincerely sorry at his departure, feeling that in losing his services they are losing a gentleman who has done much since his settlement in Brockville to advance the culture of music, which fact is evidenced by the progress made by the choral society and his church choir, which used to fill the church every Sunday evening by those who are lovers of well rendered sacred melody."

Between the first and second parts of the programme Mr. Seward was called to the front by Mr. W. A. Gilmore, when the latter gentleman read and presented to Mr. Seward the following address, accompanied by a purse containing upwards of $100.

To Louis Seward, Esq.:
DEAR SIR: Learning that you have decided not to accept the position of organist of the First Presbyterian Church of Brockville, but have accepted a similar position in Peterborough, the undersigned members and adherents of the First Presbyterian Church desire to express to you the great regret they feel at losing your services.

They also wish to convey to you their esteem for you as a man, a talented musician, and worthy member of the community, on your departure from Brockville.

Our loss will be Peterborough's gain. Wherever you lot may be cast, we will all be glad to hear of your success in your life, and hope that God will bless you, your wife and family, and surround you with every earthly comfort to the end of your sojourn in this world, and a happy home in Heaven at last, where all earthly troubles will be at an end.

At the same time we desire you to accept the accompanying purse as a memento of the sincerity of the feelings we have expressed in this address.

We have the honor to remain,
Yours, in all sincerity,
(The members and adherents of the First Presbyterian Church of Brockville.)

Signed,
June 8th, 1886.

To this address Mr. Seward replied in a few words. His heart was too full for a speech. He said he had been in many parts of the world, but had never been treated better than he had been by his friends in Brockville, and that should his services ever be required in Brockville, he would be most happy to come again.

A Mad Hare.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A special to the Herald from Avignon says: "A large black hare, which was bitten a few weeks ago by a mad dog, was seized yesterday morning with rabies, and caused a panic in the city. The beast attacked its owner, biting him on the head, and seizing his hand with its teeth, it dragged the man 200 yards, until the hand was nearly severed from the arm. The man then charged through the streets, attacking every person and every object it met. All the inhabitants took to flight and for half an hour the brute remained close by the door of the house, and all breaking a couple of windows and damaging a veranda. No one was injured. An attempt was also made to fire the residence of Magistrate Hodel, another street, but it was not successful. The hare was shot in time. The Mayor has offered a reward of $200 for the apprehension of the guilty parties. The County Council last evening passed a resolution in favour of a Police Magistrate, and the outrages were committed about three hours later."

Another Dynamite Outrage.

SARINIA, June 10.—An attack with dynamite or some such explosive was made last night about 10 o'clock on the residence of J. G. McCrae, a warm supporter of the Scott Act, and who has taken an active interest in securing the appointment of police magistrates. The explosive was apparently thrown, and struck the sill of the front door shattering the door and all breaking a couple of windows and damaging a veranda. No one was injured. An attempt was also made to fire the residence of Magistrate Hodel, another street, but it was not successful. The hare was shot in time. The Mayor has offered a reward of $200 for the apprehension of the guilty parties. The County Council last evening passed a resolution in favour of a Police Magistrate, and the outrages were committed about three hours later."

THE CLOSURE OF THE PRESENT SESSION—All the Cases Disposed of.

The sittings of the County Court closed to-day at about 1 o'clock. The whole of Thursday was spent in hearing the case, GRIFFIN VS. AMY.

The claim put in by the plaintiff was for $200 balance due on contract for building a house near Lakefield, besides $72 extras. The defence was that the house had not been built according to contract and that the defendant was entitled to deductions to the full extent of the plaintiff's claim, and $400 damages on account of the defective construction of the house. The case lasted from 9.30 a.m., till after 10 p.m. The jury returned a verdict at that time giving plaintiff $261 for balance due on contract, and a verdict for the defendant to the same amount for deductions on account of defective construction. On this finding the Judge entered a verdict for the defendant, the question as to costs being reserved, as the jury had recommended the parties each to pay his own costs.

Pousette, Q.C., for the plaintiff; Moore for the defendant.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

The Grand Jury Presentment was brought in on Thursday afternoon as follows:—

To His Honor Judge Weller:

The Grand Jurors of Our Sovereign Lady the Queen, in making their presentment, desire to congratulate Your Honor upon your elevation to the bench, a position for which your legal attainments, as is well known by every adult resident of the county, and your high sense of justice, eminently fit Your Honor to fill with both credit to yourself and the county, and to hope that you may be long spared to a long life of public usefulness.

While we have to congratulate ourselves upon the lightness of our duties, we have also to congratulate yourself and the county upon the freedom from crime thus indicated, and to regard it as a pleasing mark of the sobriety and industry of a law abiding people.

We have made the customary examination of the Court House, gaol and premises, and find everything in good repair and in a state of cleanliness creditable to both officials having charge thereof.

In conclusion it may not be out of place to remark upon the great success achieved by the Horticultural Society of Peterborough in beautifying the grounds of the Court House Park, thereby adding greatly to the beauty and value of the county property in the county town, and justifying the County Council in making a grant for such a purpose.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
JOHN FIDLEY, Foreman.

MORTON VS. TULLY.

In this case there was an organ in dispute. The plaintiff had handed over the instrument to an agent named Shaw to dispose of. The latter ran up a bill at the hotel of the defendant and left the organ on the premises, presumable security. The owner of the organ came for it, but possession was refused by the defendant. A bond was given and the organ was taken by the plaintiff pending the result of the present action. The Judge entered a verdict for the plaintiff.

Edmonson, for the plaintiff; O'Meara, for the defendant.

BEAVIS VS. BEAVIS.

The heirs of the John Beavis estate, other than Thomas Beavis, claimed the sum of $126, rents received by Thomas Beavis as agent of the estate. The action was referred to the term.

Wood, for the plaintiff; Peck, for the defendant.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

THE TRAIN SERVICE.—A last definite arrangement has been made as to an improved train service between here and Peterborough. On Tuesday Mr. R. C. Strickland received a letter from Mr. Stevenson, General Superintendent, Montreal, stating that trains will run as follows:—

Leave Lakefield 10 a.m.
Arrive Peterborough 10.45 a.m.
Leave Lakefield 7.15 p.m.
Arrive Peterborough 7.55 p.m.
Leave Lakefield 9.45 a.m.
Arrive Peterborough 10.15 p.m.

This is not only a boon to Lakefield people but also to the many hundreds from Peterborough and other places who will doubtless avail themselves of the facilities now offered by train and boat to spend a pleasant day amidst the beautiful scenery of Stony Lake, and see the work that is now being done on the Burleigh Falls section of the Trent Valley Canal. It is understood that this new service will come into effect on Monday next, the 14th inst.

COUNTY COURT.

The Close of the Present Session—All the Cases Disposed of.

The sittings of the County Court closed to-day at about 1 o'clock. The whole of Thursday was spent in hearing the case, GRIFFIN VS. AMY.

The claim put in by the plaintiff was for $200 balance due on contract for building a house near Lakefield, besides $72 extras. The defence was that the house had not been built according to contract and that the defendant was entitled to deductions to the full extent of the plaintiff's claim, and $400 damages on account of the defective construction of the house. The case lasted from 9.30 a.m., till after 10 p.m. The jury returned a verdict at that time giving plaintiff

FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1886.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Fire Department.
Inspected the Fire Department this afternoon.

Personal.
Among the contributions to the "Loyalist Defence Fund" acknowledged in the Orange Sentinel is one of $20 from Mr. C. W. Sawers, Peterborough.

Of the Best and Newest.
The Ottawa Journal says:—"The Peterborough Review appears in a new dress of type. The Review is one of the best and newest papers in the country."

Cantata.
Flower Queen, or Coronation of the Rose, will be repeated in aid of the Protestant Home on Friday, 18th June 1886, in the Opera House. Tickets at the rate of 25 cents, which may be had at all the stationery stores. Children half price. An efficient orchestra will accompany the cantata.

Military.
An application is to be made to the Minister of Militia to have the signal corps in connection with the 57th Battalion granted as a distinct body, though still attached to the battalion. As it is now the members belong to a company, and are obliged to put in two kinds of drill, infantry and signal work. Special uniforms are also to be applied for.

Lacrosse.
There will be a big practice of the members of the Lacrosse Club in the Riverside Park this evening. Every member is wanted, and the Creses are also asked to attend. The team to contest the Midland District Championship with the Orillias on June 15th will be chosen from the following: Messrs. Halpin, Scott, Tierney, Henderson, Sheehy, Rudkins, Fortye, Rutherford, Brennan, McAvella, Traynor, Welch and Canning.

DADO BLINDS. See ROUTLEY'S Catalogue.

Canoeing.
Mr. E. B. Edwards, captain of the canoeing department of the Boating Club, is arranging a convenient little sail for canoeists. Mr. Brundrett has offered to take a party of canoeists for the ordinary fare, charging nothing for the transmission of canoes, up the line to Lakeside. Here Capt. Edwards proposes to embark the fleet, and pleasantly sail down the river in the evening. The trip will take place same day next week. Those intending to go should hand in their names to Capt. Edwards.

Unexcelled.
The Lindsay Post says:—"The Peterborough DAILY REVIEW has been treated to a new dress of body and advertising type throughout, and now looks handsome and more readable than ever! The DAILY REVIEW has been for years the acme of typographical neatness and—barring its frightful politics—a paper so thoroughly respectable, interesting and readable that its circulation has been large and remunerative. The mechanical facilities at hand for turning out the paper are—as is very well known—not excelled by the city dailies, and the paper reflects well the enterprise and spirit of progress shown by the stirring town of Peterborough."

Building.
A rumor to the effect that a large amount of building in town had been suspended has, by some means, gained currency. This report cites the case of Mr. Geo. A. Cox more particularly. Mr. Cox says that so far as he is concerned the report is entirely unfounded. He is going on with the building operations he decided on in the early spring. He says that he has now thirty men in his employment engaged in building operations. The block of buildings next to the new post office will be built, as will also the Toronto Real Estate big block on Hunter and Water streets. Very assuring reports come from the contractors, most of whom have their hands full. One contractor says that he has now sixteen contracts ahead.

St. John's Church Choir.
The members of St. John's Church choir will meet on Saturday evening, when Mr. Soward will take charge for re-organization. A large attendance is desired.

Social.
The St. Paul's Faithful Workers Mission Band, will give a social at the residence of Mr. James Duggan on Monday evening, 14th inst. Refreshments will be served. Admission 10 cents.

Our Band.
The excursion to be run down the river on Tuesday next per Golden Era, under the auspices of the Fire Brigade, will proceed to Idyl Wild, not to Campbello, as advertised. Though the pleasure trip will be thus much lengthened, the fare will be the same. This excursion should be well patronized, as the proceeds go toward paying for the band uniforms.

Cheese.
Nine hundred and nine boxes of cheese were delivered by the representatives of the county factories at the Grand Trunk Railway freight department this forenoon. The amount of money disbursed, reckoning the boxes at fifty-five pounds on an average, is $3,413.68. Mr. Clouston purchased 502 boxes at 7 cents per pound, and Mr. Cook, for Messrs. T. J. & F. H. Warrington, of Belleville, 407, at 6 1/2 cents per pound.

High Court of Justice.
The dates for the Fall Assizes and sittings of the Chancery Court have been announced. For Peterborough and neighboring towns they are:—Peterborough—Assizes, Monday, Nov. 8th; Chancery, Monday, Nov. 8th; Lindsay—Assizes, Monday, Nov. 1st; Chancery, Thursday, Nov. 4th; Cobourg—Assizes, Wednesday, Nov. 10th; Chancery, Tuesday, Oct. 19th. It will be noticed that the Assizes and Chancery Court are set down to open here on the same day. Mr. Justice Rose is to preside at the Assizes and Mr. Justice Proudfoot at the Chancery Court.

The Liverpool, London & Globe Ins. Co.
The Liverpool Mercury of 20th May has given an interesting account of the proceedings of the annual meeting of the Liverpool, London and Globe Insurance Company, held on the 19th of May. From the report we gather that after the payment of all claims and losses the invested fund of the company amounts to $35,200,700. Besides this the liability of the shareholders is unlimited. The company has actually paid since its formation the following large sums:—For fire losses, $82,040,235; for life losses, $25,890,225; total, $107,930,510. The enormous premium income of this company is evidence of its popularity and of the confidence reposed in it by the public. It was last year as follows:—Fire premiums (after deducting re-insurance), $6,261,925; life premiums (net), $1,135,661; premium income, $7,397,586, to which had to be added interest on investment, $1,454,770, giving the net income for the year at $8,852,356. It appears from the proceedings of the meeting that the only point on which the directors and shareholders were not in perfect accord was that the former continued to increase the reserve funds, while the stockholders desired that a larger dividend should have been paid. The conservative action of the directors on this point, will, no doubt, commend itself to the patrons. The company still maintains its claim to doing the largest fire insurance business in the world. Mr. W. H. Clouston has represented here for about thirty years this company, which stands foremost in the insurance world, and is worthy of the large business it obtains.

Presentation.
On Thursday evening the members of Mr. Richardson's Bible Class, in the Sunday School of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, visited Mr. T. E. Pratt and Mrs. Pratt (formerly Miss Northcote), who were recently united in marriage, at their residence, and presented them with a beautiful hanging lamp and a very handsome silver pitcher. Mr. Richardson formerly taught this class in the Bible Christian Church, at which time Mr. and Mrs. Pratt were members of it, and when the union of the churches took place the class went to the Charlotte Street Sunday School. The address was read by Mr. Harry Cross, and Miss Miller and Mr. Arthur Tobb made the presentation. The address was as follows:—

To Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Pratt:
We the undersigned members of Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School Bible class, conducted by Mr. Isaac Richardson, beg to convey our hearty congratulations to you on the event of your marriage, and to show the high esteem you are held in by us. While appreciating the great interest you took in the promotion and welfare of our class, we respectfully ask you to accept the accompanying presents as a slight token of our regard.

That our Heavenly Father will watch over and guide you both with His almighty eye, and that you may be long spared to further the interests, not only of the class of which you have been so long members, but also in every good work in which you may be engaged, are the prayers of,
Yours most faithfully,

The address was signed by Isaac Richardson (teacher), Emily J. Miller, Emma Job, Mary Holland, Jennie Brenton, Eliza Kent, Charlotte Kent, Mary Frise, Katie Frise, Nellie Fuller, Maggie Mines, Johanna Netherland, Herbert Allen, Arthur Tobb, A. W. RIOTING IN IRELAND.

Wounded Riots Dying in Belfast.
More Fighting in Lurgan.

BELFAST, June 10.—The city was comparatively quiet this forenoon. Seven hundred extra policemen are now in town. Six hundred Loyalists drilled near the city of Lurgan last night.

Four of the rioters who were wounded by the police in yesterday's riot are dying. The Orangemen are making large purchases of arms, and are declaring that they will have revenge upon the police for firing into their ranks. At a meeting of Protestants living on Shank hill road, resolutions were adopted denouncing the action of the police from outlying districts coming to Belfast and attacking peaceful citizens, and demanding their withdrawal. The number of policemen on duty in Belfast this afternoon was 1300. A number of troops from Newry have also arrived to assist the police in maintaining order. The magistrates ordered all the taverns in the city to be closed to-night. No mobs are to be allowed to congregate on the streets.

BELFAST, June 10.—The funeral of Thomas Gallagher, the Orangeman who was shot and killed during the riot at Lurgan on Tuesday took place to-day. The funeral procession was protected by a hundred soldiers and two hundred policemen. A mob of Catholics jeered the mourners and threatened to stop the hearse but the police held them in check. The political and religious excitement is leading to dangerous quarrels among women in the factories at Lurgan. At one factory the Protestant females have struck work, demanding the dismissal of the Catholics. Rioting was renewed to-night. An infuriated mob held possession of the streets and wrecked and pillaged the taverns. The police were compelled to fire back into the mob. So far as known nobody has been fatally injured. Many of the police were badly hurt by stones. The appeals of the clergy to the rioters to disperse were futile. Eventually the troops cleared the streets.

Orange riots have broken out in Fintona County, Tyrone. Many houses have been wrecked by the mob.

IRELAND.

The wife of Lord Justice Barry died in Dublin on May 12th.

Mr. John Galloway, Clerk of the Crown and Peace for county Kildare, is dead.

Mr. Wm. Landon, a candidate for county Limerick at the last election, was evicted from his holding at Killybeg on May 14th by the sub-sheriff.

On May 10th the O'Donoghue, with Madame O'Donoghue, attended before Judge Boyd, and assented to an abatement of 50 per cent. on the rents of Glenflesk, Kerry.

A Dublin tradesman named Cairnes was found in a dying state near his place of business on the 19th May, his body bearing from 25 to 30 wounds, inflicted apparently with a knife. He expired next day.

A farmer named Patric Quigley, residing near Tulla, County Clare, was murdered in his own house on Sunday night, May 16th. He was retiring to rest for the night when a shot was fired through the bedroom window, with fatal effect, scattering his brains about the apartment.

In Ireland Mr. Cole, one of H. M. Inspectors, states that the linen trade has been much depressed. 50,000 spindles are idle out of a total of 574,788. It is satisfactory to know that the average under flax in Ireland is 18,924 acres over the preceding year; and, better still, the last year's crop was one of the best ever gathered in Ireland.

Is a well known fact that the "Cable" and "El Padre" brands of cigars are the oldest, most reliable and best value in the market. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of close on to one thousand operatives. Smokers will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above mentioned brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. S. The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1886.

ARE THEY PARIAS?

With a flourish of trumpets the leading Helio organ repeats and adopts as its own the slanderous attack of Mr. M. C. Cameron upon Messrs. Macdonald and Tupper, the lawyers of Winnipeg, because they are the sons of Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper. With a pretence of fairness the Globe also publishes the reply made by the Premier, but endeavors to counteract its effect by false statements in regard to it. For instance it says that Sir John did not respond at the time, and that he waited till Mr. Cameron had gone home. The truth is that Mr. Cameron, being like many other knaves a coward into the bargain, uttered his calumnies when Sir John was not present to defend himself and his son. Sir John did not know all businesses of his son's law firm and its clients, and as he said:—

"I state here in my place as a member of Parliament, and on my honour as a gentleman, that neither of these two young men ever addressed me, or spoke to me, or approached me directly or indirectly with any claim or application that they were about to make."

He therefore had to have recourse to the official documents, and five days was no unreasonable time for this. If Mr. Cameron had then gone home, he should not have run away from the inevitable exposure of his falsehoods, an exposure which could not justly be delayed on account of the slanderer's cowardice.

Sir John was able to show from the official records that of the six wanton charges made against his son, in two cases the clients failed to obtain what they asked, in three they did not except because they thought the price too high or the terms too onerous, and in the remaining one the matter is still in abeyance the client having obtained an extension of the time for survey on condition of paying a year's rent, $250, in advance.

Mr. M. C. Cameron's slanders have thus brought into the strongest light the absolute impartiality of the Administration when applications made by the son of the Premier and his law partners were thus treated in exact accordance with the regulations, the absence of any favoritism being shown by the almost invariable want of success, a result that certainly would not have been seen under a corrupt administration. Surely no fair minded man will seriously maintain that the sons of cabinet ministers and of high officials, if they are members of the legal profession, are to send their clients away should business arise with respect to the settlement of the country, or even that they should be precluded themselves from investing in the public lands on the same terms as other Canadians. We have no privileged caste in Canada, but neither do we wish that the relations of our public men should rank as pariahs, unfit for the privileges of their fellowmen. Sir John spoke with perfect reason when he said:—

"They are, I am happy to say because I am interested in my son's prosperity, doing very well as lawyers; they have a very considerable business, and they deal, as all other legal men are doing and have a right to do, and as everybody does in the Northwest, with land purchases; it is their affair altogether, and it is too much to say that, because their parents happen to be public men, they alone of Her Majesty's subjects in Canada should be prevented from doing a legitimate business if they choose to do so." And again:—"Every one of the statements are proved to be untrue. There never was granted to these young men a favour which ought not to have been granted, or a favour which would not have been granted to the son of any man in this House."

The fact is that the policy of slanders adopted by the Opposition, because they cannot frame any other policy, is a disgrace to our fair Dominion. If they could show any partiality, any favoritism, the exposure might be looked upon as a necessary evil, like a surgical operation, painful but salutary. But with all their industry and all their recklessness they have not shown that in one single case the Administration has granted the least favour to a political or personal friend that was not equally open to the first comers. Never was there a more just or fitting rebuke than that with which Sir John Macdonald concluded his remarks, as reported by the Globe:—

"It is inauspicious for the mere purpose of political malignity, this gentleman—I cannot call him an honourable gentleman, except by Parliamentary courtesy—should try to besmear the characters of young men as honest and more honest than himself. The hon. gentleman makes his attacks for mean, base, and low purposes."

"Sir John Macdonald.—When a member of this House gets up and charges another member with dishonourable conduct, the member slandered has, I believe, the right to repudiate that charge with indignation, and in language as strong as the English dictionary will furnish. (Loud cheers.)"

A SLANDERER EXPOSED.
The following is the Hawarden report of Sir John Macdonald's refutation in the House of Mr. M. C. Cameron's calumnies in relation to Messrs. Macdonald and Tupper, of Winnipeg:—

Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD.—Before the Orders of the Day are gone into, I feel called upon to speak with regard to the remarks made by the hon. member for West Huron (Mr. Cameron) respecting my great criminality in dealing in public lands. I was not here when the hon. gentleman spoke, and I was rather surprised when I was told that I had been in the category of those concerned in public plunder. I was particularly surprised at this, because, whatever my sins otherwise might be, I had never dealt in any lands, or scrip, or limits of any kind from the time I came of age till this moment. Never did I apply on behalf of myself or of any client that I can remember for any lands or privileges from the Crown in any way, and, therefore, I could not understand how I could be implicated in the charges brought by the hon. member for Huron (Mr. Cameron). I, therefore, could not well understand how I was implicated, but, upon reading the hon. gentleman's speech, which I did since I was well enough to do so, I found that my sin was in having a son, that my son was practising in the North-West, and his sin was in having for a partner the son of Sir Charles Tupper, and that these two gentlemen, practising lawyers, had actually committed the great sin of dealing in lands and speculating, and making applications, as others did, in the North-West. The language of the hon. gentleman is most extraordinary, and I was going to say, if it was parliamentary, most infamous. This is his language:—

"Now, sir, I find that the son of the First Minister of this Dominion, and the son of Sir Charles Tupper, have for years been using their all-powerful influence with this Administration, in order to secure large slices of public domain and the public resources of this country. For years they have been trading on and speculating in that influence, and in the resources of the Dominion thereby. I say the startling disclosures that have been so far made in the equity pillar of the Court of Queen's Bench in the Province of Manitoba are enough to arouse the indignation of any people in any country."

Well, Mr. Speaker, this charge, it means that I mean that my son and the son of Sir Charles Tupper, using their influence with their parents, had secured slices of land improperly in this country. Now, I state here, in my place as a member of Parliament, and on my honour as a gentleman, that neither of those two young men ever addressed me or spoke to me or approached me directly or indirectly upon any claim or application that they were about to make, and I would further venture to say that both Mr. Stewart Tupper and Mr. Hugh John Macdonald are honest and honourable men, and I am quite satisfied that they would not do anything that would disgrace their parents or disgrace themselves. They are, I am happy to say—because I am interested in my son's prosperity—doing very well as lawyers; they have a very considerable business, and they deal, as all other legal men are doing and have a right to do, and as everyone does in the North-West, with land purchases. It is their affair altogether, and it is too much to say that, because their parents happen to be public men, they alone of Her Majesty's subjects in Canada should be precluded from doing legitimate business if they choose to do so. I said that I was perfectly ignorant of any one of the transactions mentioned here, but, being satisfied that the honor of these gentlemen was without stain, I caused enquiries to be made. It appears that these statements that were made by the hon. member for West Huron (Mr. Cameron) were based on certain exhibits filed in an equity suit in Manitoba. The hon. member for Macdonald and Tupper had two partners, Mr. McArthur and Mr. Baxter. The partnership was severed; there was a difference between the partners as to the accounts, and they have gone into chancery to settle the accounts between them, and these papers which were laid before the court were published in one of the newspapers, and hence the hon. member for West Huron gathers these facts, which he utterly distorts, utterly misstates, and grossly and maliciously insinuates as being dishonourable and discreditable to these two young gentlemen and to myself and to Sir Charles Tupper. Now, here is the first case:—

"From the evidence, so far as it has been submitted—and it has only been partially submitted—these two young men appear to have secured a timber limit on the Swan River in the name of John McMahon. Several partners are interested in that limit, and among the young men had a ninth blind share in it. But that was not sufficient to compensate these two young men for the valuable services they had rendered in securing the limit, and so the order-in-council granting it was cancelled. A new deal was effected; a new order-in-council was issued, granting the timber limit to T. P. Walsh, for T. P. Walsh, John McMahon, the Hon. Edgar Dewdney, and Macdonald and Tupper held a three-fifths interest; and the Hon. Edgar Dewdney, pet and friend of this Administration, offered to sell his interest in it for $50,000. I have always been amazed and astounded, considering the charge that have been made against Edgar Dewdney by the press supporting hon. gentlemen opposite in Parliament and out of Parliament, that a man so denounced by the public, who have denounced him as utterly unfit for the position he occupies—I say I have been surprised that a man so denounced by the public, and whose own friends, should have been retained in his place until a rebellion broke out, to secure extent through his instrumentality, and even after it broke out. The mystery is no longer a mystery, this litigation has unfolded."

I went over to the Department of the Interior to find out all about this John McMahon and his grant, and these are the facts, as conveyed to me by the officers of that Department:—

"On the 18th January, 1883, an application from John McMahon was received in the Department for a timber limit on the Swan River. The application was originally signed by J. B. McArthur, but McArthur's name was erased and John McMahon's substituted. On the 18th March, 1883, the McMahon application was received from John McMahon by his attorney, Macdonald and Tupper. This application was granted on the usual conditions, which McMahon found so onerous that on the 18th November, 1883, he surrendered the limit having paid $250 ground rent. On the 19th December, 1883, the same limit was granted to T. P. Walsh. Walsh never complied with the conditions, and he therefore no longer an interest in the limit, which remains in the Crown."

"Macdonald and Tupper also applied for, and were able to secure in the name of John Apter, a timber limit on the Bulling River, in which they held a fourth blind share, and for which a firm of manufacturers offered $50,000, although it cost these young men, I suppose, but a few dollars. The memorandum which comes from the Department is this:—

"Apter, through his solicitors, McArthur and Dexter, applied on the 24th August, 1883, for a limit on the Bulling River. Order-in-Council, 27th October, 1883, granting Apter limit on usual conditions paid. On the 24th March, 1884, Hugh J. Macdonald applied, on behalf of his client, for an extension of time in which to make the survey. He is informed that, upon the receipt of one year's ground rent ($250), his request will be complied with. This was paid on the 14th August, 1884, and Apter notified accordingly to his address, Niles P. O., Michigan. The Department has had a good deal of correspondence with Apter, who is clearly a bona fide applicant, acting for himself alone."

This is all on that. Then:—

"These same young men, in the name of Alexander Moffatt, secured the passage of an Order-in-Council on the 24th August, 1883, granting them a timber limit of fifty square miles in the disputed territory, in which they held one-fifth blind share. They also obtained a limit on Swan River in the name of someone unknown, in which they had one-fifth blind share."

In regard to that, I have this:—

"On the 8th November, 1882, Moffatt applied for a limit on the Leaf River. This limit was granted on the usual conditions, and the decision of the Executive Council. Moffatt is a member of the firm of Moffatt & Caldwell, bankers, Winnipeg. He is a respectable man, and there is nothing to connect the firm of Macdonald and Tupper with the application beyond the fact that Hugh Macdonald wrote a private letter to the Deputy Minister."

That is Mr. Burgess'—

"telling him who Moffatt was, and later Mr. Arthur, owing to Moffatt's absence in England, applied for extension of leave within which he could make survey."

Then again:—

"These young men appear further to have secured section 32, township 21, range 2, and section 38, township 21, range 2, west of the fourth principal meridian, 1,280 acres of coal lands at the Blackfoot Crossing, where, it is alleged, the best coal lands in the country are and these worthy representatives of worthy sires had one half blind share in that little deal."

In regard to that:—

"J. M. Dufresne, of Montreal, is the person with whom the Department has had all the correspondence in relation to these lands. Dufresne was informed that the land would be sold to him and his associates, among whom was J. B. Carleton, for $10 an acre, cash. That is the price for which all coal lands are sold in the North-West, at which they are put in the market."

"They never paid any money and never got any land."

The next charge is:—

"The two worthy sons of worthy sires do not appear to have limited their operations to coal and timber lands. They were willing to turn a penny in any way out of the public resources of the country, over which their fathers then had full control, and so they applied for the salt springs flowing into Lake Winnipegosis and Mr. Hall of the Department of the Interior, wrote them that those lake salt springs could be had at $5 an acre. These young men appear to have had a blind share in that little deal also."

Now, Sir, they had a perfect right to apply for these things; they could get them. The reply to that charge is this:—

"On the 28th August, 1883, Macdonald and Tupper applied, under instructions from their client, Mr. Peter Barclay, of Birtle, for a salt spring on Lake Winnipegosis. They were informed that if their client can establish proof of discovery, he can get forty acres at $5 a blind share. Whether the lot got it or not I do not know, but it is very likely they did not complete the contract because the Canadian Pacific Railway changed the terminus of the road."

The next charge is:—

"When the late Minister of Railways fixed the terminus of the railway at Port Moody, the son of the Premier and the son of the Minister of Railways applied to this Government over which their father's wielded unbounded sway, for five hundred acres of the beach at Port Moody. Whether the lot got it or not I do not know, but it is very likely they did not complete the contract because the Canadian Pacific Railway changed the terminus of the road."

The answer to that charge is this:—

"In August, 1883, J. W. McKay and Albert J. Hall, of New Westminster, applied for certain tidal lands situate at the east end of Port Moody. The application was referred to Mr. Trutch, who, on the 7th November, 1883, reported that, as these lands adjoined the terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway, they were of considerable present value and prospective importance. He therefore recommended that the application should not be entertained. Hugh Macdonald wrote, on the 4th November, 1883, asking if Mr. Trutch had reported on his client's application, and on the 26th December, 1883, he was informed of Mr. Trutch's report, and told that in consequence thereof no action would be taken on Mr. McKay's application by the Department."

These, Sir, are the charges that are brought. The hon. gentleman happened to see the statement in the newspaper and he took occasion to found thereon, to found the most malignant and serious charges against myself, against Sir Charles Tupper, and against these two young gentlemen, who never did him any harm, who had the full right, not only to make such purchases as he entertained, Hugh Macdonald wrote, on the 4th November, 1883, asking if Mr. Trutch had reported on his client's application, and on the 26th December, 1883, he was informed of Mr. Trutch's report, and told that in consequence thereof no action would be taken on Mr. McKay's application by the Department."

Mr. JOHN MACDONALD.—When an hon. member of this House gets up and charges another hon. member with dishonourable conduct, the latter has a full parliamentary right—and I appeal to the House, and I appeal to your sense of rectitude, if it is not so—to reject and repudiate the charge

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1,000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestible Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at John McKee's Drug Store. Trial bottle, given free."

Advice to Mothers.
Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes healthy and contented. It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

A Humour Contradicted.

The following letter, which has been handed to us for publication, explains itself:—

K. B. Edwards, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—An absurd statement is being circulated through the town that an arrangement has been made with me by the Scott Act Association by which I am not to be interfered with in selling from my brewery. I certainly wish I could carry on business as heretofore, but that I could expect these supporting the Scott Act would permit it or sanction it is a stretch of the imagination of which I am not capable. As you ask me if such a statement is made by me, I say that I certainly never made it and that no such arrangement was ever made.

Yours truly,

Seen and Heard.

"Well, here's a go," said the quick eyed observer as he approached, took down the article from the shelf and gazed fastidiously on the nut brown fluid, transparent and tempting. But he said nothing, merely gliding the bottle within the folds of his coat. When away down the river on board an excursion the sun shone hotly and the party were dry for want of something ardent. It was then that the heart of the gentleman referred to swelled within him at the thought that he was in a position to do an act of kindness. A wink was all that was necessary to draw the rest to a retired corner. Glasses were produced and the bottle was drawn from its place of concealment. Certainly the liquid was rather thick, but it was thought that that showed it was "very old." But the first, a cautious drinker, put his glass to his nose and then, laid it down, remarking that he was neither a Norwegian nor an Irishman; when he drank he wanted something better than oil. This remark was a depresser. Explanations from the unfortunate fellow, the bottle was refilled, the members of the party mournfully gazed at their parched throats and retired.

P. C. Pidgeon had quite an escapade the other evening. A George street photographer has been bothered by the glass in the roof of his operating room having been broken by boys climbing over the building. He found three or four of these aerial ramblers near his premises and immediately set to work to catch them. P. C. Pidgeon was sought. That officer appeared and, standing on the ground, like farmer Jones and the boy in his hickory tree, commanded the miscreants to descend. The lads, consequently secure, only laughed. P. C. Pidgeon, though, was not so foolish as Farmer Jones. Instead of bringing the boys down, he commenced to elevate himself by means of a ladder. After a toilsome climb he reached the top, to find that the flat roof had been vacated, and that the boys were laughing as hard as they could on the sidewalk below.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Council Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Town Council will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

Hospitals.

Men's sewed Oxford Shoes, our own make, at $2. The best shoe in Peterborough for the money. J. CAREY.

Mission Room Meetings.

Capt. Munt, late of the 5th Army, will conduct the meetings in the Mission Room, over China Hall, all this week, Saturday excepted, on which night the women hold a meeting.

An Error.

The Lindsay Warder erroneously states that the Scott Act has been declared not to be in force here until May 1st, 1887. The questions raised in the Police Court here have not been decided yet by the superior courts.

Y.M.C.A. Social Meeting.

The members of the Young Men's Christian Association will meet socially at the rooms this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Music and refreshments are among the attractions. Mr. Gus H. Kubring, Secretary of the Ottawa Association, will be present.

Merited Success.

The Omelette Herald says: "On Friday last the Peterborough Review came out in a new and beautiful dress. The Review is a lively daily and well merits the success which it has achieved. We trust it may long flourish."

Cantata.

Flower Queen, or Coronation of the Rose, will be repeated in aid of the Protestant Home on Friday, 18th June, 1886, in the Opera House. Tickets to all parts of the house, 25 cents, which may be had at all the stationery stores. Children half price. An efficient orchestra will accompany the cantata.

CARPETS, New Carpets, New Floor Oil-cloths this week. Ex. S. S. "Arizona" Choice patterns, Moderate prices. R. FAIR.

Next Act.

Mr. Wm. McGreggor, of Havelock, and Mr. M. McGreggor, of Norwood, were charged with having since May 1st, violated the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act. Both admitted the offence and were fined by Mr. D. W. Dumble, P. M., $50 and costs each. A third charge was preferred against Creighton Glynn of Havelock. He denied the charge, and Magistrate Dumble, to save costs of bringing witnesses, has gone to Norwood to-day to try the case.

They Return Thanks.

Referring to the visit here of the deputation from the Belleville agricultural society, the Intelligencer says: "At Peterborough they met with Thos. Cahill, Esq., Councillor of that flourishing town. He did the honors, showing the buildings, and giving full information. Messrs. Collins and Tully, Directors of the Peterborough Society, also lent their services. The thanks of the deputation are due to the above named gentlemen, who, by every means in their power, assisted them in the getting of information."

To-Morrow.

To-morrow is the day on which the grand excursion under the auspices of the Fire Brigade will be run down the river. The Golden-Eye, to which will be attached a palace scow for dancing, will leave the Wolfe street wharf at 8 o'clock in the morning and proceed by Idyl Wild. Those wishing to spend the day in canoeing may take their canoes on board the boat free of charge. Meals will be served on board the boat. This is an excursion which should not be missed. The river winds through a most picturesque country now in the full hey day of bloom. Meadows, cultivated farms and stretches of woods and alternate charmingly. The trip both down and up will not be at all wearisome. The full orchestra in connection with the Fire Brigade Band will accompany the excursionists and supply the newest music for the dancers.

No. 3.

Number 3 company of the city battalion, will meet in the Ashburnham drill-shed to-morrow night for reorganization and drill.

Stock Sold.

We understand the stock belonging to the estate of the late Isaac Robinson was sold for 29½ cents on the dollar. The stock amounted to over $3,000.

Fall Wheat.

Mr. Ed. Korr, of South Monaghan, brought to this office this morning a sample of fall wheat which is ahead of a specimen he left earlier in the season. It measures 5 feet 10½ inches.

A FINE line of window shades at A. CLEGG'S, cheap.

In the Gardens.

The Fire Brigade Band will give their regular Open Air concert in the Horticultural Gardens this evening instead of to-morrow evening. The band will be away with the firemen's excursion to-morrow.

Telegraphic.

The local central telegraphic office will be kept open both night and day on after to-morrow. This is conclusive evidence as to the importance of the Peterborough exchange. The arrangement, now completed, will doubtless be appreciated by the subscribers, as it gives them almost double the privileges heretofore enjoyed, without its costing anything additional. The staff is efficient, consisting of Mr. H. W. Kent, the local manager, two day operators, one night operator, and a messenger.

Fatal Railway Accident.

A despatch from Brooklyn says that as the ballasting train on the Whitby and Lindsay branch of the Midland Railway was shunting on the siding, a brakeman named Smith, in operating the brake twisted the wheel off, and was thrown backwards between the cars. Both legs were cut and mangled dreadfully. He was taken to Brooklyn station, where the legs were amputated, but he died in a few minutes after the operation. His parents live in Lindsay. He was one of the volunteers who went to the North-West last spring.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW McNELL'S.

Personal.

Senator Sullivan, of Kingston, was in town on Saturday paying a short visit to Dr. O'Sullivan.

Mr. H. V. Meredith, Inspector of the agencies of the Montreal Bank, is in town on his semi-annual trip.

Mr. Charles Leonard, barrister, etc., of Belleville, is in town to-day.

Mr. Miles Hamilton, of the Bank of Montreal, Brockville, is back in town for a two weeks holiday. He says Brockville is a very picturesque place but he likes Peterborough because things are always booming here.

Mr. C. D. Barr, of the Lindsay Post is in town to-day.

HEAVY patent safe earth closets. A. CLEGG sole agent.

It May be Remarkable.

That the fire appliances question will be dealt with at the Council this evening.

That the County Council meet at two o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

That Mr. Seward conducted the musical part of the service at St. John's Church on Sunday.

That Dr. Burnham was applauded on the cricket field on Saturday afternoon.

That he deserved it.

That the Indians at Chemung Lake are becoming notable.

It is Probable.

That the firemen will sit in the back seats in the Council Chamber to-night.

That they will listen to a lot of councilor's side-talk.

That some of the Councilors will have the good sense to discuss the matter to the point.

That the county Solons will say that the Horticultural Society have done wonders with $75.

That the Horticultural Society will tell the County Solons that about $1,300 has been spent on their garden.

That the latter will make an additional grant.

Another Nobby Turnout.

That live firm of carriage builders, Messrs. Porter Bros., who have acquired such a reputation during the last two years for turning out mobby rigs (originally designed on the premises, handed over to Mr. Stothart, dairyman of Smith, on Saturday, a most unique and serviceable milk delivery. The rig consists of an open box, from which springs about a dozen standards supporting the canopy top. The sides are provided with canvas blinds which, in fair weather are neatly rolled up, and in stormy weather, buttoned close, shield the driver from wet or cold. There is a headlight in the front through which the driver sees how to guide the horse. This vehicle is but one of the many novelties which Messrs. Porter Bros. have turned out this spring. 14 other work, too, as buggies, carriages, etc., this firm has been unusually busy. The bulk of their trade consisting in ordered work, their warehouses, in appearance, show the very antithesis of a "continual grand spring opening." This is a satisfactory and healthy sign. The fact that their warehouses are kept reasonably clear shows that there is no deal, unsalable stock on hand. Messrs. Porter Bros. have every reason to feel gratified with the success they have won since their opening here, standing as they now do, at the head of the trade in the midland district.

THE SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

The Bankers Worried by the Picked Eleven Good Play.

The regular Saturday afternoon cricket match was played on the P.A.A.A. grounds on Saturday, the teams pitted against each other being the bankers and an eleven picked from the Cricket Club. The picked eleven won the toss and went to the bat, and from that time the game progressed interestingly. Double figures were numerous. Messrs. S. Ray, H. B. Carter, Dr. Burnham, J. E. Hammond, R. B. Rogers and W. Pakenham for the bankers, and Mr. P. E. S. Cooper for the picked eleven, making themselves conspicuous in that way. Some of the players did sharp hitting, notably Messrs. Pakenham, Carter and McGill, the latter putting in excellent work. Messrs. Morris and Cooper bowled in good form. The score is as follows:—

NEW YORK, June 12.—A severe earthquake shock was felt at Sandy Hook and at the quarantine station at midnight. It was imperceptible here.

OTTAWA, June 11.—An American gentleman now in this city says that large sums of money are being sent from Boston and other American cities to aid the "Sevish" party in Nova Scotia. He says that he is personally aware of one Boston firm having contributed $25,000, which was forwarded on the day he left the city. He also states that the secession movement is looked upon as the preliminary step towards annexation, which would give the Americans the control of the whole Canadian fishing grounds.

Among the men recently hired in Toronto and sent to the mountains for McDermid & Ross was to all appearance a handy bright boy of about sixteen or eighteen years of age who found employment in the cooking establishment, waiting on table, etc. About two weeks went by and vague suspicions were all at once to the sex of the waiter, and shortly afterwards it was discovered that the supposed boy was a female. She assumed her proper clothing and still retains her position and now conducts a Salvation Army of which body she is a member meeting in the evenings. —Calgary Tribune.

IMPORTANT MEETING.

The time for the final revision of the Dominion Voters' List is close at hand. Only a few days are left in which to attend to adding names of qualified voters to the list or making other changes.

The franchise having been largely extended by the Parliament, all who are put in possession to the right to vote should attend to getting their names on the list, in order that they may be in a position to exercise the privilege accorded them of taking part in the government of the country.

An important meeting of Conservatives will be held this evening in the Club room, over Mr. Geo. Stethem's store, at 8 o'clock. A large attendance is urgently requested.

In addition, Conservatives who wish to have their names added to the list, or other changes made, are requested to be present in order that it may be attended to.

SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I observe by looking at the last monthly report issued by Mr. Smith that he has a class of 70 pupils. Is not this number largely in excess of what is allowed by law and dictated by common sense? How can one teacher do justice to so numerous a class. Is it fair to the teacher and to the pupils? The question should be prepared for the entrance examination, embracing as it does a large number of subjects? The attendance at the Central School is increasing. The mere noting of this fact by the press is not of itself any benefit to the legion of scholars who occupy the over-crowded rooms and who require more teachers and increased accommodation.

Yours truly, PARENT.

Peterborough, June 15th, 1886.

MR. GLADSTONE'S MANIFESTO.

Comments of the London Press on the Premier's Address.

LONDON, June 14.—The News, commenting on Mr. Gladstone's manifesto, says:—

"The clear, sharp and decisive sentences brush aside with remorseless common sense the cobwebs so industriously spread to confuse and entangle the question. Our people will rally round the statesman who has the courage and capacity to lead them to a happy and honorable settlement of this great domestic quarrel."

The Standard says:—"Mr. Gladstone's manifesto labors under the disadvantage of appearing as a reply to that issued by Mr. Chamberlain. The manner of it is good, and it is better than Mr. Chamberlain's. It is clever, concise and to the purpose, and every reader will understand at once what Mr. Gladstone means, but will, if he understands the rest of the controversy, pronounce it inadequate."

The Telegraph says:—"Mr. Gladstone's extraordinary address cannot be perused without admiration for the Premier's power. Binding himself to all his past disappointments, his present arguments show prudence and moderation under impulsive and passionate benevolence."

The Times pronounces Mr. Gladstone's manifesto as lively and as historically weak. It does offer a single argument to prove that coercion is the only alternative policy to Home Rule for Ireland. Mr. Chamberlain gave one alternative other than coercion, and Mr. Morley suggested a fourth by admitting it was possible to govern Ireland as a Crown colony. When the three come to the worst it is always open to give Ireland local control of her affairs on the same scale as is given to Scotland and to England, and on a principle as applicable to these countries as to Ireland."

The Post, commenting on Mr. Gladstone's manifesto, says:—"The document bristles with transparent and obvious fallacies. The Chronicle says: 'The address is so appointing. It is useless to say it is able and ingenious, but it is by no means up to the high standard of Mr. Chamberlain's former manifesto.'"

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

THE REEVES CONVENED IN SEMI-ANNUAL SESSION.

The Warden's Address.—Congratulations on the bright prospects of an abundant harvest.—A Statement of What Has Been Done Since January.—A Forecast of the Important Business of the Present Session.

The June session of the County Council opened in the County Council Chamber at two o'clock this afternoon.

There were present, Mr. R. A. Kidd, Warden, presiding, and Messrs. J. Moloney and E. Foley, of Douro; J. Walsh and J. Moore, of Asphodel; James Hicks, of Harvey; Michael Mansfield, of Galway and Cavendish; Michael Sanderson and T. E. Fitzgerald, of Smith; F. Ahurst, of Burleigh; Anstruther and Chandos; John Brown, of Belmont; and Methuen; John Lang, of Otonabee; R. C. Strickland, of Lakefield; John Burnham, of Ashburnham; W. H. Stevenson, of Norwood; Joseph Forster, of Monaghan and W. Crough, of Ennismore.

The minutes of the last days business of the last session, were read and confirmed.

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

The WARDEN then read his address as follows:—

GENTLEMEN,—In meeting you again at this session I feel pleasure in being able to congratulate you and the county at large on the bright prospects which greet us on every hand of an abundant harvest.

Your first and most important duty at this session will be to carefully consider the assessment rolls of the several municipalities, so that the burden of County taxation will be as nearly as possible equitable.

The remarkably high water, which prevailed last spring for a time, placed some of the older county bridges in imminent danger, and at the same time furnished the severest and most satisfactory test of the solidity and stability of the new bridges recently erected. The prompt action taken by the County Engineer, in seeing to the bridges threatened, averted any serious loss or damage, Buckhorn bridge only being slightly injured. Fuller details as to bridges will appear in the Engineer's report.

Shortly after the January session I was visited upon by Mr. Fairbairn, Warden of Verulam, who informed me that a Committee had been appointed by the Council of the County of Victoria to act in conjunction with the representatives of this Council in repairing the Pigeon Creek bridge. I accordingly called upon Mr. Edwards, the County Solicitor, to whom this Council had at the last session referred the matter, and he advised me to take such action as he deemed advisable with reference to this bridge and Mr. Sanderson, chairman of the Property Committee, and by appointment the committee from Victoria, who was agreed that the bridge should be put in repair at the joint expense of the two counties, the cost not to exceed $300. The joint committee subsequently met at the bridge and let the contract to Mr. John Flood, who has already almost completed his work, having been somewhat delayed by unfavorable weather. The total expenditure will be $200 or $250, and I think the council may be congratulated on the satisfactory termination of what promised to be a source of difficulty between the two counties.

Since the January session of the suit of the Grand Junction Railway Company against the County of Peterborough has been argued in the court of appeal and a decision is expected. As it is distinctly asserted by the opposite party that they intend in case of an adverse decision to appeal directly to the Privy Council, and as the decision will probably be in favor of the railway, it will be well for the council to instruct the county solicitor as to the course to be taken by him in regard to the case.

My attention having been called to the fact that amongst the bills before the Legislature dealing with municipal affairs, one, at least, contained a provision that appeared to be so framed that it would in effect, if it became law, hold this county responsible for the Kilmount bridge, a deputation consisting of ex-Wardens Sanderson and Laing, the County Solicitor and myself proceeded to Toronto to oppose the bills before the Municipal Committee of the Legislature. After considerable discussion the bills were withdrawn, the minister insisting that a comprehensive bill dealing with the whole question would be prepared by him before the next session of Parliament.

Our committee representing this Council met a large and influential deputation from the Midland Division interested in the construction of the Trent Valley Canal in the 10th day of February in the Music Hall, Peterborough. A resolution was unanimously passed setting forth the claims and benefits likely to be realized by the construction of the Canal and asking the Dominion Government to place three sections under contract, one of which was the section lying between Lakefield and Peterborough. After a full and free expression of opinion by leading gentlemen present it was resolved that as large a deputation as possible from the several municipalities interested should proceed to Ottawa in order if possible to impress upon the Government the importance of the early construction of this important highway. It was said that the deputation was of no particular political complexion, and one of the largest that ever visited the capital of our country. Their prayer was duly presented and ably supported by our members of Parliament and others. The Minister of Railways and Canals gave such promises as satisfied the most sceptical. I regret, however, to report that in the estimate of 1886 and 1887 no provision is made for the commencement of another section of this national work, while projects of a local character have received assistance from the Government. Certainly viewed in the light of recent years our expensive deputations, and have been so far unfruitful in exerting that influence with the Government so essential to the successful prosecution of this most important Dominion as well as Provincial work.

Mr. George Cochrane, having been appointed Government Inspector, resigned his position as Inspector appointed by this Council for the enforcement of the 8-0-0 Act, and I appointed Mr. Robert Weir in his place, subject to the approval of the Council at this present session.

I desire to call your attention to the Act passed at the last session of the Ontario Parliament authorizing County Councils to assist in constructing wire fences along highways to prevent the drifting of snow.

I observe by the paper that you will be waited upon by deputations from the Agricultural Societies of the East and West Ridings for a grant to enable them to erect permanent agricultural buildings in the village of Norwood and the town of Peterborough. In this Canada of ours agriculture may be said to lie at the root of our national prosperity, and it involves interests of such magnitude and importance that a reasonable expenditure might well be incurred, provided the results were likely to add to the profit of the farm or save the farmer from losses incident to lack of knowledge or experience in his calling. That good results have been achieved through the operation of our annual exhibitions none will, I am persuaded, have the hardihood to deny; and while recognizing the importance of a strict regard to economy in every branch of our municipal government, I can not refrain from expressing the opinion that a liberal grant to each of the societies would be more in keeping with the spirit, as well as the letter, of our municipal law than some of the grants that have heretofore been made by our County Council.

I trust that the All-wise Ruler of the Universe may so direct you in your deliberations that they may be conducive to the prosperity and happiness of all classes in the community.

A. R. KIDD, Warden.

County Council Chamber, June 15th, 1886.

Mr. STRICKLAND moved, seconded by Mr. FORSTER.—That Messrs. Burnham, Moloney, Walsh, Sanderson, Laing and the mover and second be a committee on the Warden's address.

The Council adjourned till ten o'clock to-morrow.

SUICIDE OF A KING.

The Mad King of Bavaria Drowns Himself—His Physicians also Dies.

MUNICH, June 14.—King Ludwig yesterday took his departure for Berg Castle, on Lake Hauberg. The scenes along the route of the journey were very affecting. The peasants knelt in the roadways, weeping. The King responded to their greeting mournfully but kindly. He looked pale and weary. The utmost precautions had been taken to prevent him from committing suicide.

MUNICH, June 14.—King Ludwig, who was recently deposed from the Bavarian throne, committed suicide at 6 o'clock yesterday evening. He had gone out for a promenade in the park of Berg Castle, accompanied by Dr. Vangruiden, his physician. The King suddenly threw himself into Starberg Lake, and was drowned. The physician jumped into the water to rescue him and was also drowned.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

MUNICH, June 14.—A tremendous and unparalleled sensation has been caused here by the following proclamation in reference to Ludwig II., Bavaria's mad king, which has been posted through the towns:—

"After the King's arrival in Berg Castle, he was taken to the medical treatment. He took yesterday evening, at a quarter to 7, a walk in the park with Dr. Vangruiden, from which His Majesty and Dr. Vangruiden had up to a late hour not returned. The park and shore of the lake being searched, His Majesty and Dr. Vangruiden were found in the lake. His Majesty and Dr. Vangruiden gave faint signs of life, but the attempts of Dr. Muller to restore animation was fruitless. At 12 o'clock last night His Majesty was medically proved dead and the same was the case with Dr. Vangruiden. Yesterday morning the body of the King was placed in a coffin and accompanied by Councilors of State Muller and Koppelster and the court physicians to Berg Castle, on Lake Starberg, an hour's ride from here. Despite the early hour many people witnessed the King's departure. The distracted monarch returned their greeting with a few mournful words, which brought tears to the eyes of those who heard them. The court physicians said his case was hopeless. Four warders and their chief accompanied the King. Two had already acted as guards to Prince Otto."

United States Crops.

CHICAGO, June 13.—The following crop review will appear in this week's Farmer's Review:—The great fear of drought which has been threatening the spring wheat sections still continues, and has become in some respects a serious menace to the growing grain. Dry hot winds have prevailed in Dakota and Minnesota, adding to the already serious outlook in many portions of that State and territory. The effects of the drought have begun to be seriously felt in Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, and very few of the reports received down to Saturday night dwell much but upon this subject. Many fields of oats are reported turning yellow, and the injury to that crop threatens now to be more severe than even to wheat itself. The rains which have prevailed in the sections named, while saving many fields from ruin, have

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTORS.

The bestowal of the right of voting upon many thousands of the people of Canada, who did not previously possess it, is very unpalatable to Mr. Blake. He, therefore, countenances and abets the wild assertions of his lieutenants and the journals supporting him, that the Dominion Franchise Act is an infringement of our constitution and an invasion of Provincial rights.

This is downright dishonesty, for when Mr. Blake was in power he enunciated a doctrine altogether contrary to that which he now favours in the hope that it may afford him some political advantage. As Minister of Justice he quoted and adopted as his own the following remarks in an official report on the use of the phrase, "Parliamentary Electors" in Provincial legislation:—

"The 41st section of the Union Act provides that all the laws of the several provinces relating to Parliamentary elections, in force at the time of the Union, shall remain in force until the Parliament of Canada otherwise provides."

"If the clause in question is intended merely to apply to elections for the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, it is inaccurate in expression."

"To avoid confusion, the Union confines the name of Parliament to the General Legislature, the Provincial legislative bodies are styled uniformly as Legislatures."

"The undersigned recommends that the attention of the Government of Ontario be called to this section, and suggests that the same should be amended so as to limit it expressly to elections for the Legislature of Ontario."

"The undersigned recommends that the attention of the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba should be called to the use of this phrase, with a suggestion that it should be amended so as to limit it expressly to elections for the Legislative Assembly of Manitoba."

Mr. Blake made a precisely similar demand in the case of Quebec. In fact he repeatedly objected to such legislation by the various Provinces. Not a word in a Provincial statute, that even hinted at a right to legislate in regard to Dominion elections or elections, could escape his critical eye, and rebuke for the invasion followed unsparringly.

Yet now Mr. Blake gives his sanction to false charges against the Dominion Administration of unconstitutionality and invasion of Provincial rights, for acting upon the Constitution as he himself interpreted it when in power.

He and the Opposition in this case and in others, where they talk of invasion of rights by the present Administrations, simply mean that they grudge any power bestowed by the people of Canada upon Conservatives, and long to be placed in office that they may again exercise the very powers they claimed before, but which they condemn when used by Conservatives.

KINDLY AND WELL DESERVED.

We learn from the Globe that Mrs. Alexander Mackenzie, the wife of the deceased leader of the Reform party, has received the present of "a cheque for a handsome amount," subscribed by members of Parliament and other friends at Ottawa. This is a graceful and kindly expression of esteem which will meet with very general approbation. No doubt it is partly a testimony to Mrs. Mackenzie's own engaging qualities but of course it will be taken mainly as a recognition of the public services which Mr. Mackenzie rendered so zealously according to his lights. There are numerous well known precedents for such a course in the case of statesmen and public men of high repute. If in the minds of some of the subscribers there may have been a wish to make some amends, however inadequate, for their ungenerous treatment of their former leader, this makes the gift still more appropriate. But perhaps it was only subscribed by the staunch and loyal political friends who were then outvoted by the Blake faction. In either view it will no doubt be gratifying to the lady and her husband. There will be a general hope that their projected trip to the Mother Country will be enjoyed, and that it will restore Mr. Mackenzie's health.

A DISPATCH from Halifax reports a rumour that the Imperial authorities do not sustain Canada's claims to its own waters between headlands and three miles outward. This is probably erroneous, for they are hardly likely at Westminster to combat an interpretation of the law of nations that is held by the United States as well as Canada, in fact by all competent authorities. Yet we cannot be quite sure of our rights not being sold by Mr. Gladstone as long as he is in office. It was while Mr. Gladstone was in power that our claim for damages by the Fenian raids was shut out by the fixing of a definite date limiting the powers of the Washington Commission.

The leader of the Opposition, or rather of the Rielle section of it, is now visiting his constituents in West Durham. Though there is no vacancy there at present it is evident that he is preparing for eventualities. It will be remembered that a former vacancy in West Durham, was purchased for Mr. Blake by Mr. Mowat, not out of his own pocket, but with public moneys.

A Chilean Hurricane.

VALPARAISO, June 12.—There was a strong northern breeze last night. At midnight the sea was very heavy, and several vessels were lost. The Chilean barque Pendicorrey and the Chilean steamer Guayacura lost their anchors. The former vessel was completely wrecked. Thirteen lives were lost, including the captain and his wife and three children and the mate. The steamer Guayacura also went ashore, but will probably be got off. Her hull is not injured, but the deck-house, etc., were swept away.

THE TOWN COUNCIL.

THE COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER THE COST OF NEW FIRE APPLIANCES.

Mr. Hill and the Circus By-Laws.
Manufactories—The Billiard Rooms.
—The Scott Act.

A meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening.

There were present: His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors Menzies, Rutherford, Moore, Yelland, McNeil, McNaughton, Hartley, Davidson and Cahill.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were read as follows:—
From Geoffrey H. Burland, of Montreal, asking for information as to the town in regard to number of population, means of export, what factories are at present in operation here, etc.—Finance Committee.

From Geoffrey H. Burland, in reply to a letter from the Mayor, asking for explicit statements of what kind of factory he proposed to build.—Finance Committee.

From Krugg & Hibner, in reference to establishing a furniture factory here.—Finance Committee.

From the ladies of the Protestant Home, in reference to a grant for the maintenance of an indigent.—Account of $75 paid.

From E. B. Edwards, Town Solicitor, stating that the Town had a right to compel the Grand Trunk Railway Company to plank the space between the rails on Bethune street to within an inch either way of the level of the street.—The General Manager of the Railway to be requested to have the necessary planking done.

From Chas. T. Gilmour, in reference to proposed Acts referring to bridges.—Joint Committee.

From F. J. Lewis, stating that if something be not done to abate the drainage nuisance affecting his lot he would, in self-defence, be obliged to bring an action against the town.—Property Committee.

From W. B. Ferguson and others, in regard to street improvements.—Street and Bridge Committee, with power to act.

From David Menzies, asking for aid.—Charity Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

Accounts were presented as follows:—
Chas. Chambo, burying dead dogs. $ 50
W. H. Bandfield, dog tags. 35 00
Canadian Rubber Co., fire appliances. 7 00
Wm. Stock, bread for Mr. Smith. 3 00
S. Sharp, repairing Mr. Menzies's wheel. 3 75
J. Braden, charity order. 38 00

The accounts were all referred to the Finance Committee with the exception of that of W. H. Bandfield, which was ordered to be paid.

MR. DEAVIS ON THE FLOOR.

On motion Mr. Thomas Davis, Local License Inspector, was heard in reference to a charge made against him by councillor Moore in respect of duty in connection with dog tax. He had been ill during the last few days and had been unable to attend to it. In reply to councillor Kendry he said that the hotel keepers had not all paid out the eating house license. But all but two had taken them out now.

THE BOY MANNING.

A discussion arose on the liability of the town to maintain the boy Manning, aged 13, who had been kept by the town for the last three years at the cost of $1000 a year. The lad was afflicted with an incurable disease. The matter was left to the Charity Committee to enquire as to the advisability of removing him to a Home of Incubation.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

Councillor RUTHERFORD, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, verbally reported, stating that the committee had inspected the department on Friday afternoon. The firemen had turned out promptly, showing the effectiveness of the appliances to eight or nine members of the Council. At a meeting held afterwards the committee decided to recommend a new hook and ladder wagon on the modern plan. The old one had been in use 26 years and had now seen its day. The rooms over the station, too, the committee thought, should be furnished for those firemen desirous of remaining there at night. In regard to hose, the committee found that there was 1250 feet of first class hose and 400 feet of rubber hose that might be relied on. The committee recommended the purchase of another team to draw the hose carts. He thought the appliances might all be got for $300 or $400.

Councillor KENDRY suggested the purchase of the new style of hose wagon now in use in the leading cities. He also advocated that several Councillors visit other fire departments. He had been away last week and saw in a town, no bigger than Peterborough, a department that Toronto might well be proud of. It was the town of Chatham he referred to. This town had a department of eighteen paid men. Three men all slept at the premises. They could get out of the station ready to operate inside of a half a minute. He considered the Chatham department superior to that of Toronto. Chatham had every modern appliance. He said the value in our department should be turned the opposite way. Councillor McNEIL said that he also saw this department. It cost the town of Chatham $2500 a year. The Chief cost $800, the engine $200, eight men at $400 and ten men are on call at $25. He could certainly praise the efficiency of the Chatham department. He recommended that a statement of the cost of proposed appliances be made out to be presented to this Council before purchases were made.

Councillor RUTHERFORD remarked that the Peterborough department cost only $2200. He did not think that Chatham was in so financial position as Peterborough. He then digressed by introducing the matter of plating hydrants. Several Councillors followed. The discussion was brought to an end by the Mayor stating that Mr. Burnham had told him that the company were willing to accept of any reasonable demand made by the town.

The report was referred back to the Committee to report on the cost of the proposed appliances.

HORTICULTURAL GARDENS.

A by-law, confirming the grant to the Horticultural Society for the purpose of beautifying the Horticultural Park, was read its several times and passed.

REMOVING SOIL.

A by-law making it unlawful for anyone to remove any kind of soil from the public thoroughfares and imposing a penalty of not more than $50 for the violation of such by-law was passed.

A CIRCUS.

Mr. E. C. Hill addressed the Council on

PLAIN, SIMPLE FACTS

Are Stubborn Things and Defy Contradiction. Note the following Facts:

FIRST.—That previous to Gough's opening, three months ago, Peterborough buyers of Clothing had to pay 40 per cent more for their goods than they have to-day. Of course this was to dealers of principle.

SECOND.—That notwithstanding Gough has forced those high-priced clothing "fellers" to drop fully 40 per cent, it is notorious that their tremendous expense, and inferior judgment in buying, does yet, and always will, put it beyond their power to reach Gough's bed-rock prices.

THIRD.—That Gough must have taken some trade from those elevated clothing "fellers" which makes fairweather cloudy.

FOURTH.—That any insinuation that the Watch Gough throws in with his $10 Suit the customer pays for, either directly or indirectly, is false, but it is a bona-fide gift, and as a proof of it Gough boldly throws the challenge to any party that makes the insinuation, that he will forfeit $500 or $1000 if his $10 Suit—Watch thrown in, is not better than their $10 Suit without the Watch.

FIFTH.—And furthermore, to the same party, Gough will forfeit another $500 if he is not in a position to sell goods CHEAPER and make a profit out of them than said party bought for.

SIXTH.—That this is a grand opportunity for cloudyweather to test who does as advertised, and he either should accept or make no more false assertions. And now, babies, swallow this and look pleasant, as you are too small fry for the Big Clothier to take further notice of. I will this week sell for $5.00 a suit exactly the same as my rivals have ticketed out $7.00. Don't forget, it will be a cold day in Peterborough when our hope fades away, and cloudyweather will be a thing of the past.

GOUGH, THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN
ARCADE BUILDINGS, PETERBOROUGH.

the matter of recinding the by-law passed last year imposing a license of $100 for the circus procession passing through the streets. He said that though Mr. Benvis was a small man, that ruled in the law's majesty he had expanded so much on Ashburnham bridge that Jumbo couldn't pass. The Council agreed to give the grounds and license all for $100, with which offer Mr. Hill appeared to be satisfied.

BILLIARDS.

Councillor McNEIL introduced a by-law to amend the by-law relating to the closing of billiard rooms so that billiard rooms be allowed to remain open on Saturday nights as on other nights.

Councillor RUTHERFORD at once threw down the gauntlet. He finished a most vigorous onslaught by saying, "I think the Council should stamp the foot of indignation upon such an infamous by-law."

Councillor McNEIL replied, urging the passage of the by-law. He did not think that the hotel keepers should be ground down.

Councillor KENDRY spoke temperately and to the point. He did not favor the by-law.

Councillor YELLAND considered the by-law, if passed, would be the next thing to an infringement on the Sabbath. He thought it would be a good plan if the Council would pass a by-law to close every business place early on Saturday night. As it was now delivery waggons were to be heard rattling around the streets even till Sunday morning.

Councillor DAVIDSON thought 11 o'clock a little late. He moved an amendment that the time be 10 o'clock.

Councillor McNEIL agreed to the arrangement.

The vote was taken and the by-law passed on the third reading.

On the third reading Councillor Rutherford moved an amendment that the by-law be not read a third time, but that it be read this day nine months. The amendment was defeated.

Councillor RUTHERFORD called for the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were as follows:—
Yeas.—Councillors Kendry, Yelland, Hartley, and Rutherford.
Nays.—Councillors Menzies, Moore, McNeil, McNaughton, Davidson and Cahill.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor McNEIL, That the Commission of the Town Trust be requested to issue debentures for the town buildings at once.—Carried.

PARKS.

A by-law relating to Public Parks was read for a first time.

DOGS.

A by-law to amend by-law No. 13, so that the Police Magistrate should have power to order the killing of vicious dogs was read its various times and passed.

TAXES.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON, That the Finance Committee be requested to have the rate struck for the current year at as early a date as possible, so that collection of taxes take place so far as possible during the summer months.—Carried.

THE APPLIANCES.

Councillor McNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON, That the Fire, Water and Light Committee to make a thorough inspection of the fire appliances and report to this Council, giving a detailed statement of the Brigade's requirements, and the probable cost of the same.

SCOTT ACT.

Councillor RUTHERFORD asked the Mayor whether it was his opinion that that the provisions of the Scott Act should be enforced by the police force the same as other laws. The officers did not appear to know whether it was the pleasure of this council that they could enforce it or not.

to carry it out, but at the same time I don't think they should stay around people's doors.

Councillor DAVIDSON drew attention to other by-laws which were urgently needed to be enforced.

Councillor McNEIL said that the Health Act was, as it is now, almost nil.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor McNAUGHTON, That the doors of the engine house be left open during the summer months.—Carried.

MCNAUGHTON VS. COOPER.
Councillor McNAUGHTON said that he had no hard feelings against Chief Cooper, but he wanted to know what right the town had to pay the costs in the Hysany case. He understood that Judge Weller had billed the town. He thought Chief Cooper had no business to bring the case here.

The Mayor replied that no matter where the case was tried the town would be obliged to pay the costs. The crime was committed here.

Councillor McNAUGHTON then said that the police force were doing nothing. He considered that the Chief's salary, $600, was thrown away. He thought it a dreadful thing for the Chief to "walk up and down street in a phanton."

SCOTT ACT.
Councillor McNEIL moved that the police force be instructed to display no extraordinary zeal in the enforcement of the Scott Act.

Before the motion had been handed in the Scott Act, Councillors Hartley, Kendry, Yelland and Rutherford, left their chairs.

This left a "no quorum."

Before the motion was put the motioners got outside the door, and there being no dissenting voice he declared it carried amid laughter.

STRANGE INCIDENT AT SEA.
The Cunard Royal Mail Steamship Servia, which was due at Queenstown early yesterday morning from New York, did not arrive until this morning. She reports that on Sunday week, at 6.30 a. m., two gigantic seas suddenly arose, dashed over the port bow and washed five members of the crew who were standing of the forecastle deck, down on the main deck, killing one of them, named Thomas Brown, instantly, and inflicting frightful injuries about the skull to Thomas Kelly, from which he died last Saturday. The three other mariners were badly bruised and are under the care of the surgeon. Strange to say, the weather at the time was not boisterous, and the sudden rising of such enormous seas appeared to be a most extraordinary event. Luckily the disaster occurred when the passengers were in their births.—Dublin Times.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1886.

EVENING CONCERT.

Given by Mr. J. N. Parker of Bradburn's Opera House.

A concert was given in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday evening by Mr. J. N. Parker, Organist at St. Paul's church. The attendance was not as large as the concert merited, owing doubtless to the extremely warm weather.

The chief attraction was the singing of Mrs. Agnes Corlett Thompson, leading soprano at the Bond Street Congregational Church, Toronto. She sang once in the first part of the programme, "She Haunts me like a Happy Dream," and five times during the second part, though down only for three numbers altogether. "Roberto to the Adoro," sung in the Italian, delighted the audience so much that she was called out again. She then sang "Coming Thro' the Rye" so nicely as to gain another recall, this time singing "The Swanne River." In No. 13 she sang "Edinboro Town," and as an encore, "Let me Dream Again."

Mrs. Thompson's appearance on the stage at once prepossessed the audience in her favor, and the confidence cannot be said to be misplaced. She has a sweet voice, velvety, though not extraordinarily powerful. She sings ballads with a depth of feeling and graceful sweetness that cannot fail to produce a favorable effect. But were she to be a little restrained in the use of trill and her style in some songs might much improved.

Mrs. R. H. Dennistoun, a favorite always, was encored each time she sang, and deservedly so. Her first song, "Waiting," Millard, was given in an especially charming manner.

Mr. C. H. Geale sang "Will o' the Wisp" in a manner which won a decided encore. The piece, sung by fifteen voices, were all very pleasing, but that opening the second part, "O Slumber, My Darling," Leslie, and that closing the concert, "Good Night, Beloved," Pinnell, went with particular smoothness. The ensemble was creditably good throughout, and the expression given of such a character as to show plainly the effect of Mr. Parker's training.

The quartette, "Come Where the Lillies Bloom," given by Mrs. Sanderson, soprano, Miss Strickland, contralto, Mr. Manning, tenor, and Mr. Budden, basso, was so well executed that a repetition was demanded.

That robustly humorous old trio, "Dame Durden," presented by Messrs. Geale, Budden and Manning, excited much merriment and added zest to the concert.

The instrumental part of the concert consisted of a piano solo, a melody, by Mr. Parker; a piano duo, "Caleph de Bagdad," a peculiarly fascinating melody of the Orient, given in pretty style by Miss Hall and Mr. Parker; and a violin solo by Mr. P. E. S. Cooper, "Blue Bells of Scotland."

The concert closed by the singing of "God Save the Queen."

DEPOSITION OF LUDWIG.

Some of the King's Friends—The Probable Fate of the Unhappy Monarch.

MUNICH, June 12.—King Ludwig's deposition has caused great excitement in the Bavarian metropolis. Crowds are standing on the corners reading and discussing Prince Luitpold's proclamation announcing the deposition and his own regency. When Ludwig heard that the ministerial deposition was approaching his Hohenschwangau castle with a letter for him to sign consenting to a regency, he ordered his guards to load their rifles and forcibly prevent the deposition from entering. He then locked himself in an inner room. Count Holstein, who led the deposition, and who is a tall, powerful man, attempted to force an entrance into the castle. It was for this that he was seized and imprisoned in the building by the order of the King. When the other members of the deposition saw the treatment accorded Count Holstein they ran away. After a while they returned with a strong military escort. Then they succeeded in conveying to the castle guards and excited peasantry an intelligent statement of the deposition's mission. When the guards and peasantry understood that they gave way, and the deposition were permitted to enter the castle, but could not succeed in reaching the King. They left Prince Luitpold's letter, replaced the King's servants by others, placed a strong military cordon around the castle, and left two physicians to guard the King's room.

The State Council have informed the King's mother of her son's deposition. She at once made arrangements to retire to a convent. Her father and brother died mad and the same fate impends over her sons. The Pope has sent congratulations to Prince Luitpold on his assumption of the regency, and has ordered the Papal Nuncio at the Munich Court to establish cordial relations between the Regency and the Vatican. At Berlin the deposition of King Ludwig is regarded with supreme indifference.

The full story of Ludwig's recent eccentricities would be regarded as incredible. He had a mania for avoiding the daylight and for turning day into night. He often summoned great musicians to come to the palace by post horses to gratify his royal wish to hear a single air. He frequently had statements aroused in the small hours and ordered to him to assist him play him. He would drive at night in a chariot or on horseback with flying speed accompanied by mounted torch-bearers far into the mountains, in imitation of Burg's "Legend" and of Goethe's "Erl King." Once while engaged in one of these wild night mountain chases he fell, with his horse, down a deep chasm. He was badly hurt and his injury aggravated his mental ailment, but his physicians were obliged to approach him disguised as lackeys or as soldiers. Count Bos of Weidach has been appointed guardian of the King.

BAVARIA'S DEAD KING.

A Desperate Hand-to-Hand Conflict Between the King and His Physician.

NEW YORK, June 15.—The Herald's Munich special says: "A closer investigation into King Ludwig's suicide makes it clear that the king threw or dragged Dr. Van Gridden into the water. The bushes and pathway near the scene of the suicide show signs of a desperate hand-to-hand struggle, a hat lying in one place and a coat in another. The latter seems to have been hurriedly torn off and flung on the ground. A little further on two umbrellas were found. The king, in all probability, sprang at the doctor, who though sturdy and powerfully built, was less youthful and active when he was off his guard. Another explanation is that the king made a dash for the lake, and the doctor ran after him and grappled with him, but was overpowered and hurled into the water. According to common report several weeks ago King Ludwig wrote four or five different letters here asking for various poisonous drugs. Dr. Gridden had been specially warned never to trust the King. The court theatre is closed for fourteen days, and all other theatres till after the funeral. Six weeks of general mourning is decreed, but the court will go into mourning for three months. Dr. Bernhardt von Gridden, who has fallen a victim to duty, was the chief medical professor at the university, and director and head physician of the Munich Insane Asylum, which he had managed successfully since the resignation of the post by the celebrated Dr. Salping. He was 66 years old."

BERLIN, June 15.—Here and in Vienna a painful impression has been caused by King Ludwig's suicide. The Emperor William is deeply grieved. The Crown Prince will go to Munich to represent his father. All the German Courts have gone into mourning for the dead King. It is stated that King Ludwig had for a long time contemplated suicide. He told his mother of his intention, and asked the royal physicians to give him something that would quietly terminate his existence. The Bavarian ministers were fully cognizant of these requests.

Attempted Double Murder.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The details of an almost unprecedented attempt at double murder by two young girls, the eldest only eighteen, and the second hardly in her teens, have been received from Fredericksburg. The victims were W. E. S. Waller, 63, and his sister, Miss Jane Waller. Mary and Jennie Green, sisters, mulattoes, were the assailants. Mr. and Mrs. Waller resided on a farm, 25 miles from Fredericksburg. The two Green girls were servants, who had been raised by the Waller family. Last Friday Waller received a sum of money which he kept in his room. The girls were aware of this. At 11 o'clock that night they armed themselves with clubs, ascended to the old gentleman's apartment and knocked him senseless. They then labored him with the blows until, losing life entirely, they then clubbed the old lady senseless. The girls secured about $350 and fled. At 5 o'clock a colored boy, who entered the house, gave the alarm, and the whole neighborhood was aroused. Mr. Waller was restored to consciousness, though in a very precarious condition, and was able to describe the occurrence of the night. The old lady died on Sunday. Up to latest accounts the girls have not been captured.

AN ARMY OF LOYALISTS.

BELFAST, June 15.—It is stated that the injunction of the Grand Master against drilling by the Orangemen during the continuance of the troubles in Belfast does not prevent the Orange drilling at Rich Hill, in Antrim county, where it is alleged 15,000 loyalists continue to practice military tactics regularly.

MR. GLADSTONE'S OPPONENT.

LONDON, June 15.—The Conservatives have selected Col. Campbell Walker to oppose Mr. Gladstone. In his address he reminded the electors that Mr. Gladstone, who appeals to their feelings on the score of age, enunciated thirteen years ago the principle that sixty years should be the outside age for all who sought to hold responsible positions. He continues, the Premier's present kaleidoscopic proposals are singular proof that Mr. Gladstone's judgment is no longer what it was of old. The strength of the Irish party is due to Mr. Gladstone's concessions.

HONOURS FOR MR. GLADSTONE.

DUBLIN, June 15.—The freedom of the city of Waterford will be conferred upon Mr. Gladstone next Friday.

THE WEDDING OF EARL CAIRNS.

LONDON, June 14.—Friends of Ade Grant deny that the young lady's engagement with Lord Cairns is broken off. They say that the preparations for the wedding have not been interrupted, and that nothing seems likely to prevent the ceremony taking place as arranged.

THE DOG TAGS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—While I heartily approve of the principle of requiring that all dogs, especially when wandering about our streets unaccompanied by their owners, should wear tags attached to their collars, I may be permitted, having purchased one of these appendages for my own dog, to express my opinion that anything more clumsy and in every respect more objectionable than the tag in question it would be difficult to invent.

These tags are too large and coarse for small house-dogs, and altogether out of proportion with the collars such dogs usually wear. Then, again, the sharp, rough points of the maple leaves will prove, I imagine, rather injurious to the polished ages of tables and chairs, and to other articles of furniture with which they may come in contact; and, once more, the dresses of the ladies will probably suffer considerably from the frisking of their pets around their skirts.

The tags should have been circular or oval in shape, with plain smooth edges, at all events for the numerous small dogs usually found in our houses. The coarse, sharp, many-pointed maple leaves may answer well enough for hounds or other large dogs, but are an abomination as regards our spaniels or terriers.

I am, Sir, Yours faithfully,

A DOG-OWNER.

Peterborough, June 15, 1886.

POLICE COURT.

VAORANT.

WEDNESDAY, June 17.—John Kelly was charged by P. C. Adams with being a vagrant, having no visible means of support. On his acknowledgment that he had no home, no means of supply, and that he did not mind going to goal, he was committed for six months.

VIOLENT DOG.

Alfred Webster, Park street, was charged by John Byers with keeping a vicious dog, which bit Harold Byers on Tuesday morning. Webster pleaded not guilty and said that the dog had been tending the dog before he was bitten. Hattie Hill said that she saw the dog, a spotted one, run at the boy and bite him as the boy was passing Webster's house. A little girl and boy corroborated the story.

The Magistrate said that the boy had not been very much injured, and while he would not punish the dog for its misdeeds, he had to go by the law and ordered that the dog be killed or sent out of town, within twenty-four hours.

VANCOUVER IN ASHES.

Fifty Lives Lost and Three Thousand People Homeless.

TORONTO, June 15.—Mayor Howland last evening received this telegram: NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., June 14.—To the Mayor of Toronto: Vancouver is a desolation. Three thousand people homeless. Please send us aid at once. Please repeat this message to other Canadian cities.

M. A. McLEAN, Mayor.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 14.—The city of Vancouver was obliterated by fire yesterday. Only four hundred are now standing. The Hastings and Royal City saw mills are saved. The loss is half a million; insurance one hundred and fifty thousand. Fifty lives are known to be lost. Fourteen ladies have been recovered. The identified are John Caswell, Mrs. Nash, George Bailey, Fawcett, and the others are not identified. Mayor McLean telegraphs for aid for relief for three thousand homeless people without provisions. The Mayor is forwarding relief, and Government is aiding in the contribution. The Princess Louise brought over today two hundred passengers, who saved nothing but what they had on their persons.

A "Pointer."

When Col. Sellers gives you a "pointer" in stocks, my friend, listen to me severely alone, but when your own feelings tell you that you have paid the price of the heart, and are chafing or catarrh which unless checked are apt to run into consumption, heed the admonition before it is too late. All the diseases—numeration, and others, arise from impure blood. Put the liver in action, the largest gland in the human body, and you will speedily regain your lost health, and your bad feeling will disappear. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will accomplish the work speedily and certainly. Of your druggist.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

THE REEVES CONVENED IN SEMI-ANNUAL SESSION.

Agricultural Society Grants Abridged—Reply to the Warden's Address—Agitation for the T. V. C. County Judicial Office.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.
The Council met at half past two o'clock. The minutes of yesterday's business were read and confirmed.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS.
On motion deputations from the East and West Riding Agricultural Societies were heard.

Mr. Thomas Blizard, M. P. P. was the first to speak. He said that the deputations before the Council came for the purpose of asking aid toward the construction of permanent agricultural buildings in Peterborough and at Norwood. The Agriculturalists of this district found that they were very much behind, when compared with those of the West. They wanted to do something to stimulate agricultural interests in this district. Suitable buildings should be put up in Peterborough, which, he would say, was one of the smartest towns in the Province or in Canada for that matter. The time had arrived for them to move in the matter if they ever wished to get the Provincial Exhibition here. If the buildings were put up they expected to get it here shortly—perhaps in one or two years. Then in the East Riding they were sick and tired of moving around from one place to another. They wanted to establish the exhibition in one place and abandon the townships. Then they would be able to run an exhibition which would be worth while going to see. He maintained that with the advancement of agriculture all other things in the commercial community advanced also. He dwelt on the fact that local exhibitions had done, and that likely to accrue to the farming interests by the establishment of two first class annual exhibitions within the county. These annual competitions would kindle the rivalry among competitors and the result would be that each would endeavor to have the best wheat, the best stock, etc., and having them the neighbors would benefit thereby. He referred to what he had personally done to introduce a finer breed of pigs. What they came to ask for was $500 toward the West Riding Society and $500 toward the East Riding Society. The request had an apparent disparity, but such amount given to each, he felt sure, would be equitable between the two societies, for the West Riding Society not only included members from the whole of the West Riding proper, but from Otterdale, Douro, and a large part of the East Riding.

Mr. J. R. STRATTON, said that he spoke as a representative of the West Riding Society. He asked for a grant similar to that asked by the preceding speaker, and claimed that a grant to such societies meant the supporting of a scheme to benefit the county at large as well as the town. It was a matter of dollars and cents, the county got the dollars and the town the cents. The Society sought to have the buildings constructed as soon as possible, their object being to endeavor to secure the holding of the Provincial Exhibition here at a distant date. To show how insignificant the grant asked for as compared with the size and importance of the county he stated that, according to the figures prepared by Mr. Pearce, the total assessed value of the county last year was $6,757,950. One eighth of a mill on the dollar in taxation would give $1,096,000, and one sixteenth of a mill on the dollar would give $548,000, or $240 more than the grant asked for. Thus on every thousand dollars worth of farm property the tax would only be 14 cents, or $12 on every $800 worth of property. This was a very small tax considering the good to accrue by bestowing the grant asked for on the Societies. They wanted to have an impression in the minds of some that it would be useless to spend money on the grounds because they thought the property would fall back into the hands of the former owner. He did not think that any one need fear that event ever taking place. The grounds had been bought at a very reasonable figure with nine years to pay for them, the annual rental being fixed at a sum that did not give Mr. Morrow more than one per cent. on his money.

Mr. ROBERT VANCE, a member of the Agricultural and Arts Council in connection with the Provincial Exhibition, said that he was here as an outsider, but still was interested in both East and West Ridings. He could state that in Peterborough the Provincial Exhibition would surely be brought here. It was the feeling that the Exhibition should come two years east for one year west. Ottawa would get it this year, but if Peterborough had the accommodation it would get it next year. The Vice-President of the Provincial Association was over the Peterborough grounds and was highly pleased with them. He was in favour of bringing the Exhibition here when proper accommodation was provided. He thought the grant asked for a very small one indeed.

Mr. HUGH DAVIDSON hoped that the Council had more maturely considered the matter since it was last before them. The scheme, then somewhat experimental, was now a settled fact. The grant asked for, he held was a just one. Of course the Exhibition might be put in the interest of agriculture to adopt such a plan, and he was sure the Council would also take that view. He referred to the points on which he had spoken, and said that he was sure the Council would not permit such a thing as a grant of the kind he had talked to be personally in favour of giving the grant but said that their people would not bear them out. To vote as the people told the Reeves to vote he claimed was not right in principle. The Council was a public body, it should take the initiative in any good work. It should be like Parliament—take a ground and stand or fall by it. As long as the members thought they were doing right he held it was right for them to vote for the grant. There would be more standing than falling if they went to the polls on this issue.

Mr. FRANK BRIDGALL, held that the great majority of the people of the county were in favor of the grants, and were willing to bear the trifling extra tax. It would only amount to between 15 and 20 cents on every hundred acres. He held that they had a right to come here as farmers to their representatives to ask for aid to nourish their own farming interests. He did not think that while other deputations were treated well, and had their requests complied with, the farmers when they came should be turned away empty handed.

Mr. DAVIDSON rose to correct an impression that they had any connection with the Driving Park Association. They merely allowed the Association to use some of their stalls for the use of the track in the Park.

Mr. RIDGELL, Reeve of South Monaghan, spoke a few words, pointing out the justice of the claim made by the societies.

Mr. FITZGERALD, President of the Lakefield and Smith Agricultural Society, supported the giving of a liberal sum for the proposed buildings. He spoke of some of the Lakefield people having wanted to apply for a grant, but he assured the Council such application would not be made.

Mr. H. T. STRICKLAND, representing Ashburnham, thought the grant asked for a reasonably small one. It should be given, Mr. BRIDGESS, of Belmont, did not think their requests should be looked on as begging. They had a right to come here and ask for what they were willing to pay for. They came as farmers, to farmers, the representatives of farmers, to ask for help to encourage farming interests.

Mr. Wm. COLLINS briefly and forcibly reviewed the deputations' request, contrasting it with that made last year and pointing out the difference.

Mr. JOSEPH TULLY followed with a short, spirited speech, which seemed to be intended to hit some of the Reeves pretty hard.

Mr. JOHN BRECKINRIDGE, of Asphodel, next spoke, commending the grant. He indulged in some reminiscences as to how the Warden had come to his place to make some preparations for a plowing match, how he had set up the lines—

Mr. BURNHAM—What, did you say the Warden "set them up?" (Laughter.)
A VOICE—Scott Act wasn't in force then.

Mr. PATTERSON concisely reviewed the proposal.

Mr. STRATTON thanked the Council for their hearing.

Mr. FOLEY moved, seconded by Mr. MOORE—that the question of making grants to the East and West Riding Agricultural Societies for the purpose of erecting permanent buildings be referred to the Finance Committee—Carried.

A short discussion followed, ending in the matter being left according to the instructions of the motion.

THE REPLY TO THE WARDEN.
Mr. SANDERSON read the report of the committee on the Warden's address as follows:—

(1) Your committee hope that the expectations of the Warden of an abundant harvest will be fully realized and the season which has opened so brightly and prosperously will be as auspicious throughout.

Your committee are pleased with the assurance of the Warden that the unusual high water of this spring inflicted so little damage upon the works and bridges of the county. This county must feel that their bridges lately built have so well withstood so severe a test and have justified the wisdom of the council in building them so strong, permanent and substantial.

Your Committee approve of the action of the Warden in reference to repairing the Pigeon Creek bridge in conjunction with the County Council of Victoria. Your Committee understand and that the County Council of Victoria admit their joint liability to keep this bridge in repair and it is satisfactory to note that the friendly relations between these two counties are still maintained and that this matter has been so amicably settled without resort to litigation.

(4) Your Committee recommend that the clause in the Warden's address referring to the suit of the Grand Junction Railway vs. Peterborough, be referred to the Finance Committee.

(5) Your Committee cannot agree with the Warden in his assertion that the deputations in reference to the Trent Valley Canal have been so far unfruitful in their results. A large amount of money has certainly been voted and expended by the Dominion Government on this undertaking, and whilst our anticipations that the Government would commence the section between Lakefield and Peterborough have not been fulfilled, yet we are of opinion that by continued exertions and agitation we will be able to accomplish the objects for which such deputations were formed.

(6) Your Committee are of opinion that before the matter of the appointment of Robert Weir as Inspector under the Scott Act should be discussed, the liability of this Council for the enforcement of this Act should be more fully enquired into and would prefer that the whole question should be dealt with in open Council.

(7) Your Committee are unwilling to express any opinion as to the advisability of making grants to the Agricultural Societies of the East and West Ridings of Peterborough before hearing the views of the deputations which are about to wait upon this Council, but consider it desirable that the matter should be referred to the whole Council.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
MICHAEL SANDERSON,
County Council Chamber,
June 16th, 1886.
CHAIRMAN.

COUNTY STATIONERY AND OFFICES.
Mr. BURNHAM read the report of the committee on county stationery as follows:—
The committee to whom was referred the question of the liability of the county to supply stationery, etc., to public offices beg leave to report as follows:—
That the enquiry was directed in consequence of the application of the clerk of the Division Court, Peterborough, for stationery for the Division Court.
The minutes of the County Council in respect of such matters appears to be regulated by Sec. 463 of the Municipal Act of 1883, which provides that the council is required to provide the proper and necessary accommodation, fuel, light, and furniture for the Courts of Justice other than the Division Courts and to provide proper offices together with fuel, light and furniture for all offices expected under such acts.
By this the council are not required to provide anything for the Division Courts. It appears to the Committee that what is required for the holding of the Courts of Justice during their sittings, the Council must provide, and that there is no obligation to provide the offices of the courts with anything beyond what is mentioned in the said section. This will not include stationery and other appliances.

Although your Committee were not charged with reporting on the matter of offices for the officials, yet since a change has taken place in the County Judgeship, a question of providing such office has arisen. The present Judge being also Local Master, requires much more extensive office accommodation than his predecessor, and has already declined to use the Judge's chambers, and has requested the County to give him proper and convenient offices or pay his rent. The Clerk of the Peace also requires an allowance in lieu of rent.

Your Committee suggest that such a rearrangement of the old jail and the rooms in the Court House south of the entrance would afford proper and suitable offices for the County Judge and Clerk of the Peace, and would be cheaper than paying rent of offices in town.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
JOHN BURNHAM,
CHAIRMAN.

JUNE 16, 1886.
Mr. BURNHAM explained that the old goal, now not used, might be fitted for the gaoler at an expense of about $1,500, and that the present dwelling would serve well for the Judge's offices. The interest on this amount would be about half what the County would have to pay in rent for suitable offices.

The report was adopted.

Mr. BURNHAM moved, seconded by Mr. SANDERSON—that the report of the Committee on the matter of supplies to offices of the Courts be referred to the County Property Committee with instructions to consider the question of office accommodation therein referred to for the County Judge and Clerk of the Peace and report thereon.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.
BELFAST, June 16.—In the inquest in the case of McCormick who was shot in the recent riots, Inspector Green testified that the police began firing without orders. He stopped the firing as soon as possible. The riot act had not been read before the firing. The jury rendered a verdict of wilful murder against the policemen whose names are unknown.

UTTERANCES BY NATIONALISTS.
DUBLIN, June 16.—Mr. John Dillon, at the League meeting yesterday, said: "The admirable conduct of the people after their recent disappointment at the rejection of the Home Rule Bill, showed that they realized the gigantic strides made by the national cause, which the riots in Ulster only serve to assist." Mr. Healy said the coroners' juries in Belfast ought to have rendered verdicts of murder against Mr. Chamberlain. These murders would never have been perpetrated but for the letters written by him."

IMPRISONED.
BOMBAY, June 16.—The Times of India announces that Col. Lockhart's party has been seized by Chief Badakshah and immured in a fort.

POLICY OF THE CONSERVATIVES.
LONDON, June 16.—Lord Idlesleigh, in a speech last evening, denied that the Conservatives advocated coercion, which, he said, was the last thing that they desired. They would, however, use every means in their power to suppress the Land League. Mr. Gladstone's policy meant separation under American influence.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.
LONDON, June 16.—The Standard says:—"The Canadian Pacific Railway is a political triumph and achievement, the possibilities of which no one can forecast. It is a military advantage of which may yet be the saving of the Empire. It is the contribution of our Canadian brethren to the organization for the defense of the Empire. It is our duty to show the world that we fully understand its importance."

COLONIES AND THE EMPIRE.
LONDON, June 16.—The Marquis of Lorne presided last evening at a meeting of the Colonial Institute, called to hear a paper by Sir George Bowen, Governor of Hong Kong, on Imperial Federation. The author said he believed federation would practically obviate the difficulties of the Irish question. Lord Lorne, in moving a vote of thanks to the author, said the Institute was one of the Government to consent to Canada's request that the mails be carried by fast cruisers, and would also ask the Government not to lose sight of the Barbades question.

CHAMBERLAIN TO BLAME.
DUBLIN, June 16.—John Dillon at a League meeting yesterday and the administrator of the conduct of the people after their recent disappointment at the rejection of the Home Rule Bill, showed the gigantic strides made by the National cause which the riots in Ulster only serve to assist. Mr. Healy said the coroners' juries in Belfast ought to have rendered verdicts of murder against Mr. Chamberlain. These murders would never have been perpetrated but for letters written by him.

NEW CALEDONIA.
LONDON, June 16.—Advice from the British consulate at Noumea, the capital of the French colony of New Caledonia, state that the French military and naval expedition which recently proceeded thence to the New Hebrides Islands, hoisted the French flag over them on June 1, and that the captain of the French transport which performed the ceremony exchanged views with the commander of a British man-of-war lying in the vicinity. England is seeking from France a statement as to the truth or falsity of the above report.

AN ORANGE PROTEST.
BELFAST, June 16.—The Orange Grand Lodge of Ireland has issued a manifesto protesting against the betrayal of the loyal soldiery of Ireland at the bidding of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Parnell in the interest of rebels, outrage-mongers and other violators of the law.

BOUND FOR AUSTRALASIA.

Alderman Alexander Wood, of Winnipeg, who was yesterday appointed agent general for the Dominion for Australasia was seen this morning by a representative of the Evening Review. He said that he should leave in a few days for Sydney, N. S. W., where he will establish an office.

"What is wanted," said Alderman Wood, "is a knowledge in the country to which I am going of the products and capacity of the manufacturing of the Dominion. The commercial relations of these two countries need to be developed in a practical way."

His intention is to first prepare a pamphlet showing the trade done between Australasia and Great Britain, the United States and Canada, and illustrating how far the condition of the Dominion could be improved with respect to the export of manufactured goods. He proposed for this purpose visiting the great manufacturing centres of the country to ascertain their capacity for manufacturing certain articles consumed in Australasia as well as the ruling price in the home market. Then samples of their goods will be obtained and it is understood that they will be freighted free by the Canadian Pacific Railway as far as possible. On arriving at Sydney a central office will be opened where trade journals, directories, and other information will be supplied to the importers. An exhibition hall for samples of Canadian manufactures will be thrown open and everything possible done to induce our fellow colonists to take advantage of the Canadian market.

"In what special lines do you hope to divert trade?"

"Primarily agricultural implements, carriages and horse carts, passenger and freight cars, saws and tools, machinery of all kinds, leather, organs and pianos, oils, sugars, tobacco, household furniture of all kinds and a thousand other things."

"Where are these lines of trade mentioned now going and how do you hope to obtain them?"

"Well I will tell you. In 1885 the United States exported $250,000 worth of agricultural implements to Australia, while the Dominion of Canada only sent $256 worth. We can make and sell this line of goods just as cheap as the Americans, and give just as good a quality of machinery. This trade should be divided. Then take the trade in carriages and horse carts: the United States last year sent out $300,000, while Canada's trade was not worth a dollar; for the same time the American manufacturers exported $60,000 worth of railway and freight cars, and in machinery of all kinds over three quarters of a million dollars; leather $147,000 worth from the United States, Canada nothing; pianos and organs, United States $138,000, Canada $8,000; illuminating oil, United States $931,000, Canada not to exceed $1,000; sugars, United States $601,000, Canada hardly anything; tobacco $491,000 from the States with no trade from Canada. Household furniture and woodware of different kinds, United States $1,000,000, Canada about $8,000. Of course these figures all apply to the year 1885, and show exports from Canada and the United States to Australasia."

"When I was in Quebec recently," continued Mr. Wood, "I noticed a tobacco manufacturer putting up a shipment of his own make for a London house, ordered by a Boston broker, to be shipped to Sydney via Boston. He told me he could make the same grade of tobacco as put up in the United States at two cents per pound less on account of the cheapness of labor."

"The trade needs looking after," said Mr. Wood, "that is all that is needed. The United States exports to Australasia should more than be divided with this country, and as soon as the Canadian Pacific gets its line running through to the Pacific and a line of steamers running regularly between Vancouver and China and Australasia, we will be in better shape to make rates for goods for through shipment."

"Have you any idea when the line of steamers mentioned will be put on?"

"Just as soon as there is any business for them." Albion Free Press.

MISCELLANEOUS.

JOHN MEAGHER had his leg broken June 5th. He was working in Rathbun's mill. Descending when a slab struck him with the result named. The ravages of the recent fire in Hull, Que., are being rapidly repaired. Some 60 or 70 new houses are in course of erection. This speaks well for Canada's mill town.

MR. THOMAS SMITH, a well known lumber merchant died on June 7th. He was attacked with paralysis of the brain on the 2nd and sank rapidly.

EXTENSIVE forest fires have lately raged in the vicinity of Huronville and Wausau, Wis., upper Michigan.

On a late Wednesday the largest lumber fleet that ever sailed from Marquette, Mich., in one day left that port. It consisted of seven vessels loaded with over 3,000,000 feet of lumber.

Forest fires in the vicinity of Cadillac, Mich., burned considerable standing timber. Several places belonging to Dr. A. Blodgett were burned over, and much timber killed, so that it will have to be cut. About 200 acres in all was thus served by the fire.

On May 25th Messrs. S. & J. Armstrong shipped the first cargo of clear dry pine lumber from Burk's Falls over the N. & P. Junction Railway, thus practically opening the outward bound freight business of the new railway.

ABOUT 11 months ago Sibley & Bearinger bought what is known as the Gamble pine tract in Ogemaw county, paying therefor $100,000. It is reported that the same tract has been sold to Detroit parties for $175,000. It is estimated to cut 30,000,000 feet.

The railway from Lake Winnipeg to Hudson's bay is likely to be built. The Manitoba Government is to guarantee interest on $4,500,000, as capital, for a period of 25 years. Work of construction is to begin at the northern end of Lake Winnipeg.

Fire on the Upper Ottawa.
Pembroke, Ont., June 10.—Two weeks ago some Poles set fire in the vicinity of Pogue Lake, and the high winds that prevailed since that time have carried the fire down to Brennan's Creek, a distance of over ten miles, the breadth of the burnt district being over three miles. Mohr's limit suffered most, the fire totally destroying it. McLachlin Bros. limit caught in several places, burning all the provisions the men had for the drive. The fire is now under control. Constables have gone in search of the parties who set out the fire. On Saturday during the high wind the barns and outbuildings on the farm of Mr. Stephen Ryan, Reeve of South Algoma, took fire from the bush and were totally destroyed. A number of settlers in South Algoma and Hagaray have had their fences and crops burned. On Saturday evening they had a good shower of rain, and only for this good deal more damage would have been done. The Polish settlers were removing their furniture and effects from their houses and burying them, but the timely rain saved their buildings. A Russian Pole was arrested on the instance of McLachlin Bros., and brought before Justice Kippers and O'Rourke, charged with setting fire to their limits, and was committed to jail for thirty days.

Forest fires in the vicinity of Florence, Wis., last week destroyed 400 cords of wood belonging to the Florence Furnace Company. Woods fires prevailed at many points through out northern Wisconsin and upper peninsula of Michigan, burning much standing timber, and destroying ties, poles wood and bark.

We learn with interest that the Victoria Times, according to a telegram from Port Townsend, the Port Discovery saw mill has received from Japan an order for ties to the amount of 120,000,000 feet. The mill in question has never cut more than 30,000,000 feet in one year. It would accordingly take four years of steady work to fill the Japanese order.

Several members of the County Council went down the river this morning to inspect the Wallace Point Bridge, in company with Mr. Fowles and Mr. Biddell, Reeves of Hastings and South Monaghan County (Northumberland) respectively. In consequence no session of the Council was held this forenoon.

Imprisoned and Released.

Mr. R. N. Roddy, was on Wednesday evening arrested and taken to the County gaol because his fine, imposed for violation of the Scott Act, was not paid. After remaining in the prison for about an hour he paid the fine and costs under protest and was released. He claims that he should not have been arrested, because he had goods that could have been distrained.

Phrenology.

Herr Mark Mendelsohn, the phrenologist is still at the "Marian House," prolonging his stay on account of increasing patronage. He will call at private residences by appointment, and in case of his temporary absence orders may be left with the landlady. We said that his skill in phrenology is highly spoken of by the press and by those of our towns people who have consulted him.

Summer Resort.

The Toronto Mail of Wednesday says: "Mrs. Stewart, the better-half of the editor of the Boboysgown Independent, was in this city yesterday. She stated that she had turned her surplus energies to starting a very attractive summer resort near Haliburton. The location is a splendid one, affording facilities for fishing, boating, bathing, and other healthful pastimes. An hotel has been built near the water which will accommodate thirty or fifty guests. A pavilion has also been erected, and a roller rink provided. It is proposed to erect a number of cottages for guests who prefer not to live at the hotel. One of the cottages has been built, and others will be proceeded with immediately. All the amusements, including billiards and dancing, are free to the guests. The village of Haliburton is two miles distant, so that churches of nearly every denomination are within easy reach."

He was seen near a neighbour's at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, and nothing had been heard from him since. He was dressed in duck pants and blue striped cotton shirt and wore a soft hat.

Excitement.

Quite an excitement has begun among the rush of buyers over the stock of the late Isaac Robinson. Readers are advised to go early to the great clearing sale now going on in the old stand on George street. Over eight thousand dollars worth of Dry Goods, Clothing, Tweeds, etc., must be sold at a low price. There are bargains for everyone's guidance. Don't let the fine weather and the Irish question prevent you from attending this big bonanza sale.

It Never Steals.

The Toronto World, one of the most readable dailies in the country, gives the Peterborough Review credit for the ability of its management. The World says "The Review never steals." That is a statement we heartily endorse. It costs very little to give credit when an item is bagged, and we commend the Review's course. What a pity all journals in the Midland District do not follow the Review's example! Not to steal, but to give credit when extracts are made."

Cheese Factories.

Mr. James Whitten, Cheese Instructor, in a report published in the Belleville papers of the factories visited says: "May 31st.—Belmont factory, making 3 cheese per day; 2,100 lbs. milk. Miss Briggs, maker; James Stewart, salesman. 31st.—Blairton, making 4 cheese per day; 2,300 lbs. milk. Miss Milner, maker; E. Boyd, salesman." He closed his report with the following remarks: "In factories, as far as visited, I find cheese makers and proprietors of factories doing their best to turn out a fine article of cheese, and they are succeeding in most of them. I would advise makers to make as solid a cheese as possible, but not to get across the line and have them too dry and curdy. A solid cheese, showing plenty of fat, is what the market looks for, and will keep just as long as a dry, hard cheese."

Personal.

The Rev. Dr. Harper, formerly of Peterborough, has been appointed Examiner for Victoria College by the Toronto Conference. Dr. Harper is Chairman of the Board of Examiners of the Conference and the Rev. Mr. Washington, M.A., Secretary.

The Norwood Register says: "Mr. E. D. Gough has disposed of his business here to Messrs. Smith & Holdrich, two experienced and enterprising business men from Stirling. Mr. Gough will devote his attention to his Peterborough business exclusively. By the departure of Mr. Gough from Norwood we lose an estimable citizen and an enterprising business man, and we join with his many friends in wishing him success in his new home."

L. Goldman, Secretary of the North American Life Assurance Company, is in town and is stopping at the Oriental Hotel. Mr. Ed. Brown leaves this evening for Toronto, where he will represent the Peterborough Driving Park Association at the meeting that will be held at the Rossin House to-morrow afternoon, for the purpose of organizing an association of representatives of the different associations from all the driving parks in Ontario.

SCOTT ACT CASES.

Three More Liquor Cases Come Before the Police Magistrate.

Francis Anthony was charged at the Police Court this morning by Inspector Cochrane with having kept liquor for sale between May 24th and June 16th.

Geo. COCHRANE, Inspector, sworn, said that he searched Anthony's premises on Wednesday under a warrant and found about a quart of rye whiskey in a jug.

NELSON VICKERY testified that he got a drink of liquor from Anthony two weeks ago last Sunday and paid for it. Edward Bungald was with him and drank pop.

CROSS-EXAMINED—Said he was not a married man. A woman lived at Martin's. He went to see her occasionally. Paid the bill for her board to Martin. Had not said he would inform on Anthony on account of a quarrel.

EDWARD BUNGALD got a drink with VICKERY. He drank soda water. The case was enlarged until Friday morning.

A FINE.

Thomas Dunn was charged by Inspector Cochrane with keeping liquor for sale between June 1st and 15th.

THOMAS DUNN was called as a witness. Mr. O'MEARA objected to him being called until a prima facie case has been made out.

THOMAS DUNN, sworn, said that since his father was committed in the former case he had been running Dunn's Hotel. On being asked if intoxicating liquor was kept there for sale, he declined to answer. Couldn't say whether there was any liquor there when his father left. Declined to say whether he had seen any liquor there since, or whether he had sold any. He assumed the responsibility in the case. He declined to answer the questions unless the prosecution agreed to call no more witnesses.

Mr. EDWARDS refused to make such an arrangement.

THE WITNESS then, on being warned that he must answer or be committed for contempt, agreed to answer under protest. His father kept liquor for sale between the dates named. Had sold liquor for him. Sold to Wm. Johnston.

WILLIAM JOHNSTON, sworn, said that he got a glass of whiskey from Thomas Dunn a week or ten days ago and paid for it.

ROBERT HENDERSON had also got whisky at Dunn's.

Z. BLODGETT was in Dunn's with Henderson and drank whisky. Liquor was being sold as if there was no Scott Act.

CROSS-EXAMINED—Did not get paid for coming here and did not expect to be paid. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of close on to one thousand operatives. Snobs will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above mentioned brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. S. General manager Barker expresses himself as thoroughly satisfied with the road, and has given instructions to have it opened at once for freight traffic. The Government inspector, who will visit that section on Thursday, will probably declare the line open for passenger traffic this week.

Reverend Indians. TREDFLES, Cal., June 14.—An outbreak and massacre are threatened among the Hopi Indians at Kingman and Peach Springs, Arizona. About ten days ago a buck named Natchez, shot his squaw and seven other bucks and squaws and then shot himself. In revenge the tribe, according to their custom, were about to massacre the family and relatives of Natchez, but were prevented by the whites, who sent them here for safety. This greatly enraged the remainder, who openly threatened to take the war-path.

CATARH cured, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

Is a well known fact that the "Gable" and "El Padre" brands of cigars are the oldest, most reliable and best value in the market. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of close on to one thousand operatives. Snobs will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above mentioned brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. S. DAVIS & Sons, Montreal and Toronto.

That Hacking Cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

THE ANNUAL OUTING

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE PARISH CHURCH, ENNISMORE.

A Day of Sports in the Long Lake Park—A Merry Time Spent—Hundreds of People.

Where shading elms along the margin grew, and freshen'd from the wave the sylvan bow, Several hundred people from both town and county met in the prettily situated Long Lake Park on Thursday, on the occasion of the annual picnic under the auspices of the Parish Church of Ennismore. The morning, unfortunately for the greater success of the picnic, opened with a shower of rain, and until after ten o'clock distended clouds hovered overhead threatening every moment to give Nature another baptism. But notwithstanding this state of the weather crowds had commenced to pour in at the main gateway to the park and before noon there were close on a thousand people on the grounds.

From ten o'clock until twelve the road between Peterborough and Bridgenorth was well lined with vehicles containing townspeople, all intent on taking advantage of "Father Kelly's Picnic." The drive up at this hour was delightful. After the recent sprinklings of rain the fields were all moist, bright and green, and the whole face of the country presented a laughing landscape.

The tables, culinary department and the pavilion for dancing had all been built the night before. The latter consisted of a broad platform, capable of holding eight sets of dancers. When the Fire Brigade Band orchestra drove into the grounds in a bus at ten o'clock, that was a sufficient signal for picnickers already on the grounds to choose partners. The platform was soon filled with dancers, awaiting the musicians. The latter ascended the seat of honor, which had, as a dias, the whispering boughs of a pine tree. The violinists sawed for a minute or two, the piccolo man gave two or three shrill toots, and the big bass viol sounded sonorously. Then the corpulent gentleman who sat behind the trombone removed his hat, wiped the perspiration from his capacious brow, and the signal was given. When the first burst of brilliant orchestral music echoed through the grove the feathered songsters, which had until then choired unseen, started at the strange melody, winged their flight away, and sixty-four pairs of feet tapped and shifted lightly along the pavilion, to the commands given in Mr. John Flaherty's clear, even-toned voice. From that hour, with but a few minutes for dinner, the orchestra was kept in continual demand until six o'clock in the afternoon, when the people left the grounds.

From twelve o'clock, noon, till three in the afternoon, the good ladies of Ennismore were kept as busy as busy could be in attending to the wants of those that clustered around the dinner tables. And these were not few. Four long tables stretched along an open space were crowded on sides and ends, unreservedly doing full justice to the excellent dinner.

At about half-past two o'clock the sports were commenced, Mr. T. York acting as clerk and Messrs. W. Sullivan and Jeremiah Toomey as judges. The list is as follows:—

PUTTING HEAVY WEIGHT.—1st, T. Flynn, 35 feet; 2nd, P. Scully, 34 feet 3 in. Five entries.

THE ANNUAL OUTING

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE PARISH CHURCH, ENNISMORE.

A Day of Sports in the Long Lake Park—A Merry Time Spent—Hundreds of People.

Where shading elms along the margin grew, and freshen'd from the wave the sylvan bow, Several hundred people from both town and county met in the prettily situated Long Lake Park on Thursday, on the occasion of the annual picnic under the auspices of the Parish Church of Ennismore. The morning, unfortunately for the greater success of the picnic, opened with a shower of rain, and until after ten o'clock distended clouds hovered overhead threatening every moment to give Nature another baptism. But notwithstanding this state of the weather crowds had commenced to pour in at the main gateway to the park and before noon there were close on a thousand people on the grounds.

From ten o'clock until twelve the road between Peterborough and Bridgenorth was well lined with vehicles containing townspeople, all intent on taking advantage of "Father Kelly's Picnic." The drive up at this hour was delightful. After the recent sprinklings of rain the fields were all moist, bright and green, and the whole face of the country presented a laughing landscape.

The tables, culinary department and the pavilion for dancing had all been built the night before. The latter consisted of a broad platform, capable of holding eight sets of dancers. When the Fire Brigade Band orchestra drove into the grounds in a bus at ten o'clock, that was a sufficient signal for picnickers already on the grounds to choose partners. The platform was soon filled with dancers, awaiting the musicians. The latter ascended the seat of honor, which had, as a dias, the whispering boughs of a pine tree. The violinists sawed for a minute or two, the piccolo man gave two or three shrill toots, and the big bass viol sounded sonorously. Then the corpulent gentleman who sat behind the trombone removed his hat, wiped the perspiration from his capacious brow, and the signal was given. When the first burst of brilliant orchestral music echoed through the grove the feathered songsters, which had until then choired unseen, started at the strange melody, winged their flight away, and sixty-four pairs of feet tapped and shifted lightly along the pavilion, to the commands given in Mr. John Flaherty's clear, even-toned voice. From that hour, with but a few minutes for dinner, the orchestra was kept in continual demand until six o'clock in the afternoon, when the people left the grounds.

From twelve o'clock, noon, till three in the afternoon, the good ladies of Ennismore were kept as busy as busy could be in attending to the wants of those that clustered around the dinner tables. And these were not few. Four long tables stretched along an open space were crowded on sides and ends, unreservedly doing full justice to the excellent dinner.

At about half-past two o'clock the sports were commenced, Mr. T. York acting as clerk and Messrs. W. Sullivan and Jeremiah Toomey as judges. The list is as follows:—

PUTTING HEAVY WEIGHT.—1st, T. Flynn, 35 feet; 2nd, P. Scully, 34 feet 3 in. Five entries.

RUNNING HOP, STEP AND JUMP.—1st, M. Collins, 41 feet 7 in.; 2nd, J. T. Sullivan, 41 feet 4 in. Four entries.

STANDING HIGH JUMP.—1st, J. T. Sullivan, 4 feet 10 in.; 2nd, M. Collins, 4 feet 9 in. Five entries.

THREE JUMPS, STANDING.—1st, J. T. Sullivan, 31 feet 10 in.; 2nd, M. Collins, 33 feet 5 in. Three entries.

STANDING HOP, STEP AND JUMP.—1st, J. T. Sullivan, 31 feet 11 in.; 2nd, A. Moore, 31 feet 10 in.

900 YARD RACE.—1st, A. Moore, Peterborough; 2nd, J. C. Scullie. Time, 23 seconds. Three entries.

TOSING THE CABER.—1st, P. O'Connor, 37 feet 5 in.; 2nd, D. Kennedy, 37 feet 4 in. Seven entries.

In each of these events $2 was given as first prize, and $1 as second prize, except in the 900 yard race, a suitable prize being given to the winner of that event.

While the stalwart sons of the townships were thus engaged in trials of strength and endurance, the young ladies found employment in censoring their friends into helping to swell the total picnic receipts. Miss Maggie McCarthy and Miss Theresa Sullivan succeeded in disposing of a pickle stand for $2.35; Miss Annie Toomey and Miss Eliza Galvin had a crust stand for which $14.50 was received; a crayon portrait of the late Bishop Jamot, executed by Mr. Clark, of Guelph, brought in $16.90, it being in charge of Miss Carroll and Mrs. D. Sullivan of Emily. A plough, presented by Mr. Sylvester, of Lindsay, added $18.75 to the funds. Those who were lucky enough to draw the foregoing articles were: His Lordship's portrait, Mrs. D. Sullivan, of Emily; the plough, the Rev. Father O'Brien of Peterborough; the crust stand, Mr. Dennis McCarthy, of Douro; the pickle stand, the Rev. Father Casey, Campbellford.

From five o'clock till six tea was dispensed. Afterwards the violinist was called on to play up the strains for jig dancing. The crowd thickened around the platform as couple after couple each in turn took possession of the floor. General applause told when one pair bowed their way from the platform to give place to another. At a few minutes past six the people all left the grounds.

NOTES.

The clergy of the district present were: Their Reverencies Father Brown, Port Hope; Father McAvay, Fenelon Falls; Father O'Connell, Douro; Father Murray, Colborne; Father Casey, Campbellford; Father Connolly, Downeyville; Father McGuire, Lindsay; Father Conway, Father Tavelle, and Father O'Brien, Peterborough; and Father Kelly.

A photograph gallery on the grounds had the honor to be patronized by the Rev. Fathers who had a group photograph taken.

Considerable surprise was occasioned at the shooting gallery when one of the Rev. Fathers took up the air gun and with deliberate aim struck the bullseye twice out of three times.

Messrs. John O'Donoghue, John Scollard, W. Sullivan and W. Crough, presided at the gate. The receipts at their department were $205.50.

Messrs. John Crowley and John Sullivan, the Douro patriarchs, were on the grounds. Councillor Cahill and Mr. B. Morrow, county registrar, were present.

Those ladies who were chiefly instrumental in providing such an excellent dinner for the people were:—Mrs. M. Crough, Mrs. J. Scollard, Mrs. Wm. Crough, Mrs. O'Doud, Mrs. Tangney, Mrs. T. Young, Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Garrett, Mrs. Danlard, Mrs. J. O'Gorman, Miss K. O'Gorman, Mrs. T. O'Riley, Mrs. Turner, Miss Mary O'Donoghue, Mrs. O'Donoghue, Mrs. E. Moloney, Mrs. T. Oadigan, Mrs. Jas. T. Flaherty, Mrs. P. Flaherty, Miss Agnes O'Riley, Miss Ella Carew, Miss Ella Young, Miss Maggie McCarthy, Miss Lizzie Collins, Miss Lizzie Quinn, Miss Mober, Miss Perdus, Miss McCann, Mrs. M. Caddigan.

It having come to the ears of Capt. Cooper, High County Constable, that an effort would be made by outside parties to create a disturbance at the picnic, he, accompanied by a posse of special police, went to the grounds. Happily his services were not needed, but his action shows that he is ready to do his duty. It may be said that a disturbance would take place, an anonymous letter having been sent to one of the picnic managers, threatening in its terms.

THE COLONIAL EXHIBITION.

From the Canadian Gazette, London, Eng., of June 8th, we take the following in reference to the Colonial Exhibition:—

Among the visitors at the Canadian section during the past week have been the Princess Louise and Princess Victoria. In company with the Marquis of Lorne their Royal Highnesses made an inspection of the educational court, and spent some time in examining the various exhibits of school work from the Province of Quebec, and in conversation, in the French language with the honorable Gedeon Ouimet, Superintendent of Public Instruction for the Province.

Some foreign visitors have also put in an appearance. Among these, Mr. V. E. Maar, lecturer at the Royal Danish Agricultural College of Copenhagen, spent some time in the section. His attention was particularly attracted by the agricultural trophy, and he expressed himself as specially struck with the fruits there displayed.

The Queen has been pleased to extend her recent purchase in the Canadian section. The latest recipient of the royal patronage are Messrs. La Lierie, of Quebec, from whom Her Majesty has secured a valuable offer. The royal party were evidently much impressed during their visit with the fur exhibits forming part of Canada's display.

Attention is being showered from every quarter upon Canadian with other Colonial visitors who are here in connection with the exhibition. On Saturday, by invitation of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, a number of seats were placed at the disposal of Canadian visitors in the Colonial Office stand for the purpose of viewing the customary trooping of colours in celebration of the Queen's birthday. The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company with their wonted liberality invited, through the Exhibition Reception Committee, a large company of colonists, and among them many Canadians, to a luncheon at the Royal Albert Dock yesterday (Wednesday), the party being conveyed by special steamer from the Temple pier. The proprietors of the Times newspaper have also, through the Reception Committee, issued invitations to a small party of Canadians to inspect their machinery and works on Friday next.

The Queen's birthday banquet of Canadian exhibitors on Saturday, was in itself entirely successful, thanks to the caterers and to the distinguished speakers. The speeches were all more or less in good form. The Marquis of Lorne makes an excellent chairman on such occasions, and surrounded by the faces of so many he had known in Canada, it was but natural that he should be appreciative and even humorous in his various utterances. Sir Chas. Tupper, in proposing "The Chairman," made a brief but happily impressive and businesslike speech. The Hon. G. Ouimet spoke in French, to the apparent appreciation of many Canadian guests, while Sir Saul Samuel, as Agent General for New South Wales, was able to strike a note of sympathy feeling through the assembly by his timely reference to the Canadian Pacific Railway as a route to Australia, and to the projected cable from Canada's Pacific shore to the antipodes.

The visitors to the exhibition last week numbered 160,170, making the large total of 545,281 since the opening on May 4th.

At the levee held by the Prince of Wales on Monday the following Canadians connected with the exhibition were presented to His Royal Highness by Sir Philip Cunliffe-Owen, Secretary to the Royal Commission:—The Hon. Hector Fabre, Dr. Alfred R. C. Selwyn, the Hon. Gedeon Ouimet, Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Ross, Mr. Thomas Chas. Dr. J. P. May, and Major Gartshore.

FOREST.

Did the prairie regions of the North-West form no part of the Dominion, Canada might with general accuracy be said to consist originally of one vast natural forest. Even now, indeed, one may find it so described without any material qualification in some English works reputed to be of standard merit, for until quite recently not a few learned geographers treated of Canada in their writings as little more than a fringe of habitable land along the shores of the St. Lawrence and the great lakes. But while the busy woodsman and hardy settler have to other turned much of this original forest into arable and pasture land, the timber regions are still vast, and varied enough to maintain for them a leading place among the feeders of Canadian industries. Hence, under the guidance of such experts as Professor Macoun, the woods of the Dominion form a prominent and interesting section of the South Kensington display worthy of the most careful attention.

THE WOODS OF THE PACIFIC PROVINCE.

In the very middle of the Central Gallery stands the already famous trophy of British Columbian pines. Erected to a height of some 10 to 12 feet the trophy consists of highly polished sections of the noted Douglas fir or Oregon pine of British Columbia. A fine collection of this same wood, the king of all trees, is to be found in the annexe to the south of the central gallery, leading from the game trophy. Here the immense polished sections average from 4 to 10 feet in length and as much as six feet in diameter. The finish of these samples serves admirably to show the beautiful grain and colour of the wood. They also permit of illustration of the facility with which the wood may be worked and of its inherent strength. So tough, indeed, is this Douglas pine that it was chosen for the structure of all the high bridges of the Canada Pacific Railway through the mountains. In the Machinery-in-Motion Court may be found an unpollished perpendicular section of the same wood, 15 feet high, which, though not taken from the centre of the tree, measures some seven feet in diameter, and this section is reported to have been taken from a tree twenty feet from the ground. The palm must, however, be accorded to a truly immense horizontal section, in five parts, which is shortly to form the principal feature in a wood and coal trophy, in the outside space partly occupied by the Ontario windmills. It exceeds in size even the famous section on the Parliament grounds at Ottawa, for while that measures eight feet four inches in diameter, these five sections when put together represent a total diameter of over ten feet, the bark alone measuring ten inches in depth. In the Agricultural Court the woods of the Pacific Province are also well represented. As we have already seen, the base of the central pillar of the agricultural trophy is faced with polished slabs of no less than twenty-five of the species found in British Columbia, among which the beautifully grained red cedar must claim special admiration. Here a new feature adds much to the interest of the collection. On each polished panel a photograph shows the tree as it is met with in the forest, while the frame in which the photograph is encased is itself of the variety depicted, to indicate the wood in one of its manufactured stages. These species are not, it must be remembered, intended to show the full size, or, indeed, the entire beauties of the mighty trees of the Pacific Province, growing as they do in unhindered grandeur to twelve or thirteen feet in diameter, and nearly 300 feet in height. They merely illustrate the various species as near their natural state as possible, and this, it must be admitted, they do most admirably.

THE MEDAL AND MATCH

THE ORILLIAS COME INTO POSSESSION OF THE FORMER

By Winning the Latter-Three Straights Against the Home Team & Repetition of the Opening of Last Season.

The Central District Championship medal, competed for on Thursday afternoon on the grounds of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, by the Peterborough and Orillia clubs, was presented by the National Amateur Lacrosse Association to clubs of the Central District in 1882. The first match for this medal was played in Peterborough on September 13th of that year, the contesting teams being the team which won the match on Thursday and the Peterboroughs, resulting in a victory for the Peterboroughs in three straights in less than half an hour. The year 1883 brought several teams from the district, each anxious to CARRY AWAY THE TROPHY with them, but the Peterboroughs, then in the pink of condition, easily retained the medal. In the year 1884 the same teams came intent on taking honors, but the season closed with the championship medal still in the possession of the Peterboroughs. In the spring of 1885, the plucky and pertinacious "Checkers," of Beaverton, came to town, and on June 23rd, in the new Driving Park Grounds, vanquished the old dozen, wresting the medal away with ease, having won three straights in thirty-four minutes. On account of the new grounds being so far from town, team practice was rare. That season was the most disastrous one in the history of the Club for the home team, four important matches being lost. However, the season closed brightly. On September 10th the team MUSTERED ONCE MORE at the call of Mons. LeBrun. The match was played with the "Checkers" on their own grounds, and that night the old dozen, bringing home the medal, were received home with torches, fireworks and huzzas.

This year, although the Peterborough lacrosse club formally organized, the team proper has not met together, and it was not till Thursday that a greater part of the team ever knew where their sticks and uniforms, laid away since last season, were to be found. At a meeting held a week before the match was played, a motion was introduced to hand over the medal to the Orillia lacrosse club without a contest, but subsequently it was decided to MEET THEM IN THE FIELD fairly, at all events. When the twenty-four players bounded over the ropes on Thursday afternoon, more than half of those representing the Peterboroughs had not touched a stick this year. The positions were taken by the members of the two teams as follows:

PETERBOROUGH.
 A. E. Lawrence Goal. F. Tynor
 J. R. Henderson Point. M. Tierney
 G. Tadpole C. Point. Dr. Brennan
 H. Finch 1st Defense. W. Welsh
 Jos. Quinn 2nd Defense. A. Rose
 A. Cameron Defense Field. J. Canling
 R. Henderson Centre Field. J. J. Sheehy
 W. Hughes Home Field. J. Henderson
 T. Stewart do do J. Simpson
 L. Campbell 2nd Home. M. Hainey
 J. Washburn 1st Home. W. J. Scott
 C. Henderson Goal. W. Rudkin
 G. Thompson Field Captain. R. H. Fortye

Mr. acted as umpire for the Orillias, and Mr. J. J. Daly, for the Peterboroughs. Mr. A. McNeil was the referee.

The ball was faced for the first game at precisely eleven minutes after three, when, with his old time twist, drawing it out. It was passed to Henderson, of the Peterboroughs, who hovered near, and from whose stick it fell in close proximity to the Orillias' stronghold. His brother, J. B., of the Orillias, was there, however, and he transferred it to the opposite corner of the field, where a lively struggle took place for the possession of the rubber, in which Welsh, Tierney and Dr. Brennan figured conspicuously, among the red and black shirted boys from the north, who worked hard to force it between the poles. Tierney, with one of his Ross McKenzie throws, relieved the goal for the time being. But it was returned again and again, and after eighteen minutes determined and exciting play the ball passed between the Peterborough flags, scoring the first game for the Orillias, C. Henderson doing the pretty by passing it through.

After a short rest positions were again resumed. Sheehy set the ball rolling once more in favor of the blue uniformed men, and at the commencement things looked as if the home team would this time strike the bullseye. Bulking, Scott and Simpson got in some fine play as indeed did the team throughout considering that this was their first team play for the season. The want of running was badly felt, however. The Orillias were in excellent trim the result by that the home players were outwinded. The Orillias showed some really first class team play, as well as individual manipulation of the stick, which showed itself more particularly at the latter part of the game. The rubber was finally put through after 23 minutes hard work on both sides, the Orillias this the second game.

The third game was the best contested of the three. The home team woke up to the danger of being defeated by three straights, while the Orillias were particularly anxious and determined to bring about such a result. The play opened very spiritedly, Sheehy as usual drawing out the sphere. In this game the old time playing power seemed to show itself in the playing of several of the old twelve, and for upwards of thirty minutes, through rain and shine, the contest went on with unabated determination on both sides. The grand stand, which was packed, sent out cheer after cheer, each team getting its due mead. Halpin, Walsh, Dr. Brennan and Tierney, received loud plaudits at the successful repulses given to the many charges on the goal. The game and the match were finally won by the visitors after about half an hour's play.

The medal was handed over by Mr. H. LeBrun, Vice-President of the Peterborough Club, at the termination of the match.

SCOTT ACT CASES.

Three Cases Called in the Police Court and Again Adjourned.

The case of Rossiter vs. McFarlane, adjourned from yesterday, was first called. W. H. COOPER, sworn, said: I saw defendant on 16th June. He came to him with Mr. Sawers. It was agreed that he should come to court yesterday, having admitted that he got the summons, and would plead guilty to selling liquor as a servant of Condon. JAMES CORDON, sworn, said: I handed the summons to McFarlane on June 10th. I last saw McFarlane the night before last. ENOS DUNFORD, sworn, said: I know McFarlane. He has not any property on which distress can be made.

ROSSITER VS. CONDON, ET AL.
 The case against John and James Condon adjourned from Thursday was resumed.

JOHN DRAKE, sworn, said: I drank whiskey at the place since May 24th last. I got liquor there twice. It was paid for. I got it from McFarlane in a little room behind the bar. I didn't see the Condon's there.

JAMES DRAKE, sworn, said: I drank whiskey at Condon's several times during the month of May. I was served by McFarlane. I got it in a bedroom upstairs one and at other times in the little room off the bar. I got liquor there since May 24th. I did not see the Condon's there.

CHARLES WALMSLEY, sworn, said: During the month of May I got beer several times from McFarlane and paid for it. I was served by McFarlane. I didn't see the Condon's there.

JOSEPH FARRINGTON, sworn, said: During the month of May I got beer at Condon's. McFarlane served me. I got it served twice. It was paid for. I never got liquor of any kind from the Condon's.

THOS. MCGINTY, sworn, said: I got beer at Condon's from McFarlane since May 24th and paid for it.

JOHN CONDON, recalled said: I rented the bar to McFarlane three weeks ago yesterday, at the rate of $1.50 a day. All the money I got in rent is $10. There wasn't that amount due when McFarlane gave it to me. I drew the money four days after I rented the bar. The lease (produced) was signed the second day after the agreement was made. I signed it the day before McFarlane went away, but McFarlane never signed it. I had the lease prepared as I did not want the law to have a catch on me. I did not want McFarlane to sell liquor and get the benefit of it and me to pay the fine.

The case was adjourned for one week.

COCHRANE VS. ANTHONY.
 The Cochrane vs. Anthony case came up next. Several witnesses were examined, the whole point in dispute being whether or not one Nelson Vickery drank whiskey. Anthony, who stated he was an employee of his brother-in-law, Martinet, said he had liquor in his house, but it was for his own use. What Vickery drank was ginger ale. Two Italian witnesses swore that they heard Vickery ask for whiskey, and they heard Anthony say that there was some in the house. But they did not see any drinking, as they were outside the door.

This case was also dismissed.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS.

A Town Being Covered With Lava—Destruction of a City by Earthquake.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—Jno. Hotchkiss, a prominent manufacturer of Birmingham, England, arrived to-day from Realjo, Nicaragua. He states that on May 22nd there was a terrific eruption from the volcano Monakombo, and the city of Managua, the capital of the country, had been practically destroyed by violent earthquakes which accompanied the eruption. The earth upon which the city stood built on a level of sand three feet below its former level. All buildings of any considerable value were completely wrecked. It was reported that there was loss of life. A town in the terminus of the railroad, 40 miles from Realjo, was being built beneath the hot volcanic ash, and many lives were lost. The situation in Realjo began to grow somewhat threatening, and the departure of the steamer was hastened on that account. The sky became dark, of a strange grey tint, and the fire from the volcanic peaks began to fall. The atmosphere was oppressive and breathing painful. The fall of ashes increased, and as the ships left the harbor they continued to sift down upon the decks until the vessel was fully covered with them. Over the interior of the country towards the volcano there appeared to hang dense dark clouds. The destroyed city of Managua is the capital of the State of Nicaragua, and also of the department of Granada. It was built on the south shore of Lake Managua, and had a population of between six and seven thousand, most of whom owned and tilled the fertile lands surrounding the city. It had very few public buildings, none of them having any pretension to architectural beauty, the most notable being the National Palace, in which were the House of Congress and the residence of the President of the Republic. The town of Realjo is one of the chief and best seaports of the state of Nicaragua, having a safe and capacious harbor. Monakombo is the loftiest volcano in Nicaragua, 7,200 feet high, and is situated at the head of Lake Managua.

THE DEAD KING'S VAGARIES.

None of the queer stories told of the late monarch.
Ludwig II., who was born Aug. 25, 1845, was the son of King Maximilian II., and succeeded to the throne of the death of his father, March 10, 1864. His ascent to the throne was hailed with delight by the people and was favorably commented upon by all nations. Young, handsome, and talented with liberal tendencies and a decided taste for music, art, and literature, he was regarded as the most promising monarch of his age. He was a man of great benevolence as well as brilliant, but misanthropy seized upon the king early in his reign and shutting himself up in his castle, Monakombo, he lived in seclusion and indulged himself in every conceivable form of extravagance. One matter, however, was creditable to the king's policy, sagacity, and he sided with Prussia in the contest with France of 1870-71, and favored the unification of Germany.

THE DEAD KING'S VAGARIES.

Many stories are told of Ludwig in proof of his extreme eccentricity. While at the Paris exhibition in 1867. He was at the French capital he fell overboard and came in love with the Empress Eugenie. When she parted with him at the station as he was about to return home she kissed him. He has never allowed the lips of another woman to touch him since that sacred occasion. One tried, and received a ducking for her reward. She was an actress and had created the role of Isult. The king invited her to take a walk with him, and made her repeat her great aria. Becoming too enthusiastic, she was about to fling herself into the royal arms. The king, however, drew her into the street and left her to get out as best she could. Another version of this story is that he, king, having forced the singer to sing for hours in the water, when she became tired, he left her to take to the shore. The singer, finding that no one came to her relief, waded ashore herself, and caught a cold, of which she soon afterwards died.

AN AWFUL TALE OF THE SEA.

Thirty-Four Persons Perish Within Sight of Land.

A Melbourne despatch says:—The steamer Tairaro, belonging to the fleet of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, went ashore on the night of Sunday last, the 11th inst. She was going from Wellington to Lyttelton and went ashore in a gale. The passengers were supplied with life preservers and put in boats, and as the mate pronounced the coast too precipitous to effect a safe landing, the boats remained tied to the stranded vessel. First the captain's boat broke adrift and then one after another the remaining boats were razed and their occupants thrown into the sea. One after another the unfortunate people were swept under the seas. Two sailors struck out for shore, and after being many times dashed back and forth by the huge waves one was at last thrown high upon a rock. This sole survivor of the razed boats says that after the first rescue several of her passengers were taken into the life boat which already had 25 persons aboard. She was in turn smashed against the side of the ship and most of them lost at once. He says that when swimming towards the boat he passed four women floating in the water; two of them attempted to seize him, but he eluded their grasp and he never saw the women again. The boat capsized a second time, but immediately righted, and when the occupants were again in her it was found that only twelve of the original twenty-five remained. The boat was waterlogged, and the people were compelled to remain immersed to the waists, as all their efforts to bail out the water proved ineffectual. One after the other they died from exhaustion and exposure and the bodies were washed or thrown overboard. They endeavored to cheer each other, but when daylight appeared only five remained alive, and four of these succumbed before the boat drifted on to the beach. Macquarie being left alone. He was found in a very low condition, but is recovering. The appearance of some of the bodies found on the beach created the belief that the captain's boat with eleven occupants made the land in safety some miles away. The captain attributes the accident to the compasses being acted upon by magnetic influences. In all thirty-four persons are known to have perished, and fourteen have survived. The saddest aspect of the catastrophe is that its consequences were so easily avoided. Had the captain been more cautious, the ship lies but ten yards from a low accessible beach, and had signals of distress been displayed efficient assistance would have been rendered from the shore. Or had the vessel not been so precipitately abandoned all would have survived, for the vessel is firmly embedded in the shingle.

THE COMING CAMPAIGN.

The "Times" on Gladstone's Tour—Speeches by Leading Liberals.

LONDON, June 18.—The Times, this morning, referring to Mr. Gladstone's campaign tour, says: "It is undeniable that within limits the pilgrimage of passion, has thus far been a success. The crowds to meet Mr. Gladstone have been greater than ever before, and the personal enthusiasm as great. This surprises nobody, but the pushing and cheering of the workmen is no answer to the great question:—What will Mr. Gladstone do? He addressed a crowded meeting at Glasgow last night. He said that although the Liberals in Parliament were divided, he did not believe the masses of Liberals in the country were divided. The Government appealed to them with the watchwords "union and liberty" against "centralization and coercion." He asked them to remember that they were not asked to vote for the details of the Government scheme. Lord Hartington's manifesto indicated the old policy of brimstone and tragedy.

At a Barn Raising.

ATWOOD, Ont., June 14.—On Friday evening at the conclusion of a barn raising on the 16th of June, a serious riot occurred, in which a man named James Broughton was struck on the head with a hand-spoke by another man named Bobbie, feeling him and causing a serious concussion of the brain. Immediately after the occurrence Bobbie made for the woods. Dr. Hamilton was immediately sent for, who pronounced Broughton's injuries to be serious, and a warrant was issued for Bobbie and placed in the hands of High Constable McCarthy of Stratford, who is in search, but up to the present Bobbie has not been caught. Broughton is still unconscious.

Sensational Shooting.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 14.—A sensational shooting affray occurred this evening at the corner of Ninth and Main streets, in which Dr. Munford, proprietor of the Times, and two other persons were shot by W. A. Carlisle, an attorney of this city. Dr. Munford accompanied by a friend, had come from the Times building to take a car going east. He entered the car, which was comfortably filled with people, and was about to take a seat near the door when Carlisle came to the platform of the car. Drawing a revolver, he said to Dr. Munford, "You have traduced my wife and I will kill you," at the same moment firing at Munford. The ball struck the latter in the side, glancing from a rib, and lodging under the skin just below the breast bone. Carlisle quickly fired again, and striking Miss Jennie Strater, a girl of 16, who occupied the next seat. Munford then stooped forward, trying meanwhile to draw his revolver, and Carlisle stepped into the street on the south side, and began firing through the window, one ball striking a passenger named John Hall in the face. After firing five shots in all and each in rapid succession, Carlisle started to run around the forward car attached to the chair car, and was seized by the officers as Munford stepped down to the pavement with his revolver drawn and ready. He begged the officers to let Carlisle go and give him a chance, but the bystanders interfered. All the persons injured may recover.

LONDON, May 18.—James Bryce, Under Foreign Secretary, stated in the House of Commons this afternoon that the United States, in reply to Earl Granville's despatch of February, 1885, advocating an increase in the facilities for trade between the United States and the West Indies, said they considered the matter one to be treated as a whole and that isolated attempts must be held in abeyance until their fitness could be considered as parts of a comprehensive scheme.

THE NEW HEBRIDES.

LONDON, June 18.—In the House of Commons, Under Secretary Bryce, referring to the New Hebrides, said that the Government had informed Lord Lyons, the British ambassador to France, that France had as yet received no news of the alleged hauling of the French flag over the New Hebrides. M. De Freycinet had telegraphed to the Governor of New Caledonia asking him if the French flag had been hoisted, and ordering that if it had it be pulled down forthwith.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, JUNE 19, 1886.

NEARLY CORRECT FOR ONCE.

The Globe winds up an article on the result of the Nova Scotia Elections as follows: "If Mr. Blake and Mr. Mackenzie had been in power for the last seven or eight years, the proposal to secede would to-day find no favor in Nova Scotia. When the general elections place Mr. Blake in power the people of Nova Scotia will cease to think of secession, because they will know that there burdens will be lightened as much as possible, that their wishes will be respected, that their representations will receive due consideration, and that justice and fair play will always be extended to them."

Let us examine these statements for a moment in order that we in Ontario may fully realize what they mean and whether they point—

(1) "If Mr. Blake and Mr. Mackenzie had been in power for the last seven or eight years, the proposal to secede would to-day find no favor in Nova Scotia." Very likely, but why? Because these same "Seceders" would have been members of the party in power, and as such feeding at the Dominion crib.

(2) "When the general elections place Mr. Blake in power, the people of Nova Scotia will cease to think of secession." Certainly, because then the "rule or ruin" party will be in power, and their opponents, whether in or out of office, are as a rule too patriotic to go against the interests of the country simply because they are against the government. For the same reason there would have been no rebellion in the Northwest if Mr. Blake had been in power.

(3) "Because they will know that their burdens will be lightened as much as possible." No doubt! But we in Ontario would like to know "how" Mr. Blake proposes to lighten Nova Scotia's burdens! Because if their burdens are to be lightened we fancy somebody else's burdens will have to be increased. Is this to be done by an increased subsidy out of the Dominion Treasury at the expense of Ontario? Or is it to be done by such a readjustment of the tariff as will throw an increased portion of the customs revenue on the shoulders of the people of this Province? By all means let us have more light how Nova Scotia now relatively light Dominion burdens are to be still further lightened.

(4) "Their wishes will be respected, and their representations will receive due consideration." Well, what reasonable wishes of Nova Scotia have not been respected by the present Dominion Government? If our Nova Scotia brethren are, as the Globe says they are, justified in going in for secession because their wishes have not been respected and their representations have not received due consideration, we should much like the Globe to specify the particular wishes and representations which deserved to be, but have not been, duly considered or respected. Until it does so we shall continue to think that Nova Scotia's wishes and representations have received just a little more of both than was exactly just to the rest of the Dominion.

And (5) "That justice and fair play will always be extended to them." Fine words these, but when has Nova Scotia not received justice and fair play at the hands of the Dominion? Again we say, let this new found advocate of "better terms"—for that is the real fire under all this smoke—for Nova Scotia, come down to particulars and then we shall be able to judge whether or not their opinion of what is "just and fair play" coincides or not. In the meantime we have no hesitation in expressing the opinion that from the 1st July, 1867, down to the present hour Nova Scotia's interests have received more than the fullest means of justice and fair play at the hands of this Dominion, and that in setting up the demand for better terms she may find that she is trying on that game once too often. As for secession, we much mistake the feeling of the Dominion if its people are any more ready to entertain such a proposition than were those of the neighboring Republic when the people of the Southern States took up arms for the same purpose, although we have little doubt but the Globe clique would prefer such an event to that of the success of their political opponents at the next election.

The Riots in Sligo.

SLIGO, June 17.—Patrick Kelly, a carpenter, has turned informer in connection with the troubles in this city. He states that Pat Curran, James Kearney and himself emerged from the tavern on Friday night and committed the outrage at the Roman Catholic Cathedral. On Saturday they collected crowds of people and harangued them, charging the outrage on the Protestants and inciting their hearers to avenge the victims of the riots at Belfast. Curran has been arrested and admits his guilt. Kearney has been arrested and confesses his guilt. It is stated that the three men are all anxious to turn informers in order to obtain the reward of £100 offered for the discovery of the perpetrators of the outrage. The people are very much excited. Two Catholic tradesmen have been arrested on a charge of damaging the Bishop's palace and afterward leading the mob that destroyed the houses of Protestants.

Lady Macdonald's Present.

OTTAWA, June 16.—The real story of Lady Macdonald's presents of jewelry has not yet come out. It seems that the diamonds were delivered by a messenger of one of the express companies at Earncliffe some months ago to Lady Macdonald and a receipt taken therefor. The messenger and the company declined to say whence they came when interrogated about the matter; they said they had contracted to deliver them, and having done so they had completed their task. They refused to take them back, but offered to deliver them to whomever Lady Macdonald directed. So far as the ignorance whence the jewels came and no one has ever been thanked for the gift. The general belief is, however, that they came from some of the Canadian Pacific Railway managers. Lady Macdonald asked the advice of a number of her friends as to what she should do in the circumstances that the facts of the anonymous gift came out.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

THE REEVES CONVENED IN SEMI-ANNUAL SESSION.

COUNTY PROPERTY.
Mr. Sanderson read the report on County Property as follows:—

The Committee on County Property beg to report:—1. Your Committee recommend that the Warden and the Reeve of Smith and the Reeve of Ashburnham be a committee to obtain tenders and let contracts for the alteration of the Court House so as to provide for offices for the Judge and Clerk of the Peace, according to the plans for that purpose by the County Engineer.

2. Your Committee recommend that the Warden, the Reeve of Smith and the County Engineer be a committee to get water tanks for the water supply of the goal, or make such arrangements with the water company as they may deem satisfactory.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

MICHAEL SANDERSON, Chairman.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, June 18, 1886.

The report was adopted, and a by-law was introduced and passed to confirm it.

EQUALIZATION AND ASSESSMENT.

Mr. BRANHAM, Chairman of the Committee on Equalization and Assessment, read the report of the Committee as follows:—

Your Committee beg leave to report as follows:—

Your Committee have examined the assessment rolls of the different municipalities, and find slight increases in the averages of some of the municipalities, but not so perceptible as to lead us to vary the basis of last year.

Your Committee would therefore recommend that the basis adopted last year be the basis of assessment for all county purposes for the year 1886, as shown by the schedule hereunto annexed.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN BRANHAM, Chairman.

County Council Chamber,
June 18, 1886.

The report was adopted.

A by-law was introduced and passed to confirm the report.

SCHOOLS.

Mr. WALSH read the report of the Committee on Schools as follows:—

The Committee on Schools beg to report:—

That Messrs. J. Stratton, J. C. Brown and the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, be the County Board of Examiners to examine teachers and give certificates in accordance with the statute in that behalf.

That this Council appoint the County Judge, the County School Inspector and the Warden, as arbitrators to revise, determine or alter the boundaries of the school section or school sections so far as to settle the matter complained of in the petition of Angus Davidson, George Young and Robert Dunlop, Trustees of School Section No. 1 of the Township of Monaghan.

That the County School Inspector be permitted to get his report published so as to have it in print for the January session of the Council.

Your Committee recommend that with reference to the communication of the County School Inspector, calling attention to the provision made during the last session of the Ontario Legislature for the education free of charge at the Agricultural College of one student from each county, the Warden, the Deputy Reeve of Otumabee and the County School Inspector be a committee to nominate such student from the applicants for the privilege; that intending students make application to the County Clerk on or before the 15th day of September next, and that the County Clerk be instructed to advertise such opportunity for admission into the College in both the Review and Examiner at an expenditure of not more than $5.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN WALSH, Chairman.

Mr. LANG said that the Judge and School Inspector were already arbitrators. What was the use of appointing them over again?

The report was so amended as to appoint the Warden only to act in conjunction with the arbitrators.

The report was then adopted.

This grant is made without prejudice to the position of the County of Peterborough, which expressly waives any liability for future repairs.

(6) That no action be taken in the matter of repairs to the Bolckvagen bridge, as requested by the memorial of the County of Victoria, as this Council does not consider that this County is at all called upon to assist in such repairs or make itself liable in the matter.

There seems to be some misapprehension relative to the price of Flour. I find a number of purchasers stating that the price of Flour is now as follows:—

"BAKERS"

has been reduced to $2.25 per hundred pounds. This is a mistake. I offer, in common with all other Dealers and Millers, a good Family Flour at $2.25 per hundred pounds. The best "Bakers" Flour still retails at $2.50 per hundred.

FLOUR, (ground from Ontario Wheat), $2.75 per hundred.

THE COLONIAL EXHIBITION.

From the Canadian Gazette, London, Eng., of June 3rd, we take the following in reference to the Colonial Exhibition:—

THE NEW BRUNSWICK TROPHY.

One of the most attractive features of the whole Canadian display is the New Brunswick wood trophy, occupying a prominent position on the south aisle of the central gallery. In other of the colonial sections—in the New Zealand and Australian for instance—will be seen large wood collections, but is doubtful if one equally compact and yet so completely representative is to be found in the whole exhibition. The main portion of the trophy is divided into three perpendicular sections. Along the base of these sections is arranged a series of fifteen uniform logs of commercial or large woods, each log being 37 inches in height and 20 inches in diameter. The right wing is devoted to the coniferous woods; to the hemlock—one of the most important trees of the Province in connection with the tanning industry—the white and red pine, and the black and white spruce, representing the varieties chiefly used in ship-building. The centre and left sections are given up to the other large woods; in the centre, the white and black birch, the scrub or rock and swamp maple, and the beech; and in the left wing, the red and grey oak, the elm, black ash and basswood. Above this series of logs, in each of the three sections, an ash-wood case, resting on an inclined plane, contains as many as thirty small panels of the lesser woods, and also some of the larger woods, that are not abundant enough to be used for commercial purposes, or not sufficiently important to be represented in the principal parts of the trophy. The smaller woods thus represented include, in the right wing, the swamp and black alder, the mountain ash, bilberry, wild red and wild black cherry, wild thorn and scrub pine; in the centre section, the dwarf and grey birch, the mountain and white and striped maple, and the mossberry and other duplicated varieties; and in the left wing, the ironwood, dogwood, witch-hazel, willow, white ash, balsam, poplar, aspen, poplar and sumach. Each small panel bears a life-like painting of the foliage, the flower and often the fruit of its variety, and is framed with strips of its own wood showing the bark and growth. The beauty of these smaller woods is thus fully depicted, while a careful inspection will show how their usefulness may be extended for chemical and medicinal purposes, and also for ornamental trees.

Above the sloping case large upright panels indicate the large woods in polished sections, the principal varieties being the same as those shown in logs at the base. The sides of these large panels are formed of saplings of the respective woods, resting upon turned bases, and capped by capitals carved to represent the leaf, fruit and flowers of each variety. In these large panels the shaft and rift of the grain, as well as its density, annual growth, depth of sap and bark, are well shown, thus conveying, by the aid of the logs below, a complete idea of the natural growth of each of the larger woods. Their higher commercial use is also shown by oblique bars stained to show in turn the effect of ebony, walnut, mahogany, rosewood, satinwood and other stains. The fruit, foliage, and flower are also beautifully painted upon many of the large panels, as upon the smaller ones, and above is carved some fancy work in each class of wood. The cornice surmounting the whole is composed principally of bark and specimens of each variety in mouldings. Above this main part of the trophy the principal animals of life of the Province is depicted in heads of moose, caribou, and deer, as well as specimens of the porcupine, fox, racoon, mink, muskrat, ermine, the smallest species of American owl, flying and common red squirrel, raven, woodpecker, partridge and other small game. To these it was intended to add specimens of the destroying insects of the forest, but time forbade. Indeed, though originally designed for the International Forestry Exhibition held in Edinburgh in 1884, the trophy was itself prepared in comparatively but a short time. Yet it shows few, if any, traces of hasty work, and must be admitted to be in every respect highly creditable to the New Brunswick Government.

Under whose auspices it has been erected, to the originators, Messrs. Howe, of St. John, New Brunswick, to Mr. H. Cornwall, jr., agent for the Province at the Exhibition, and those other New Brunswick gentlemen who have actively interested themselves in the matter.

THE EAST AND CENTRAL FOREST ZONES.

The best feature of the forest display of Canada is the small trophy met with on the south portion of the Agricultural Court. It consists mainly of three shelves. On the two lower are arranged perpendicular slabs of the woods of Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and all Eastern Canada. These are, in a large measure, specimens in a different form of the variety composing the New Brunswick wood trophy, for what applies to that Province will also apply to the whole eastern zone of the Dominion except that Western Quebec and Ontario possess many species not found in the other provinces. On the upper shelf are arranged the slabs from a large number of the finest trees of the Rocky Mountain district, not, however, selected or intended to do more than show the ordinary product. Above this shelf is a horizontal section of the British Columbia oak, (Quercus Garryana), and above that again a row of Canadian shingle and a Canadian hawk. The small size of this trophy has not, unfortunately, permitted the display upon it of the photograph of each variety, as is being done in the case of the British Columbia samples and the photographs of the growths of Eastern Canada must, therefore, be placed elsewhere, though an interesting feature will be added in the specimens of the fruit to be shown in jars beside each variety. Close at hand, in the south annex to the Agricultural Court, the woods of Quebec and the Lake Superior region are adequately represented. On the one side of the annex, large logs of the tree are shown, while on the other side the cut wood is represented. And here activity prevails, for it is largely from the deals of Eastern Canada that rustic seats are now being made for the use of visitors to the Canadian section. The seats will bear inscriptions, showing the place of growth, and thus form an excellent exhibit in themselves. From Thunder Bay eleven species of woods are shown as specimens of the timber used in connection with the gold and silver mining industries. These include the white, Norway, and jack pines, spruce, tamarac, white birch, and white poplar.

The central forest district of Canada is also represented in connection with the agricultural exhibits. Here may be seen the ash-leaved maple from the heart of the prairie, the close-grained red fir peculiar to the eastern side of the mountains, white spruce of the best quality, clear of knots, and capable of excellent seasoning without warping; cypress pine, with, in some respects, the appearance of bird's-eye maple, as well as white and black birch, red and white pine, spruce, poplar, tamarac, oak, balsam and balm of Gilead. The woods of the country north of the prairie—that is in the forest regions of the North-West—are of the first quality. The black and white spruce are found in abundance, as well as the two species of poplar and pine. In the mountain section of the North West there are eleven species of timber trees, most of which are of large size, producing the best of timber. These same varieties are also represented on the British Columbia side of the mountains, and many of them reach even to the coast.

MILLBROOK.

THE SCOTT ACT.—The first cases for the violation of the Scott Act were tried before Magistrate Haines, of Bowmanville, on Monday, Mr. A. Fee, proprietor of the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Ben, keeper of the Queen's Hotel, being the witnesses. Several witnesses gave evidence that spirits had been sold, and the magistrate imposed a fine of $30 and costs, $16.10, on Mr. Fee, or 60 days in goal. The fine was paid. The court adjourned for one week on account of witnesses not appearing for the latter case. Mr. J. Walter Curry for plaintiff, and Mr. H. B. Weller for defendants.

It is feared that Captain Joseph Griggs of the 8th Cavalry at Cobourg has committed suicide. He has mysteriously disappeared and has been known to be of an unsteady mind for some time. He left home on Tuesday and nothing has been heard from him since.

St. Andrews, N.B., aspires to be a Canadian winter port. One of the merchants states the case thus: "The railway is to be built to Matamoras, and this will necessarily bring St. Andrews nearer to Montreal than any other seaport. That is all we want. The nearest seaport, other things being equal, must come in for the bulk of the trade."

Rev. D. G. Fallis, Dutton, certifies: "For some years my wife has been troubled with Dyspepsia, and has tried one thing after another recommended with but little or no effect till advised to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial. Since taking the first bottle I have noticed a decided improvement, and can with confidence recommend it to be one of, if not the best medicine extant for Dyspepsia. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at John McKee's Drug Store. Trial bottle, given free."

Is a well known fact that the "Cable" and "El Padre" brands of cigars are the oldest, most reliable and best value in the market. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of close on to one thousand operatives. Smokers will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above mentioned brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. S. I have used it for the past twenty years, and my hair is as vigorous and healthy a condition as when I was 30 years of age. Not a sign of gray hair to be seen anywhere." Dwight L. Adams, St. Paul, Minn., writes: "A diseased scalp caused my hair to fall out, and, after using a number of preparations without avail, I finally tried Hall's Hair Renewer, which caused a vigorous new growth. I am still using it, and could ask for no better results." Mrs. R. H. Corning, Battle Creek, Mich., writes: "By the use of Hall's Hair Renewer, my head, which was quite bald, has been covered with a fine growth of young hair."

FRANCIS MASON.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

Armed to the Teeth.
Mr. Thomas Beavis, Local License Inspector, wishes to give a last warning to those who haven't planked down their dollars for dog tags. He says that he has armed himself with two brace of revolvers, and that on and after the 1st day of July he will sail forth to slay with indiscriminate slaughter all unlabelled canines. He will not respect the property of the richest, nor spare that of the poor.

Excitement.
Quite an excitement has begun among the buyers of the stock of the late John Robinson. Readers are advised to go early to the great clearing sale, which is going on in the old store on Devon Street. Over eight hundred boxes of Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats, etc., must be sold without reserve. There are bargains for everyone's abundance. Don't let the hot weather or the Irish question prevent you from attending this big bonanza sale.

A Bereaved.
One citizen of Smith is just now in a melancholy state of mind. His wife has grown tired of the monotony of home rule at home and has taken her departure to the abode of another. The bereaved husband does not know against whom to bring an action of damages, against his better half, for seducing, or against him who harbours her.

Prompt Action.
The Lindsay Post says: "An Aspley man who had been informed against for violations of the Scott Act was so impressed with the determination of the Peterborough Scott Act Association to see the Act enforced that he sent in his cheque for $50 before the warrant against him could be made out, and acknowledging the corn prayed that no expenses should be incurred."

Meat Up for a Vag.
On Friday afternoon an individual who had been off a spree for some time entered the vacant Darcy Hotel and lay down on the floor. He appeared to be in a very low physical condition. Those who found him fearing that he was about to die, sent for Capt. Cooper. Dr. Kincaid was then called, and found him suffering from nervous prostration, the result of his spree. He was committed to goal as a vagrant for thirty days. His name is T. Samuels.

Idyl Wild.
There is to be a grand Froo gift excursion held at this popular resort on Dominion Day, 1st July, when several valuable prizes will be given away to the holders of steamboat tickets. The prizes will consist of $20 Gold piece, $10 Gold piece, Silver Cruit Stands, Cake Baskets and other things. A grand Ball will be held in the pavilion, also boat races, foot races, running, jumping, etc. Steamers will be run from all points on the river and lake. For particulars see posters. The following prizes were awarded on the Queen's Birthday:—E. Coburn, $10 in gold; V. Wait, a $5 cruet stand; Mrs. Fisher a $5 cake basket.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

Victoria and Peterborough.
At the June session of the Victoria County Council, as reported in the Post, "Mr. McQuade presented the claim of John Montgomery for damages sustained by his horse and sulky falling into the lake off the north approach to Pigeon Creek floating bridge. As the bridge was built by Peterborough County and town for their own special purpose and advantage, it was felt that this County had no responsibility in the matter, and on motion of Mr. Walker, seconded by Mr. Bryan, the claim was not entertained." The Council granted $30 towards repairing Lancaster's bridge, in Emily, on condition that the County of Peterborough grant an equal sum, which they propose doing.

Orange Politics.
The Belleville Intelligencer, in an article refuting Grip's assertion that the Orange Society is a Conservative political machine, shows that the majority of Orangemen in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces are Reformers. As to Ontario it claims that the Orangemen are by no means wholly Conservative, and says: "Who is Mr. J. B. McWilliams, County Master of West Peterborough? He is one of Mowat's wood rangers, has never been anything politically but an active and pronounced Grit of the first water, and is to be the Grit candidate for one of the ridings of Peterborough at the next election. If the Orange Society were 'tied to the Conservative party,' as Grip declares it is, would the Orangemen of West Peterborough keep in the highest office in their gift the leading Grit of the County, thereby giving him power and influence? If further proof were wanting it is to be found in the fact that Mr. Blizard, the local member for East Peterborough, is an Orangeman, and one of Mowat's most faithful supporters, swallowing every indignity rather than desert his party."

The Churches.
The following is a list of services in the several churches, to-morrow:—
St. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be three masses celebrated, the first at 7 a.m., the second at 8 a.m., and the third at 10.30 a.m. Vespers at 7 p.m.

St. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular services at St. John's Church of England. Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m.; Morning Prayer, Litany and sermon and Communion at 11 a.m. Evening Prayer with sermon at 7 p.m.

BAPTIST CHURCH, Murray Street.—The Rev. A. H. Munro will occupy the pulpit. In the morning at 11 o'clock he will preach on "The Truth." In the evening the subject of his sermon will be "The Pharisee and Publican."

St. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—The usual service will be conducted.

Temperature.
The thermometer readings to-day at the hours mentioned were as follows:—8 o'clock a.m., 58; 1 o'clock p.m., 68; 3 o'clock p.m., 72.

Stove Works.
The Stove Works closed down on Friday evening. During the coming week or so, stock will be taken and then operations will be resumed.

Garden Party.
The I. M. G. A. garden party in the grounds of G. M. Rogers on Friday next. The preparations being made for a most enjoyable time.

St. Luke's.
The Rev. C. A. B. Povey, C. R. N., will preach in St. Luke's Church to-morrow, at both morning and evening services. He is the organizing Secretary for the Society of the Treasury of God, and will explain fully the objects and aims of that organization.

The Best Place to go for choice Family Groceries, is to MORROW, TIERNEY & Co's, George St.

No Grant.
The County Council got through the business of this session at twelve o'clock to-day. The Finance Committee's report, recommending that no grants be made to the East and West Riding Agricultural Societies, was adopted. Several amendments were made, but all were defeated.

Telephone.
W. H. Kent wishes to inform the patrons of the Bell Telephone Company here that the local exchange will be open continually, excepting from 10 a.m. on Sunday, till 1.30 p.m., on Sunday. Any of the patrons wishing to use the telephone during that three hours and a half may be accommodated by previously applying at the central office.

Flower Queen.
The cantata "Flower Queen" was reproduced at Bradburn's Opera House on Friday evening, under the direction of Mr. D. D. Galletly. The singing was much appreciated. During the evening Mr. T. McNaughton gave an exhibition of fancy club swinging. The proceeds, which go toward the Protestant Home funds, will amount to about $60.

Taken in Mistake.
A red money-combed shawl belonging to one of the flower girls in the "Flower Queen" cantata was taken in mistake last night either from the residence of Miss Johnston, on Water Street, or from the cloak room of the Opera House. If the party having it will be good enough to leave it at Miss Johnston's, which was left, and is waiting for a return.

Brown Memorial.
The building of the Brown memorial, in the hands of Mr. Burgess, is progressing well. The bases, cut out of Ohio limestone, are nearly finished and a considerable amount of work done on other parts of it. When finished it will doubtless add greatly to the appearance of one of the parks as well as suitably commemorating the patriotism of him to whose memory it is erected.

A Fire.
At about two o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in an old rough-cast building in the rear of the Canadian Pacific Hotel. The alarm was sounded, and the brigade, prompt on the ground, succeeded in putting out the blaze before it had spread beyond the building. The property belonged to Mr. Geo. A. Cox. Loss, about $200, covered by insurance. A quantity of horse collars and harness maker's sundries, on which there was no insurance, belonging to Mr. B. Shortley, which were stored away in the building, were destroyed.

The Day.
It will be seen by advertisement in another column that on Saturday next, June 26th, at one o'clock p.m., Gough, the great Clothier, will throw away from the top of the Opera House building 500 Linen Coats. Everybody is invited to come and see the Wonderful Cheap Man and get one of these coats. They are worth from $2 to $3 each, and will cost nothing excepting the trouble of picking them up. To make this a grand and complete boon to the public, Mr. Gough will also on the same day sell Men's, Boys', Youths' and Children's Clothing at 5 per cent on cost. He says he will carry out what he advertises, and adds, "Give Gough the go-by when you catch him not doing as he advertises."

Laurence Notes.
—It is said that there's a luck in odd numbers. It is also said that there's an exception to every rule. Seventeen is an unlucky number for the P.L.C.
—On the 17th of June, 1885, the Checkers, of Beaverton, came to town, and taking three straight from the home twelve carried off the medal. On the 17th of June, 1886, the Orillias ditto.
—This morning Mr. J. J. Sheehy received a letter, which, under ordinary circumstances, would have made him almost shiver. It was deep margined with black and so was the envelope. But when read it was found that it only contained expressions of condolence from a member of the "Checkers," of Beaverton.

—The challenge which the "Checkers" sent to the Peterboroughs will be forwarded to the Orillias. It is probable that the next championship match will be played in about two weeks.

—After all, Capt. Rudkins says, "This losing the medal will only stir up lacrosse in Orillia. We have a team here that can easily bring it back if they only get practice."

POLICE COURT.

STATUTE LABOR.

SATURDAY, June 20.—E. Sanderson, path-master of beat 32, in the Township of Smith, charged E. Robinson with having refused to do his statute labor after having been duly notified to do so, the complaint being laid under the provisions of the Municipal Act. The defendant admitted the charge, and was fined $5 and $1.68 costs.

INJURING THE SIDEWALK.

James Bradley was charged by Street Inspector Wilson with having injured a piece of sidewalk. The defendant having agreed to repair the injury, and pay the costs of the case, the charge was withdrawn.

BOBCAYGEON.

LOGS.—A drive of about 20,000 logs, belonging to Mr. Hazlett, Peterborough, is passing through, in charge of Mr. Fagan. They were taken out of Anson and Stanhope and are about a month earlier in getting down than last year.

SMIFF PARLAYS.—The bass fishing opened on Wednesday, and large quantities of fish have been taken. Several parties are here from Toronto and the States. Mr. Pringle and party made a fine catch on Wednesday. The Indians are marketing maskinonge in great numbers, some of them sizable fish, but since Mr. Jeff Warden has solemnly declared that he saw a maskinonge in Toronto, that weighed 66 lbs, all local conceit in big fish has been perfectly paralysed.—Independent.

OMER.

TUG OF WAR.—Since the sports in Omeron on the 24th of May, the Emily farmers who took part in the tug of war have risen considerably in their own estimation, concerning their athletic powers, indeed, so much so that some days ago a few of them at a bee, held at a stated number of men could pull more than a certain horse then on the farm. The bet was taken, a rope secured, the horse hitched and the men attached to the other end, and, wonderful to relate, the men pulled the horse over the farm. Who will now say that Emily farmers are not a strong lot of men?

NARROW ESCAPE.—While a lady was fishing on Monday last at the old railway bridge, she had a terrible experience. She had a young child with her, and for the purpose of keeping it quiet she gave it a small fish to play with. The child in some way managed to nearly swallow the fish, and the lady had to catch the minnow by the tail and pull it out of the child's throat with her fingers. To add to the excitement, shortly after the child fell into the water and had a narrow escape from drowning. Mothers, don't give your babies fish to play with, nor let them go near the water. There is danger in either proceeding.—Herald.

LINDSAY.

MASONIC.—The local Masonic lodges, Faithful Brethren, No. 77, and King Hiram, No. 89, have decided to amalgamate. The name of the surviving lodge will be that of Faithful Brethren, their charter being the oldest.—Post.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—Our Kinmount special reporter reports the drowning of Albert Justin Moore, son of Alex. Moore, Esq., now of Kinmount, but formerly of Lindsay. Mr. Moore and family have the sympathy of this as well as the Kinmount community. The little fellow was buried here on Monday last. A party came in on Sunday morning on a hand car for a coffin and to notify friends of the sad accident.

SCOTT ACT.—The cases the Queen against Maudsley, Daly, McConnell and McCormack were before the police magistrate on Wednesday, when Mr. McSwyn appeared on behalf of the Queen. Mr. Hopkins, on behalf of Mr. Maudsley, objected to Mr. McSwyn's appearing for the Queen. His contention was that none but the County Crown Attorney could represent the Queen in such cases. The police magistrate consequently adjourned the case one week to consult the Attorney General. Mr. Smith appeared for Mr. McConnell, and Mr. Dean for Mr. McCormack. The point raised by Mr. Hopkins is considered a difficult one to overcome.—Ward.

Lady Macdonald's Departure.—OTTAWA, June 18.—Lady Macdonald left last evening for Regina, North-West Territories. She will be the guest of Mrs. Dewdney until the arrival of the Premier, on his way to the Pacific slope.

OUTRAGEOUS AWARDS.

The New York Sun, in discussing the fishery question, speaks of one proposition for its settlement as being that the United States should purchase from Canada the right to purchase bait, &c., in fact all rights except that of fishing within the three mile limit. It adds:—

"The chief objection to this plan is the belief that our Government has already been swindled enough under the outrageous Halifax award."

That award has often been termed excessive, but it was given after a careful investigation, and it has been strongly supported by recent events. The Maine and Massachusetts fishermen have declared the privileges of little value, but now that they are put to the test, they show how disingenuous they were in this contention, by their frantic anger and dismay at the law being enforced, and by their protestations that their business is thereby destroyed. If the privileges which they voluntarily resigned by terminating the treaty arrangements were of little value, why are they so greatly excited at being taken at their word?

But even if the Halifax award were too liberal, it would come with very bad grace for the United States to complain. They obtained and accepted, in the case of their claims against the Alabama and other Confederate cruisers, an award which was outrageous, not as a matter of opinion but of solid facts and figures of their own providing. That is was a gross swindle, founded on bogus claims and supported by false evidence, is proved by the admitted fact that their authorities, as trustees for the claimants, have been utterly unable to find persons who have suffered damages to the extent of the award, and have been unable to distribute a large portion of the money because it was in excess of any honest or even colorable claims that could be made. Their morality in this instance was exactly on a par with that of a sufferer from fire who should demand and obtain from an insurance company, by an exaggerated claim supported by perjury, damages for goods never destroyed, the surplus being so great that the book-keeper could not place the money to any accounts in the ledger without manifest cooking.

Our friends south of the line should hold their tongues about awards, and if they wish to retain privileges for themselves they should not withdraw the compensating privileges from others.

MR. BLAKE'S POLICY.

MR. BLAKE has been addressing a Reform meeting in the county of Bruce, and according to the report of his speech in the Globe he said:—

"There are now many railways in your county due very largely, as I am proud to remember, to the large, liberal and practical railway policy which was brought into operation by myself during my brief tenure of office in the Legislature of Ontario, (Great cheering.)"

It was in truth a very "large," a very "liberal," a very "practical," and a very corrupt railway policy. Mr. Blake turned an honest man, the late John Sandfield Macdonald out of office by the use of three tricks, by conspiracy with a cabinet minister sitting at the Council Board to betray his colleagues, by clamouring for vengeance on Riel for the murder of Scott, and by denouncing Mr. Sandfield Macdonald for his proposed liberal assistance to colonizing railways. No sooner had Mr. Blake got into power by these dirty means than he increased enormously the railway grant fund, and changed the policy of assisting roads to colonize and open up the country into one of subsidizing railways where most political influence could thereby be secured.

Mr. Blake was at that time member for South Bruce, and the "large, liberal and practical" assistance to the railways of the county, of which he boasts, was for the purpose of deliberately purchasing votes in his own constituency. He was as corrupt as Mr. Cook or Mr. M. C. Cameron, but the money he used was that of the people of Ontario, whom he had entrapped into entrusting him with it, by the false pretence that he was opposed to the proposed railway grants.

His conduct in this respect is on a par in dishonest inconsistency with his then endeavoring to make political capital by clamouring for the punishment of Riel for Scott's murder, and now endeavoring to make political capital by denouncing the execution of Riel for additional murders and a second rebellion.

It Means Success.

HALIFAX, June 17.—Premier Fielding has received a number of telegrams from different Provinces congratulating him on the victory at Tuesday's elections, among the number being one from Quebec signed by a member of the Opposition in the Quebec Legislature. In reply to a dispatch from New Brunswick Mr. Fielding said: "The victory in Nova Scotia means something more than the triumph of the Liberal party. It means that our Province is deeply disaffected with the Canadian Confederation and desires the co-operation of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island in a movement for separation from Canada, and the formation of a union of the maritime Provinces, the people of which have interests in common."

Killed Instantly.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 18.—A very unfortunate and fatal accident occurred yesterday near Ford's mill, about two miles back of Brockville. A son of Mr. J. Carpenter, aged about seven years, with another young boy, were riding on a wagon load of manure and the wheels suddenly going down into a rutting Carpenters washbasin off and the wheel passed over his head, crushing his skull and killing him instantly.

(2) That the Reeve of Douro be a Committee to consider the account of Mr. Geo. J. Chalmers for planning Young's Point bridge, with power to take advice of the County Solicitor as to our liability for the same, and that the Treasurer be instructed to pay the account on the order of the Reeve of Douro.

(3) That the communication of the County Solicitor, in reference to by-law No. 375, be referred to the Committee on Petitions, with a request to prepare a new by-law.

(4) Your Committee recommend that a grant of $100 be made to aid the sufferers by the Vancouver, British Columbia, fire, and that the County Treasurer be instructed to forward the same at once to Mayor McLean, of that place.

(5) That the County Solicitor be instructed to take all necessary proceedings in the suit of the Grand Junction Railway vs. Peterborough, to carry it to the court of last resort if necessary.

(6) That no action be taken with reference to the petitions of the East and West Riding Agricultural Societies.

(7) Your Committee recommend that the sum of $50, his salary in full, be paid to Mr. James Humphries, inspector under the Scott Act, and that the services of both Mr. Humphries and Mr. Weir be dispensed with, owing to the fact that this Council is called upon to meet the expense of enforcing said Act in other respects.

(8) That the County Clerk be instructed to get a supply of forms for Justices of the Peace, at the cost of not more than $20.

(9) That in reference to the question of the liability of the county to pay a proportion of the expense incurred in the enforcing of the Scott Act, your Committee recommend that the County Treasurer do not pay to the credit of the license fund the amount estimated for the year by the Board of License Commissioners until the proportion of the same to be paid by the Town of Peterborough is determined.

(10) That the Warden and Reeve of Ashburnham be a committee to confer with the judges and other officers who claim to be entitled to stationery, etc., from this Council, with power to arrange and compromise such claims as they may see fit.

(11) Your Committee recommend that the payment of the accounts hereto annexed by the Treasurer be certified.

(12) That inasmuch as it appears that the amount that it is provided shall be levied under debtors by-laws Nos. 355 and 373 will produce a sum largely in excess of the amount required, that the Clerk be instructed to pay such an amount only as will be sufficient to cover this year's sinking fund and interest, and that one-half only of the rate provided under by-law No. 354 be collected, for the reason that only one-half of the debtors now authorized to be issued hereunder have been issued.

(13) That the matter of placing a counter in the office of the County Court Clerk be left in the hands of the Warden with power to act.

(14) Your Committee recommend that the rate be fixed at two mill and one-eighth on the dollar.

W. H. STEPHENSON, Chairman.

Mr. MOLONEY moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. MANFIELD moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. MOORE:—That the report be not adopted but referred back to the Committee with instructions to amend clause 9 by instructing the County Clerk to deposit the amount in the bank as verified by the proper authorities to be the amount that this county is liable to pay under the provision of the Canada Temperance Act and that the County Solicitor be instructed to ascertain what portion, if any, the town of Peterborough is entitled to pay for the enforcement of the said act.

After a short discussion Mr. Manfield agreed to withdraw his amendment.

Mr. STEPHENSON moved in amendment seconded by Mr. MOORE:—That the report of the Finance Committee be referred back to the Committee with instructions to insert a clause granting $500 to the two riding Agricultural Societies.

Mr. STEPHENSON held that this matter should be treated squarely. He believed that the East and West Riding societies deserved the consideration of this Council. He believed that agriculture was the foundation of the country's prosperity, and anything that advanced it tended toward the country's good. It was a very small amount that was asked, as compared with what was spent on other minor matters annually.

Mr. BURNHAM said that Mr. Stephenson knew that such a proposition had been adopted down in the committee by nine to two. What was the use of bringing it up now?

Mr. STRICKLAND moved as an amendment to the amendment, seconded by Mr. Manfield:—That $500 be granted towards aiding the Ennismore, Smith and Lakefield, Society.

Mr. LANSO moved as an amendment to the amendment, seconded by Mr. Sanderson:—That no grant be given at all.

Mr. LANG said having put in his amendment in writing the Warden and Mr. Strickland's amendment to the amendment.

It was lost on the following division:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Strickland and Manfield.

NAYS.—Messrs. Moloney, Foley, Crough, Walsh, Moore, Hicks, Burnham, Elmhist, and Fitzgerald.

Mr. STEPHENSON's amendment was then put, being lost on the following division:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Stephenson, Moore and Elmhist.

NAYS.—Messrs. Moloney, Foley, Walsh, Hicks, Crough, Manfield, Burnham, Strickland, Forster, Brown, Stewart, Lang, Sanderson, and Fitzgerald.

The report was adopted.

COUNTY SCHOOLS.

A By-law to authorize the levying of a sum of money for school purposes in the County passed its several readings. The report was adopted by the municipalities of the County as follows:—

Ashburnham	$200 00
Burleigh	145 00
Bolton and Methuen	280 00
Douro	200 00
Dummer	267 00
Ennismore	122 00
Harvey	134 00
Galway	56 00
North Monaghan	101 00
Oranmore	461 00
Smith	300 00
Total	$2,388 00

PETITIONS.

Mr. STEWART read the report of the Committee on Petitions as follows:—

The Committee on Petitions beg leave to report as follows:—

(1) That with reference to by-law No. 575 relating to Hawkers and Pedlars referred to this Committee. Your committee recommend that the same be repealed and that the by-law hereto annexed be enacted.

(2) Your committee recommend that this Council do memorialize the Governor General in Council to make such provisions relating to fines for convicts under the Scott Act, that such fines shall be remitted to the Counties wherein such act is in force.

That with reference to the circular transmitted to this Council by the clerk of the Legislative Assembly with a view to electing such representatives and suggestions on the matter therein considered, your committee recommended that the law as at present should remain unaltered except as to the following:—(a) that the council of each county should have exclusive jurisdiction over all bridges in such county over streams or rivers over 100 feet in width; (b) that section 4 of bill No. 77 introduced by Mr. Clancy, of West Kent, relating to dogs running at large in the night time be passed.

GEORGE STEWART, Chairman.

Committee Rooms, Saturday June 19th 1886.

Mr. BURNHAM said that in reference to clause 2, Mr. Hilliard, the representative of West Peterborough, had already made such applications to the Governor General in Council. He would like to ask Mr. Stewart what it was intended to be asked for.

Mr. STEWART replied that he understood that the memorial asked that the fines levied within the county be given to the county, or such portion as it was decided just.

Mr. BURNHAM suggested the advisability of asking for what the county was entitled to. It was not like that fine levied in the town would be handed over to the county.

Mr. LANSO did not see the necessity of a memorial, now that Mr. Hilliard had made such application.

THE MEMORIAL.

The memorial to the Governor-General in Council, praying for the application of fines enforced for the infringement of the Canada Temperance Act within the Counties where the Canada Temperance Act is in force, or such portion of said fines as may be deemed just, to a fund for the enforcement of the said Act, was passed.

HAWKERS AND PEDLARS.

The by-law relating to hawkers and pedlars was repealed and another was introduced, making the license to be charged as follows:—for a hawker or pedlar on foot $10; for hawkers or pedlars with one horse vehicle, $20; for hawkers and pedlars with two horse vehicle, $30. The penalty for infringement on the provisions of the by-law was fixed at not less than $5, nor more than $50.

FINANCE.

A By-law to confirm the report of the Finance Committee was introduced. Mr. MANFIELD moved, seconded by Mr. STRICKLAND:—That the report be not adopted, but referred back to the Committee with instructions to amend clause 6 by inserting a grant of five hundred dollars to be paid to the Peterborough Central Exhibition Society to assist them in erecting buildings for said society, and on consideration that said buildings cost not less than three thousand dollars.

The amendment was lost on the following division:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Strickland, Manfield, Elmhist and Forster.

NAYS.—Messrs. Moloney, Foley, Moore, Walsh, Hicks, Crough, Stephenson, Brown, Lang, Sanderson, Stewart, Fitzgerald.

The By-law passed its second and third readings.

FOR COUNTY PURPOSES.

A By-law was introduced authorizing the levying and collecting of the sum of $16,672.79, the amount required for County purposes, for the year 1886, on rateable property throughout the County, the following municipalities to contribute the sums opposite their names:—

Ashburnham	$ 514 25
Lakeland	350 63
Norwood	165 75
Asphodel	2037 80
Bolton	50 00
Methuen	84 75
Burleigh	62 21
Andover	17 16
Chandos	146 83
Dummer	1368 53
Douro	200 00

Cavanagh	433 25
Harvey	554 27
North Monaghan	1042 08

The report passed its several readings, and the Council adjourned.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as bright as a button. It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

SACRIFICING OUR INTERESTS.

In an attempt to defend Mr. Mowat for keeping us out of our rights in Northwest Ontario for so many years, and Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Blake for adopting unconstitutional methods of settling the boundary question, the London Advertiser has the following, among much else that is erroneous:—

"When Mr. Mackenzie's Government came into office, there was a disputed boundary already in issue, and Mr. Blake and Mr. Mackenzie, who were the most prominent Ministers from the Province of Ontario in Mr. Mackenzie's Administration as they had also been members of the Ontario Legislature, according to Ontario's rights, thought it best to leave the vexed question to some competent tribunal for settlement. For this purpose arbitrators were chosen, and a decision reached, a decision which Sir John Macdonald was bound to agree to by every principle of international law, but which he contemptuously repudiated, and sought to arouse a feeling of antagonism against the Province of Ontario."

There was undoubtedly then and at all times previously a disputed boundary in the sense that the line had never been indisputably determined by any treaty or any law court, and that it had never been marked out on the ground. It therefore was evidently the duty of Messrs. Mackenzie and Blake, as it was of Sir John Macdonald, to see that the rights of the Dominion of Canada, and of the Provinces composing it were duly maintained. But the question raised by the Advertiser is whether the most prominent Minister from Ontario in the Mackenzie Administration in conjunction with the Premier of Ontario adopted the proper method.

As to the arbitrators being "a competent tribunal" that impudent pretence has been set at rest by the Privy Council, which decided that the arbitrators did not constitute a competent tribunal and that their award was mere waste paper.

Sir John Macdonald would have been bound to agree to that award by international usage, if it had been an international question. In such disputes between nations, international law and usage recognize the right of the Executive to deal with such matters, though in the case of constitutional governments the necessity for ratification by the legislature is not denied. But this was not a question between nations, and our constitution lays down the mode of settlement. The law courts alone could decide as to those rights in case of difference of opinion between the parties interested, and determine what was actually the boundary. By our constitution the Dominion and Provincial Legislatures are empowered to alter boundaries, and therefore any boundary upon which they agreed would hold good from that time, but this would have no effect upon any right set up by an individual or corporation, as arising from the old boundary before the alteration. The Executive, under our constitution, has no power either to determine or alter a boundary.

This is the legal position, but there is also the question of expediency to consider. Would it be a wise precedent to establish that the two most prominent ministers from one Province should agree with the Premier of that Province to come to an arrangement on such a question by themselves or their deputies. Suppose Sir Hector Langevin were Dominion Premier, what an outcry the Reformers would make if Mr. and Mr. Chapleau were to come to an agreement with the Premier of Quebec to determine the boundaries of that Province. It would be called a most outrageous job, especially if any Dominion interest was at stake.

Mr. Mowat's sole object was to make political capital by falsely representing that Ontario was wronged. For this purpose he deliberately refused to adopt the constitutional means by which the Province could have obtained its rights many years ago, being kept out of them merely for Mr. Mowat's particular advantage. THE FLYING DUTCHMAN.

As He Was Seen by the Royal Middlesex An Account in their Journals.

In their three years' roving the Princes Albert and George of Wales had in the main fair winds and flowing seas. They encountered few storms and no pirates. But one night as they sailed over the Southern seas they fell in with the Flying Dutchman. The following is an extract from their "Journals," just published:—

"July 11, 1881.—At 4 a.m. the Flying Dutchman crossed our bows. A strange red light, as of a phantom ship, in the midst of which light the masts, spars and sails of the brig, two hundred yards distant, stood out in strong relief. As she came up the lookout man on the fore-castle reported her as close on the port bow, where also the officer of the watch from the bridge clearly saw her, as did also the quartermaster, midshipman, who was sent forward at once to the fore-castle. But on arriving there no vestige nor any sign whatever of any material ship was to be seen, either near or right away to the horizon. The night being clear and the sky calm, thirteen persons altogether saw her, but whether it was Nan Dorem, or the Flying Dutchman, or who else, must remain unknown. The Tourmaline and Cleopatra, who were sailing on our starboard bow, flashed to ask whether we had seen the strange red light at a quarter to 11 a.m."

"The ordinary seaman who had this morning reported the Flying Dutchman fell from the fore-castle cross-trees and was smashed to atoms. At a quarter past four p.m. after quarters, we have to, with head yards slack, and he was buried in the sea. He was a smart royal-yard man and one of the most promising young hands in the ship, and every one feels quite sad at his loss. At the next port we came to the admiral also was smitten down." Is this another proof that fact is stranger than fiction?

A CANADIAN RAILWAY.

The Winnipeg and Nelson River Railway Favorably Received in London.

LONDON, June 20.—An important city banking house is considering a project to construct a railway from Winnipeg to the Nelson river, with the guarantee of the Province of Manitoba upon £1,000,000 sterling of its bonds, bearing interest at the rate of four per cent, and maturing in 25 years. Three million sterling more is wanted in London by the projectors, and the scheme is favourably received by capitalists here, it is likely that the money will be forthcoming and the construction of the new line begun within a few months. The operation of this road will likely affect the North-Western system as much as the railway connection between Duluth and Buffalo affected the New York Central.

Good Fishing.

HALIFAX, June 21.—Adverse from Newfoundland show that both shore and bank fishing has been most successful. Bait is very abundant all along the coast. Salmon are so abundant that fishermen are curing them in salt as though they were common codfish. At the channel of the entrance to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, codfish are exceedingly plentiful, more so than for a great many years. The fish seem to be in a state of semi-starvation, and are so ravenous for bait that they are very easily caught. The St. John's Telegraph bitterly denounces the Canadian Government for freely affording to Portuguese Jews those fishing privileges they refuse, or attempt to refuse, to Americans.

Extraordinary Story.

HALIFAX, June 21.—An extraordinary story of surviving exposure comes from Cape St. Mary's. Three men were out in a fishing boat, one of whom named John Hunt is seventy-five years old. The other two went some distance in a dory to attend a heavy fog set in and the old man could nowhere be found. The two men in the dory searched for him all that day and night, but gave up in despair. During the fog Hunt had drifted to sea and after undergoing indescribable experiences on the broad Atlantic for seven days in a small open boat, was finally picked up and rescued home again.

IN THE WRONG VAULT.

MUNICH, June 21.—Murmurs are heard on all sides regarding the treatment of the late King. The people ask why his body was not interred in the grave of his father instead of being placed in the vault containing the bodies of distant relatives, and in which a member of the Royal family was never before buried. The official reason given for this course is that the Royal vault is already over filled, but the humble classes believe that it is because the King committed suicide. At the moment the body was lowered into the vault, a tremendous clap of thunder was heard and a storm accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning set in, but passed away directly.

DIDN'T KILL HER.

DUBLIN, June 21.—Mrs. Archibald MacKenzie, who was recently shot by her husband, the American Vice-Consul here, is recovering from the effects of her wounds. When her husband commenced his attack on her she covered her face with her hands, thus preventing fatal injuries.

QUARTER OF A MILLION GONE.

HAMBURG, June 21.—The sugar and cotton warehouse of Paul Jacobs has been burned. Loss, $250,000.

Probable Manslaughter.

OTTAWA, June 18.—An assault, which may result in manslaughter, is reported from Templeton, a village eight miles from Ottawa, down the river. On Wednesday last two non-residents of Templeton, named Scarff and Boyce, while waiting at Gatineau Point, across the Ottawa from this city, quarrelled, and words led to blows. In which Boyce came off second best. The friends for whom they were waiting came up and separated the contestants, who afterwards shook hands. The whole party then started in an open wagon, with movable staves at the side. Boyce was standing up in the wagon behind Scarff, who sat with the others in front. After a while Boyce, without warning, removed one of the staves from the wagon and struck Scarff a heavy blow on the back of the head and another on the shoulder. Scarff was knocked senseless and Boyce jumped out of the wagon and disappeared. The only person who saw the blow struck was a man working in the fields near by. Scarff was removed from the wagon and is believed to be dying. Boyce has not been arrested yet.

Through Fear of Consequences.

RICHMOND, Va., June 21.—Willie L. Noyes a farmer of this town, aged 30 years, shot himself with a revolver about one o'clock on Sunday and died almost instantly. He and J. B. Mudgett, a neighbor, quarrelled over some grass cut by the latter on his property. In the row Noyes stabbed Mudgett in the side with a pitchfork, after which Noyes became so excited that he went to the barn and fired three shots into his own breast, killing himself. Noyes was a quiet and peaceable citizen and the affray caused great excitement. The fact he leaves a young wife, no children. Mudgett is not fatally wounded and will recover.

A Southern Vendetta.

WHEELING, West V., June 19.—A special from Braxton County brings intelligence of a desperate contest, with dirk knives, between Addison Doddridge and Thomas Jackson, two prominent and well-to-do farmers. The ill-feeling grew out of a recent horse trade, and both men were heavily armed, expecting a conflict. On Thursday evening they met on the highway and being alone renewed the quarrel, which finally resulted in a furious battle with knives, lasting over fifteen minutes. Doddridge was fatally stabbed, receiving over fifty wounds on his body and limbs. Jackson was also seriously injured, but managed to escape, and is still at large.

The Hesperomachus Regatta.

NEWPORT, June 21.—The regatta on Saturday was very successful. Ten or twelve thousand visitors from all parts of Canada and the United States were in attendance. The weather was delightful and the lake beautifully smooth. The single scull race between Ten Eyck and McKay was won by the latter by a few feet. McKay upsetting just as he was passing the turning buoy. The great event of the day was the three mile race between Teemer and Wallace Ross. It was a very pretty race and was won by Teemer by five feet. No official time was taken.

He Must Have Meant It.

Tramp—See here, I want dammit! You told me to be careful of the off-bits in the barn, and I was, but the high horse kicked me in the jaw. You didn't tell me to be careful of the high horse.

Farmer—I didn't.

Tramp—No, sir, you didn't.

Farmer—Well, I guess they intended to have you killed. That's the only explanation I can think of now.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Masonic Services.

On the eve of the Festival of St. John the Baptist, Wednesday, June 23rd, at half past seven o'clock, a sermon will be preached by the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw at St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, to the members of the Masonic fraternity, who will meet at their lodge rooms at 7 o'clock.

One of the Most Successful.

The Millbrook Messenger says: "We have to congratulate our good friend, the Peterborough Review, on its neat and tidy appearance, having done a new dress. The Review is one of the most successful journals in the Dominion, and is always welcome at our sanctum."

LADIES HAND BAGS, Belts, Fans, Pompons, Cards and Tassels, Triclos, Canvases, Felts, cheap at ROUTLEY'S.

Artistic.

Mrs. Brooks has of late shown some specimens of her proficiency in pastel work, which do her much credit. Her "Ruins of Carthage" was much admired, but none the less the representation of a collection of fruit now on exhibition in Mr. George Schofield's drug store.

Explains.

The DAILY EVENING REVIEW is issued a few hours ahead of the usual time today, in compliance with the Mayor's proclamation proclaiming this afternoon a half holiday, and for the purpose of allowing the employees an opportunity of attending the Oddfellows' decoration ceremony, consequently we will not be able to give the news of the day to so late an hour as usual.

Auction Sale.

Removal of the Auction sale of Household Furniture at the shop adjoining Hall, Innes and Co. Goods Store, on Wednesday, the 23rd inst., at 12 o'clock. This will be an excellent opportunity to secure good bargains in furniture as the whole of the extensive lot advertised will be sold without reserve. A first class piano will also be disposed of during the afternoon.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW MCNEIL'S.

On the Water.

Notwithstanding the shower last evening the four-oared boats and double sculls at the boat house were put to use. Instilling out, however, Mr. Matthews got his opponent's crew, and so well was he satisfied with their seamanship that he is going to stroke them on the 30th. Mr. A. Lech consented to take No. 2 crew. The regatta will come off at 7.30 sharp on the evening of Wednesday, June 30th.

Excitement.

Quite an excitement has been among the rush of buyers over the stock of the late Isaac Robinson. Readers are advised to go early to the great clearing sale now going on in the old stand on George street. Over eight thousand dollars worth of Dry Goods, Clothing, Tweeds, Hats, etc., must be sold without any reserve. There are bargains for everyone in abundance. Don't let the hot weather or the Irish question prevent you from attending this big bonanza sale.

Agricultural.

A meeting of the directors of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society was held in the Secretary's office, on Saturday afternoon. There were present, Messrs. McClelland, McWilliams, Tully, Davidson, Collins, Stratton and Fitzgerald. The principal business before the meeting was the deciding on what the new buildings to be erected would consist of. After considerable discussion, it was decided that this year the main building, in accordance with Mr. Belcher's plans, be built. It was left to a committee consisting of Messrs. McWilliams, Collins, Stratton, Davidson and McClelland, to have suitable buildings erected, the cost not to exceed $2,500. A partial revision of the prize list was made. The secretary was instructed to at once order the large posters advertising the exhibition.

SCOTT ACT.

The Robt. Hamilton Case Again Adjudged.

The case of the Queen vs. Hamilton was resumed at the Police Court this morning. Mr. BRIDGER, sworn, said: "I have not got any intoxicating liquor from Hamilton between 29th of May and 10th of June. I have not been in his place since last summer, when I went away on the excursion."

Mr. EDWARDS applied for a further enlargement, so as to get the evidence of important witnesses.

The MAGISTRATE asked who these important witnesses were.

Mr. EDWARDS said he wanted to get the evidence of Mr. Rogers.

Mr. STRATTON, counsel of another defendant, objected to another enlargement. It was repugnant to natural justice that a man should be compelled to come here day after day for the sake of merely speculative evidence. It was too bad that a man's business should suffer on account of these prosecutions. A witness swore yesterday that he wasn't in Hamilton's since May 29th, nor did he intend to go there again. It appeared that the mere act of going into a man's place was sufficient grounds for being subpoenaed.

The MAGISTRATE said that he did not feel much like enlarging this case.

Mr. EDWARDS said that Mr. Hamilton had agreed to an enlargement till Saturday, provided that it could be put off till then so as not to inconvenience Mr. Rogers, who had important business in Montreal. He claimed, notwithstanding, that the prosecution was entitled to an enlargement.

The MAGISTRATE said that he would not enlarge a case to allow its being bolstered up. He had to draw the line somewhere. He would enlarge the case till four o'clock on Saturday afternoon to hear the evidence of Mr. Rogers, and other subpoenaed witnesses, but no new witnesses.

FROM THE ROCKIES.

Working on the C.P.R. Snow Sheds—All in the Best of Health.

A rumour being current here that small-pox had broken out on the C.P.R. on the Rockies, it is satisfactory to those whose friends left here in April to work on the snow sheds to know that Farewell, where Mr. Ritchie writes from, is from 50 to 60 miles from the Summit and Schirk, where the Peterborough contingent are located, as will be seen by extracts from a letter written on June 13th, here given:—

"SELKIRK, June 13, 1886.

"We are all in the best of health. I have been to the Summit to-day and got back at 4 p.m. W. Rehill and W. Huffman I found on my return are up aloft climbing one of the mountains. I had intended to be one of the party but failed to connect.

"Things are getting lively at the summit. There are saloons, cantinas, barber shops, laundries and all sorts of dives in course of erection here. Most of them are canvas.

"Tuesday is pay day, and the happy proprietors are getting ready to leave all who are fools enough to listen to them with their 'Come into my parlour, says the spider to the fly,' etc. I remember reading in one of the school readers some few years ago the verses beginning, 'I think with 'The Assyrian came down like a wolf on the fold,' or something in that line. If they come down on the fold I belong to (there are 20 of us together), they will find all rams and no sheep, and have only hard butting for their pains.

"We are going to start at the sheds on Monday morning, and our gang goes about 10 miles further west—perhaps more. A Ritchie has gone to Farewell. I got a card from him; he did not say what he was doing. I was doing some carpenter work for the Engineers this week. I had tea with them last night, which was a little in advance of ours. I do not say this disparagingly as to our regular ration, for they are really good. Yet in one thing, they beat us hollow. They had a nice stone china set on the table, which is slightly ahead of tin pots and plates. They are a fine lot of fellows and no mistake. Will write soon again. Don't forget to tell inquiring folks that the boys are all in the best of health."

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1886.

A REBEL REFORM CANDIDATE.

The Reformers of North Essex in organized convention of the party have nominated Gaspard Picaud as their candidate to represent the riding in the Provincial Legislature. This Picaud is the rebel who stigmatized our brave volunteers as murderous thieves and insulters of women, because they suppressed the insurrection in the Northwest. He vomited forth his abuse on all the Canadian authorities, executive, legislative, judicial and military, for putting down the rebellion and bringing its leaders to justice. He included in his assaults the Canadian jury and all loyal Canadians. For these services and for his slanderous attacks upon the loyal members of the Ontario Legislature, Mr. Mowat paid this Picaud a reward from the money of the people of Ontario, on the pretence of employment as a seasonal clerk, but in reality to encourage these attacks upon loyal men. To show his thorough sympathy with Picaud's disloyalty, Mr. Mowat in the debate upon this appointment, expressed his agreement in all the attacks mentioned above except in regard to the volunteers. Other members of the Administration followed on the same side and Mr. Fraser even suggested a monument in favour of Picaud, the murderous and loyal rebel. And now the Reform leaders in North Essex select this ruffian as their standard bearer. It is not likely that the loyal Reformers, and there are many such in North Essex, will allow the Rebelite leaders to lure them into such degradation.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

The Reform journals of Ontario are still rejoicing over the success of the electoral campaign for secession in Nova Scotia, and are hailing it as a great Reform victory. But now we are beginning to hear the details of the means by which this victory for the traitors was won. At Annapolis, in order to secure the dishonest return of Attorney-General Longley, the Reform and Secession candidate, the Reformers stole the ballot-box from one of the polling booths giving a Conservative majority large enough to defeat the Secessionists. After a sufficient interval the ballot box was restored, the necessary "stuffing" having been accomplished. Yet Attorney-General Longley urges his claim to the seat by the Returning Officer. This is how history repeats itself. It will be remembered that the Reform Minister of Justice, Laflamme, was seated by a prepared arrangement of trap doors into the cellar, and there stuffed with bogus Reform votes, as was proved in the law courts. Mr. Laflamme had not been confided with the details of this swindle upon the electors, but he knew there was something wrong, indeed he has sworn so, yet he accepts his fished seat and the position of Minister of Justice. These Reformers, of the dishonest stripe, seem to be the same in all the Provinces, and at all times.

MR. MILLS' INDIAN TRUST.

With brazen effrontery the Rebelite leading journal in Ontario returns to the defence of Mr. Mills' present to Mr. Cook out of Indian funds in his hand for the moment. As it cannot justify the facts, it calmly misrepresents them. For instance it puts the amount of the defalcation at $1,400 when in reality it was $2,000. It says it was carried out "in exact accordance with departmental practice," though there had not been a single precedent and there has been no similar case since. It says it was done "on the favorable report of the permanent official," though in fact it was done in the teeth of that official's report.

The money was taken, because Mr. Cook, who had spent enormous sums in corrupting the electors, made an appeal to his friends in power still, though dismissed, and because Mr. Mills (who does not like Indians) was about to be relieved of those Indian trust funds, so he had to make his grab at them then or never.

The Globe dares not tell the truth, but it is sympathizing with Mr. Mills and we are not surprised.

The London Advertiser, after an interval of silence on the subject, again refers to his bogus telegram. This time it repeats one of its contradictory assertions that "they were sent from Winnipeg by Sir Adolphe Caron to the Prime Minister." Next time it will be the turn of the Advertiser's other assertion that they were sent from Sir John Macdonald to the Minister of Militia at Winnipeg. The difficulty of making these misstatements coincide seems to arise from the forger having stopped short of affixing signatures to his fabrications.

Drowning Accident at Trenton.

TRENTON, June 21.—A young man named Harris, aged 15, an employee of Gilmour's mill, was drowned in the river here yesterday. He was in bathing above the dam with a number of others, who were trying to teach him to swim. They carried him out into the middle of the stream where the current is very strong. Harris gave the word to let go, and his companions obeyed. But the current was too strong for a novice and before they could reach him the unfortunate fellow was carried down the stream. A few hours later his body was found at the dam.

A Murder Case.

Judgment was given on Friday in the Exchequer Court at Ottawa in the case of Robert E. Sproule, now under sentence of death for murder at Victoria, B.C. Judge Henry told that the sentence was illegal and ordered the prisoner's discharge. The case was remanded for further argument on a legal point raised by the Crown counsel.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

VERY STRANGE.

The Toronto Globe has its eye on Ottawa and permits, without mention, an awful instance of corruption to occur right under its nose, in Toronto. On the eve of the departure of Hon. Mr. Mackenzie and Mrs. Mackenzie for Britain Mrs. Mackenzie was presented with a bank check. The amount presented by the check is not given; but as it is described as "handsome" it must have quite a sum. It is marvellous that the Globe has not denounced this transaction. It is wonderful that it has not seen in this present a bribe to Mr. Mackenzie for his vote against Mr. Blake on the Riel question. —Hamilton Spectator.

FOUL MOUTHED.

Mr. Donald Macmaster, M. P., has been roached by the Globe in the course of that foul-mouthed paper's diatribes against Conservatives and Conservatism. —Montreal Star (Indep.).

MR. BLAKE AMONG THEM.

The United States Senate has passed a bill making it a misdemeanor for members of Congress to act as attorneys of railroads that have been subsidized by a government grant. If our parliament passed such a law a good many of the members would be convicted of misdemeanor. —Brockville Recorder.

DISHONOR AND INJURY.

Such alliances as this to which the Globe welcomes the blue nose malcontents may serve the purpose of dishonoring the Tories temporarily, just as the alliance with the Rielites of Quebec may contribute to the same end, but the final results of such alliances must be embarrassment and dishonor for the party, and perhaps permanent injury to the country. —Toronto World (Indep.).

CANADA'S POSITION.

Holding the St. Lawrence and the Welland canal on the east, and Vancouver Island on the west, and having connected the two with a transcontinental road, she (Canada) now asserts England in the latter's effort to wrest from us the carrying of freight across North America on its way to and from China, Japan and India. She is as she stands a lasting peril to this country. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

A LIMITED PERMISSION.

There is no objection to the Nova Scotia Grits annexing themselves to the United States; but they must not take the Province with them. —Hamilton Spectator.

NO POSITIVE POLICY.

We are free to admit that the Reform party has no definite policy, except one of more negatives. This is a matter to be very much regretted, and will no doubt do a little to weaken the party in the coming elections. —Woodstock Standard (Reform).

AFTLY PUT.

The untenable position of the so-called tariff reformers is aptly put in the following dialogue, which goes to show the fallacy of the statement that all duties levied on goods raise the prices of the corresponding class of goods in the home market.

Tariff Reformer: Let me show the inequality of the system. You are a woman and will understand it. Let us take this dress you have on as an illustration. How much material does it contain?

Mrs. Bagley: Twelve yards.

T. R.: Very well. Now the first cost was ten cents a yard. That makes $1.20, doesn't it?

Mrs. B. attentively: Yes, sir.

T. R. (adversely): Woman, the tax on that dress is to cost a yard. Here we have a total of $2.40 which the rascally government—

Mrs. B.: But the whole dress only cost $1.15. Don't really see—

T. R. (madly): Good heavens! What is the use of arguing with a woman? —London Free Press.

LOOKS BAD.

A Ballot Box Disappears and Reappears in Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, June 21.—When the first news of the results of the Nova Scotia election began to get abroad it was generally asserted that Attorney-General Longley and his Secesh colleague, Munro, had been defeated. From this the Conservatives extracted great comfort. But when the official count became known the tables were turned, both Government candidates being declared elected. This was a surprise, even to the Liberals. But the fight had been a very close one and the successful candidates had only a trifling majority, so that the surprise soon wore off.

Saturday was what is known in the Province as Declaration Day, when in each county a public account is made by the sheriff. In Annapolis when this reckoning was being made it was discovered that the ballot box of the Fort Lorne poll, where the Conservative claimed a majority, had disappeared. The discovery caused the wildest excitement, and the sheriff adjourned his court until to-day. Great rage was felt by the Conservatives at the threat that if the ballot box didn't turn up all those who had had charge of it would be arrested.

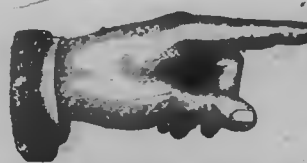

When the court was opened this morning the missing ballot box was found with the rest. The court was then proceeded with, and the result declared as follows: Attorney-General Longley 1532; Andrews (Conservative), 1387; Munro (Secesh), 1333; Ellison (Conservative), 1298. The Tories allege that the ballots have been tampered with since the polls were closed, as the Grits then conceded that both Tories were elected, whereas now the ballots are made to appear to give Mr. Longley a majority of 15 over Andrews. The Tory candidates demand a recount, which is proceeding, and the result will not be known till late to-night. Unprecedented excitement prevails in Halifax, the Tories denouncing the attempted count in of Longley in the most vigorous language and and characterizing as an introduction of Cincinnati and Chicago methods while the Grits declare Longley has a majority of the votes legally cast and they are going to see that both Longley and the party obtain fair play and their full rights.

Spain's Ireland.

MADRID, June 21.—The Government is contemplating the immediate construction of a number of speedy and powerful cruisers to strengthen the navy. In Congress Senator Montau, supported by other Cuban deputies, has presented a demand for the concession of home rule to Cuba with a provincial parliament. The demand is regarded as a step towards complete decentralization.

The following buyers were present:—Mr. C. E. Bartlett, representing Messrs. Karpatic & Cookson, Montreal; Mr. Wm. Cook, representing Messrs. Warrington Bros., Liverpool and Bellefonte; Messrs. W. H. Claxton, Wm. Wrighton and H. Green, of Peterborough, and Mr. J. D. Flavell, Lindsay.

Mr. Cook complained of the quality of some of the May cheese he purchased at the last market. He thought something must be wrong with the thermometers in some of the factories, as he found the cheese too much cooked. This made it undesirable, the cheese being dry and of poor flavor.

Mr. Bartlett bid 6¢ for the board of Peterborough cheese, and Mr. Cook 6½¢ for selections. Mr. Green bid 6½¢ for the Victoria cheese, and Mr. Wrighton closed the bidding with 6½¢ for the Peterborough board.

After some discussion as to whether Mr. Cook's or Mr. Wrighton's bid was the best, it was decided to give Mr. Cook selections at his offer, 6½¢. He selected eleven factories; 1,193 boxes.

The Victoria County cheese was sold to Mr. Green at 6½¢. The remaining eight factories of Peterborough were sold to Mr. Cook at 6½¢.

The market will be held again in two weeks.

The value of the cheese was about $8,000.

A GREAT AND GROWING INDUSTRY.

The conversion of wood and straw into pulp, says the Canadian Manufacturer, and of that again into paper, has been proceeding on an extensive scale for a number of years, and with great success. Still the most skillful practical managers of the business have had to force upon their attention that the process, even on the most improved methods generally in use, lacks a good deal of being perfect, and they have been looking anxiously for that certain something to turn up, which would fill the long felt want, to use a rather hackneyed expression, it is now claimed that the identical "something" that fills the bill has been found at last in the Ritter-Keller process, which is now being introduced into Canada, as appears by the following paragraphs from the Paper Trade Review (London, England):—

Two Canadian paper and pulp makers have been in England for some weeks past, both of whom are associated with new enterprises. Mr. John A. Fisher, one of the visitors, whilst partner in the firm of John Fisher & Son, Dundas, had a considerable experience in handling wood material and converting it into pulp by the soda process. This experience makes it an easier matter than it otherwise would have been for him to start a new mill on a sulphite system, the locality being Chatham, New Brunswick. He has chosen, as already stated in this journal, the Ritter-Keller process, the patent rights have been arranged with Mr. Kandler (Kierling and Kandler, Paris), and quite independent of the American Sulphite Co. and Syndicate. Mr. Kandler is a paper manufacturer, and we believe a personal friend of Baron Rittion, hence the association. Mr. Fisher's new mill, unlike many mills in America, will be built of brick with slated roof, and if all goes well, it will be the first fully equipped sulphite mill across the Atlantic. Mr. Mr. Fisher leaves on Saturday by the Cunard steamer Aurania. The other visitor—who left us on Thursday—is a partner in a pulp mill now being erected in Nova Scotia, and which we may refer to more fully at some future time. A small experimental plant, including three boilers, has already been shipped.

Mr. W. Friedlander has returned from the continent, after visiting a number of pulp mills and concluding arrangements for several important agencies. He sends us samples of bleached sulphite pulp, produced in a German mill by the Ritter-Keller process. They are remarkable for their purity of color and length of fibre. The pulp appears even more favorable than the samples by this process received some months ago in these columns. Papermakers would do well to examine samples for themselves.

Serious Accident.
 On Saturday evening a ghastly accident occurred at the place of Mr. John Callaghan, Ottonabee. Mr. Callaghan's little four year old daughter strayed out into the barnyard, and, going near to a young horse, was kicked twice in the face. The horse not being shod, the sharp hoof, striking the child on the nose and forehead, cut in and literally turned the right side of the face back over the right ear. When picked up, the little girl was unconscious, and so remained for a considerable length of time, when she was brought to town. The required surgical operations were performed under chloroform, after which the injuries did not appear to be so great, though the child suffered agonizing pain.

ANOTHER SACRIFICE.
A few MANTLES and lines of MILLINERY have also been selected and marked down to clear out at similar reduced prices.

THE CAUSE OF ALL THIS.
It will interest the ladies to know that our principal reason for making such a sacrifice at this season of the year in the above lines is in order to prepare our shelves for the arrival of a large purchase of midsummer goods. These will be here in a short time, but in the meantime we purpose keeping up the demand which seems to exist at present for lines of cheap goods. As we said before, our cheap goods will be new. Remember that.

TO THE BOBOLINK.

Plumed troubadour, from sunny south,
With voice returned, and tropic-clad,
Returning to thy northern home,
Thou comest with the springing glad.
Thy joyous lay, now caroled sweet
As silver bell or golden lyre,
Proclaims thy journey brief begun.
Thou warbler best of Nature's choir,
Who's dwelt thou when three winds
Keenly
By breath of Boreas—how so cold
That tree and shrub hibernial slept,
While earth had half her circuit rolled?
Didst thouward wing thy plumage
Through orange groves to Mexico Bay?
There thrill thy love-sweet song
In vibrant glories all the day?
Or did thy pinions wait till o'er
The foam to that late spangled sea
Where Cuban ris-lands their allured
To festal joys, a romancer free?
Where roaredst thou in far-off clime,
Enchanted within thy grassy tent,
While we who now thy welcome sing
In frost-bound land were prisoners bent?
Didst thou the great more joyful where Much radiance, verdure, fruit, and flower
Around thy fragrant foreign bow?
Thy spring-song's swelling raptures thrill
As daffodil wags his happy tail.
Entranced, Nature's pulses vibrate
All hail, little pilgrim, come anew.
—Wm. H. Little in the Week.

ENGLAND.

The collection of engravings formed by the late Mr. Samuel Addington was sold in London on the 23rd of May, and realized £2,755.

The departure of the Duke of Connaught for India, which had been fixed for the end of June, has been postponed until September.

During 1885 the deaths of no fewer than 50 persons, whose ages ranged from 10 to 110 years, were recorded in the United Kingdom.

The Thames has just been spanned by a new stone bridge built at Putney. The bridge was formally opened by the Prince of Wales on May 27th.

The death is announced of Mr. White Cooper, the famous London oculist. His name was in the list of knights who published the other day in connection with the Queen's birthday.

The alto favored for the new Liverpool cathedral is that now occupied by St. John's Church and its burial ground, an irregular shaped plot lying immediately on the west of St. George's Hall.

Orders have been issued from the War Office for the immediate distribution of 100 rifles of the new Enfield-Martini pattern to the army for experimental purposes. The trial is to last six weeks, and full reports are to be made to the War Office.

During May the number of persons of British origin who left the United Kingdom for places out of Europe was 28,611, against 27,769 in the corresponding month of the preceding year. For the five months the number was 87,393, against 86,445 in 1885.

Lord Farnborough died almost within earshot of the debate on the second reading of the Irish Government Bill. His mind was full of the duties which he had recently been obliged to give up, and it is said that among his last words was the question, "Who is speaking?"

The Morayshire Farmers' Club have at last concluded that wheat crops could not be grown profitably in the district, and as a result have decided to discontinue the sale of wheat, and the present unremunerative prices were obtained.

The Crofters Bill was read a second time in the House of Lords on May 20th. The Duke of Argyll, while expressing the opinion that by the bill crofters had been put "in the position of children or of fools," agreed that the measure should be carried as an experiment.

The U. S. Government has presented a silver cup to Captain Buehner, Lieut. of the steamer "Wilkes," a gold watch and chain to H. D. Kinn, second officer; and a gold medal and 50 cents each to E. J. Smith, E. Wood and C. O. Green, for rescuing the crew of the American schooner "Kathleen S. Hunt."

Two wheat stacks have been lately threshed on a farm at Kenning, Kent, and the owner being determined to get rid of any corn that might be in them, set a number of men and boys to kill the mice at a rate of a penny per dozen. The result was that 4,700 mice were killed at a total cost of £1 6s.

IRELAND.

The Government has placed the districts terrorized by mobs in Ulster under martial law.

A Kerry farmer, named Tangney, related a party of moonlighters who went to his place near Headfort on the night of June 3rd, for the purpose of taking his gun. He was instantly shot dead.

Dublin, with a garrison of nearly 4,000 men in its eight barracks, is to have an additional barracks built on a site close to the Royal Irish Constabulary Depot, Phoenix Park, at an estimated cost of £12,000.

Several men of the 1st Battalion Royal Scots Guards were attacked by a mob in the streets of Dublin recently, and were severely maltreated. They were rescued by the police, but the disturbance spread so rapidly that a strong picket had to be sent from the barracks to escort the men in safety to their quarters.

Five milk cows, the property of Patrick Kerin, a farmer, have been mutilated at Droonish. Their ears and tails were cut off, and two had their legs broken. Punctured wounds, from which the blood flowed, were also visible on the sides of the poor beasts. Two causes are assigned—one, that Kerin was suspected of having paid his rent, and the other that he put his cattle on boycotted land.

An extraordinary occurrence took place on the night of June 6, at Dublin Bay. Sixteen young boys assembled at the place where the pier is to be erected at Blackrock, and getting into their rafts, they cut away the ropes. The tide was rising at the time, and the little fellows were quickly swept away into the middle of the bay. At Blackrock the eastwards turned out their boats, and the fishermen of Kings-town turned out three boats, and the police also turned out their boats. The fishermen outside the Kings-town Harbour picked up four more children on a raft, and another raft with the same number of children upon it was pushed in by themselves at Lady Cloncurry's Latch, between Blackrock and Seapoint. The fourth raft was swept ashore a little above Blackrock. Fortunately the sea was perfectly calm at the time, and the boys were shining brightly. The boys were all residents of Blackrock, and their parents are in humble life. It was not until near one o'clock the next morning, that the boys, some of whom were not in years of age, were all rescued.

Central Bridge Works.

Operations at the central Bridge Works continue to boom. At present there are no fewer than eleven contracts for bridges of different sizes in hand. It is indubitably satisfactory, as the orders show, coming as they do from different parts of Canada, that the Central Bridge Works are building up a more than provincial reputation. Owing to the press of work now several orders which required immediate filling had to be declined. The latest contract taken in that of building of cantilevers for the Montreal drill hall.

The Late Charles Ormond.

At two o'clock this morning Charles Ormond, who had been a resident of Peterborough for about forty years, died at his residence on Murray Street. The immediate cause of his death was the result of an accident which occurred on Thursday, June 10th. He was in his chair in the garden, when, as he dozed into a little nap, the chair gave way and he fell to the ground, fracturing the thigh bone of his right leg. Being ripe in years and infirm, he was unable to weather the weakness brought on. He sank lower and lower day by day till he passed away. The deceased was born in Wantage, Berkshire, on August 4th, in the year 1802. He attended a private school in that place, and, after passing a collegiate course, took up the study of drugs in his native town. In the year 1833 he came to this country. After prospecting for a time in the vicinity of Peterborough, he became one of the pioneer teachers, taking charge of a school at Bloomfield, in the township of Cavan, and from him Mr. Wm. Walsh, afterwards his partner in business, received his primary education. While engaged in this pursuit he became acquainted with Miss Sarah Howden, daughter of the late Robt. Howden, sr., and before leaving his charge they were married. In 1856 the deceased settled down. He entered into partnership with Mr. J. W. Gilmore and carried on a drug business in the stand now occupied by Messrs. Taylor & Macdonald. In 1863 he entered into partnership with Mr. Wm. Walsh, and carried on business in the present stand till death dissolved the contract between them. The deceased, popularly known as Dr. Ormond, served in the municipal council for a number of years, representing the people of No. 2 Ward. He was in the Council at the time of the visit of the Prince of Wales here, and was on the platform, as one of the town's representatives, when Judge Boucher read the address of welcome. He was in religion a member of the Church of England, St. Luke's, and in politics a lifelong Conservative. His wife, and one daughter, Mrs. Eadburn, Lindsay, survive him.

LAKEHURST.

From our own Correspondent.

REINS REBUILT.—The house which was destroyed by fire has been rebuilt. The neighbors turned out in large numbers, bowed down the "sturdy patriots of the forest" and have erected a substantial log building. Mr. Eason, who is just starting in life, has the sympathy of the community in his misfortune.

FRUIT, FRUIT, FRUIT.—Strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, brambles, apples and fruit of all kind are giving promise of an abundant harvest. The strawberries are already ripening, and the meadows and hills will soon have a beautiful red carpet. Come to Harvey for your berries.

PERSONAL.—Miss E. Young, the music teacher at Lakehurst, is doing well, and nearly all the young ladies are practicing their "do, re, mi, fa, sol, la" music.

THE SCHOOL.—Miss Bannan, our teacher, is getting on well, and the school is progressing rapidly under her system and instructions. She has the thanks of the section for the improvements she has made.

THE AGRICULTURAL DENTIST.—Our neighbor, Mr. Fawcett, has this season calls for his stump-machine this season. He has already been engaged by Messrs. Telford, Weir and Shearer and has done good work.

FRASERVILLE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PICNIC.—One of the largest and most enjoyable picnics of the season was held on Friday last, in Mr. Thompson's grove, under the auspices of the Fraserville Football Club, and the school section, of which Mr. Strike (one of the captains) is teacher. Amusements of all kinds were indulged in. But that to which everybody looked forward with so much interest was the return match between the Cavan Clippers and the Fraserville Checkers. More than five hundred spectators were present when the players took up their positions on the field. Both teams were in the best of trim, and determination to win was written on every face. R. Gilchrist, of the Millbrook team, who was acting as captain, won the choice of position; and the ball was kicked off amid almost breathless expense. The next both teams were engaged in a hand to hand struggle. Never were discipline and practice more fully exhibited than in the play of the Checkers, the whole team moving as one man, keeping their relative positions throughout the entire game, checking their opponents, securing the ball, and charging the goal in a way that nothing but a professional team could resist. From the first they were the favorites, as they not only played a winning, but very gentlemanly game; consequently, at the close no one was surprised when they stood two goals to the Clippers one. Immediately after tea foot ball was resumed, the Fraserville second having challenged the Cavan second. Suffice it to say, this was even more decisive than the first, Fraserville taking one to the Cavan's none.

American Notes.

A N. Y. Times specially from Washington says there is a panic in all of the Government departments owing to pending dismissals.

A general strike of all the street car drivers in Minneapolis was inaugurated on Monday night, the cause being a prohibition made by the company against the drivers sitting down.

An explosion occurred on Monday at Decatur, Ill., in the hardware store of J. B. Trevors, completely demolishing it. John Ormer, a clerk, was horribly burned and crushed. He died two hours after.

Despatches from Elgin, Manor and Paige, on the line of the Austin branch of the Houston and Central Texas Railway, state that those places were visited on Saturday evening with heavy storms which inflicted great damage.

Washington Mitchell, a colored farmer of Leary, Ga., was mysteriously murdered a few nights ago. Investigation showed that Mitchell had given his 14 year old son a whipping, and that the boy had killed him on the following night with an axe. The mother and three children were accessory to the crime.

On Monday, Wm. Farley, of Avoca, Iowa, was seen drinking, whipped his wife and kicked her out of doors. When Charles, his son-in-law, and D. Heller, a watchman, went to arrest him, Farley opened fire on them with a shot gun, killing Heller instantly. When they told him that he had killed Heller, Farley blew the top of his own head off.

The Wimbledon Team Sail.

A Boy Charged With Murder.
A bright-looking youngster of 11 years, named Willie McKeen, was locked up with the old vagrants and drunks at Court-street station, Toronto, on Tuesday night on a charge of murder. On Friday he had a quarrel with little Maudie Brown, aged 14, who lives across the road, and he threw a stone which struck her on the head. The blow caused death and she was buried Sunday. The body will be exhumed and O'Connor Johnson will hold an inquest.

The East Templeton Anasist.
OTTAWA, June 23.—News from East Templeton regarding the condition of Scarff, who was brutally assaulted by Boyce several days ago, is that the former is fast sinking, and no hopes of his recovery are entertained. Boyce was caught up before Mr. Justice Hagan, at Gatineau Point this morning, but his examination was adjourned until Saturday, pending some change in Scarff's condition.

LONDON, June 24.—The Comte de Paris and his party arrived at Dover this evening and met with an enthusiastic reception. Their landing was delayed by stormy weather.

SPENCER AND THE LAND BILL.

LONDON, June 24.—Earl Spencer, in a speech at Bishop's Cleeve, said: "The Land Bill was not a new bill or gift to the landlords, whose rights, however, must be considered the greatest of any other class. It was of the greatest importance that this question should, if possible, be settled at the same time as the Home Rule Bill. He believed the Land Bill could be passed without cost of risk to the British taxpayer. It was a matter of justice that the new Assembly in Ireland should try to get right a question which had been disturbing Ireland for so many years. If a Parliament were granted on the lines proposed, a grievous blow would be directed against the dynamite, extremists and Fenians."

KRUPP'S NEW GUN FACTORY.

VIENNA, June 24.—The Odessa Journal states that Herr Krupp is preparing to establish a foundry for the manufacture of cannon at Nakalof, the Russian naval station.

A COMPACT DISSOLVED.

BERLIN, June 24.—After five years of a deadlock between Prussia and England over their respective rights to the appointment of a Protestant Bishop for Jerusalem, Prussia has decided to dissolve the compact of 1811, under which the two countries agreed to alternate in the appointment, and to appoint an independent Prussian Bishop at the Holy City. It is thought that the German missionary, will be the best appointee.

THE FENIAN MANIFESTO.

LONDON, June 24.—It having been suggested that Dr. O'Shea, ex-head editor, was the author of the Fenian manifesto published in the Times, Mr. Stephens has applied to an inquiry, stating that he knows nothing concerning the manifesto, and adding that he hopes Mr. Farrell will be successful in his efforts on behalf of Ireland.

A MATTER OF CONJECTURE.

LONDON, June 24.—Lord Hartington, answering an elector who asked if Mr. Gladstone had given reasons for affirming the belief that Lord Cairns, if living, would be a supporter of the Government Irish policy, says: "It is impossible for me to say what course my brother would have thought it his duty to take. I regret that Mr. Gladstone should have thought it necessary to express absolute conviction on a point which can only be one of conjecture."

FRIDAY, JUNE 25, 1886.

STILL NO POLICY.

MR. BLAKE has been addressing a Young Men's Liberal Club, and he spoke at some length upon the subject of a Reform policy, without, however, stating what that policy is. He complained that the Reform party had no policy, and explained that for the six years of his leadership his policy had been to oppose the Administration in everything it proposed, including the construction of the C. P. R., the settlement of the North-West, the National Policy, &c., &c. He declared that his chief policy by which he hoped to defeat the Conservatives was to put them on their trial for what they had done. He then endeavored to evade rather than to comply with the demand for a policy of his own. One of his planks was an elective Senate, though a large proportion of his followers are demanding its total prohibition. Breaking not only in this respect with the late Hon. George Brown and other Reform leaders at Confederation, he would amend the Constitution of our country by making the Provincial franchise compulsory for the Dominion, with an avowed personal preference for resident manhood suffrage, as to which he would have to make Mr. Mowat a convert. In the same line he wants facilities for amending our Constitution. He also hinted at extending Provincial rights, though when in power he complained bitterly that the Provinces were claiming more than their rights, and interfered with their legislation on the ground of a hundred times. He talked rather vaguely of again attempting to legislate as to the liquor license. With still greater vagueness he mentioned various matters, on which he would have to make a great change from his former position when in office if he originated reforms, such as assisted immigration, civil service patronage, superannuation, and so forth, with which he was quite content while in power. He even had the effrontery to mention the present system as effecting the independence of parliament, though if he made the changes his supporters suggest he would have to repeal his own legislation and abandon his own practice of earning fees from the subsidized Grand Trunk Railway in his law office and in Parliament. Other matters on which he touched are questions of agreement with other nations, and there must be two sides to such bargains. Throughout he hid in a torrent of words the fact that he proposed no definite policy except in the rare instances we have mentioned, and as to them he is in antagonism with his followers.

In this pretence at a platform what was most remarkable were the omissions. On the most important single question affecting the welfare of the whole country, our tariff policy, he had not one word to say. He dare not tell the people of Canada that he would abandon the National Policy, which they have found so beneficial, and he is too small-minded to admit that he was wrong in his opposition to it, and that his political rivals have been proved to be in the right.

But the most striking omission of all was his absolute silence as to the one means upon which he and his associates rely for overturning the present Administration. His and their only hope (and they have even reduced it to figures) is by an alliance with criminals and the friends of criminals to satisfy their vengeance for the execution of justice on "the martyr Riel." This alliance, "cemented by the blood" of a rebel and murderer, affords them a solitary gleam of hope. He has found that it will not serve him in Ontario, so here he preserves a cowardly silence, while in Quebec, by his lieutenants and agents he urges it with all its force, hoping to make his own profit out of Riel's corpse as he formerly did out of Scott's.

The Globe now admits that the grants of public property or money to members on the same terms as to other Canadians are legal, but urges that they are immoral, because these members may influence the Administration in the exercise of their discretion. Thus the whole charge of corruption falls to the ground, for an overwhelming majority of the applications made by or through members were rejected, or were granted on such onerous terms that they were not accepted. This event proves that the Administration was not influenced by members to grant profitable favors.

The leading journal in Toronto of the Bieffite and Secessionist combination says of Nova Scotia: "It is simply idiotic to talk, as a contemporary does, of holding her by force." The United States did not find such talk about their Secessionists "idiotic," and their Copperheads soon found the wisdom of hiding their unpatriotic and treasonable hopes. The Globe with its fondness for criminals, is ready now to aid rebels in Nova Scotia as it did in the Northwest, but its support will have about as much efficacy.

The Globe says that according to Mr. Blake the Reform party "has had" a policy with regard to a number of specified questions, and adds that it is a long list. As a matter of history it may be very interesting, but what the electors desire to know is not what policy the Reform party has had, but what it now has, and what it proposes to have in the near future.

Drowned While Bathing.
THOROLD, Ont., June 23.—Mr. Thomas McGill, a young man belonging to this town, was drowned while bathing in the canal here this morning. It is supposed he was taken with cramps.

ST. GEORGE TO THE RESCUE.

We English Canadians or Canadian Englishmen, like those of our nationality in other parts of the Empire, have not been at all given to advancing any claim to favour on account of our birth or descent. We have been quite content that all public, quasi-public, or private positions of dignity, power or emolument should be open on equal terms to all British subjects. Englishmen have never even suggested that a position should be filled by one of their race, nor, as a rule, have they cared one straw whether the lucky man was of English, Irish, Scotch, French, or other descent. Even the habit, sometimes objected to, of calling all "Britishers" Englishmen (in the absence of a convenient short name) springs from our readiness to look upon all our fellow subjects as forming with us one people, with equal rights, privileges and standing, and without distinction of origin.

The constant dining in our ears of the claims of others, the clamour for place and pelf, and the wailing if they are not accorded in as full measure as claimed, are so loud and discordant as to force themselves upon our ears as a nuisance, though without inducing us to desert our attitude of easy and philosophical indifference and impartiality to join in the noisy and far from dignified scramble.

The bubble having thus aroused us from our reposeful content it is not altogether unnatural that we English Canadians should have our curiosity awakened to see how we stand in such matters in comparison with the independent nationalities. A very slight investigation shows that, if we cared to complain, we would have far more reason to do so than the grumblers. Englishmen too have a proverbial right to grumble, yet we do not do so in this respect.

Since Confederation Canada has had five Governors-General, and not one has been an Englishman. It has had three Administrations, but not one English Premier. Its Parliament has three Speakers (including the Deputy), but not one is of English descent. There have been four previous Speakers, but none of them English, unless Mr. Botsford, who filled the chair in the Senate for two months, and who comes of a U. E. Loyalist family, may be originally English. There are fourteen Cabinet Ministers and only one of them, Mr. Cartier, is English, unless Mr. Pope may be of English descent also. The same paucity of Englishmen has been the rule in the three Administrations, with all their changes; no Englishman has been Minister of Justice, and very few of them Ministers of Finance, Public Works, Railways and Canals, Customs, Militia, &c., the less important portfolios usually falling to their share. The Supreme Court of Canada comprises six judges; of these the Chief Justice is not English, and only one of the puisne judges, the Hon. S. H. Strong.

Now let me turn to the Province of Ontario. Since Confederation there have been five Lieutenant-Governors, and the present one alone, the Hon. Bayley Robinson, of a U. E. Loyalist family, is of English descent. The first year only, was also English. There have been eleven Premiers, without an Englishman among them. There are six Ministers and only one of them, the Hon. Mr. Hardy, of a U. E. Loyalist family, is of English origin. It was not very different previously.

Out of these 51 dignitaries of Canada and Ontario it seems that only seven were possibly English or of English descent, most of these exceptions being of U. E. Loyalist families, so as to have experienced a long quarantine since leaving England. Further investigation into the lists of former ministers, members, past and present, of the Senate, House of Commons and Ontario Legislature, judges, deputy-heads of departments, &c., would probably show the same disproportionate or rather disproportionate result.

It may be that we English Canadians are too dull and stupid to compete successfully for these prizes on our merits, but it is rather strange if the race that produced Shakespeare and Milton, Bacon and Newton, Alfred and Wellington, Churchill and Nelson, Pitt and Fox, Caxton and Stephenson, Wykeham and Wren, Harvey and Jenner, &c., should be so utterly without ability. If we have so degenerated, we are content to abide the result, however unflattering of a fair test by merit. But it seems more likely that Englishmen have been thus left in the background because other nationalities, while jostling, scrambling and wangling with each other, have pushed in a body to the front. When their loud voiced cravings are satisfied, there is little left for those who think it rather undignified to beg, and rather unpatriotic to threaten.

If Englishmen cared to enter into the somewhat disputable contest, they undoubtedly would not be without justification. Most they in self defence, and from their national love of fair play, form themselves into an organization to secure an equal distribution of place, power and emolument. Must they invoke their patron saint, to see if St. George has not as much power as St. Patrick, St. John, St. Andrew, St. John the Baptist? Well, it is probable that we English Canadians will continue to stand aloof from the scramble and look on at it with somewhat contemptuous good nature. We are not likely to claim like some Frenchmen a large share of place and power, like some Scotchmen, a Benjamin's portion of the leaves and fishes, or like some Frenchmen an immunity for punishment for their criminals. Most certainly we will not claim this last privilege, for we will still feel that we have a double reason of wishing to have English criminals punished, first for their criminality and secondly for disgracing their race. We will also probably continue to hold that our religion is intended to prepare us for heaven and to take us there, not to procure us money or place or privilege in this world.

Still human beings are often influenced by bad example, and who can say that English Canadians may not at some time be led astray, form themselves into a league and descend so far as to join in the game of grab that resembles a Cockney irresistiibility of the example of Thames' "mud-larks" for coppers thrown to them. But to quit joking, is it not time that Canadians, whether by birth or adoption, should be content to think of themselves as Canadians, and as members of the great Empire of which we form part? Is it not time to cease making of birthplace, race and creed dividing lines to prolong and even make more bitter and old world and old time differences? It is no doubt well that the different races which people our Dominion should bear in memory with pride the deeds of their forefathers, but it is not patriotism to make race a claim for preferment, any more than it is religion to make creed a ground for worldly advancement. Why should not Canadians in their new country be content to drop these differences and stand on their merits as men?

MISCELLANEOUS.

The short supply of lumber this summer has greatly hampered building operation at Calgary, N. W. T.

TIMBER rafts, the Port Hope Quicks says, are being built in the new harbor, and a large number of men are engaged in the work.

At the New York Real Estate Exchange last Thursday, 92,000 acres of timbered lands in Herkimer and Hamilton counties, New York, were offered at $250 an acre.

Mr. JAMES DICK, inspector of hulls, says the Lake Ontario coast is always castly, except when a wind or gale continues several days from the east, and at the termination of the easterly gale is stronger in its easterly course.

A considerable number of logs are now being brought over the Midland Division of the G. T. R. says the Port Hope Times. There are to-day thirty cars lying on the siding near the old car factory; some of the sticks are very large, a number measuring over 3 feet in diameter at the butt.

S. & J. ARMSTRONG, says the Burk Falls Arrow, have concluded a contract with the Ontario Lumber Co. to cut about a million feet of logs taken from the township of Strong. This with their own and the custom cutting, will make things at the mill lively until late fall, if not into the winter.

ONE Saginaw firm has avoided the effect of the recent advance of the export duty on logs by the Canadian Government. The Courier states that Messrs. Hill, Bliss & Wells, who owned timber limits in the Georgian Bay region estimated to cut 150,000,000 feet of pine, have sold the same, nearly doubling their investment.

The prevention of decay in wood is said to be effectively accomplished by exhausting the air from the pores and filling them with a gutta-percha solution, a substance which preserves the wood alike from moisture, water and the action of the sun. The solution is made by mixing two thirds of gutta-percha to one third paraffine, this mixture being then heated to liquefy the gutta-percha, when it is really in solution in the pores of the wood, the effect of the gutta-percha being, when it becomes cool, to bind the pores—Building.

The amount of timber in the Georgian Bay country of Ontario, owned by Michigan men, is estimated as follows:—Emery Lumber Company 100,000,000 feet; Folson & Arnold, Bay City 200,000,000 feet; R. A. Alger & Co., Detroit 150,000,000 feet; Fowler & Chapman, Bay City and Detroit 100,000,000 feet; Hills, Bliss & Wells, Saginaw 100,000,000 feet; Cheboygan Lumber Company, 150,000,000; B. Wick, Cheboygan & Co., Fletcher Park & Co., Cheboygan & Alpena, 600,000,000; McArthur Bros., Saginaw and Toronto, 350,000,000; total, 1,750,000,000 feet.

Mr. THOMAS, manager of Eau Claire Lumber Company, arrived in Calgary, N. W. T., last Sunday, says the Tribune, and has already begun preparations for building a mill 250 feet long, with a capacity of 30,000 feet of lumber, 15,000 shingles and 15,000 feet of 2nd per day. The site is on the Bow river, near the corner of section 16. A dam about 15 rods in length will be thrown across the arm of the river between the main land and an island in the river. A wing dam about fifty rods in length will be constructed along the island to prevent the logs stranding. Mr. Price expects to have the mill ready about the middle of October. A gang of men have been sent to the mountains to take out timber, etc., which will be brought down by train. About 30 men will be employed and Mr. Price expects to be able to supply the Calgary market with lumber and wood at right prices.

Liabilities of hot air and hot steam.
The subject of the spontaneous combustion of wood has been discussed at various times by the French Academy of Sciences. Among the most interesting statements made on these occasions is that by M. Couson, describing an accident which occurred in his laboratory, it appearing that, while he was working in his laboratory, a portion of the boarding of the floor spontaneously took fire; the boards were in the vicinity of an air hole, fed with warm air from a stove about thirteen feet away on the floor below. A similar accident had occurred two years previously, and, in consequence, M. Couson had the boards adjoining the air hole replaced by a slab of marble. The boards which subsequently ignited adjoined the marble, and through the heat to which the boards were subjected was very moderate, being only that of air at 77°F., still the boards slowly carbonized, and, being thus rendered extremely porous, a rapid absorption of the oxygen of the atmosphere had resulted, and sufficient heat was thus produced to originate combustion. A similar instance of spontaneous fire is said to have occurred at Passy, a few days before, due to the action of the warmth from the air hole of a stove upon the woodwork, thus showing the danger liable to arise from this source, and the necessity of attention to the same on the part of builders.

A Benefit Either Way.

American owners of timber limits in Canada acquired them with the intention of taking over the logs and manufacturing them in Michigan. The increase of the export duty to $2 per thousand feet makes this design difficult of execution. It is probable that some logs will be taken over, in which case the Canadian treasury will get the benefit of the extra duty; and some mills may be erected by Americans on Canadian streams, by which the manufacture of lumber here will be extended. Owners of Canadian limits, residents on the other side, are reported to be about to try both experiments. One of these limit holders has sold at a great profit. The future state of the American market for lumber will probably determine whether logs will hereafter be shipped to the States in large quantities or manufactured here. Meanwhile there seems to be a disposition to prepare for both contingencies; and if expensive mills be once put up in Canada, the motive to work them, while any profit can be made, will keep them in operation.—Monetary Times.

Advice to Mothers.
Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button. It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents bottle. The Daily Review.

FRIDAY, JUNE 25, 1886.

THE CITY AND SUBURBSFrom the Far West.

Mr. Benj. Green has received a letter from his sons at Fairwell, date June 14th, in which they do not mention that there is smallpox in that vicinity.

New Nipples.

The new nipples for the hydrants have all been attached. This reduces the number of threads to the inch from seven to five so as to fit the new hose couplings.

Festival To-night.

The opening festival in connection with the Young Men's Christian Association will take place to-night at Mr. G. S. Major's grounds on Park street. Admission 10 cents.

Scott Act.

Mr. Moore has received a telegram stating that the argument in the Scott Act appeal cases, at Osgoode Hall, Toronto set down for to-day, has been postponed till Monday.

The finest lot of Gent's Furnishings in Peterborough at ANDREW McNEIL'S.

At "Cordach" To-night.

"Cordach" has very nice sounds, and the public are sure to be there in large numbers to-night when Mr. Roger has given the use of the piano to the Y. M. C. A. for an open-air festival. The Fire Brigade Band will be in attendance.

Big Berries.

Mayor Stevenson shows at Messrs. Ostrom & Ostrom's fruit store, George Street, what he can do as a fruit grower. A basket displayed in the window labelled "Mr. James Stevenson," is filled with luscious strawberries, some of which measure eight inches in circumference.

Domestic Day.

Tenders will be received up to Saturday evening, July 1st, for the purpose of keeping fresh water in the River-side Park, where the children's programme of sports will be carried on from July 1st. Tenders may be left with or sent to Messrs. Craig & Mooney.

Continued Excitement.

The crowds keep daily coming to the great bargain sale of the stock of the late Isaac Robinson. Ladies' Fur Skirts, Ladies' Fur Caps, Men's and Boys' Fur Caps, and other fur goods at half their actual value. Fifty per cent. saved by buying these goods now; even if you have to wait a month or two before they are in season.

A Good Poster.

The poster issued from the office of the Lunday Post for the Dominion Day events in that town is well got up, and has an attractive appearance. It is a mammoth three-shilling bill, printed in blue and red ink, well set up and evenly balanced. The links are good, bright colors, harmonizing well, and the whole is clearly printed on a medium quality of white paper.

Always Easy.

The Campbellford Herald says:—"The Peterborough Daily Review, which comes to us as regularly as the sun, now appears in its silks, having put on as expensive and beautiful a dress of new type as the metal workers can supply. Our contemporary is always racy with its variety of reading matter and condensed news—medium in parvo—and is a sheet for which we can always say a word of praise. As it is said of some men, the Review will live where others would starve."

Sale.

The sale of the Darcy hotel plant came off in the store next to the Ontario Bank yesterday and the day before, Mr. J. Hagart, representing Messrs. Sherwood Bros., in charge. The bidding was high, and in general, fair prices were realized. The immense mirror, ten feet six inches long by nine by nine feet high, was sold to Mr. Hall for $138. Mr. J. J. Lundy bought the regulator clock for $25 each. Two glass gas-lamps were sold for $25 each. Mr. D. Bellagham bought the piano for $150.

Cheese Looking Up.

At a meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board of Trade on June 24th, 2095 boxes, all that was offered, were sold to Mr. Thompson at 7 1/4 cents.

Oak Orchard.

The Way to Save Money.

C. B. Routley has got a New Carpet Sweeper, claimed to be the best in America. It works so easy that you will sweep your floor in half the time and with more ease than you can with any other sweeper, and time is money. Call and inspect at C. B. ROUTLEY'S.

Toronto Synod.

The Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector of Peterborough and Rural Dean, has been elected one of the clerical members of the Executive Committee of the Synod of this diocese, standing second on the ballot. The Rev. W. Logan, of Fenelon Falls, is also elected a member of the same committee.

25 to 30 per cent saved now by buying special goods selected for sacrifice at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

Making Enquiries.

Mr. Farwell, of Quebec, is in town making enquiries as to the late Thomas Sampson, who died in jail on last Saturday evening. The brothers of the deceased, it appears, two of whom live in Sherbrooke and two in Quebec, all hold good positions in society. The first intimation as to their brother's trouble was the announcement that he was dead and buried.

A Suit Impending.

Wm. Kearns, of Burlington, has entered an action against Capt. Cooper, Chief of Police, to recover damages to the extent of sixty dollars on account of injuries sustained through alleged assault. The plaintiff is the man from whom Capt. Cooper endeavored to wrest the roll of bills passed to him by Mr. Kearns the younger, on the latter's conviction in the Police Court for infringement on the provisions of the Scott Act. The defendant claims that the attempt on Capt. Cooper's part to obtain the money constituted an assault.

UNHEARD OF bargains to be had now at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

Buying Horses, Harness and Waggon.

Messrs. John Shields and John Carroll, who have a contract on the Welland canal, are in town this week purchasing horses, waggon and harness for use in the work on their contract. With Mr. T. Cavanagh's assistance, they had to-day purchased sixteen horses, but they wanted more. They have placed orders with Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger for three waggon and with Messrs. Porter Bros. for three more. Mr. W. J. Devlin has received an order to supply them with several sets of harness. The waggon and harness are to be of the best quality and suitable for heavy work. Peterborough is becoming a headquarters for the procuring of such supplies, and it speaks well for the town as a market for good horses, and for our manufacturers, that Messrs. Shields & Carroll came so far to get those requirements. They are energetic men, and know where a good thing can be obtained.

THE BEST PLACE to go for choice Family Groceries, is to MORROW, TIERNEY & Co's, George St.

Personal.

Mr. John E. Belcher, lay delegate representing St. John's at the Synod, and Col. Harry Rogers, representing St. Luke's, have returned home. Mr. H. A. Hammond, of this town, represented Collingwood.

The following from the London Free Press of June 2nd refers to a daughter of Mr. T. Hurley, of Peterborough. This town will receive a welcome addition to its vocal talent by Miss Hurley residing here:—"Miss Hurley, who is severing her connection with the choir of St. Peter's R. C. Cathedral, was made the recipient last night of a handsome dressing case by the other members of the choir. The presentation was made by Mr. Kelly, on behalf of the choir, in the vestry of the Cathedral, and a flattering address was read by Miss Leach. Miss Hurley intends to make Peterborough her future home."

In the following paragraph from a Calgary paper, the Mr. Stewart mentioned was formerly of Peterborough and has many relatives in town and its vicinity:—"The survey of the proposed national park, at Banff, conducted by Mr. G. A. Stewart, C. E., has been completed. Roads, drives, paths and avenues are now being laid out. The engineer is also making a survey of the prospective town site at the Springs. The medicinal value of the celebrated health-giving water, has been appreciated by various capitalists, whose offers to establish mammoth hotels at Banff are being considered by the Government. The Canadian Pacific Railway is also bidding for a lease of the Springs. The Interior Department has given permission to Dr. Brett, late of the C. P. R. medical staff in the Rockies, to conduct a small hotel at the park this season. The Government recently despatched Mr. Hall, of the Interior Department, to the Arkansas Hot Springs for the purpose of studying the workings of the system adopted there."

There seems to be some misapprehension relative to the price of Flour. I find a number of purchasers stating that the grade of Flour known as

"BAKERS"

WAS IT ECONOMY?

ACCORDING to a report in the Globe the Hon. T. W. Anglin spoke to this effect at a public meeting at Owen Sound:—

"He went at some length into a discussion of the financial history and situation of the Dominion, contrasting the economy and administration of the Mackenzie Government with the expensive, extravagant, and corrupt administrations which had preceded and followed it."

We would ask Mr. Anglin and the Globe whether it was really economy on the part of the Blake-Mackenzie Administration to pay Speaker Anglin for his party services by a grant out of the Canadian treasury because the Reformers of his own Province refused him a position in the Cabinet. A direct grant to him would not have been so costly, but by the subterfuge of a bogus contract for printing, which Speaker Anglin did not perform, never intended to perform, could not perform, and which the Mackenzie-Blake Administration knew he could not perform, payment for the printing had to be made three times over. First, Speaker Anglin had to draw his purchase money; secondly, the real printer had to get his fair pay and profit, and, thirdly, the contractor from whom the Reform Administration had illegally taken the work to use it thus corruptly, obtained and obtained the money of which he was thus defrauded.

It seems to us that so far from being economical, Messrs. Mackenzie, Blake and their colleagues practiced their corruption in a very wasteful manner.

Mr. Anglin and the Globe cannot deny this, but they will, instead of admitting it, try to create a diversion by unfounded attacks upon more honest and economical men.

MR. BLAKE'S ALLIES.

THE approaching Provincial elections in Quebec are causing a renewal of the first vehemence of the Rielite agitation. The French papers of the party in Quebec, the United States and Ottawa make no pretence of concealing the true meaning of their action. They plainly state that their anger is at a wrong they claim was done to their race, a blow at French national interests, the murder of "a noble and innocent victim of an anti-French government." They denounce as murderers all who assisted in bringing their compatriot to justice, including our brave volunteers. This is a straightforward claim that a criminal of French race must not be brought to justice if his brethren demand his immunity from punishment.

And it is with these advocates of murder and rebellion, if committed by a Frenchman, that Mr. Blake, who clamoured for Riel's punishment when Scott's murder could be turned to political use, has now cast in his lot, quite willing to disgrace himself by siding them in obtaining revenge if he can buy votes by the criminal alliance.

THOUGH Gaspard Pacaud, the rebel, slanderer, and paid employee of Mr. Mowat, is nominated by the Reformers of North Essex as a Provincial and not as a Dominion candidate, it is with the sanction and applause of the Dominion Rielite party. Mr. Lister, M.P., who voted with Mr. Blake in the House of Commons in favor of Riel, when honest Reformers and some trimmers refused to follow such disgraceful leadership, spoke at the nomination in behalf of Pacaud, who calls our gallant volunteers murderers, ravers, and thieves, who, while in Mr. Mowat's pay, slanders the executive, the judiciary and all the loyal people of Canada because Riel, the rebel and murderer was brought to justice.

MR. LAURIER, the avowed rebel and perjured Privy Councillor, is no longer the solitary traitor on the list of the Queen's Privy Council for Canada. Mr. A. G. Jones occupies the same position, for it now appears that he is recognised as the "mainpring" of the Secession movement. It may be claimed that it is open to any man to agitate constitutionally for a change of allegiance, but an exception must be made of members of Her Majesty's Privy Council, unless there are prepared to prove themselves perjured as well as disloyal.

Tax financial position of Canada is persistently misrepresented by the Opposition. Up to May 31st of this year the revenue on account of Consolidated Fund was $29,665,856, and the expenditure $32,018,874. Of the latter sum $2,992,071 was expenditure on account of the rebellion in the Northwest, and if it is deducted the revenue will show a surplus of $469,053 over the ordinary expenditure.

Ex-Mayor Beaudry Dead.

The Hon. Jean Louis Beaudry, ex-Mayor of Montreal, died at Montreal on Friday morning. Mr. Beaudry was 71 years old, having been born at St. Anne des Plaines, Que., in 1809. He accumulated a large fortune in business in Montreal. He was Mayor of Montreal nine years, and was defeated four times. During the Orange troubles in 1877 and 1878 he became known all over the world. He was appointed member of the Legislative Council of Quebec in 1887, and retained the position till the time of his death. He leaves four daughters, six married, and one son.

SOCIALISTS IN OTTAWA.

A New York Detective Makes a Most Astonishing Discovery.

Something like two weeks ago Detective Finney of the New York force, arrived in this city for the purpose of finding a man named Gearrie, who was supposed to possess some information of the highest importance to the prosecution in the cases now on trial before Judge Garry in New York, against Michael Schwab, August Spies, and about half a dozen other anarchists. Gearrie had been in Montreal for some time but was at last traced to Ottawa by Detective Finney, who found him at work under an assumed name in one of the mills. While refusing to return to New York as a witness he readily consented to give Finney all the information in his possession, and this turned out to be really valuable, and also communicated to him the information that there exists a society of Socialists in the neighborhood of Ottawa. Just how long this society has been in existence does not appear, but there are now 50 members. The oath they are required to take, Mr. Finney says, is as ridiculous as it is blood-curdling. Every precaution is taken by them to maintain the most absolute secrecy regarding their movements, and so well have these precautions been carried out, that although they have been established some little time, the existence of their society is not even suspected by the local authorities. One of their precautions consists in never holding two meetings in the same house; besides this their oath renders any member who infringes their rules, or reveals any of their secrets, even to the fact of their existence, liable to death at the hands of the other members of the society. The members have been chosen from personal acquaintance and friendship, and are pledged to their dispositions by the organizers and are promised every protection in their relations with their various employers. Detective Finney, having obtained the information he desired, left for New York last night.—Ottawa Free Press.

COBOURG.

GOLDEN WEDDING.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hunter have celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day.

A NEW INDUSTRY.—Mr. T. D. Galloway has established a factory in Cobourg for the manufacture of agricultural implements and machinery. He is the patentee of numerous inventions.

MINDEN.

ACCIDENT.—We are sorry to have record an accident to Mr. Cowan of the township of Minden, that might have proved fatal. Mr. Cowan was hitching a logging chain around a log for his oxen to draw, when the oxen started before the chain was hitched and getting off the log fastened around Mr. Cowan's leg, when they started a distance of about sixty rods over a very rough stony path. On their way his foot struck against a post breaking his leg below the knee, and the ankle is very much bruised of the same leg where the chain fastened itself. Mr. Curry was immediately sent for and has done everything in his power to ease and assist the poor man, and the Dr. is in hopes he will save the leg and get his patient round again all right. It must however be a matter of time and care. The wonder is that the oxen did not kill him by dragging him over such a rough rocky place as they passed over.—Echo.

BOBCAYGEON.

LOGS.—Another drive of logs is going through, this one belonging to Mr. Strickland, and contains about twenty six thousand. M. Brabant is boss. Another drive for the same firm is in the upper lake.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Mr. Geo. Road had a narrow escape the other day. A horse that had been left standing in the delivery wagon started from the shop. Mr. Road sprang from the sidewalk and caught the horse by the head, and was thrown off his feet, and dragged some distance, at last falling to the ground, the wheel passing over his arm. He was not seriously injured, and is now out again.

SALMON.—Whilst trolling in Pigeon Lake the other day, Robert Kennedy landed a salmon trout weighing between five and six pounds. This is the first salmon that has been taken from these waters, since the fry was placed in the lake some six years ago. It was not known whether salmon and muskellunge would thrive in the same waters, but that some of the salmon have lived, is now established.—Independent.

CAMPELLEFORD.

A TALL CHIMNEY.—A brick chimney to be seventy feet high, when completed, is now being built at the Northumberland Paper Co's mills at Ranney's Falls. Fifty thousand brick will be required in its construction. Eight carloads arrived at the station last week. The iron smock-stack put up about two years ago, has become defective, and will no longer be made use of after the completion of the brick chimney.

A FALL OF SIXTEEN FEET.—On Thursday last, while Mr. Wm. Jordan and Mr. Koe were working upon Mr. Kent's new livery building, they had a fall from the elevated position to the ground, a distance of sixteen feet. They had put up a bracket scaffold which was supported by scantling. Jordan was standing upon the scaffold with a log of maul beside him, and Koe went up afterwards with mortar. The latter walked out to the end of the scaffold, and as he did so the scantling snapped in two and men, maul, mortar and boards came down together in a heap. Jordan was injured about the hips, and had the shin bone of one leg cut and bruised. Koe fell across the broken scantling, and was for a time totally disabled. He recovered soon afterwards, but both men still feel the effects of the fall.—Herald.

The Chicago Anarchists.

CHICAGO, June 25.—The Daily News prints an interview with a well-known resident of the west side, showing that the Bohemian anarchists are not all subdued. The gentleman claims that within the last month at least fifty shooting galleries have been opened within a neighborhood a mile square within the Bohemian quarter, and that they are much frequented by people of that nationality. He also claims to have discovered that large numbers of them are drilling secretly in different halls, and have pickets stationed for three blocks from their meeting places to give warning of the approach of strangers.

HOMESICKNESS.

SERMON BY LAYMAN.
To the Editor of the Review.

It may be taken for granted that there are very few persons, who have ever left home, who have not realized the meaning of homesickness. And who will not admit that of all the bitter feelings which are experienced by old and young, homesickness is the worst. To some it is simply desolation and misery. While it lasts the pang of hunger is nothing to it. A young man or woman, through necessity, or through misfortune of some kind, has to go forth into the world, and bids the old home good-bye. They look forward to the time of separation with fear and trembling, and when the day and the hour comes, with feelings of anguish and desolation they go forth, bidding all they hold dear good-bye; and oh, how often, while the old home is still in sight, do they turn round and look, and look again upon the familiar scenes of their childhood, and the tears come, and the world before them looks so dark and dreary. They would give so much for one more sight of the dear old mother and the children they have left behind, and as they take their last look they cry all the more, and in imagination think they can see them all standing by the gate, as if taking one last farewell. But when they can look no longer, and they know that it may be years of separation, and perhaps forever, they cry for father or mother to take them back again. If this feeling lies hard upon the young man, what must it be with the young woman? The man is able to take care of himself. He can go forth and fight his battles with small loss, and his name and his honor are secure. But with the poor, timid, homesick young woman, it is very different. She feels discouraged and forlorn at the very start, and she soon realizes that she is, like a sheep among wolves, surrounded by wickedness and evil-doers. She feels that her every step is tracked by many of those among whom her lot is cast, and that pitfalls and ruin await her on every side. Alone among strangers, is it any wonder that she becomes disheartened, and that she often wonders what is to become of her, or what she is to do? The chances are that no one pities or sympathizes with her, and when night comes, and she lies down in her lonely room, she cries aloud, as one without hope, and the night is passed in thoughts of home and in dread of the coming day.

Mother, all alone to-night I have sat and thought of you, and how I miss you. At times I thought I heard your voice, but alas, that cannot be. And when I think of childhood's days the tears fall like rain. My heart then calls for home and mother, take me back a child again. Then my heart calls for thee, mother, oh, take me home again.

Years have passed, dear mother, now since you kissed me sweet good-bye. With quivering lips a blessing asked of Him who dwells on high. Dear mother, I am still thy child, thy image on my heart remains. Though years my once fair brow have wrinkled, oh, take me home again. Though years my once fair brow have wrinkled, oh, take me home again.

Can I forget when gathered around the hearth at home for prayer. How mother rocked me in her arms and soothed my every care. A little low, perhaps, 'twas well, the world was filled with care and pain. No home on earth like mother's, oh, take me home again. No home on earth like mother's, oh, take me home again.

There's not a place on earth like home, where our brightest hours remain. Oh, my heart calls for thee, mother, take me back a child again.

There are some, as well as daughters, and many more of them, who have to leave home and go forth into the world, and oftentimes far, far away, and feel the loneliness, and the awful homesickness as well. To them, for a time, the world seems wild and dreary, and they often look back in imagination to their own home, and to those they have left behind. They try to keep up their courage, but when night comes they are alone they sit down in their solitude and think of father and mother, and the little ones, now at home, and the darkness seems darker still and their loneliness and homesickness is hard to bear. And when day comes they strive to shake off this feeling by musing with the busy throng. It very often happens that their lot is cast over the wide sea in foreign lands. For the first time in their lives they feel the meaning of being "strangers in a strange land." They are now thrown entirely upon their own resources, some give way to grief and some sink down in silent despair, while others manfully strive to work and win success. But they feel their homesickness all the same although they try not to show it. They try to remember the good influences of their home life, and they often reach to their memory the appearance of their mother when they left there, and wonder how they look now. They look forward to hard times. They are willing to work and when the proper time comes and they have laid by enough they comfort themselves with the hope that, some day they will revisit home and be present for their country to success. It is when homesickness comes that they feel most the separation and miss the want of a mother's care. And should they not recover they hope to see them all in another world. It is then that their homesickness comes most strongly upon them. They can do nothing but think and the old home is ever present before them, and they waste good worlds if they were only there once more, but the broad ocean lies between, and all they can do is to think and to write.

Take this letter to my mother, far across the deep blue sea, it will fill her heart with pleasure, she'll be glad to hear from me. How she wept when last we parted, how her heart was filled with pain. When she said, "Good-bye, God bless you, we may never meet again."

Take this letter to my mother, it will fill her heart with joy. Tell her that her prayers are answered, God protect her darling boys, now at home. Tell her to be glad and cheerful, pray for me wherever I roam. And as long as I turn my footsteps back towards my dear old home.

Take this letter to my mother, it is filled with words of love. If on earth I'll never meet her, tell her that we'll meet above. Where there is no hour of parting—all is peace and love and joy; God will bless my dear old mother, and protect her darling boy.

But sad is the sight when the whole household, father, mother and children, have to bid good-bye to their old home and go far away, perhaps into the wilderness, and there in loneliness and sorrow try once more to carve out for themselves a new home. With the energies of the parents oftentimes well nigh gone, with a young family dependent upon them, they have no choice but to submit to their hard lot, and with hearts well nigh breaking they are obliged to appear cheerful in order to try to keep up their own courage and that of the children dependent upon them. And often the children may be heard speaking of the once happy home left behind, talking over the happy days passed there, but charging each other not to speak about these regrets to father or mother lest their grief should be greater than it is. They never know before what homesickness is, but they know it now. And when the labours of the day are over and they all meet together at the common fireside, then it is that their hard lot is felt the most and they sit late into the night talking of the old times, and wishing that the day may sometimes come when they can all be at home again. And the father and mother say if for ever so short a time, their homesickness, which is now so great, would be made all the lighter, and their weary minds and bodies and their long, dreary days and nights would be made brighter. Yes, homesickness is a terrible feeling, and those who have it should resolve kindness and pity. Said a person to me, I just know what it is, when I was a boy only ten years old I was sent to Toronto, then Little York and placed in a store there, left a good home and kind parents and many small brothers and sisters behind, and a little favorite dog, which I thought a great deal of. My home sickness was simply insupportable. Nearly the whole country between my home and York was then a wilderness. I ran away, young as I was, was pursued and brought back, again I ran away—but my road came back to the point of departure after trotting many miles, then I started again towards home. After trotting forty-five miles the first day I slept at night in the floor, with a chair for my pillow, in a little log cabin by the road side. My feet were very sore, but that did not prevent me starting off again early the next morning. I arrived about noon at the house of a kind acquaintance, who fed me and then took me home. I scarcely eat anything on the way, nothing but a little bread and water given me along the road. I had about twenty-five cents in money with me, but I kept that for take home and give to my mother, an act which she never forgot, and which she mentioned shortly before she died. I kept up my courage on the way thinking that I would see them all at home, and soon see my little dog. When I was in York I used to sit at night thinking of what they were doing at home, and when I went to bed I cried myself to sleep. And so it continued day after day, thinking and crying by turns, always at night crying myself to sleep. I know by experience what a dreadful feeling homesickness is, and therefore, know how to pity and sympathize with those who suffer with it.

Yet how many poor, deserving creatures there are, old and young, and especially the tender and the young, who have no one, but I keep that for take home and give to my mother, an act which she never forgot, and which she mentioned shortly before she died. I kept up my courage on the way thinking that I would see them all at home, and soon see my little dog. When I was in York I used to sit at night thinking of what they were doing at home, and when I went to bed I cried myself to sleep. And so it continued day after day, thinking and crying by turns, always at night crying myself to sleep. I know by experience what a dreadful feeling homesickness is, and therefore, know how to pity and sympathize with those who suffer with it.

The Beginning of Consumption.
Blanches, pimples, eruptions, fever-sore ulcers and enlarged glands, are but so many manifestations of poisonous and scrofulous humors in the blood, which sooner or later are apt to attack the delicate tissues of the lungs, causing inflammation and consumption of the organs. Be wise in time and use Dr. Hodge's Golden Medical Discovery, the great blood-purifier, pectoral and strength-giver yet known to medical science. It cures all these dangerous maladies having their origin in the blood, if taken in time.

Sisters of Charity

Charity, attached to St. Mary's Infant Asylum, Dorchester, Mass., certifies to the inestimable value of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the treatment of sore eyes and skin diseases, among the many unfortunate children under their care. Mrs. S. D. Bodwell, Wilmington, Mass., writes concerning the treatment of her daughter, who was troubled with sore eyes, as follows: "I gave Ayer's Sarsaparilla to My Little Girl, For a Number of Years, and must say that she never took anything that helped her so much. I think her eyes never looked so well, as now, since she has been using it. Her skin has become so much improved every day, and she has taken on half a dozen pounds of flesh. I have been cured of my bilious troubles and Dyspepsia, and I have tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and it has done me so much good that I shall always regard it as the best of blood purifiers." Eminent physicians prescribe Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

My work has been made strong by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla." C. E. O'Brien, Nashua, N. H., writes: "For a number of years I have been troubled with a humor in my face, and was unable to obtain any relief, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has done me so much good that I shall always regard it as the best of blood purifiers." Eminent physicians prescribe Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Lacrosse.

In an account of the lacrosse match between Peterborough and Orillia clubs the Orillia Pocket says:—"Mr. A. McNeil, of Peterborough, was chosen as referee, and gave great satisfaction by his fair decisions. Mr. E. U. Whiffen, of Orillia, and Mr. J. J. Daly, of Peterborough, acted as umpires. The play on the part of the Peterboroughs showed want of practice, and while some members played with their old time vigour, they appeared to lack support, and showed a want of confidence."

The Paper Mill.
An item referring to the "Montreal Paper Mill" which was taken from the Lindsay Post appears in to-day's issue. The authority for the Post's statement is good; and it may be that the Patterson Company have decided in their own minds to locate in Peterborough; but up to the present no decisive arrangements have been made with the Dickson Company, here, with which Company the Montreal Mill men have been negotiating as to site, etc. It is understood that the Dickson Company have made a liberal offer.

The Scugog Paper Mill.
The Lindsay Post says:—"The Scugog Paper Mill Co. have decided to rebuild at Peterborough where they are offered exemption from taxation and can secure a very desirable location for the mill convenient for shipping and with unlimited water power. The latter item is of some consideration, as power furnished by water will be much more economical than steam. The engine now at Lindsay will be shipped back to the builders at Toronto and the boilers removed, one of which will be made use of in the new mill for furnishing steam to dry stock and for use in preparing straw and rags. It is to be regretted that the company cannot see their way clear to rebuild at Lindsay, as the town cannot afford to lose one of its limited number of industries. Possibly a bonus of say $3,000 would induce the company to remain here, but public feeling is against granting bonuses, that principle having been carried too far in the past. Exemption, of course, the company would have, and most excellent shipping advantage, together with the ownership of the property should they make use of the site of the burned mill. Coun. Mallon offers, if a substantial list be got up by way of a bonus, to head the list with $300."

UNHEARD OF bargains to be had now at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

MASONIC EXCURSION.

A Very Pleasant Time Spent in the "Garden" City.

At seven o'clock on Thursday an excursion party under the charge of the Masonic bodies of Peterborough, left the Grand Trunk station, Bethune street, bound for Rochester. After a pleasant sail across the lake in the Norseman, the party landed at Charlotte in the evening. Here a deputation, consisting of ten members of the R. A. C., from Rochester, met the visiting brethren. The trip up to Rochester was made quickly and enjoyably.

The same evening the visiting Companions had the pleasure of witnessing the conferring of the Royal Arch degree in the Masonic Temple. On the entrance of the Companions into the Chapter hall, the assembly was called to order, when the national anthem, "God Save the Queen," was played on a magnificent organ in honor of the Canadian visitors. The brethren were then introduced to the Most Excellent High Priest, and Ex-Comp. B. Shortley was invited to a seat on his right. When the ceremonies were over the Companions, numbering in all about one hundred, were entertained at a banquet in the dining hall in connection with the Temple.

The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle says:—"Before the separation of the companions from the tables, Comp. Thomas Giddons made a welcoming address to the visiting companions, which was responded to on behalf of Corinthian Chapter by Comp. Shortley and Alexander, the latter being quite witty in his brief remarks. Comp. McKown spoke in his best vein concerning the place of Hamilton Chapter in the annals of (Apitular) Masonry in this state.

Thursday was spent in sight seeing, the Rochester brethren very kindly and fraternally conducted the Peterborough brethren around the city in carriages. The many principal sights of that beautiful city were seen by the Peterborough brethren. The latter speak in the highest possible terms of the hospitality of the Rochester brethren, which quality in them is only emulated by their courteousness and fraternal feeling.

The Peterborough party left Rochester on Thursday evening, a member of Rochester brethren accompanying them as far as Charlotte.

Change of Time.
On and after Monday next the present Havelock and Winnipeg trains on the C. P. R. will be discontinued, and instead thereof the Winnipeg train will leave Peterborough at 8.30 and arrive in Toronto at 11.45 a.m., and the Pacific express will leave Toronto at 5 and reach Peterborough at 7.53 p.m. The Ottawa and Montreal expresses will continue to run as heretofore.

Garden Party.
A very successful garden party was held at "Cordiac," the residence of Mr. Geo. M. Rogers, on Friday evening. The strawberries and cream and other refreshments, and the excellent music given by the band, were duly relished by the numerous attendance. The proceeds, about $40, go toward aiding the Young Men's Christian Association, under whose auspices the garden party was given.

Business Notes.
Messrs. Flaherty & Clark, the clothiers, are now installed in their handsome new store, George street, next door to Messrs. Fortye & Phelan's hardware store. The shop is a perfect model of neatness in every respect. The goods in stock are arranged on the shelves in the most tasteful way, while ready made wear is displayed to the best advantage on cherry tables along the south side. The work is all finished in cherry stain, ornamented with walnut trimmings. The upper flats are utilized as workshouses.

Mr. T. Spencer has moved his stock of tobacco, cigars and smokers' sundries to the ample premises lately occupied by Flaherty & Clark, Lynch's Block, Hunter street. The store has been handsomely refitted, and it now looks very pretty. A neat office has been fitted up, from which the financing is to be done. Handsome cases and other ornamentally useful furniture add to the beauty as well as convenience of the place. The place of business will still be known as the City Cigar Store.

Gough and Free Clothing.

At one o'clock this afternoon the market in front of the end of the Opera House was packed with people looking anxiously heavenward. They were waiting the appearance of the linen dusters, which were advertised to be thrown away. At a few minutes past one the first shower of coats came fluttering down from above. Then came the fun. The crowd surged hither and thither with upturned faces and reaching hands. When the coats came within reach there was a terrible struggle for possession, and more than once the luckless duster was torn with such determination that if it hadn't been good stuff it must have been torn into shreds. Even the fair sex entered into the contest for coats. No doubt at the time thoughts of immunity from nights of toil crossed their fancy. One really laughable contest took place. The outspread coat waved slowly down just above where three women and a cat were standing. All grabbed it at the same time. "It's mine!" "It's mine!" "It's mine!" the three girls exclaimed excitedly, each determinedly hanging on at different parts of the garment, but the catless man held grimly to one sleeve and said nothing. At last two of the three reluctantly withdrew and left their sister to settle the matter with the man in his shirt sleeves. The latter's gallantry at last overcame his desire for dusters, and the winner bore off the linen in triumph. The shower lasted with slight intermissions for fifteen minutes.

ANOTHER SACRIFICE.
A few MANTLES and lines of MILLINERY have also been selected and marked down to clear out at similar reduced prices.

THE CAUSE OF ALL THIS.
It will interest the ladies to know that our principal reason for making such a sacrifice at this season of the year in the above lines is in order to prepare our shelves for the arrival of a large purchase of midsummer goods. These will be here in a short time, but in the meantime we purpose keeping up the demand which seems to exist at present for lines of cheap goods. As we said before, our cheap goods will be new. Remember that.

CHEAP SYMPATHY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Several letters have appeared in the Times referring to the imprisonment of Mr. Dunn for violation of the Scott Act. It is a hardship that an old, respectable and respected citizen should suffer duress of his prison. Their violations will not benefit their friend, but a little practical work will accomplish what they seem so ardently to desire.

Yours truly,

WORK.

HEAD ROOM, PLEASE.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—The awnings erected by the merchants to protect their goods would be pleasant for pedestrians as shelter from the sun but for the practice they have of letting them down too low. By this they become a nuisance. I would suggest that the Council instruct Mr. Inspector Beavis to arm himself with authority and a pole measuring six feet and a half in length, and that he would measure each one of these awnings, and where any are found lower than this standard (measured from the sidewalk) that the owner should be instructed to raise it to the proper height, and if this is not complied with that a summons be issued for his appearance at the police court to give reasons if any, why he should obstruct the public highway. By inserting the above you will oblige,

Yours truly,

SIX FEET AND HALF.

AN ANSWER TO PRESBYTERIAN.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In reply to the question "Presbyterian" asks in your issue of this evening, I wish to say that in perfect harmony with the denomination of which I am a minister, I do not believe that sprinkling, immersion or any form of baptism, or any other rite, is the only "or any" gateway to eternal happiness. Repentance toward God and faith in Jesus Christ alone and completely save the soul. Shall I do "Presbyterian" injustice if I imagine him saying, "Then what importance has baptism, or its form?" All the importance belonging to obedience to him who said, "If ye love me keep my commandments," of which commandments this was one. "Go ye therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." And he who gave that mandate also inspired his apostle Peter to say to convicted Jerusalem sinners, "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of the Lord Jesus unto the remission of sins."

And now, Mr. Editor, will you permit me to say that I do not think that any one should be allowed to take part in this discussion who is not willing to do so over his own signature? In these matters every man should have the courage of his convictions, and when its authority is avowed, what is published is usually more worthy of attention, because it has received more thought, than what is anonymous.

Yours respectfully,

A. H. MUNRO.

SHOOTING AT STRIKERS.

One Man Killed and Others Seriously Wounded—An Exciting Chase.

Chicago, June 26.—Five switchmen who were beaten by the mob yesterday, appeared at the office of the superintendent this morning and demanded transportation to their homes.

Shortly after noon the Lake Shore officials took an engine out of the round house. At 4:30 street, under a police guard, they attached it to a caboose and started toward Englewood. There was a large and excited crowd at 43rd street, supplemented by a large number of idle men and boys.

In the caboose were a number of police. Immediately after the engine started, the strikers made an attack on the round-house and drove away the few deputies on guard there. They then took possession of two locomotives which had been fired up and proceeded south on the railroad to overtake the caboose.

The locomotives were forty or fifty strikers or adherents. The captured locomotives soon overtook the train, the foremost locomotive running into the rear of the caboose but not overturning it.

The police then deserted the train and fled toward Englewood, when the mob at once took possession of the train and drove it to the round-house.

The excitement over the affair is very great. The police appear to have lost complete control. The strikers are in practical possession of the railway company's shops and property outside of the city.

A Lake Shore engine in charge of a regular crew, left the round house shortly after 12 o'clock. Two caboose were attached to it. On them were about fifteen Town of Lake police and twenty Pinkerton men. In Englewood the officers mounted the cabs of both engines and caboose. The train started off at two miles an hour. A large crowd of strikers had rushed ahead of the train while it was proceeding at a slow rate and on a dead run set out for Englewood. As the train's speed was accelerated the crowd was soon passed and a storm of stones and cinders was thrown into the men on the outside of the engines and caboose.

A cry of rage went up from the throats of the strikers as the engines dashed by. Soon a crowd of strikers had rushed ahead of the train while it was proceeding at a slow rate and on a dead run set out for Englewood. As the train's speed was accelerated the crowd was soon passed and a storm of stones and cinders was thrown into the men on the outside of the engines and caboose.

ONTARIO TAXES.

In accordance with the present practice of the Reform leaders of acting in a manner directly opposite to the principles they once professed to hold, Mr. Blake and Mr. Pardee appeared on the platform together at a recent gathering. Mr. Blake evidently thought it incumbent upon him, under the circumstances, to say a word in Mr. Mowat's behalf, in which he told his audience that the Provincial revenue was principally received from the Dominion, and that whether the Provincial expenditure was large or small, the Dominion subsidy would be the same. He also said that the revenue of the Province was not levied by taxation, except the receipts from the license fund, a form of taxation, he remarked, that the people would not object to. This is an easy way of endeavoring to smooth over the extravagance and the deficits of the Mowat Administration, but it is scarcely honest, as it suppresses a large part of the truth.

While the people may not object to the liquor traffic being taxed, and revenue for defraying the expenses of the public business being collected in that way, the fact that the money comes from the hotel-keepers, or others dealing in intoxicants, does not justify a wasteful expenditure of the money or the deficits which the Mowat Government have been compelled to announce. If the Government had not taken this revenue from the municipalities, in accordance with its grasping policy of centralizing all power and patronage at Toronto and minimizing the duties of the municipal councils, the municipalities would receive the benefit of the revenue and the amount of money which they raise by direct taxation would be less. In fact, this part of the provincial revenue should be counted as direct taxation, as the municipal collector has to collect from the rate-payers enough to make up the difference in the municipal revenue caused by the Government taking the license fees.

Mr. Blake was wrong, too, in intimating that the revenue from licenses was the only taxation imposed by the Provincial Government. In 1885 the Government received $66,988 from law stamps, which is a tax on business and as purely taxes as the money received by the Dominion through the Inland Revenue Department. Mr. Blake may consider $66,000 an insignificant amount, but it is enough to show that his ideas regarding Ontario finances were wrong. From casual revenue, a considerable portion of which consists of fees of various kinds, and from casual fees, the revenue in 1885 was $55,666. A revenue of $11,353 was collected in fees from school pupils and $7,028 from teachers' examinations and appeals, while Algonquin taxes brought in $1,620. The taxes mentioned, including $162,330 from the license fund, aggregate $304,985.

A further consideration, and a serious one, is that a large part of the Provincial revenue is derived from the sale of crown lands and timber. By this means the revenue is augmented for the time, but the resources of the Province are decreased, for timber sold is gone forever. The forests and lands are the capital of the Province, but the Mowat Government disposed of it and applied the proceeds to meeting current expenses. The revenue last year from woods and forests was over $604,000.

It would be a great mistake to allow the opinion to gain strength that, because the revenue received from the Dominion is stationary, it matters little how it is spent. This revenue is the people's money, paid by the people and should be expended with care. It is true Mr. Blake said that it should not be expended with extravagance, but his remarks were calculated to blunt the edge of legitimate criticism, and the sentiment, if it prevailed, would tend to cause laxity in the supervision of the financial affairs of the Province at a time when the utmost discretion and careful economy are necessary.

With the subsidy received from the Dominion, supplemented by the revenue derived from the taxes levied by the Province itself and the injudicious dissipation of the forest capital of the Province, the Mowat Government was unable to carry on the affairs of the Province without a deficit. The expenditure last year exceeded the revenue by $40,000 and this year a much larger deficit is expected, estimated at $400,000. In addition, the Government not only borrowed a large amount, but borrowed money to pay the interest on the loan of the previous year. When there is such large deficits in years when capital is encroached on to meet expenses, what will be the result when the sale of timber can no longer be resorted to? That is a question the people of Ontario should ponder over, and not dismiss the subject in the careless manner indicated by Mr. Blake. The question is a serious one, and the administrators who thus carry on the affairs of the Province—dissipating capital, rolling up deficits, and incurring debts—should be called to strict account.

The Oldest Orangeman.

Wm. Flood, of Forester's Falls, Renfrew county, is believed to be the oldest Orangeman in Canada. He was born in County Cavan, Ireland, in 1784, and joined the Orange Order in 1801. He is 102 years old, and has been an Orangeman for 85 years, during which time he only missed one July 12th celebration. Last year he walked five miles to attend the celebration and walked home again in the evening.

REFORM LAND SPECULATORS.

The story that the national estate in the Northwest has been seized by Tory land grabbers still holds its own in Reform prints and Reform speeches. One would imagine from the heavy denunciations of Conservatives who have forwarded to the departments the applications of other persons for colonization and timber leases that Reform statesmen have been free from the alleged offences they charge against their neighbors. But it turns out that this is not the case. The two men who make the greatest fuss about Northwest lands are Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. M. C. Cameron, M. P. for Huron. On the 14th July, 1882, the following letter was forwarded to the Department of the Interior:

"DEAR SIR,—We beg to enclose you a list of some lands purchased by us through a Mr. Gray from Sir Richard Cartwright and from Mr. Cameron, the payments for which have been fully made to the Government. We should look upon it as a very great favor if you would very kindly give instructions for the issue of these patents with as little delay as possible."

The letter was signed by Boyle, Campbell & Co., Winnipeg. The modest list of lands is as follows:—

There is a total of 13,300 acres here, and twenty of the patents had to be made out in the name of M. C. Cameron, the virtuous opponent of land-grabbing, while one whole section was purchased in the name of that politician's wife. These transactions, it is understood, are by no means all of the land deals in which Sir Richard and Mr. Cameron were jointly interested. These gentlemen took far more land than this at the ordinary price of the market with a view to profiting by charging the actual settler a higher price for it. The Reform politicians have also been somewhat deeply interested in coal ranching and colonization companies, organizations which, according to the Reform orators, are robbing Canadians of their fair domain. Hon. Alexander Macdonald, Mr. Robert Jaffray and Mr. Geo. A. Cox were among the applicants for the incorporation of the British Canadian Colonization Company, the object of which is to acquire and settle lands under the Colonization Company scheme. Hon. R. W. Scott is a member of the Ottawa and North-West Lands Company. Hon. David Ross and Mr. Gibson Striker are in the Farmers' North-West Land and Colonization Co. Mr. Wm. Mulock, M. P., is a member of the Ontario and Qu'Appelle Land Co. Mr. Alexander Gunn, M. P., and Mr. James Brown, M. P., were among the applicants for the incorporation of the High Wood Ranch Co., which secured a grant of 27,000 acres. Mr. Alex. Gunn, M. P., belongs to the Military Colonization Company, with a grant of 10,000 acres. Mr. Robert Jaffray and Mr. Geo. A. Cox are in the Hamilton Land Company, and Mr. Robert Jaffray is in the Mossburn Farming Co. Mr. Hugh Mahabon is in the Qu'Appelle and Long Lake Co. Mr. D. D. Hay, ex-M. P., is a member of the Ontario and Qu'Appelle Land Co. Mr. G. M. Rose and Mr. D. Rose are in the Temperance Colonization Company. Sheriff Gladstone, E. H. Dewar are in the Saskatchewan Land and Homestead Company. Mr. Hugh Sutherland is a shareholder in the Manitoba Land Company, the Souris Coal and Fuel Company, and in the Hudson Bay Railway Company, which has a large railway land grant. Mr. W. F. McMaster is in the President and Commercial Land Company and Mr. J. P. Viner, ex-M. P., has an interest in the Dominion Cattle Company. These Reformers are gentlemen whose names are well known in the political world. There are others also interested in companies whose business it is to secure land grants from the Government and to colonize them or to remove the timber from them; but it is hardly worth while to repeat their names, as they are not public men, and as their voices have not been heard in denunciation of the undertakings in which they have launched.

Now, every Reformer, who joined in a colonization, timber or ranching company acted entirely within his right. He violated no law, and was not guilty of stealing the public property, for whatever lands he got he acquired them upon terms open to everybody. No doubt all expected to profit by their operations, and they were certainly justified in looking for a return upon their outlay. In all probability, too, many took the view that the colonization companies would expedite the settlement of the North-West, and for this reason joined in the undertakings. Tories who have done what these Reformers have done have certainly done no worse than they. It therefore does seem rather hard that Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Cameron, if their speculations are indefensible if anybody's is, aided by Messrs. Mulock, Gunn, Trow and Ross, and by the Globe, in which Mr. Robert Jaffray has a large interest, should hold up to public execration men who are certainly not more guilty and in nineteen cases out of twenty not half so guilty as they. The fact is laid in the North-West was offered for colonization, ranching and lumbering purposes. Both Conservatives and Reformers bought or leased on the terms fixed by the Government. No favours were shown to anyone. Those who paid the price and endeavored to utilize the, up to that moment, waste territory, did a good thing for the country, and committed no greater crime than does the importer when he pays to the Customs officers the duty fixed by law and removes his goods from the bonded warehouse.—Toronto Mail.

THE DISCESION SYNOD.

The Rural Deans—Home Rule in Ireland and Union of Christian Bodies.

On Friday, the last day of the meeting of the Synod of this diocese at Toronto, the following was the most important business transacted:

ELECTION OF RURAL DEANS.

The Rev. J. LANTONY moved in favor of making office of Rural Dean elective. After several amendments, and considerable discussion the motion was carried as follows:—
“That in the judgment of this Synod it is desirable that the Lord Bishop should have the election of the rural deans to the deanery, subject to confirmation by His Lordship the Bishop, and that such rural deans shall, when so elected, hold office for four years only, but shall be eligible for re-election.”

Rural Deans Fletcher and Allen immediately tendered their resignations.

HOME RULE IN IRELAND.

The Rev. J. LANTONY moved a resolution of sympathy with their fellow-churchmen in Ireland. There was a long discussion, and several amendments were offered.

NEXATON ALLEN MOVED.

That we the members of this Synod desire to express our heartfelt sympathy with our fellow-Protestants of low-church in Ireland in the trying circumstances in which they are placed, and we earnestly pray that He who rules over all may so dispose the hearts and minds of those who may be called to the councils of the empire that no measure may be adopted which shall in any way impair the integrity of the Empire or expose our Protestant fellow-subjects in Ireland to injustice or oppression.

This was carried unanimously and it was resolved to send copies to the Irish Archbishops.

UNION OF CHRISTIAN BODIES.

The Rev. Dr. Roy moved, That this Synod instruct its delegates to the Provincial Synod respectfully to request that body to appoint a committee of representative men to confer with any similar committee appointed by other Christian bodies for the purpose of ascertaining the possibility of honorable union with such bodies, and if such a union be found possible without sacrifice of essential Christian principles, to formulate a scheme for effecting such union.

The motion was carried by general consent, and a committee was appointed to prepare a memorial to the Provincial Synod.

THE SECESSION CRY.

Returners Trying to Work up the Secession Boom in P. E. Island.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., June 24.—Premier Fielding, of Nova Scotia, is now in Prince Edward Island working up the secession boom and a subsequent Maritime union. The Island is in the heat of a general election, the polling taking place on the 30th, and it is thought that the prestige of the secession victory in Nova Scotia will greatly help the Liberal position and prospects in this Island. Discussing Fielding's visit in connection with the political and commercial position of the Island, the Examiner says:—“To let it be admitted that we don't get enough subsidy from the Dominion, and that it is a great pity more to our interest the trade free with the United States than it is to trade free, as we do now, with the upper provinces; and let it be admitted that the Maritime Provinces could exist in North America as a separate colony of Great Britain, how would our position be bettered by seceding from the Dominion? It is not likely that, as a separate colony, we could obtain free trade with the United States. As a separate colony Canada has tried and failed. As a separate colony Newfoundland has tried and failed. Both have sent their ablest men to Washington, and both have made proposals and invited proposals with a view to a renewal of reciprocal trade relations. In vain. The same result would inevitably and undoubtedly follow the efforts of Nova Scotia or Acadia, or whatever else the new colony might be called. The United States is set upon protection, and until that policy is materially modified at Washington, free trade, or even partial free trade, with the United States cannot possibly be obtained except at an enormous sacrifice. A tug-of-war free trade is the only free trade that pleases the majority in the States. They love to fish in our waters and shut their markets to our faces. This being so, how would the Maritime Provinces stand as a separate colony? They would have free trade among themselves, but they have that now. They would have free trade with Great Britain, but they have that now. The tariff of Canada and the United States and every other country would be against them.”

THE ELECTION CAMPAIGN.

Chamberlain and Hartington Speech—Herbert Gladstone on Chamberlain.

LONDON, June 26.—Mr. Chamberlain writes to an enquirer that he does not believe the granting of Home Rule to Ireland would have the effect of withdrawing to Ireland the swarms of Irish workmen now in Great Britain, or of enabling Ireland to compete with England in manufactures. On the contrary, he believes that such legislation would have a precisely opposite effect, owing to the withdrawal of capital from Ireland and the flight of the landlords, which he thinks would follow the passage of the Home Rule Bill and which would necessarily throw thousands out of employment. Ireland, he says, is an essentially poor country, and the condition of the people is likely to become rapidly worse with an unsettled Government and no security for investment.

In his speech at Glasgow last night, Lord Hartington said he was sure it would never be possible to control an Irish parliament. He had objected to vote for the principle of Home Rule until he had seen Mr. Gladstone's plan. If Parliament granted Home Rule there was no power in the hands of the power wielded by the National League that elections would be freely conducted, or that the Dublin Parliament would really represent the majority of the Irish people. Mr. Gladstone had accepted the principle of Home Rule, but the Liberal party was bound to seek another alliance. He therefore hoped that every one would vote for Unionist candidates in the coming elections.

The Council of the Metropolitan Radical Association has issued a manifesto to the electors. The manifesto says that Mr. Gladstone's Irish Bill is an altered, but the principle of Home Rule cannot die. It exhorts the electors to use their whole strength to return a Home Rule majority. The workmen's demonstration in Hyde Park has been postponed until July 3.

SCOTT ACT.

The Robt. Hamilton Case Dismissed—Two Norwood Men Fined.

On Saturday afternoon at four o'clock the case of the Queen vs. Hamilton came before the Court for the third time.

Mr. Edwards appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Stratton for the defence. This session of the Court was held for the purpose of hearing the evidence of Mr. Rogers, but Mr. Rogers did not appear. Mr. Edwards asked for another enlargement, so as to allow the bringing of Mr. Rogers to Court.

The Magistrate—Who is this Rogers? Mr. HAMILTON—He is connected with the C. P. R.

Mr. STRATTON distinctly protested against any further enlargement. The understanding was that the case should be enlarged till Saturday to allow the prosecutor to produce certain witnesses. If these witnesses were not here the defendant was not to blame.

The Magistrate said he did not feel like enlarging this case indefinitely. Mr. EDWARDS pressed for another enlargement. Mr. Hamilton was present when Rogers had agreed to be here on Saturday. Had not Rogers agreed to be present he might have but him under arrest and so ensured Rogers's presence.

The Magistrate held that the process of this court should not be used simply to accommodate the prosecution. The defendant had his rights. He, according to evidence, had treated a couple of men to grog, but the law didn't forbid that. Scott was certainly a shady witness, but in his testimony he gave no evidence which would weigh against the defendant. He dismissed the case without costs.

This morning at the Police Court Oscar Brennan and Thomas McMillan, both of Norwood, were each charged by Inspector Darling with having committed a violation of the provisions of the Canada Temperance Act between May 1st and June 19th. They both pleaded guilty and were fined $30 and costs each.

A charge was laid against Jas. Fanning, of Belmont, but he did not appear.

The evidence was gone into. Four men who live in the vicinity of the defendant's place swore that they got liquor there within the specified time. A statement to the effect that there was nothing to distract on or at the defendant's place was made.

The Magistrate imposed a fine of $30 and $20 costs or two months in goal. A warrant of commitment was issued.

Tyroxicon.
ANK ARBOR, Mich., June 25.—Dr. V. G. Vaughan, in examining a specimen of the ice cream which recently poisoned a number of persons at Newton, Mich., has made the important discovery that tyroxicon, the active element in poisonous cheese, was present in the ice cream and was the cause of the sickness. This proves that tyroxicon is due to the decomposition of milk, and may be developed in any milk which is kept in an impure atmosphere or in unclean vessels. The germ seems to multiply very rapidly, and a small amount of tainted milk may poison a whole can. It is Dr. Vaughan's theory that tyroxicon has much to do with cholera, and the symptoms of which are similar to those of cheese poisoning.

A POLICY OF NEGATIONS.

In objecting to the complaint, raised by many Reformers among others, that the Reform party as led by Mr. Blake has only a policy of negotiations, the London Advertiser, argues that the criticism is absurd because the policy of Reform is at all times a policy of negotiation. It suggests that if the Reform party propose that they will not grab timber limits and that they will oppose the giving of railway charters to members of parliament this would imply a large measure of remedial reform. It would also imply a total change in the Reform methods. It would imply that Mr. Mills if again minister, would not renew a license for Mr. Cook for Dominion timber limits contrary to the regulations as his payments were in arrears; that he would not give Mr. Cook a present of $2000 out of timber receipts on the hollow pretence of an unsubstantiated mismanagement; that he would not give Mr. Cook without competition the pick of the Northwest timber limits. It would imply that the Reformers would repeal their own legislation to enable the Administration to have dealings with members of Parliament as shareholders in joint stock companies. It would imply that the Reformers would abstain from such jobs as they perpetrated in the case of Senator Foster.

The people of Canada have had experience of these self-styled Reformers, of their professions in opposition and their practice in office. The people of Canada believe that if the Reformers are again entrusted with power their "policy of negotiations" will include the negotiation of all their hypocritical professions of purity. Neither by negotiation of the beneficial Conservative policy, nor by negation of their own practices when in office, can the Reformers wheedle the electors of the Dominion into restoring them to power. A negation of justice to French criminals will not help them either.

UPPER HOUSES.

At Beaverton Mr. Blake in his public speech confined his attention almost wholly to the Senate, advocating, in contradiction to the Reform leaders at Confederation, that it should be made elective, though while he was speaking the view of a large section of his supporters, that it should be abolished, was uttered from the audience. The solitary definite instance mentioned by Mr. Blake of a nominated Upper House thwarting legislation by the Lower House was that of the Quebec Legislative Council throwing out a bill passed by the Legislative Assembly. This example does not tell in Mr. Blake's favour, for nothing can be more certain than that the Quebec Legislative Council then represented the majority of the Province of Quebec, the Legislative Assembly being led by mere usurpers, the representatives of Lieut. Governor LeGallier de St. Just, who was posing as a little Cromwell, their litigious majority depending upon the purchased vote of that favorite Reform tool, a hired Speaker. Mr. Blake's communication was read, stating that the factory he intended building was a paper mill, and asking for information of various kinds in regard to town.

A silly calculation made by Mr. Mills of a supposed Reform majority at the next general election was published by the London Advertiser, and in fact, gave the rounds it is quoted time and again by the Advertiser from the papers repeating it, as though it were the opinion of the particular locality. The absurdity being thus forced upon our attention we have examined it again, and find that the chief gain expected by the Reformers is one of 52 in the Province of Quebec. The corpse of the executed rebel and murderer Riel is the chiefest upon which they hope to rise to office. They are willing to expose the cause of crime if they can sell their honor for the support of allies seeking vengeance for justice on a criminal. They claim also that the Northwest has suffered at the hands of the present Administration, but to show the hollowness of their pretence, they allow that there will be a Conservative majority in Manitoba and the Territories.

More than one rabid Rielite receives pay from the Provincial Treasury. Mr. Gaspard Pacaud, the Rielite-Reform candidate in North Essex for the Provincial Legislature, who called the volunteers assassins and insulters of women, and Riel "a glorious hero," received from Mr. Mowat's Government $137.00 in 1885 as a "sessional writer," and his name will figure in the Public Accounts for the current year. Mr. J. F. Lister, M. P., voted in the House of Commons to condemn the Government for allowing Riel to be executed, and at the North Essex Reform convention made a speech in support of Mr. Pacaud. In 1885 he received, according to the Public Accounts, $458 from the treasury of this Province. Messrs. Mowat and Frazer evidently take care of the interests of their Rielite friends.

At the Galway Petty sessions, Councillor O'Sullivan was fined ten shillings, with the option of a fortnight's imprisonment, for being drunk and disorderly, and for creating a disturbance at a meeting of the Town Council. The magistrate said that if he continued his conduct at the Town Council they would send him to prison for a month without a fine.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Mayor said that he and Mr. Burland, of Montreal, had had some correspondence in reference to the establishment of a paper mill. Mr. Burland's communication was read, stating that the factory he intended building was a paper mill, and asking for information of various kinds in regard to town.

FINANCE.

Councillor Davidson read the report of the Finance Committee as follows:—

To the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN—Your committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:—
Wm. Hamilton Manfg Co. $ 6 50

All of which is respectfully submitted,
K. A. Davidson, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

A LETTER TO MR. BURLAND.

A letter from the Mayor to Mr. Burland, offering inducements and asking Mr. Burland to visit town to inspect the manufacturing facilities of the place, was read by Councillor Davidson.

A MEMORIAL.

A memorial addressed to the Governor General in Council praying that the penalties imposed for infractions of the provisions of the Scott Act within the town of Peterborough, and recovered within the town of Peterborough, be remitted to the town, was introduced by Councillor Moore. The memorial was read for the first and second time.

The Mayor said that the county had once asked that those penalties be handed over to them.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said that he was quite willing to have the town get these penalties, but at the same time he would like to see the Police bound to do their duty. So far the temperance people had done all the work of enforcement.

The Mayor said that the County Council had done nothing to enforce the Scott Act. The County Council had actually sat on their own Warden. He had appointed inspectors but the Council refused point blank to pay them. Our police had done much to enforce the Act. They were not to perform such duties. He considered that the police had a right to enforce the Scott Act to go into places and see if these places were places for the sale of liquor, and if they were to bring up their proprietors. But he did not think the police were required to be spies on people.

Councillor KENDRY considered that the Mayor had no right to bring up this matter of the police act as spies at every Council meeting. The police did not do that; they did not do their work at all. All that was required of them was the carrying out of the law.

Councillor YELLAND asked why it was that this act should be singled out. In his opinion the police should strive to ferret out persons who broke this law as keenly as those who broke other laws. It seemed to him that some people wanted to cast a slur on this act, though he didn't see why. It was about the strongest law he knew of. It was voted on by the people and asked for by the people.

Councillor CAHILL differed with Councillor Yelland. Through being engaged in Scott Act enforcement duties the police had done nothing else. He would like to know if the police had done anything towards putting the town in a fair sanitary condition.

Councillor RUTHERFORD—Councillor Cahill's out of order.

Councillor CAHILL—If you want me to say Scott Act Scott Act! I'm not going to say it. I want to illustrate what I am talking about. Perhaps that's why Councillor Rutherford doesn't like it. I say that the policemen are kept so busy serving summonses that they have not time to attend to other important duties.

The memorial was read for a third time and passed.

Councillor McNAUGHTON moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON, That this Council orders that Chief Cooper be on duty from 9 a.m. till 11 p.m. each day except Sundays, and on Sundays from 9 a.m. till 1 p.m. That the Chief Constable also be instructed that it is a part of his duty to serve papers, execute warrants, etc., and further that the Chief Constable be permitted to engage in any other work or calling other than that belonging to his office as long as he is in the employ of this corporation as Chief Constable, as required by the by-laws of the town appointing such Chief, and that the Corporate seal be attached to this resolution, and that the Clerk furnish the Chief Constable with a copy of this resolution.

Councillor McNAUGHTON supported his motion by stating that Chief Cooper went to church twice every Sunday. He thought Chief Cooper should stay on George street to keep order. Then Chief Cooper rode around in a phaeton. This wasn't like Toronto, Hamilton or Kingston.

How Councillor McNaughton went over to get a drink of water, but the water pitcher was empty.

Councillor CAHILL moved that Janitor Beavis go and get some fresh water for Councillor McNaughton. Janitor Beavis got the water.

Councillor McNaughton, after drinking, resumed. Toronto had two thousand policemen and Hamilton had fifteen hundred. There the chief had to superintend, but here he thought the chief should do the work.

Councillor McCLELLAND—What do you mean by from 9 a.m. till 1 a.m.?

Councillor DAVIDSON—He's going according to the new time table.

Councillor McCLELLAND—The twenty four clock system I suppose.

Councillor McNAUGHTON—I ask for nothing but what is fair and honest.

The motion was lost on the following division:—

YEAS—Councillors Davidson, McNaughton, Kendry and Hartley.

NAYS—Councillors Cahill, McNeil, McClelland, Yelland, Moore and Rutherford.

Councillor Menzies declined to vote.

SIDEWALKS.

Councillor KENDRY moved, seconded by Councillor MENZIES—That the street inspector be instructed to put down new planks on Deblin street, between Water and Harvey streets north.—Carried.

WATER MAINS EXTENSION.

Councillor KELLY moved, seconded by Councillor McNEIL—That the petition of Messrs. A. P. Poussette and eleven others be referred to the clerk to ascertain if it is sufficiently signed under the provisions of the Scott Act. If so, the clerk make the requisition on the Peterborough Water Company to proceed with the extension of their mains forthwith.—Carried.

Councillor McNEIL moved, seconded by Frederick E. Bell and other be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act, and that they be instructed to have a sidewalk laid down immediately as Mr. Bell wishes to make some improvements to his property.

Councillor HARTLEY suggested that the tail be cut off the motion.

The tail was duly cut off from the power to act mark. The motion was then carried. Councillor MOORE moved, seconded by Councillor YELLAND.—That a sidewalk be placed on the north side of McDowell street, from the Midland Railway to Park street, be extended to Tully's store, near Aymer street, and that the whole be built anew and not repaired only, and that the Clerk communicate the above to the Street Inspector.

Councillor McNAUGHTON raised a point of order.

Councillor MOORE—Remember, Councillor McNaughton, if any one is injured there, and it costs the town $500 or $600 in damages, you will be the one to blame because of your obstruction here to-night.

Councillor McNAUGHTON said that he did not want to be an obstruction in the way Councillor Moore had explained it, but he found that when Councillor Moore wanted any improvements in his own ward he generally wanted it. He withdrew from raising the point of order. What he (Councillor McNaughton) was in favor of was town improvements regardless of wards at all.

Councillor MOORE—Oh, Spaulding's Bay! The matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

TOO LATE IN THE DAY.

Councillor MOORE brought up the matter of the terms of lease by which the Town Solicitor rented a part of the Town buildings. The Town Solicitor had rented one room and had been assessed several thousand dollars. Mr. Edwards did not rent the place with the expectation of being compensated to pay taxes.

Councillor McCLELLAND said that if Mr. Edwards had any grievance he should have come to the proper place, the Court of Revision.

SIDEWALK.

Councillor McNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY.—That a sidewalk be laid on Nimco street from James O'Brien's butcher shop across the street to Grady's grocery store.—Carried.

HEALTH.

Councillor McNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor McCLELLAND—That the Health Inspector be instructed to rigidly enforce the provisions of the Health By-law.—Carried.

SIDEWALK.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON.—That a sidewalk be laid on Park street from King street to Bolivar street, one on Bolivar street as far as is built upon.

Street and Bridge Committee.

DEBENTURES.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor CAHILL.—That the request of the Commissioners in regard to issuing debentures be granted.—Carried.

SIDEWALK.

Councillor YELLAND moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD.—That a crossing be laid on George street in the middle of the block between Brock and Murray street.—Carried.

AUDITORS REPORT.

The request of Mr. W. H. Robertson regarding the publishing of the extracts of the auditors report was complied with. The Council adjourned for three weeks.

PARLIAMENTARY SITUATION.

Analysis of the Number of Candidates Nominated.

LONDON, June 28.—The latest analysis of the Parliamentary situation shows that 424 Gladstonians, 144 Unionists and 372 Conservatives have been nominated and are awaiting election. Ninety-four of the Gladstonians oppose Unionists and 279 of the Gladstonians oppose Conservatives. Only five districts now remain in which Conservatives and Unionists oppose one another, and 207 are as yet undecided. Of these 63 were represented in the last Parliament by Unionists, 43 by Conservatives and 191 by Conservatives. The candidates in Ireland have hardly been changed. The writs for the new elections were distributed in but haste on Saturday, preparatory to their formal issuance as such, the Queen should sign the proclamation declaring Parliament dissolved. This Her Majesty did at Windsor Castle on Saturday afternoon, appointing her loyal signature with a clear firm hand. The fact was telegraphed from the Crown office, and within ten minutes afterwards, all the writs which had been previously sent out, were posted up in the streets throughout the kingdom. The local gates of political oratory are to be opened in earnest this week. Lord Randolph Churchill has denied Mr. Gladstone's assertion that he supported a policy of autonomy for Ireland which Earl Cairn had recommended, and declares that he was never in favor of such a policy.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

Men Arrested for Complicity in Saturday's Rioting.

CHICAGO, June 28.—Of the men arrested by the Hyde Park police for complicity in Saturday's rioting, nine have been bailed; the others refused bail, some being unable to find sureties. The police believe they have enough evidence to convince Frank Day, who is under lock and key, for allowing the mail train from the track up Saturday night. A man in South Chicago who gave his name as John E. Sullivan, is Edward Sullivan who was discharged from the Nickel Plate shop two weeks ago. Captain Hunt has a state warrant for him for robbery. A local paper says: "A new stock jobbing scheme has been discovered in connection with the riots. An enterprising firm of New York stock brokers, since the strike began, has had representatives on the grounds, and every attempt by officers to move a train, whether they be successful or not, is instantly reported to the central office. The results may be guessed at." Chicago, June 28.—Shortly after 9 o'clock the town of Lake police cleared the tracks and the streets leading to them. Just after this, Pinkerton, with 124 of his men, appeared on the scene. Many of them were armed with clubs and batons. The Lake Shore Company ran four engines from the combine to the main switching yards at 41st street, it is supposed, to get out a train.

FIGHTING TO THE DEATH.

Two Thieves, Locked in Each Other's Arms, Drown Together.

A Detroit despatch says: "Turk" Georgian, of Boston, and "Jacky" Blenheim, of England, two notorious thieves, came to Detroit a few months ago. They had been concerned in a bank robbery at Medora, Ill., and, as they were wanted for a crime committed in London, Ont., they did not dare to cross over into Canada. Georgian had been in jail in several States, while Blenheim, though many times arrested, had never been convicted. About three weeks ago the pair quarrelled over a woman, and Blenheim was wounded until he was unconscious. The former then swore to be revenged, and Georgian, knowing the full extent of his former quarrel's vindictiveness, concluded to risk his chances in Windsor rather than be "given away by Jacky." He crossed the river, therefore, and made his headquarters at a quiet resort for persons of his ilk. When Blenheim recovered, he offered to lure Georgian over from Canada into the hands of a detective if he (Blenheim) were given immunity from the Michigan job. The Windsor authorities were informed that Blenheim's offer had been accepted by the Detroit authorities, and presently Georgian's vindictiveness, concluded to cross to this side, selecting last night for the time. Meanwhile Blenheim had got into trouble. Yesterday afternoon a Chicago line-haul carload and a freight car of $100. The Chicagoan pointed Blenheim out to a Pinkerton detective who accompanied the Chicago delegation to Detroit. Blenheim, fearing arrest, resolved to cross to Windsor. By a singular chance the two villains met in mid-stream. The meeting and the struggle that followed, were witnessed only by the Pinkerton detective who was "shadowing" Blenheim. He says that in mid-stream Blenheim met a boat containing a single person, who handed him the stranger was Georgian, who, as he drew near, and recognized Blenheim, suspected some trick to capture him. He pulled alongside, therefore, and struck at Blenheim with a barbed wire. The latter had recognized his assailant or could get his own oar from the locks. Blenheim saw that it was to be a battle to the death and boarded "Turk's" boat. The two engaged for the best part of the night, which Georgian lost, and finally went overboard. They struggled desperately with one another in the water until, locked in one another's embrace, they went to the bottom and were drowned just as the detective's boat was coming to their rescue.

A Series of Fatalities.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 28.—A series of fatal accidents, sudden deaths and suicide are reported to-day. A drunken Indian was cut in two by the International Express last night near Ferryburn. Both his arms and legs were cut off. Joseph Samuel was terribly mangled and killed by a train at Sydney. Jeremiah Eagles, of Annapolis, was washed overboard from the brigantine Myrtle. Thomas Beach, of Leith Cove, C.B., dropped dead as he was leaving his house to poll his vote on election day. Richmond Dickie, a well-to-do Cornwalis farmer, was so excited over the injuries sustained by a valuable horse by coming in contact with a barbed wire fence that he shot a bullet through his left breast, killing himself.

Scott Act.
The Scott Act appeal cases came up for argument at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Monday. Mr. Justice Galt presiding. Messrs. C. Robinson, Q. C., and G. T. Blackstock, Toronto, and Messrs. W. H. Moore and J. O'Meara, Peterborough, appeared for defendants. Mr. E. B. Edwards, Peterborough, appeared for the Scott Act Association. The two main points raised were that the Scott Act is not in force in Peterborough and that a defendant cannot be compelled to give evidence which may criminate him. Several other points were raised which, in case the defence desire it, will serve grounds for another appeal. After hearing argument judgment was reserved. There were only two appeal cases, Queen vs. Daly and Queen vs. Halpin. The case of Queen vs. Cavanagh has not been carried to the court of appeal, but it may be at any time. It is expected that judgment will be given to-morrow.

SCOTT ACT.

A First Offence Fine Imposed for a Third Conviction.

At the Police Court this morning Timothy Cavanagh was charged by Inspector Cochran with having between June 17th and 24th committed an infraction of the Canada Temperance Act.

Mr. STRATTON, appearing for the defendant, said that Mr. Cavanagh was not aware of there being any liquor sold at his house since the last conviction. He had been out of town buying horses for some days, but before going had given his bartender strict instructions not to sell liquor. On being informed that evidence was to be brought from various parts of the county he would, rather than have the people brought from such distances, plead guilty if the fine would be that of a first offence. Otherwise he would not plead guilty.

The Magistrate did not feel inclined to allow Mr. T. Cavanagh to say what the judgment of this Court would be. He considered that the defendant had ample warning. He had already been fined twice. If the prosecution chose to prove the second offence this would be tried as a third.

The DEFENDANT—Well, if you want to make it a third offence with it.
Mr. WOOD, for the prosecution, said that a thing under instructions from the Inspector he would not prove any offence. The law made provisions for any number of first offence fines but it did not make provisions for more than one second offence fine. Mr. Cavanagh had expressed his determination to observe the law strictly from this time if the fine imposed was a first offence one. The Inspector desired to give him a chance. Still the second offence which he was found guilty of would stand against him, and if any more charges were laid against him there would be no alternative but imprisonment.

The MAGISTRATE—It rests with yourself. I will take none of the responsibility. I will administer law as it is.
Mr. WOOD—I will take the responsibility.

A plea of guilty was entered.
The Magistrate found that the prosecution, not proving any previous charge against the defendant, the defendant was fined $20 and costs for an infraction of the provisions of the Scott Act.

Slave Work.
The Peterborough slave works will re-open on Monday, July 5th.

A Bad Case.

A circumstance occurred at the Police Court this morning which should be a warning to young girls who indulge in promiscuous the streets at night. The practice of this, with the flippant flirting which generally attaches to it, resulted in the sending of a young girl to the Mercer Reformatory. After the usual business of the court was over the girl, who is about fifteen years of age, was brought into court accompanied by her father and mother. She was charged by Capt. Cooper with streetwalking. The mother was asked to give her testimony, but with tearful eyes she refused to give evidence against her daughter. The testimony of the father was taken, in which he stated that neither moral suasion nor punishment had any effect upon her. He had lost all control over her. He asked the protection of the law for his daughter. When the girl admitted her guilt the mother screamed with distress and the father bowed his head in sorrow. The Magistrate sentenced her to four years in the Mercer Reformatory, advising her that it remained with herself whether she should lead an honest, virtuous life hereafter or become utterly ruined. The girl heard the sentence impassively, and when left in charge of an officer she realized her position. The parting between mother and daughter was most affecting and sad.

FENLON FALLS.

MORE CONVICTIONS.—On Monday last Mr. Wm. Dunbar and Mr. S. Scott, hotel keepers of Kilmount, were at the Falls to answer charges of having violated the Scott Act, and as both admitted the offence each was fined $20 and costs without the formality of a trial. As usual, they were given twenty days in which to pay the money.

DIPHTHERIA.—We regret to learn from Dr. A. Wilson that two of Mrs. Jewell's children are down with diphtheria, and the usual placard has been attached to the door of her house. It is reported that two members of another family are suffering from sore throats, but as there is a difference of opinion as to the exact nature of their disease, we do not give the name.

ANOTHER QUEER BIRD.—In our issue of the 12th we noticed a four-legged, double-billed, three-eyed gosling shown us by Mr. McArthur, and a few days later Mrs. Wm. Mills sent us a lately deceased chicken nearly or quite as unique as the juvenile goose. To be sure it had only one beak and the usual number of eyes, but at the breast it divided into two bodies, each decorated with a neat little tail and provided with a pair of symmetrical and fully developed legs. Verily our village goose and hens seem bound to distinguish themselves, and it is a pity that the results of their inventive genius don't live and grow to be an honour to their progenitors. —Gazette.

LADIES are reminded that in purchasing Dry Goods they will always find it best to buy NEW GOODS CHEAP instead of old goods at any price. Spend your money at the Golden Lion.

ANOTHER SACRIFICE.
A few MANTLES and lines of MILLINERY have also been selected and marked down to clear out at similar reduced prices.

THE CAUSE OF ALL THIS.
It will interest the ladies to know that our principal reason for making such a sacrifice at this season of the year in the above lines is in order to prepare our shelves for the arrival of a large purchase of midsummer goods. These will be here in a short time, but in the meantime we purpose keeping up the demand which seems to exist at present for kind of cheap goods. As we said before, our cheap goods will be new. Remember that.

ROYAL SUICIDES.

There have been comparatively few instances of suicide among the occupants of the thrones of modern times. The most recent case was that of Abdul Aziz, Sultan of Turkey, who killed himself in June, 1876, by opening the veins of his arm with a pair of scissors. His subjects had rebelled against him, and the Council of Ministers had determined to remove him and appoint his nephew, Murad, as Sultan in his stead.

In 1868 Theodore, Emperor of Abyssinia, is said by some authorities to have shot himself, while other assert that he was killed in battle by the British invaders.

On October 4, 1820, Henry Christopher,
King of Hayti, in order to prevent himself being taken prisoner by the insurgents, who had gained ascendancy in the island, shot himself through the heart.

Charles VII., King of France, probably inherited a talent of insanity from his father, and the latter part of his life was embittered by monomania, manifesting itself in the apprehension that his children had conspired to poison him. Under this delusion he was confined for seven days, and died of starvation near Bourges on July 22, 1461.

Concerning the death of Richard II.,
King of England, there were at the time various conflicting reports, and there has

OCEAN TO OCEAN.

The opening of the first regular passenger train from ocean to ocean over our great national road is an event that will be hailed with pride and satisfaction by all true Canadians. The construction of the C.P.R. in the magnitude of the work, the rapidity of progress, and the triumph over obstacles of all kinds, is unprecedented even in the wonderful history of the railways of the world. The attention it has attracted and the admiration it has extorted from all civilized communities must in themselves be most beneficial to Canada. The facilities it affords for developing our rich natural resources, for settling our vast territories and for connecting our several provinces, are advantages such as transcend computation. Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues, in this successful achievement under their auspices, have seen the practical completion of that confederation for which Canadians are also indebted to them.

In the hour of the triumph of the C.P.R. its friends can afford to dismise with a mere passing allusion the subject of the strenuous opposition offered to it by business rivals, foreign opponents, and, we regret to add, domestic faction. These enemies of Canada and its great railway, have been signally foiled, with the result of adding to the greatness of the triumph.

But we must be allowed to point out that this early opening of the C.P.R. so greatly in advance of the contract time, is a striking refutation of the charge brought against Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues of having made promises to British Columbia that were impossible of fulfillment. If we deduct the time wasted by the opponents of our great transcontinental road, it will be seen that even less than the proposed ten years were spent in its construction. If Sir John Macdonald had been allowed to remain in office there can be little doubt that we would have secured these great benefits years ago.

SUBSIDIZED RAILWAYS.

In an article considering generally the subject of subsidized railways the Monetary Times makes some very good suggestions. When, however, it comes to consider the question of members of Parliament being directors in companies to which Parliament votes subsidies, deciding it in the negative, our contemporary displays either very inaccurate information or a very unfair political bias. In course of its remarks it says:—

"Such is the looseness with which this kind of public business has been conducted that the rule has never been insisted on; it has not been erected into a law, and members of Parliament have been allowed to run counter to it."

The Monetary Times should know, and should not thus ignore the facts, that the law forbade such dealings with members, and that the rule was insisted upon, until the Reform Administration of Messrs. Mackenzie, Blake, &c., changed the law to legalize such transactions, for the express purpose of enabling them to have such dealings with their supporters in Parliament.

If this Reform legislation is to be repealed, and we admit that this course seems to be the least of two evils, though we would regret to see enterprising men, for instance, Mr. Hugh Sutherland, the Reform member for Selkirk, precluded from aiding in the development of the country, it must obviously be the policy for both sides of the House, and not for one only. It would not suffice for the Conservatives to repeal this Reform legislation, and then for Reformers to re-enact it once more, if being again in power they should object to being thus trammelled in their practices of hiring Speakers, &c.

"Mr. SMITH, who, it may be said by way of explanation, writes the clever leading articles in the Bobcaygeon Independent, strongly advocates the reduction of the marriage license fee to three dollars. Mr. Smith thus lays bare two important facts: (1) that he contemplates committing matrimony, and (2) that he has three dollars."

If the Specialist's statements are correct (and they always, or almost always, are), its conclusions are obviously erroneous. Mr. Smith must be putting off with an equivocal statement some confiding female who has been attracted by his brilliant genius. The marriage license fee is now, and has been for some years, only two dollars. It is to be earnestly hoped that the young lady will see this and learn that Mr. Adolphe Smith's excuse is no excuse at all.

The Belleville Ontario admits that the Revising Officers in Hastings have acted in a non-partisan manner, but complains of scandalous partisanship of these officials in other parts. This is in accordance with the regular tactics adopted by the Reformers. They have to admit in each locality that the Revising Officers do their duty fairly, for if they said otherwise their readers would know that they were speaking falsely. Then they make general false complaints of unfairness elsewhere, hoping that their readers will accept these mis-statements for want of better information.

A Fight in Court.

St. Louis, June 25.—During the trial this morning of Judge Advocate McGarry of the E. of L. and several other Missouri Pacific employees who participated in the late strike, charged with conspiracy, an altercation arose between the former and Prosecuting Attorney McDonald. McGarry was struck under the chin. He recovered and rushed upon McDonald, striking him viciously. The men clinched but were finally separated. McGarry was fined $25.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

TOLD HIS EXPERIENCE.

Mr. J. D. Edgar told a Beaverton audience that there are men in Parliament who only rose to the surface by corruption, and who without it would sink into the mud again. And it is an historical fact that Mr. Wheeler had to be bought out with an Ontario office and Ontario money to find Mr. Edgar a seat. Mr. Edgar only spoke of what personal experience told him was a solid fact.—Toronto Mail.

SECESSION AND A PRIVY COUNCILLOR.
We congratulate the Hon. A. G. Jones on the success of yesterday. With his usual modesty, he will disclaim that he was the mainspring of it; but he was, all the same.—Halifax Recorder.

WELL CHOSEN.

The London Advertiser rejoices over what it calls "The Maritime victory." By which, we suppose, it means the triumph of the secessionists in Nova Scotia. The name is well chosen, for Marat was the worst and most fanatical of the French revolutionists. Hence the veneration in which Canadian Grits hold his name.—Hamilton Spectator.

LEADER AND ORGAN DISAGREE.

The Globe highly approves of the knight-riding of Chief Justice Meredith, of Quebec. The Globe was not long ago fierce against timid titles, but millionaire Sir Donald A. Smith, of the wicked C. P. R. syndicate, has explained to the Dominion the utility of a curl in a pig's tail. Our contemporary is now the sub-organ of the bloated aristocracy. Mr. Blake spoke strongly against such titles at Owen Sound, which makes matters awkward for the Globe.—Toronto World (Indep.).

UNFAIR CRITICISM.

That the Standard in its professed comments upon the annual report of the Canadian Pacific railway should have diverged into a eulogistic abstract of one of Mr. Blake's numerous political attacks upon the Canadian Government is more ingenuous than ingenious. The leader of the Opposition at Ottawa evidently holds a permanent brief to run down the present cabinet, the Canadian Pacific railway, and the Northwest generally; and our London contemporary unhesitatingly accepts Mr. Blake's statements, but it seems blissfully unaware that his variegated harp, time and again, proved incorrect.—Railway Life.

THE CHIEF RIELITE ORGAN.

In this country we know the Globe and can make the proper allowances for it, and we are apt to disregard the blind malice of its political frolics until we are aroused by just such articles as this of the New York Times, to a sense of the effect which a paper with such a history of the Globe can produce abroad. The Times says that the Globe "is a paper of character and standing," and so it was even a few years ago, but to-day it would be truer to say that the Globe is a newspaper of partisan standing and a bad character as far as political misrepresentation and scurrility can make it so.—Montreal Star (Indep.).

THE LATEST INSTANCE.

This part of the world is comparatively free from cannibalism, no well authenticated instance having been recorded since Mr. Blake swallowed Kiel.—Hamilton Spectator.

AN USUAL.

The Toronto bald-headed young Liberals have decided to admit Newfoundland to the confederation. And the Nova Scotia bald-headed young Liberals have decided to secede from the confederation. The usual Grit unanimity is observable here.—Hamilton Spectator.

WHERE IT SHOULD BE.

The London Advertiser heads its patent manifest determination to keep its readers warned may lead some of these days to the transfer of the notice to the head of the editorial column.—Ottawa Journal (Indep.).

THE REFORM POSITION.

At a meeting at which the Rielite Pacaud was nominated to contest North Essex in the Legislature, resolutions were passed "expressing confidence in Mr. Blake and Mr. Mowat." Confidence in Pacaud, Blake and Mowat? That puts the Reform position in a nutshell, with a large reservation as to Mr. Blake.—Toronto Mail.

HOW A MISTAKE OCCURRED.

The Globe corrects an alleged typographical error in its report of Mr. Blake's Owen Sound speech where the word "purity" is used for "party." This may do for the few who still believe in the Globe, but the great majority of people will understand that the mistake was due to the paper's historical inability to distinguish between purity and party.—Ottawa Journal (Indep.).

THE FISHERIES.

Just pass an Act admitting fish free, and forthwith the Canadians will grant to American fishermen all they want. And so all we have to do is to confer a favor upon American fish-eaters, or rather restore to them a right, in order to obtain from Canada a number of favours for American fish-eaters. When the new Englishmen are talking about treaty dickering they pretend that free fisheries are of no account anyway. But the moment they find their freedom restricted in the Canadian fisheries they raise a howl that can be accounted for only upon the supposition that they value the fisheries very highly. They cannot blame Mr. Bayard, therefore, if he is inclined to give free fish for free fisheries.—Chicago Times.

REFORM, YOU KNOW!

Hon. Mr. Fraser has returned from Buffalo, where he has been to consult the American architect on the matter of the new parliamentary buildings, to be put up at an immense cost in Toronto. The whole thing is intensely funny. Mr. Walter, the American architect, is called in to pronounce upon the plans submitted by the Canadian architects, and adopts two of them which cannot, by any possibility, be carried out within the monetary limit stipulated by the Mowat Administration. So they are quietly set aside—ruled out. What follows next? That Mr. Walter, having thus cornered the Canadian architects, is called upon to furnish plans himself, which he at once proceeds to do. The plans are accepted, and he is to be paid a commission equal to 40,000 for the work. That is "Reform," you know.—London Free Press.

WOULD BRING NEW TROUBLES.

The Liberal party's stand is after all not a very daring one. On this question (temperance), as upon all others, they are somewhat milk-and-water. They still let "I dare not walk upon I would." They would like to abolish the Senate, but are afraid to propose the true remedy; they therefore, advocate the apparently less extreme measure of making it elective, a remedy which will revolutionize our constitution and entail new troubles.—Montreal Witness (Reform).

GOUGH

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BARN BURNED.—A few days ago the barn and out buildings belonging to Philip Crough, an Lot 7, Con. 5, was consumed by fire, along with a reaper and mower, and other small things. It is supposed to have been caused by children playing with matches. They were partly insured with T. Hurley, agent, Peterborough.

THE LIGHTENING.—During the fearful thunder storm which passed over here on Friday last the new dwelling house of Wm. Mahony, at the Cross, was struck by lightning, doing much damage to the building; and the house of William Revington was again struck, destroying the chimney and badly damaging the house. It will be remembered that on the 24th of July, last, the same dwelling was badly reeked by the lightning, killing one of the family and severely injuring several others.

An Adventure in Muskoka.

Mr. Chas. Hunter, formerly agent in Toronto of the Standard Life Assurance Company, and now its inspector, was fishing in Muskoka recently and started to walk from Sunbridge to Burk's Falls, a distance of 14 miles, being anxious to reach latter place without delay. On the way, near a log house, he heard a noise like a dog barking. He was told by the woman of the house who was alone that her dog, a large mastiff, was being killed by a lynx. He offered to shoot the lynx if the woman would direct him to where the dog was being attacked. The brave woman, Mrs. Albert Binscombe, a slender woman of about 30 years of age, readily produced a lantern, rifle and cartridges and insisted on going to show the man. Arriving there the first shot wounded the lynx, and with the next Mr. Hunter by going nearer with the light shot him dead. The woman showed no fear throughout except for her dog, which was much hurt by the lynx. The lynx was a terrible beast of about 60 lbs., very like a small tiger in appearance. Mr. Hunter borrowed Mrs. Binscombe's lantern and with the lynx walked the five miles into Burk's Falls. It is Mr. Hunter's intention to have the lynx stuffed.—Toronto World.

FLOUR.

There seems to be some misapprehension relative to the price of Flour. I find a number of purchasers stating that the grade of Flour known as has been reduced to $2.25 for one hundred pounds. This is a mistake.

"BAKERS"

I am, in consequence, with my Dealers and Millers a good family flour at $2.25, but our "Bakers" is at $2.50 per hundred.

Convictions Quashed.
The following telegram was received this forenoon:—
W. H. Moore, Barrister:
From Toronto, Ont.—Both convictions quashed on ground that defendants were compelled to answer. My hearty congratulations.

G. T. BLACKSTOCK.
The receipt of this message has occasioned considerable excitement. The plain meaning of it is that Judge Galt holds that a man cannot be compelled to answer a question which may tend to criminate himself. No information has been received as to how the court viewed the matter of whether the Scott Act is in force here or not. Mr. Moore has telegraphed for particulars.

Pink and White.
On Tuesday evening a novel lawn social was held in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church grounds. The social was given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society in connection with the church, and they were distinguishable in the crowded grounds by their wearing colors of their own, pink and white. The school room, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, lanterns, etc., all in pink and white. The grounds, prettily lighted by Chinese lanterns, were spread over with tables laden with cream, strawberries and cake. At these there clustered during the entire evening those who regaled themselves with the good things provided. The social was very well patronized, the receipts being about $30.00.

ENDING DASH.
Maggie Roach and Greybird take two Double Spins Around the Course.

There was about two or three hundred people in the Driving Park on Tuesday afternoon to see the matched running race between J. E. McIntyre's Greybird, and A.
Elliott's Maggie Roach, matched by E.
Brown.

Two weeks ago the same two horses were matched, the conditions being the best three in five, half mile heats.
Maggie Roach won. The admirers of Grey-bird, judging from the way her opponent acted on May 24th, believed that she could beat Maggie on mile heats. Maggie had headed the field on the 24th for the first half mile and then had lost ground. Drawing their conclusions, a race was accordingly made, mile heats, best two in three, and was run on Tuesday afternoon.

If Greybird's backers were astonished at the way Maggie led two weeks ago, they could not help being convinced, after the first heat on Tuesday afternoon, that their "goose was cooked." At about half past three o'clock the horses appeared on the track, Greybird ridden by Master Grierson, 75 pounds weight, and Maggie Roach ridden by Master Simpson, 70 pounds weight. Both were in excellent trim, restive, and eager for the race. The judges were: A. McDonnell, of Lindsay, and W.
Croft and W. McGregor, of Peterborough.
Messrs. R. W. Muncester and A. Sawers acted as timers.

Maggie Roach won the toes and took the pole. At the first score there was as even a start as could be wanted. Maggie, however, was better under speed. At the first hundred yards she gained an unlooked for lead. This was partly closed as they went around. The two swept by the grand stand, having done the first half mile in 56 seconds. Greybird was close on Maggie's heels, but it seemed impossible for her to get an inch more advantage. The race was pretty but plainly one sided. The spirited little bay went along with her ears pricked up, as if simply doing her duty. She took light, sharp bounds while Greybird struck a rather labored style. The first heat was finished without any change in the positions from the time they went out on the second half. Maggie won by about four feet. Time, 1:56 1/4.

The next heat was but the first heat over again. Maggie shot out at the start and led her lead easily to the finish. When coming in on the homestretch Greybird's rider pressed her very hard. It was then that Maggie received the only touch from the silk she got during the race. She replied to the bud by coming in about two lengths ahead.

The stakes were $100 a side.

p. m.

Sons of England will leave the Bethune street station, at 7.30 a.m. bound for Sturgeon Point.

to Idyl Wild where a good list of sporting events will take place.

In the evening a promenade concert and display of fireworks will take place in the Riverside Park.

The Regatta.

strawberry festival to night at the residence of H. T. Strickland, Esq., will have an excellent opportunity of witnessing the regatta which takes place this evening.

POLICE COURT.

ENLARGED.

WEDNESDAY, June 30.—In the absence of
Mr. Edwards, Counsel for the prosecution, the cases Queen vs. Condon and Queen vs.
McFarlane, were, by consent of Mr.
O'Meara, Counsel for the defence, enlarged for one week.

ASSAULT.

James Payton, a small boy, charged
Samuel Wainwright, a larger boy, with having committed an assault on him on June 17th, Sunday.

The MAGISTRATE.—Well, Master Samuel, are you guilty or not guilty?

Master SAMUEL.—Yes, I struck him.

Master SAMUEL.—Well, last Sunday we were in swimming and when we came out Payton says "I've lost two dollars." Then he commenced to mutter at me and at last he says "you did take my money." I couldn't stand it any longer so I hit him.

The MAGISTRATE.—And under that mild impression you struck him.

Master PAYTON said: There was five of us down swimming on Sunday. I had two dollars in bills in my pocket and a post office key. I took my clothes off and went in. Bert Wainwright didn't go in till we were coming out. When I was dressing myself again, I put my hand in my pocket. The money was gone. I told Bert Chouder about it. Says he, "It is gone for sure," and says I, "Yes, it's gone for sure." Sam and Bert Wainwright went up the road. We followed up and I said that one might have taken it and given it to the other. Sam took off his coat and asked me to swallow it.

CAPT. COOPER.—Did he mean the coat?

The MAGISTRATE.—You mean that he asked you to retract your insinuations, do you not?

The Boy.—Yes, I said I wouldn't. He hit me and afterwards kicked me.

The MAGISTRATE held that though the defendant might have been vexed at being falsely charged he had no right to take the law into his own hands. He imposed a fine of $2 and costs, or ten days in gaol.
The fine was paid.

REVIEWS.

CANADA.—We have been favored by the Hon. J. Carling, Minister of Agriculture, with the Canadian handbook for the Colonial and Indian exhibition now being held in London. Under the title of "Canada, its history, production and natural resources," our Dominion is thoroughly, though concisely, described, all the information being given that could be desired by intending settlers, whether tillers of the soil or interested in other industries, by merchants or capitalists meditating dealings with us, and by travellers and tourists visiting us for pleasure, or availing themselves of our national highway and its maritime connection to reach by this most advantageous route other portions of the vast empire to which we belong. The consideration of this last aspect is facilitated by the excellent maps accompanying this work and by the detailed comparisons with others of the route to the east through Canada. The Department of Agriculture has given most effective aid by the means of this book to spreading abroad the knowledge of the great national and artificial advantages possessed by the Dominion of Canada.

An Eagle Attempts to Carry Off a Child.

GREENVILLE, Ill., June 26.—A bald eagle made an attack upon the 7-year-old son of Washington Wright, near Mulberry Grove.
As the boy was on his way to the pasture the bird swooped down on him, and fastening its talons in his clothes raised him in the air, soaring several feet with him when his clothing parted and the child dropped to the ground. The youth's screams brought to him his father, who was fortunately nearby, and his presence frightened the eagle away.

THE CAUSE OF ALL THIS.

It will interest the ladies to know that our principal reason for making such a sacrifice at this season of the year in the above lines is in order to prepare our shelves for the arrival of a large purchase of midsummer goods. These will be here in a short time, but in the meantime we purpose keeping up the demand which seems to exist at present for lines of cheap goods. As we said before, our cheap goods will be new. Remember that.

FIREMEN'S DEMONSTRATION.

A Celebration of the Day in the Riverside Park.

The members of the Fire Brigade held a demonstration in the Riverside Park in the afternoon. At about half-past one o'clock a procession was formed at the fire station, and headed by the Band in new uniform, marched to the Park. The attendance was not so large as it should have been, considering that the receipts went toward paying for the band uniforms.

The first event was a baseball match between the Lock Works' nine and the Firemen. Mr. W. Salsbury acted as umpire. The teams took their positions as follows:

LOCK WORKS.

G. Bonan, Pitcher; C. Rutherford, J. Landy, Catcher; T. Rutherford, J. Farley, 1st Base; W. Metherall, J. Cale, 2nd Base; T. Evans, G. Corcoran, Short Stop; J. Maggart, G. Schirver, 3rd Base; R. Stevenson, G. Taber, Centre; J. Hayes, T. Heran, Right Field; T. Wilson, W. Rudkin, Left Field; A. Jones.

The Lock Works nine spread out to the field, but were not long there. The first two of the Firemen were quickly retired on three strikes, while the next did not reach first base. The Lock Works then went in and succeeded in running five men around the diamond. The match proceeded until the Lock Works nine had played four innings to the Firemen's five, the score standing 13 and 7, in favor of the former.

The score by innings is as follows:

Firemen 13, Lock Works 7.

The athletic feats were next brought on.

Moore, A. McNeil, K. H. Fortye, and W. English acted as judges. The winners of the respective events are as follow:

THREE MILE RACE, open.—1st, M. Bird, he being the only one of the four who entered who finished the race. Prize, $10 cash.

ONE MILE RACE, AMATEUR.—1st, T. Evans, 1st, prize, value $5; 2nd, prize, value $2.50; 3rd, W. Metherall, prize, value $1.50. Five entries.

HUNDRED YARD RACE.—1st, A. Brown, prize, value $3.00; 2nd, D. King, prize, value $2.50. Five entries.

GIRLS HUNDRED YARD RACE.—1st, Rose Horn, prize, value $1.00; 2nd, Annie Griffin, prize, value $1.00. Six entries.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP.—1st, A. Blade, prize value $5.00. Six entries.

STANDING BROAD JUMP.—1st, D. King, prize value $2.00; 2nd, J. M. McNeil, prize value $2.00. Five entries.

RUNNING HOP STEP AND JUMP.—1st, C. Rutherford, prize value $2.00. Four entries.

THREE LEAGED RACE.—1st, H. Dixon and C. Brown. Two entries.

THROWING BARRELL.—1st, C. Rutherford; 2nd, S. Fitzgerald. Ten entries.

In the evening a display of fireworks set off by a Committee of the Firemen in the Riverside Park, was witnessed by a good number in the grounds and thousands outside. A promenade concert was a so given in the Park, and in addition to these attractions there was accommodation afforded for dancing. The proceedings came to a close at about ten o'clock.

THE DAY AT IDYL-WILD.

Excursions to the Island—A Merry Time at Hiawatha.

The day was spent at Idyl-Wild by about a thousand people in a very enjoyable manner.

At half past seven o'clock the Golden-Eye left the Wolfe street wharf with a fair number of people on board. After a pleasant sail down the river Idyl-Wild was reached at half past eleven. At that hour there were quite a number of people on the island, but after dinner the neighborhood people gathered in in large crowds.

The pavilion, ornamented by an excellent quadrille band, was well patronized from nine o'clock in the morning till seven in the evening, when the boats left.

During the day the steamers Golden-Eye, Whistle Wing, Beaver, the Dora, the Firefly and Sunbeam, plied between Peterborough, Keene, Harwood, Gore's Landing and Alnwick.

The principal feature in the sports was the distribution of the free gift prizes. The lucky ones were as follows:

Mr. H. Quirk, of Peterborough, $20 in gold; Mr. H. Neil, of Peterborough, $10 in gold; Mr. P. Quin, of Keene, silver oak basket; Mr. White, Alnwick, the silver cricket stand. While the drawing was going on a young lady drew out two tickets which were numbered 120 and 163. Thinking there was luck in odd numbers she kept the 163 and put back the 120. It so happened that the ticket which she threw back won the $10 gold piece.

A great many of the people assembled on the island crossed to Hiawatha to see the Indian games and sports. Here the Alnwick Indian band and the Chemong Lake Indian band competed for a prize. The Chemong Lake band won.

As no foreign match could be arranged, a game was played between sides picked by Messrs. M. Hamilton and Carter. Hamilton's side batted first, and got the respectable score of 101. Of these M. Hamilton got 33 W. Hamilton 21, Strathly 18 (including two fours) and H. Ray 13, all being put in good form. For Carter's side the first two men, S. Ray and Strathly, played steadily and scored between them 60 runs before a wicket fell, Strathly staying until the score was over 30. Carter, McGill, and Canning hit very hard for their runs, and the score amounted to 122. Score:

Besides the attraction of a pleasant trip at a cheap rate the excursionists will have an opportunity of seeing the monster Knights of Pythias demonstration. In this great demonstration over fifteen thousand gaily and richly clad knights will take part. After divine service at St. James' Cathedral at 10 o'clock the Sir Knights will join in one grand parade, under the command of the Major General and his staff of mounted officers. In the evening a grand public reception will be held in the Mutual street rink. Then will follow a magnificently brilliant display of fireworks on the island. On the same day the international baseball match will be played between the Torontoes and Rochester. The next day will be an attractive one, consisting of reviews, etc., of the Sir Knights. It won't pay to miss this trip.

THE COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AND CENTRAL SCHOOL MAKE A TRADE.

The Board to confer with the Town Council in regard to Extra Institute Accommodation—Other Matters.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held on Wednesday evening. There were present:—Mr. James Stevenson, Chairman, and Messrs. Dumble, Errett, Dunne, McWilliam, Rutherford, Weir, Stratton, Wrighton and Sawers.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.—Communications were read as follows:—

EDUCATIONAL.—From the Educational Department in reference to authorized books for use in the schools.—Received.

From L. E. Horning putting in a claim for salary for two full years of teaching.—Committee on Appointments.

From Miss M. Davidson applying to the Board for leave of absence so as to attend the Ottawa Normal School and also asking permission to be replaced by her sister.—Committee on Appointments with power to act.

From the departments enclosing the Inspector's report as to the Collegiate Institute.—Received.

ACCOUNTS.—Accounts were presented as follows:—

Appleton & Co., books, $102.00
Times Printing Co., Advertising, 4.14

The account of the Times Printing Co. was referred to the Finance Committee. Appleton & Co.'s account was ordered to be paid.

The Chairman submitted a plan for the enlargement of the present Collegiate Institute building, so that, in the event of the Collegiate Institute occupying the whole of the large building, it would be able to accommodate the Central School children. The cost of the extension, he said, would be about $2,500.

Several members favored the erection of a new Collegiate Institute building, rather than doing any patching, which, they asserted, would be dearest in the long run.

TO CONFEE ABOUT IT.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. STRATTON, "That the Council of the Town be invited to confer with this Board in reference to supplying additional High School accommodation, and that the Chairman and members of this Board meet with the Council at an early day."—Carried.

WHOM HONOR ON NONE.

Mr. McWILLIAMS moved, seconded by Mr. DENNIS, "That before the ratification of this town be put to any more expense in repairing the present school buildings that this Board consider the advisability of abolishing the Institute and raising the standard of the public schools so as to include the English branches taught in the first and second terms of the Institute, or the erecting of a new building for the Institute, and that the Property Committee be requested to obtain an estimate of the cost of said building to lay before this Board at its next meeting."—Carried.

The motion was lost on the following division:—

YEAS—Messrs. Sawers, Dunne and McWilliam.

NAYS—Messrs. Stratton, Dumble, Errett, Weir, Wrighton and Rutherford.

A WORD TO THE MINISTER.

Mr. STRATTON moved, seconded by Mr. DUMBLE, "That the Secretary be requested to communicate to the Minister of Education that this Board have under consideration the improvements referred to in the Inspector's report, and request additional time to complete the proposed improvements."—Carried.

MOVING BACK AGAIN.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. SAWERS, "That the High School be removed from the smaller to the larger central school building, such changes as are required being made under the supervision of the Property Committee."—Carried.

ROUSE CLEANING.

Mr. WRIGHTON moved, seconded by Mr. SAWERS, "That the Property Committee be authorized to calculate the Central School and South Ward School and to have all rooms having bad floors and also all other repairs that are necessary."—Carried.

REQUIRED BY LAW.

Mr. STRATTON moved, seconded by Mr. DUMBLE, "That the School Supervision Committee be instructed to supply the necessary chemical and science appliances required by law for the use of the school." The meeting adjourned.

A FOOTBALL MATCH.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—Would you kindly allow me a short space in your paper in reference to the football match played on the 18th of June at Frazerville between Frazerville and the Clippers, which appeared in last week's paper. The duration of the game was to be one hour and a half. Frazerville scored two games during half time with a very high wind in their favor. As soon as the Clippers changed goals they scored one and forced the Frazervilles to defend their goal, which they did by kicking the ball out and behind, trying to delay all the time they could. During the last half, one of the Frazerville men got slightly hurt and would not play, whereupon their captain, knowing they were beaten if the game went on, refused to play it out and claimed the victory, there being 35 minutes still to play. Having made enquiry from the Central Football Association in regard to who were the winners of the game, their decision is given in favor of the Clippers. With regard to Frazerville being the best and most gentlemanly players, I must say—self praise is no recommendation. The gentleman who got injured to all outward appearance suffered but little with regard to appetite, nor did his injuries appear to hinder him from enjoying himself at the picnic.

Yours, etc.,
A CLIPPER.

Cavan, June 24th, 1886.

P.S.—The secretary of the Central Football Association would like to have the addresses of all secretaries of the football clubs in this and adjoining counties. Address 20 Oak Street, Toronto. Kindly insert this in your paper.

CELEBRATING THE DAY

Numerous Excursions Carry People out of Town.

DOINGS AT HOME AND AWAY

THE CATHEDRAL PICNIC AND FIRE-MEN'S DEMONSTRATION.

The Sons of England Excursion and Picnic—Down the River—Private Picnics by the Dozens.

The nineteenth anniversary of Confederation was celebrated on Thursday by the people of Peterborough, as usual, both in and out of town. Large numbers availed themselves of the outgoing excursions to Lindsay, Port Hope, Belleville, Sturgeon Point and Idyl Wild, while any number, almost, of little groups formed themselves into private picnics to spend the day in the country. Chemung Lake seemed to be a favorite resort for these picnickers. Those who stayed in town patronized the firemen's sports, the cathedral congregation picnic or spent a quiet day of repose in their homes.

THE CATHEDRAL PICNIC.

A Large Attendance, a Pleasant Day and Good Financial Results.

The annual picnic of the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral was held during the day in the grounds of the Murray Street Separate School. These grounds are very well adapted for the purpose, being large and containing many shade trees. The attendance at the picnic was large, the genial gatekeepers being kept quite busy during a greater part of the day with the duties of their position.

The picnic was a most successful one. The large crowd in the grounds was most orderly, as is usual on these occasions, and although there was little or no boisterous sport, everything passed off very pleasantly. The programme of sports, which was a long one, was carried out smoothly and without unnecessary delays.

THE DINNER TABLES.

The ladies of the congregation had prepared dinner tables, sumptuously provided with delicious and substantial edibles, and they were well patronized at dinner time and tea time. There were four tables, one in charge of ladies of No. One Ward, another for No. Two Ward, another for Nos. Three and Four Wards, and the fourth for Ashburnham. The following committees of ladies were in charge of them:—

No. ONE WARD.—Mesdames Phelan, Cahill and Dunn. Fruit and Flower Stand—Mrs. Geo. Walker and Misses Duggan, Simon and Grady.

No. TWO WARD.—Mesdames D. Donoghue, T. Laplante, T. Giroux, M. Giroux, O'Shea, T. Kelly, J. O'Brien, J. Dougherty, M. Quinlan, W. Clancy, J. Hackett, W. Kennedy, and Misses J. Clancy and M. Clancy. Fruit and Flower stand—Mrs. Donoghue and Mrs. Clancy.

No. TWO AND THREE WARDS.—Mesdames Delaney, Muncester, O'Sullivan, Morrow, Potvin, Lynch, Archambault, Dolan and McFadden, and Miss Haggerty. Fruit and Flower stand, (No. 3 Ward)—Mesdames Dolan and McFadden. Fruit and Flower stand (No. 4 Ward)—Misses Hanlan and Weir.

ASHBURNHAM.—Mesdames Mercier, J. C. Sullivan, Thorne, Brennan, Begley, Walsh, Wall, Connell, and Misses Buck, Sullivan and Walsh.

At each of these tables, which were all heavily laden with good things, many persons had their dinner and tea, and the ladies attended with care to their requirements.

THE SPORTS.

The programme of sports was a long and interesting, and under the good management of Dr. O'Sullivan, Dr. Brennan, Dr. Collins, Messrs. J.D. McIlmoyle (who acted as clerk of the course), W. J. Devlin, M. Quinlan and M. Giroux, they were carried out promptly, smoothly and in a satisfactory manner. The following is the programme and the names of the prize winners:—

Collins with 21 points. L. O'Connor being next with 21 points. Mr. Collins took eight first prizes and this aggregate prize, the total value being $36.30.

All these events were well contested, some of them very closely indeed, and they were interesting to the large number present who took an interest in athletic sports.

DANCING.

A large platform for dancing was occupied nearly all day, and Messrs. Dodd, Myles, and Howard, of Hastings, furnished good music for those who took part in this staple of amusement. The jig and clog dancing for the prizes created great interest.

OTHER EVENTS AND GENERAL NOTES.—Among the visitors at the picnic were Father Kelly, of Ennismore, and Father O'Connell, of Douro, Father Conway, Father Fayolle and Father O'Brien, of Peterborough, were also present. Father Conway's attention was given to almost everything connected with the picnic, and to his care and energy much of its success was due.

One of the most interesting events of the day was a competition for a gold watch between young ladies representing the four Wards and Ashburnham, the candidate receiving the largest number of monetary votes getting the handsome and valuable time piece. Miss Mercier, of Ashburnham, was the popular and fortunate candidate who won the watch. The aggregate of the votes cast was as follows:—For Miss Mercier, Ashburnham, $125.10; Miss Trenworth, No. 2 Ward, $112.62; Miss Cahill, No. 1 Ward, $44.78; Miss Tagney, No. 4 Ward, $50.94; Miss Giroux, No. 3 Ward, $50.93; total, $484.37.

A shooting gallery, in charge of Mr. M. McFadden, was well patronized during the day and caused considerable amusement, at times. Three ladies who ventured to try their skill at the target did very well.

Messrs John Dougherty and John Lynch at one gate, and Messrs. T. Hurley and C. Halpin at the other, were not idle during the day, as about $250 was taken in as gate money.

A refreshment booth on the grounds, in charge of Messrs. J. O'Brien, M. McDonnell, J. Lynch, Jas. O'Shea and F. Fairan, at which refreshing temperate drinks were sold, did a good trade.

The financial results of the picnic were most satisfactory and must have been very gratifying to Father Conway and the congregation of St. Peter's. It was the most successful picnic financially ever held by the congregation, and being a success in every other way, the managers of it have reason to be proud.

At this writing the exact amount realized is not known, but it will probably be between $1,000 and $1,200.

The winners of prizes can receive the orders for them by calling at Mr. J. J. Sheehy's store. The winners of the tug of war, the powerful men from the country, were given their cigars on the evening of the picnic.

THE S. O. E.

A Pleasant Trip by Rail and Boat to Sturgeon Point.

The excursion under the auspices of the Lansdowne Lodge, S. O. E., was well attended, between seven and eight hundred availing themselves of this opportunity of visiting the beautiful picnic grounds at Sturgeon Point.

Soon after the time announced on the posters the picnicers boarded the train, and reached Lindsay after a quick run. Here was found waiting boats to convey the party to the Point, at which they arrived about eleven o'clock.

The baskets were now produced and the picnicers wended their way through the beautiful grove, and forming into groups proceeded to make preparations for satisfying the wants of the inner man. Those not having brought baskets at once repaired to the commodious hotel for dinner. The large dining-room was quickly filled, the people crowding in and out for over two hours.

After dinner the orchestra repaired to the dancing pavilion, where those who so desired tripped the light fantastic toe. A programme of sports was commenced on the grounds, consisting of running races of various kinds, and boat races, for which prizes were offered; also a tug of war between excursionists vs. members of the Lodge, resulting in a victory for the latter. The crowning of the May Queen was the next event. Sixteen little maidens, very prettily dressed in white and blue, accompanied by the May Queen and her maids of honor, entered the ring formed and surrounded the pole. At a signal from the trainer, Miss Eva Tivey, the performers sang the crowning anthem to the inspiring air of "God Save the Queen," two maids of honor meanwhile holding the wreath over the Queen's head. A lively tune was next introduced, and the May pole dance commenced. The dancing ceased, and the performers sang, "Home, Sweet Home," after which the whole company sang "God Save the Queen." Three cheers were then given, and the May Queen, with her maids and attendants retired amid applause.

The excursionists again produced their baskets, partook of luncheon, and made preparations for their departure. The steamer hove in sight, and all re-embarked and bade farewell to Sturgeon Point, having thoroughly enjoyed themselves. A quick run by boat and rail brought the excursionists to town about eight o'clock.

NOTES.

The committee of management tender their thanks to Mr. Simpson for supplying hot water, etc., to Miss Eva Tivey and the performers in the May pole dance, to those who contributed to the prizes given, also to the train officials, and the officials of the Trent Valley Navigation Company.

Quite a number of the excursionists remained over for the regular express train from Lindsay.

The new excursion boat Paloma, of the Trent Valley Navigation Co., is just the thing for excursions. It has a carrying capacity of 750 people, and is taken in tow by a steamer.

The Scott Act Appeals.

The Scott Act cases which were appealed were, as stated on Wednesday, decided at Toronto. The two main points to be decided were, whether a conviction made on the evidence of the defendant was valid, and whether the Act was in force in the County. The first question was decided in the negative, and the convictions appealing on that ground were set aside, it being held that they could not be compelled to criminate themselves, and the second question was decided in the affirmative, namely, that the Act was in force in the County, the Court holding that the necessary time had elapsed between the time the Act was adopted and the issuing of the proclamation. It is probable that the cases will be carried further.

FIRST FORTNIGHTLY REGATTA.

Plucky Pulls on Little Lake—Three Races.

The first fortnightly regatta was held under the auspices of the Boat Club on Little Lake, commencing at half past seven o'clock on Friday evening.

At that hour the lake off the south shore of Burnham's point was sprinkled over with canoes, shells, double sculls, and other kinds of craft, while the shore was lined with spectators.

The first race was the four oared contest, quille course.

The two crews came along side and Mr. E. B. Edwards the starter stood off a few yards in a canoe.

The crews were comprised as follows:—No. 1 J. McDonald, J. Shesley, F. Adams, A. Leach, stroke, and E. Cooper, Coxswain. No. 2 A. Stevenson, F. Mercer, H. W. Kent, W. Mathews, stroke, and W. McFarlane, coxswain. The oars all dipped in together at the signal with Mathews's crew slightly leading. When about half way down the course the bow caught a strip of bark which stuck on for several seconds, much impeding the speed. This gave Leach's crew an advantage which they held till the bows were reached. Here both turned together and the home stretch was commenced. The two flags at the bows fluttered together for some time. Leach's crew was the first to spurt. They all pulled together, leaving their opponents about two lengths behind. But as the winning line was being neared the Mathews's crew put on a finishing touch, bring their boat up to the stern of the leader, which had been steered wide, crossing clear over the other's course. Though the Leach crew crossed the line first, the race was awarded the Mathews crew, on account of their course being obstructed. Time, 7:10 minutes; first half 2 minutes.

A Stevenson, J. McDonald and Capt. Cooper entered for the half-mile single scull race. The latter steered so wide at the start that his chance for winning was lost. Stevenson won easily. Time 3:15 minutes.

The double scull contest, mile course, brought out Lech (G.) and Adams, and Mathews and Kent. They pulled easily, as the time shows. A pretty spurt was put on at the finish, however, Lech and Adams coming in a few yards ahead. Time, 7:30 minutes.

The regatta altogether was quite successful. The next, which will take place in about two weeks, will be watched with interest. It is said that several new members of the club are to spin the oars for the first time.

THE THREE-MILE LIMIT.

A Canadian Cruiser Refuses to Accept the Subterfuge of an American Skipper.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 2.—The cruiser Torror has been lying in Shelburne Harbor for some days. On Wednesday night Captain Quigley was informed that two American fishermen had arranged with parties at Sandy point, five miles from Shelburne, to slip into that place after dark and get a supply of bait. Capt. Quigley ordered a boat's crew from the Torror to patrol the harbor all night. Towards dusk a strange looking craft anchored off Sandy Point. Captain Quigley boarded her and found her to be the schooner City Point, Captain Keene, of Portland, Maine, bound to the banks. When asked the reason of the visit, the Portland skipper told the Torror's captain that he had come to caulk his decks. This was obviously a subterfuge, and the Torror captain had ample time to regret putting into Shelburne for any such purpose. Captain Quigley promptly ordered him to bring his vessel athwart the bows of the cruiser, and placed an armed watch on the American until daylight, when Captain Quigley sent word that Captain Keene could proceed with his repairs with all possible despatch. This was considerably more than the American bargained for, but there was nothing else to do, so after getting his deck caulked he was ordered outside the three mile limit.

COUNTERFEITING.

A Gang Unearthed at Brighton—One of Them Arrested.

COBURG, Ont., June 30.—After three weeks hard work Government Detective Joseph Rogers has succeeded in running down a gang of counterfeiters as has operated in the Dominion for years. The headquarters of the gang was at Brighton village, 28 miles east of here, and they circulated the bogus work of their handicraft in the neighboring towns. They manufactured denominations from $50 down. A "fifty" on a Province of Quebec bank was passed at Kingston, and a four dollar bank note was put through the Standard Bank at Brighton all right. It was this latter bill that aroused suspicion as to the locality of the counterfeiters' lair, and the assistance of the authorities was immediately invoked to help to capture the criminals. The operators got wind of this and kept themselves and their work scarce. When Rogers got a clue he never leaves it till he gets something. He got a clue in this case and worked it for all he was worth. One of the gang he traced to Otterville, Ont., where he arrested him on Tuesday last. The prisoner is a young Dane, Alud Christensen, by name. He is a photographer, and at one time had a gallery at Belleville.

Mail vs. Canal.

The New York Daily Stockholder says eastbound shipments from Chicago thus far compare favorably with last year, but a heavier class of tonnage than last year is coming by canal, so that the advance in rates is less advantageous to the railroads than might be supposed. Up to May 31st the movement of grain by canal was nearly 30 per cent. of the total receipts at tide-water, against 107 per cent. for the corresponding period last year. The total tonnage of eastbound shipments by rail this year, notwithstanding increased receipts by canal, are largely in excess of the average for five years preceding. The average tonnage movement in May, from 1881 to 1885 inclusive was, in round numbers, 837,400 tons as against 992,900 tons for May, 1886. Shipments of grain and provisions from the west are all distributed between the rail and water routes and the earnings from this source by both canal and railroads are more satisfactory than for three years past.

Through the Rapids in a Barrel.

BEYFALO, June 28.—C. D. Graham, a Philadelphia cooper, intends on July 5 to float through the Niagara Rapids in an egg-shaped barrel. This barrel, which is about completed, is 7 ft. high, the top 26 in. in diameter, the bottom 17 in., and the well 38 in. The staves are 2 1/2 in. thick. In the top is a man-hole. Graham will be strapped into a canvas hammock, which will prevent his striking the sides of the barrel. Valves in the top will let out air at the will of the enclosed man. The barrel will float bottom down. Experiments have been made with a barrel one-half the size of the one, weighted with fifty pounds of sand. Eight minutes sufficed to carry it through the rapids and whirlpool. Not once was it submerged and when taken from the water it showed not a mark. Graham's plan is to be rowed down the river to a point above the Railway Suspension bridge, where Capt Webb entered the water, and then enter his barrel and be dropped into the river.

Perils of the Deep Sea Fisheries.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 28.—Josh Keyno and his son, who got adrift from their fishing schooner, were picked up yesterday and landed at Herring cove. They had been at sea two days and two nights without food, and rowed sixty miles. A despatch from Ingonish, C.B., says Edward Bond, of Canoe, and Albert Blanche, of Bowin, belonging to the Gloucester fisherman, Gardner W. Fair, missed their vessel on the St. Pierre bank, and after terrible suffering and exposure, without food and water for forty-eight hours, were picked up by a German barque 140 miles southeast of St. Paul, and landed at that place.

The Whirlpool Mystery.

ADRIAN, Mich., June 29.—Sheriff Whitmore who left for Niagara Falls, telegraphed that it was undoubtedly Miss Frances Whipple, of this town, who jumped to her death in the whirlpool on Wednesday last. He says her identity is unmistakable. Her person has been found and her photograph was recognized. Further evidence will be accumulated and every possible effort made to recover the remains. Miss Whipple was naturally bright and ambitious, but of late suffered from fits of melancholy and a terrible end was certainly sought in a fit of dementia.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING.

PARIS, July 3.—The Duke de Morry's wedding with Miss Bianco, daughter of General Guzman Blanco, of South America, came off at the church of the Madeleine yesterday with splendid eclat. The Duke's presents to the bride were magnificent.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

PARIS, July 3.—It is stated that all the French colonies absent on special service have been ordered to rejoin their regiments forthwith. It is also reported that Gen. De Sales, the military attaché of the French embassy at Vienna, and who was appointed to that post for the express purpose of studying Austrian cavalry tactics, has been recalled to resume command of the troops in the Vosges on the German frontier.

THE ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

Latest Returns from the Voting—Some Conservative Gains.

LONDON, July 3.—Returns up to this morning show the election of 93 Tories, 13 Unionists, 30 Gladstonians and 91 Liberals. The results of yesterday's elections indicate nothing clearly except the close nature of the contest. The Unionists maintain a lead, owing to the number returned without opposition.

The returns from the boroughs so far counted show a balance of the parties. Manchester returned three Gladstonians and three Unionists, Liverpool four Unionists and two Gladstonians, Bristol three Unionists and one Gladstonian, and Leeds three Gladstonians and two Unionists.

The only Scotch contest was in Perth, which returned a Gladstonian by a small majority, foreshadowing the general tendency in Scotland.

Three London divisions—East Paddington, North Paddington and the Strand have given immense Unionist majorities, returning respectively Lord Randolph Churchill, Mr. Cohen and W. H. Smith.

Mr. Gladstone's denunciation of the Unionist candidate at Carlisle produced the return of the Gladstonian nominee. But Mr. Calne, although opposed by a personal influence of the Premier, succeeded at Barrow.

A feature of the elections is the general smallness of the majorities, for instance, Arlidge (Gladstonian), carried West Bedford by only 57 majority, and in Central Leeds the majority of Balfour, Unionist, was 13. In the Scottish division of Liverpool T. O'Connor's majority was 12.

The latest returns are: Tories 93, Unionists 24, Liberals 25, Gladstonians 9.

A feature of to-day's polling is the great number of abstentions. In nearly every case the votes are greatly reduced in number. The Liberals have won seats in East Leeds, South-west Manchester, North Manchester and in the Exchange division of Liverpool. The Tories have won seats in South Salford, West Salford, Hereford, Hastings, Falmouth and South Bristol, a net Tory gain of two.

TEN MEN BLOWN TO ATOMS.

A Dozen Others More or Less Seriously Injured.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 1.—A terrible explosion took place this morning at the Atlantic Giant Powder Works, between Morrisville and Drakeville, N. J., resulting in the loss of ten lives and the injury of twelve others. The explosion took place in the mixing house. The cause is unknown. The loss is not known, but will be very heavy. The concussion was felt distinctly for twenty miles around. Glass in houses five miles away was shattered. The works were scattered over 300 or 400 acres of ground. There are between 35 and 40 buildings on the premises. The company employed about 100 men. In the vapour or mixing house where it is said the explosion occurred, about 15 men were employed. This is probably one of the most extensive manufacturing of its kind in the country. The killed were Geo. Ammerman, married; Geo. Hawbill, married; J. H. Smith, Geo. King, single; Henry Laubeck, single; Conrad Laubeck, single; Charles Jackson, single; Chas. Milburn, married; S. Theodore Bryan, married; Joseph Kinney, married; J. P. Lumsd, the chemist, and two others with him miraculously escaped uninjured. The men were preparing to mix for the day's work and were all in the mixing house. Ten of them were blown to atoms, so that no distinguishing remnant of their bodies has yet been found.

Fight Among Prisoners.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 29.—A riot took place in the woman's department of the Penitentiary, on Sunday, which resulted in several broken heads and badly disfigured faces. The broken promise of taking female prisoners out of the chapel before the general audience is dismissed. Ex-Deputy Warden Dean, the recently appointed guard in the woman's department, remained behind after the women had been taken out and assisted at dinner. Several colored women began quarrelling over certain lovers among male prisoners. The fight soon became general. The warden was absent at the time, and her two assistants ran terror stricken into the yard, crying lustily for help. Mrs. Victor, a life prisoner from Cleveland, also found her way into the yard for the first time in twenty years. The warden was summoned, and with the aid of several assistants soon quelled the riot.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's soothing Syrup should always be used when children are crying teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, cures the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for all the troubles which attend the first year of a child's life. It is a safe and reliable remedy for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and also for other kind.

SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1886.

DOMINION DAY.

We have now entered upon another year since the birth of our Confederation. The past twelve months have witnessed a continuation of the satisfactory progress of the Dominion. In the older settled portions the advance is of course more gradual, but in our newer territory the development is very marked.

The great achievement of the completion of our grandest highway is in itself an event that would make an epoch in the history of any nation. The longest railway in the world, it is not only that but also the most useful and the most marvellous in its rapid accomplishment in the face of stupendous obstacles.

By it a great impulse has been given to the settlement of our prairie country, restored to peace by the gallantry of our brave forces before the twelve months to which we now refer had begun, and maintained in tranquillity by capable management and the firm administration of justice.

The people of these vast plains will also rejoice at the opportunity of making their voices heard in the legislation of their country, at an earlier date in their progress than history shows in the case of any other community.

Our Pacific Province is also already feeling the beneficial influence of our great highway, the development of its mineral wealth, one of its most notable resources, having received an impetus that will speedily make it one of the most important industries of Canada.

Throughout the older Provinces trade and manufactures are growing steadily. In the capital of our mother country our productions are attracting an attention and exciting an admiration that cannot fail to benefit our Dominion.

In Nova Scotia our Canadian authorities are firmly maintaining the rights of our hardy and enterprising fishermen with every prospect of so favourable a result that the Nova Scotians will soon repent of the artificial secession movement organized by politicians whose sole real grievance is that the people of Canada will not place them in power.

While the rest of our Dominion is advancing Peterborough may fairly claim that it is not being left behind in the race. With wise laws, great natural advantage and an enterprising community, our town and its industries are growing steadily and surely, its population is increasing, and we are entering upon another year of our Dominion with every hope of continued growth and prosperity.

SENATOR Beck has introduced a bill to restrict the operations of legal members of Congress. The London Advertiser says that this is to make a rule, supposed to be in force on this side of the border, "restraining members from accepting fees for professional services, inconsistent with their duties as members of Legislature," and the Advertiser goes on to express a hope that if Senator Beck succeeds his rule will be better observed than it is in Canada. This may easily be the case when we remember that Mr. Blake, the titular leader of the Reform party, has been in the receipt of moneys as the counsel in Canada for the Grand Trunk Railway Company, and has partly earned his pay in the House by looking after the Grand Trunk interests and opposing tooth and nail its business rival the C. P. R.

The Reformers of Prince Edward Island imported Mr. Fielding, the secessionist Premier of Nova Scotia, to preach secession and reform. The people of Prince Edward Island have, however, most emphatically repudiated secession and reform, returning at their Provincial general election a larger number of supporters of the Conservative and loyal Administration.

AT THE CONVENT.

Closing Exercises of the Term - The Winners of the Medals.

From Wednesday's Examiner.
The closing exercises in connection with the school of the Congregation de Notre Dame took place this morning and afternoon. These exercises were, owing to the recent death of His Lordship Bishop Jamot, and out of respect for his memory, conducted on a much more quiet and subdued plan than in former years. The delightful gatherings, gaily dressed, and brilliant pupils and interested spectators, that were wont to gather in the hall of the convent, were represented by the presence of the still sorrowful children alone, and these all clad in black. The ceremonies simply consisted of the presentation of testimonials in the form of cards, with mourning borders. This afternoon the musical recital took place at three o'clock, for which had been prepared the following

THE REFORM PLATFORM.

Reformers are busily preparing for the next election. Mr. Cameron is telling people a sort of untruths about men who have taken up timber limits. Sir Richard Cartwright is telling all sorts of untruths about debt, expenditure and taxation. Mr. Blake will shortly, we are told, make some speeches in West Durham, and the Toronto Globe is telling its readers about the deeds of the murderous, ruffianly and thieving volunteers who went to the Northwest to rob and kill the innocent half-breeds.

These, and others like them, are the open methods of the Reformers. In secret they rely upon means intended to be more effective. They have prepared three separate documents for circulation among the electors. They are especially prepared for effect for different classes of electors, and they must be judiciously distributed so that the document intended for the French Canadian shall not offend the resident of Ontario or Manitoba, and that prepared for the Irish Catholic shall not drive into the Conservative ranks the Presbyterian or Baptist Reformer.

The Protestant voter of Ontario is told about the debt, the expenditure and the milking of the Church by the other provinces. If anything is said about Riel, it is in the shape of a gentle hint that Sir John Macdonald was weak and guilty for not catching him and hanging him after the first rebellion.

The Irish Catholics are told that they do not get enough offices. The bigoted difference between the French and the English-speaking provinces at the next election, but in reality they look for little or nothing. Their only real hope in Quebec depends on exciting race and religious prejudices because of the execution of Riel.

In that province there have been circulated vast numbers of cards on which are printed a picture of Louis, with a rope around his neck, attended by a priest, and surrounded by volunteers. At the head of the card in French are the words, "The Battalion of hanging-Chief Langlois of Three Rivers." Below the cut are the names of the French members of Parliament who voted with the government on the Riel question, followed by the words (in French): "People, remember the traitors." For circulation along with this card are Mr. Blake's speeches on the Riel question, condemning the hanging of that criminal, and his speeches on some rule and the Orange bill.

Reformers are always the same. They have but one principle—to get office. To that they cling at all times and in all places. Apart from that they will profess anything, be anything, do anything. They vehemently condemned the Government for not hanging Riel in 1873; and they as vehemently condemn it because it did hang him in 1885. They have one policy in Quebec and another in Ontario—one set of principles for display before Protestants, another for use with Catholics. Any appeal to religious feeling, race prejudice or sectional interest they sedulously cultivate. They tell the people here that the other provinces milk the Ontario cow. In Nova they say that that Province contributes far more than its proper share of the revenue; and in Manitoba they assure the people that if Mr. Blake were in office the prairie Province would get much better terms. We are satisfied that they should pursue these devious courses and dishonest methods, because we are quite sure such are not the means by which the people by which victory is to be attained. Trickery may win stray votes here and there, but it cannot be approved of by the mass of the people.

MORE MISTAKES CORRECTED.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR.—The letter in your issue of the 29th June, over the signature of the Rev. G. H. Davis, compels me to devote so much space to the correction of mistakes that I shall have but little left for the main question.

Mistake No. 1. The Rev. Mr. Davis says that the article on Baptist Concessions was communicated by me or some of my friends. Neither myself nor any member of my church, so far as I know, had anything to do with the publication of that article. I would have taken no notice of the first letter of the Rev. Mr. Davis if he had not referred to me personally, misrepresented my action, and slandered the denomination of which I am a member.

Mistake No. 2. He says that the article in question charged all who were not immersionists with lack of scholarship, or honesty, or unexampled ignorance. It did nothing of the kind, but only this. The New Brunswick editor said he gave a part of the admissions of Pedobaptists, hoping that they might "do good in offsetting the assertions of tracts written by nameless ignorance and scattered abroad." To what anonymous publications he referred I do not know; but he made no statement whatever about "all who are not immersionists." The whole purpose of the article was to show that some eminent scholars admitted Baptist principles and followed Pedobaptist practices, which was censured as being inconsistent and having a tendency to destroy reverence for God's word. Who can deny it?

Mistake No. 3. He says that I asserted that I could fill a column a day for three months with the names of eminent men who conversed immersionist views. Not so. What I did say was, that I could fill the space named with quotations of similar concessions made by eminent scholars, which is a very different thing.

Mistake No. 4. He says that I know that all the most eminent scholars of the Latin, Greek, English, Presbyterian and Methodist churches "in judgment and practice favor pouring and sprinkling as the most proper and scriptural." I know nothing of the kind. But I do know, what I supposed every school boy knew, that the Greek Church, with its twenty million members, practices immersion; and that the Latin Church practices infant sprinkling, not because it is the most proper, but because she has so ordered it. As respects the Church of England these things are true. The Salisbury Bazaar of 1880 requires and out-dipping the Holy Ghost, which was the book of Edward the Sixth, does the same thing, permitting pouring when the child is weak. The present order of Baptism prescribes dipping if it is certified that the child can endure it and permit pouring if it is certified that the child is weak. Dr. Cunningham, of whose concessions we have had perhaps quite enough, is I believe the most consistent scholar in the Presbyterian Church. I am not acquainted with any eminent scholars of the Methodist Church, and therefore cannot say anything about them.

Mistake No. 5. He says that the apostle Paul in Titus 3, 5, when speaking of the washing of regeneration by which they were saved, referred to the Baptism of the Holy Ghost, on the day of Pentecost. In this, as in other instances, he confounds the baptism of the Holy Ghost, which was always the gift of miraculous powers, with regeneration by the Holy Ghost. It is obviously to the latter, and not to the former, that the apostle refers in the passage named.

Mistake No. 6. He says that I make little of the spiritual baptism and that I attempt to ignore it. I have not said a word that can justify such a charge. What I have said I repeat and am able to maintain in figurative language, used in relation to spiritual baptism, cannot determine the mode of water baptism. I also asserted, and now reassert, that the Holy Ghost, and pour, when applied to the Almighty, are used figuratively. Does not every one's common sense tell him that it must be so? Can the Infinite God, who is the Spirit that fills immensity, be literally sprinkled or poured on men like water out of a bowl or pitcher? The supposition is only saved from being blasphemous by being silly.

Mistake No. 7. The Rev. Mr. Davis informs us that he is not able to believe a statement made by the Rev. Mr. Clough, a missionary whose work God has blessed more than that of any other living man, in the conversion of Hindoos; a statement confirmed by two other missionaries, published in probably all the newspapers in India, and in most of the leading papers in the United States and Canada, about a fact witnessed, I believe, by over ten thousand people, involving neither mental nor physical difficulty, all the particulars of which can be given, and the truth of which can be ascertained by any who will take the trouble to write to Ouglee, that he cannot believe, but this receives his ready credence and voluntary endorsement, a filthy, foolish, slanderous story that bears the stamp of falsehood on its very face. He asserts it as an undoubted fact, and when proof is called for, we are told that it happened in India, in some Western State, about four years ago, and was published in the papers. In what papers? Let us have the name of one paper, religious or secular, in which it was published. Every man who reads this knows that the publication of any such thing would have set the whole country talking, and would never be forgotten. Mr. Davis has made a terrible mistake in this matter. I respect him too much as a minister to say more about it.

Mistake No. 8. He is quite astray in supposing that eminent Baptist writers are the authority for the statement that at one period of the history of the church persons were immersed in a state of nudity. St. Cyril, St. Ambrose and St. Chrysostom all relate this. Smith and Cheetham's Christian Antiquities may be found a detailed account of how it was done with what were then considered all necessary precautions and proprieties. When we remember how the church at Corinth, even during the life of the Apostle Paul, converted the Lord's supper into a state of nudity, it is for the temple of Hecate than for the Church of Christ, we need feel no surprise that Christian baptism was administered at a later period in a state of nudity, and that those of propriety and that eventually it degenerated into infant sprinkling.

Mistake No. 9. He says Dr. Parker is my favorite divine. I was the agent of it, and have said nothing that implies it.

Mistake No. 10. These two wonderful stories, so pointed and so forcible. I can imagine the reader, when he got to the end of them, exclaiming—

"Te out, the thing is new or rare, But how the diabolical came it there?"

I have no objection whatever to being compared to Luther, but who is it that is compared to the devil? It is a dangerous thing for some people to attempt to be witty. The effect is apt to be similar to that of a boomerang thrown by a novice. The only thing approaching argument in Mr. Davis' letter is what is said in relation to infant baptism, and that we are told is direct, logical, or syllogistic and cannot be shown to be fallacious or unsound. Let us see if it is all this. The position taken is that Christ affirmed that children are members spiritually of the Kingdom of God and therefore they are fit subjects for baptism. In other words we are to believe that every child as soon as it is born naturally is born spiritually. Is that Christian doctrine? Is it what the word of God teaches? It is not Christian doctrine. If Methodists believe it, then they stand alone in that belief. The whole Christian world repudiates this doctrine of the spiritual birth of infants. The Greek Church, the Latin Church, the Lutheran and the English Churches, baptize infants, not because they are Christians, but to make them Christians. The Presbyterian Church is strong in the doctrine of original sin and limits infant baptism to where there is at least one believing parent. Baptists agree with them in doctrine though not in the use and mode of baptism. With the exception of the English, and perhaps some few others, all Christians reject the doctrine that all infants as soon as they are born naturally are born spiritually. Does the word of God teach this doctrine? No, verily. It was not the doctrine of Him who said, "Think not to say within yourselves we have Abraham to our father." Nor was it the doctrine taught by Him, the Son of God, who was born with the pale of Judaism, circumsised when a babe, educated as a Pharisee, respected as a teacher and honored as a ruler. "You must be born again—that which is born of the flesh is flesh, that which is born of the spirit is spirit." It is not the doctrine of the apostle who declared that the natural man receiveth not the things of the spirit of God, for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them because they are spiritually discerned. But if this doctrine of the regeneration of all unconscious infants were true, there would be no natural men, all would be born of the spirit and have spiritual life. Even if it were the case that all infants are regenerated, it would not follow that they were to be baptized, for in the New Testament baptism is enjoined upon and administered to only those who are the disciples of Christ, that is, those who have understood and received his doctrine, and himself as their Saviour and Lord.

The gracious meaning of the Saviour when he made the little children welcome and took them in his arms and blessed them, is clear enough. He did not baptize them nor command them to be baptized. He plainly taught us to love and care for these little ones, and by religious instruction and prayer to bring them to him; and to see to it that we ourselves resembled them in the possession of a childlike spirit, for of such as have that spirit is the Kingdom of Heaven. And so he took a little child and set him in the midst of them and said, "Verily I say unto you, whosoever shall convert and become as little children, shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven."

FACTS

Concerning Dr. Dorenwend's

Great German Hair Regener

It is the only preparation in the world that will do what is claimed for it. It has produced luxuriant growth of hair on bald heads where baldness has existed for years. It has restored the color and vigor to numerous crops of gray and faded hair. It has relieved hundreds of persons of disagreeable dandruff and has saved many when hair was falling from becoming bald.

Remember these facts and if your hair is falling out and becoming thin, get a bottle at once and save the growth, or you may lose it for ever. Ask your druggist for HARR MULLIG and take notice.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Possesses the greatest possible power to heal and control affections of the throat and lungs, with absolute safety for children or adults. The experience of years has proven it to be of inestimable value as a household medicine, and for professional use. Thousands of physicians and families testify to its great worth. Jas. E. Moring, Hilliard, Ohio, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twelve years, and have found that, as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throats, it

Is Unequaled.

J. I. Miller, editor of the "Lutheran Home," Luray, Va., writes: "I advertise nothing that I do not know to be good. I was saved from the grave, I am sure, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and have recommended it to others with the happiest results." L. J. Addison, M.D., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice in medicine, any preparation of so great value as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs; and I constantly recommend it to my patients. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is effective in relieving the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

John J. Chisman, Brooklyn, N.S., writes: "Twelve years ago, I was afflicted with a severe bronchial trouble, pronounced by a skillful physician to be very dangerous, and liable to terminate in Pneumonia. After using one bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I found great relief, and an occasional use of it since that time has, I think, extended my life ten years at least." Mrs. V. M. Thebaud, Montreal, Canada, writes: "Last spring my daughter was attacked by membranous croup, or diphtheria. The doctor prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which cured her of the diphtheria. Being still very weak and sick, she began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which restored her to vigorous health."

Fishing.

Messrs. T. Fitzgerald, Geo. Walker, Peterborough, B. Mills, Napanee, and J. Howorth, Montreal, went up to Stoney Lake on Wednesday. They came back on Thursday night stating that the had caught 197 bass and 3 long. There is no typographical error in these figures. The friends of the above mentioned quartette are feasting on the spoils. A wag who doesn't want his name mentioned, suggests that one of the party be sent back to catch the few remaining fish in the lake.

A New Boiler.

The Lindsay Post says: "On Wednesday the new 20 h. p. steel boiler for Wallace's woolen mill was taken from the car and hauled to the mill, where masons are building the foundation on which the boiler will rest. The boiler was made at the Hamilton Co's. works at Peterborough and will stand any pressure likely to be put on it. The walls of the boiler house will be finished this week. A second extension is being built to the rear of the factory to be used as a picker-room, as it seems that a 'picker' is such an energetic machine and does things at such high velocity that it requires a whole room to itself. More success to the Wallace woolen mills."

UNHEARD of bargains to be had now at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

Poetry by the Yard.

The expression "poetry by the yard" is somewhat common, but has been generally considered a specimen of hyperbole. The Review has, however, been favoured with an effusion that could be paid for by the yard, as the manuscript is over one yard long. It is apparently the product of the pen of a Smith poet, who thinks he can imitate the Scottish bard of that township, but cannot, except in the length of the production. As no name accompanies the effusion, as the poetry is bad, and it is intolerably long, as it contains many personal references, and as it is in no way fit to be published, it must be inserted in the waste basket, and the poet must either tune his lyre in a different chord or find another medium through which to reach public disapprobation.

An Acknowledgment.

The firemen hereby request to have their thanks tendered to those who, on Thursday night, honored the rear of the gas factory, the Ashburnham bridge, and gardens along the river, with their presence, so as to get a view of the fireworks. Especially do they feel grateful to the dress circle who occupied the tops of tar barrels near the gas house. The firemen considered it a real condescension on the part of that portion of the audience. The firemen also beg to inform those thousands who saw the fireworks, and hadn't even interest in the band to contribute ten cents, that a balloon ascension will take place. They had intended to drive out to the country to send it up, but on second thought they decided to express the gratefulness they feel toward the dress circle and others by letting it go on the market square on Monday night.

Mr. Heavis on the Dog Question.

Mr. Thomas Heavis, Local License Inspector, who has remained in his office, town buildings, from 10 a. m. till 12 o'clock noon for the past two weeks or so, has succeeded in labeling about two hundred canines. He says that the policemen are now at liberty to prey upon the lawless untamed, but that he is not going to use firearms in this capacity. He offers his kindest advice to the farmers who are in the habit of bringing their dogs to town, by saying that he cannot guarantee to exercise guardianship over such canines, and furthermore, that he will not be responsible for the policemen's actions in that respect.

Garden Party.

The ladies of St. Luke's congregation held a garden party and strawberry festival in the grounds of H. T. Strickland, Esq., Ashburnham, on Wednesday, June 30th. The lawn was tastefully decorated with Chinese lanterns. Refreshment tent had been erected, in which the young ladies dispensed ice cream, strawberries, cake and coffee, flowers, &c., and they were exceedingly well patronized. The attendance was quite large and all were delighted with the grounds, which present a very animated appearance. During the evening Professor Parker discoursed sweet music on the piano, and the Misses Vail and Strickland sang in their usual finished and acceptable manner. The ladies have to tender their best thanks to Mr. Strickland for granting the use of the grounds, and to all who contributed in making the garden party such a success.

A High Standing.

Miss Nellie Wrighton of this town, who has been attending Loretto Abbey, Toronto, during the last two years, has taken a high standing at the recent examinations in connection with that institution. Last year this young lady, it will be remembered, took her share of honors, carrying off the gold medal for French conversation and studies, of the undergraduate class, together with first prizes in Mathematics, English Literature and Epistolary Composition. This year she has taken the gold medal for English prose composition, crown and prize for English, French and Music, honorable mention for crayon drawing and painting, and a diploma for good conduct. Miss Wrighton was very successful during her course at the the Collegiate Institute here.

Lawn Tennis.

The presentation of a medal for competition among the members of the Peterborough Lawn Tennis Club connected with the A. A. A. for individual play, has given a healthy impetus to the game here this summer. The members of the club who entered into the contest have been drawn against each other and the "tournament" is now in busy progress. Those who have entered for honors in the individual fray, respectively paired off, are as follows:—B. M. Tate vs. G. F. Gyle, E. H. Retallack vs. F. E. S. Gayer, W. Orde vs. J. H. Long, A. E. Austin vs. H. A. Hammond, J. Fife vs. E. A. Pook, H. B. Carter vs. J. Carlen, H. W. Buckle vs. A. Stevenson, H. Haultain vs. J. E. Hammond, J. Bain vs. C. A. Lawford, H. Minty vs. C. H. Goble, W. H. Haultain vs. J. Morris. The first draw is now nearly completed, but the contestants are to be drawn against each other three times before the final is played. The ownership of the pretty medal, which is, by the way, the gift of Mr. H. A. Hammond, will be finally decided on July 21st.

Insurance.

The following despatch comes from Montreal, dated July 2nd:—"Some six weeks ago James Macpherson, a wealthy farmer, of Peterborough, Ont., came to this city and took lodgings. He turned up at the Central police station, and said he had lost his valise, but could not remember where he had left it. He then took passage on the steamship Persian for England, to go and see the Colonial exhibition, and also visit some relatives. The steamer had not been long at sea before Macpherson began to exhibit symptoms of insanity. The doctor had him confined in the ship's hospital. On arrival at Liverpool he complained that his farm was at the bottom of the Alexandria dock, and expressed his intention of taking an action against the corporation for damages. He also forgot where he was going. Purser Simpson and Dr. Neville had him conveyed to the Rain Hill asylum, where he is at present, and they also called his family at Peterborough." The demented man is from the township of Cavan, and is very respectably connected. He has travelled a good deal.

A Fire.

At about one o'clock this morning a fire occurred in the south part of the town, near the locks. It was located by the firemen, and it was found that a barn belonging to Mr. Wm. Velland was burning. The engine was taken as far as the Little Lake, near Crescent street, when it was found to be impossible to do any service with it. The barn was burned to the ground. Loss $1,500, Insurance in the Hand in Hand Company for $1,000. The cause of the fire is not known.

The Last Session.

At the last session of the Court of Revision, at which the appeals were all disposed of, the assessments of the properties of the hotel-keepers who appealed were all confirmed. A great many more assessments were also confirmed, and slight reductions were made in some cases. The Dickson Company's appeal was so far considered as to be reduced by $7,000. The combined property was assessed at $46,000, being reduced to $39,000. The same property was assessed at about $25,000 last year.

THE CAUSE OF ALL THIN.
It will interest the ladies to know that our principal reason for making such a sacrifice at this season of the year in the above lines is in order to prepare our shelves for the arrival of a large purchase of midsummer goods. These will be here in a short time, but in the meantime we purpose keeping up the demand which seems to exist at present for lines of cheap goods. As we said before, our cheap goods will be new. Remember that.

THE "YOUNG LIBERALS."

THE Young Men's Liberal Convention at Montreal appears to have been a failure as regards the attendance, which was neither large nor generally representative. Some of the resolutions were on matters of importance, but from their manifold contradictions they seem to have been of the nature of a compromise.

There were enough loyal men to prevent the independence resolution from being carried, but apparently not enough to vote it down, so it was hung up for a year.

They chose Mr. Blake as the Honorary President of the Young Liberals' Dominion Association, but they determined on his disqualification for the House of Commons, as they resolved that no solicitor or employee receiving money subsidies or other pecuniary advantages from the Government should be permitted to sit or vote in Parliament.

They resolved that both the giver and receiver of a bribe should be punished by imprisonment, but did not fix the term, though if it were a long one it would cause the absence from the House of prominent Reform members. Mr. Cameron of Huron and Mr. H. H. Cook, for instance.

They pronounced against granting public lands except to actual settlers, though such a restriction would deprive Messrs. Alex. Mackenzie, R. W. Scott, Trow and other Reform members of their Colonization Company shares and would render any extensive mining, lumbering, ranching, &c., impossible. By the way we cannot understand how their proposal, that the public lands in Manitoba should be given back to that Province, is to be carried out, as they never belonged to it, but to Canada.

They voted down the proposal that the Dominion should obtain power to amend its constitution, but they also carried motions to amend our constitution by repealing its clauses giving the right of veto, the regulation by the Dominion of its own franchise, its two chambered parliament, and the appointment of judges by the Dominion.

They gave it as a matter of opinion that restrictions on trade and commerce are detrimental, but they carefully avoided expressing any intention to oppose the N. P., only suggesting changes in a few particulars, and these only to be made when possible.

They refused to vote that the Dominion should have power to change electoral divisions, while leaving the Provinces free to carve them as they please, but then they censured Sir John Macdonald for making such changes when required by law, without any blame to Mr. Mowat for making such changes when not required by law, but only for his political advantage.

On one important matter they were decided and explicit. They expressed their admiration for Mr. Laurier, the avowed rebel, and for Mr. Blake, the sympathizer with rebellion, and they censured the Macdonald Administration for permitting justice to take its course in the case of the murderous rebel Riel. They also voted in favour of threats of seceding by electing Mr. Fielding their Vice-President for Nova Scotia.

In other cases they repudiated Mr. Blake, refusing to advocate manhood suffrage, and voting down the motion for an elective Senate, resolving that the Upper House should be abolished.

They declined to pronounce for or against the suppression of the liquor traffic, but suggested that the Dominion Government should make further provisions for interfering with it, in spite of their zeal for Provincial autonomy.

They passed a know-nothing resolution reserving appointments in the public service for Canadians by birth, not explaining how they could hope to fill up our vast territories if settlers from the mother countries are thus warned that even after residing here for decades they are to continue to be branded as an inferior caste, unfit to compete with their fellows.

They passed one or two good sensible Conservative resolutions; they expressed themselves in favor of reciprocity with the United States, agreeing with the Macdonald Administration which has placed on our statute books a standing offer, which, however, our neighbors refuse to accept; they supported the policy of our authorities in Ottawa to agree to no settlement of our fishery rights without our consent; and they favored the making of its commercial treaties by Canada, a privilege virtually established under the leadership of Sir John Macdonald. Their proposal to establish a two-cent postage rate may well be carried out if they and the rest of the people of Canada are willing to pay the cost, without making it the foundation for a charge of extravagance.

If their ideas of doing away with superannuation and making civil service appointments independent of party are to be carried out, they should endeavor to convert their own party leaders, who when in office used civil service superannuations and appointments to an extreme degree to obtain party advantage.

Many of their resolutions were evidently inspired by the old party wire pullers, and others were obvious compromises. Altogether this convention of so-called young Liberals, will have little practical result, and gives no trustworthy indication of the trend of opinion among the rising generation of Canadians.

FUR BEARING ANIMALS.

We have been requested to publish the following letter:

To Mr. J. Carnegie M. P. P.
Dear Sir, Will you kindly permit me to draw your attention to a subject of much importance, so that you may take such action as is right at the forthcoming meeting of the Legislature of Ontario. The law as enacted for the protection of fur bearing animals, permitting to trap and kill from the 15th of October to the first day of May, allowing 14 days for the disposing of the furs, is destined, if carried on much longer, to exterminate such animals, which have been a source of much wealth to the country. Years ago I have taken the matter up by correspondence in one of the leading Toronto papers with the aim to draw the attention of leading fur houses, who as well as myself should take an interest in a matter of so much importance. But to my surprise, indifference seems to be the case with many living up to the maxim that the world will move as long as they last. Twenty five years ago I used to buy as much as $5,000 or $10,000 worth of raw fur in one season, coming from the back country of Peterborough, which may have been the largest portion of furs coming into the market; but there were plenty of other buyers, even the Hudson Bay Company had their agent to represent them in buying furs here. Now all this has passed away although the prices of some furs on account of scarcity as for instance Beaver, has increased fourfold, other furs, other more than doubled the price of former years and the trappers, in spite of the high prices obtainable, complain that it does not pay them for their loss of time in hunting. I have talked the matter over with many men showing them their furs, showing the golden eggs by slaughtering the animals with their unborn young, and they all agree with me and have promised if necessary to sign their names to any document in support of having the law changed from May the first to March the first as the beginning of the close season. Nothing but such a change would have the desired result of protecting fur bearing animals during the breeding season. As a consequence of the shortening of the season there would be the drawback for one or two seasons of a poor hunt, but the gain would soon perceptibly be felt by the increase of animals and more will be caught in subsequent seasons. Is it not a pity that such a noble animal as the Buffalo has been so wantonly destroyed, whose skin has been a comfort for the traveler in the winter season, and which has now to be supplemented by an inferior article, the Japanese Goat?

Yours truly, W. LECH.

Peterborough, June 29.

Gaudaur Makes Remarkable Time.

WINDHAM, Man., July 3.—The three days' Dominion celebration expires to-day, the principal events being the race between Hamm and Teemer. The former intends to make for McKeesport, Maine, if he can close the race as he expects. The time made by Gaudaur yesterday is unequalled, the official marking being 19 minutes 54.5 seconds. This is over a minute faster than the old record, and the time made by Hamm in his race with Ross on Thursday. It is accounted for partly by the fact that Gaudaur had the current in his favor for two out of the three miles, but the officers of the winter club, making every allowance, decided that it was equal to 19.45 in dead water, a phenomenal record. After the race both Gaudaur and Teemer received an enthusiastic welcome from the members of the rowing club as they carried their shells up the steps to the boat house. Gaudaur did not seem any the worse for his hot race, but Teemer was somewhat blown.

Horrible Discovery.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 3.—A horrible discovery was made by John Forrest, at 4, T. R. Freeman, while being in Kettle Creek, south of the air line bridge. He caught sight of a bundle, and on pulling it from the water and opening it, discovered the body of an infant, which had been first wrapped in a copy of a Detroit newspaper and then enveloped in a sheet. The body was very much decomposed. There was a catgut string tied around the bundle, to which was attached a small stone. The body was that of a fully developed infant, about three months old. The child had been in the water about twenty-four hours, and met its death through foul means some days before it was placed in the water. The Detroit paper in which the corpse was wrapped was of recent date. The police are working out the case.

Signs of a Corner.

CHICAGO, July 3.—It is reported a syndicate, headed by Sid Kent, has purchased between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 bushels of July wheat. They intend to corner July option. It is said when the squeeze comes foreigners will be the greatest sufferers.

Purchasers will please make no offer, as we are Strictly ONE PRICE, but will refund the money if Goods are not satisfactory or Price and Quality can be beaten elsewhere. Try me once, and ever afterwards judge me accordingly.

GOUGH, THE ONE PRICE CLOTHIER.

ARCADE BUILDINGS PETERBOROUGH.

BOBCAYGEON.

POTATOES.—Mr. M. Cadigan, of Ennismore brought to market a quantity of very fine new potatoes, on Tuesday, the 2nd. They were the largest and earliest potatoes that has been brought in for many years.

FIRE.—Between one and two o'clock on Tuesday night, the best building shop of J. McDermott, was seen to be on fire. There was no possibility of saving it, and no general alarm was given. Mr. McDermott lost all his tools, his models, and a large stock of butter-pat and cedar. One of Mr. Eastland's shells was also destroyed. Mr. McDermott's loss is a serious one.

FISHING.—Thursday being a holiday, a rush of fishing parties came in on Wednesday, from Toronto, and all day Thursday the bass and muskellunge had a most tempting selection of bait fed to them. Metal baits of every description of form, price and shyness, were spun before the blinking eyes of the lunge, and frogs, and galathea, and lovely fat worms, and in fact all the delicacies of the season, were artfully offered to the guileless bass much to the enjoyment of the festive anglers who have a most irritating and ingenious knack of taking the bait of a hook. Several good catches were made, but the average weight is scarcely as high as usual. Two gentlemen from St. Louis killed fully 100 lbs. of bass in one day, and catches of fifty and sixty pounds are frequent.—Independent.

LAKESHORE.

MATRIMONIAL.—Occasionally in our quiet neighborhood there are stirring events to break the monotony. On Wednesday last Mr. A. G. Shearer and Miss Lizzie Elliott were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed in Lakeside, after which they drove to Otonabee, to the residence of Mr. Shearer's parents. They returned on Friday, and were received by a large party of neighbors and friends. They have our hearty congratulations and wishes for their life-long happiness and success.

MISCELLANEOUS.—On Sunday last Mr. Adam preached his first sermon in this place, which impressed the congregation favourably. As there was no preaching in our own church, the school house was well crowded. We are sorry to say that Mr. Adam is in delicate health, which necessitates his taking a rest, during which he will take a journey to England, in hopes that the change will do him good. We wish him God speed and a safe return. He has left an efficient substitute in the person of Mr. Carpenter.

SORRY ACT.—We have lately had positive proof that the Scott Act is a failure at least in Bobcaygeon, intoxicating liquors flowing freely. After putting the country to the expense of passing the Act they might at least enforce it.

There seems to be some misapprehension relative to the price of Flour. I find a number of purchasers stating that the grade of Flour known as

ALLANDALE.

From a Correspondent.

I. O. G. T.—The Temple, in this place, is in prosperous condition and the membership is increasing. William Nelson, W. C. T. Scott Act.—A vast improvement is seen in this, and our adjacent village, Kenee, since the 1st May. If Pain-killer, R. R. Relief, &c, should be necessary, yet order and sobriety reigns generally.

RECOVERING.—Mrs. Lang, Sr., Kenee, who underwent a severe operation a short time ago, viz., the removal of a large cancer by Dr. Harrison assisted by Dr. Boucher and Dr. Massie, has so far recovered as to be able to drive out. Her many friends greet her with gladness, and congratulate Dr. Harrison on the success attending his surgical and medical efforts.

THE LIGHTNING.—A severe storm passed over this village on Friday last, the lightning playing some curious pranks. First it thought to imitate Santa Claus and went for the chimney, but was into too much of a hurry to get down; hence tore it down and finding the building to be a paint shop, passed to the dwelling of Mr. Wm. Hastie, entered the chimney in due form and passed into the cellar, scattered the contents of a large cask of cream, broke a number of preserves jars, and seeing a tin pail, wished to verify that Mr. Hastie does not wash and gives Imperial measure, therefore stamped the pail by putting a hole through it. The work in the cellar being completed, it took the lightning express up a wall into the kitchen, upset the stove and stove-pipe, tore off the door off a box closet containing 2 pairs of shoes, and tore off a sole from each pair, thus rendering both pairs useless. It then passed out of the back door to the residence of our esteemed teacher, Mr. Hauke, and thought to beautify the veranda by tearing off the corner, but whether through want of gratitude or lack of taste, Mr. Hauke does not think it improved one iota. Mrs. Hastie and her sister were both stricken to the ground, but escaped serious injury.

LAKELAND.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NOT THE SAME.—A certain villager, rather given to practical jokes, has come to the conclusion that vinegar and water is not equal to old rye, even if taken out of a jar.

GARDEN PARTY.—On Tuesday next, the 6th of July, a garden party and open air concert will be held at the "Homestead," the residence of R. C. Strickland, Esq., in and of St. John's Church Parsonage Road. During the afternoon there will be lawn tennis, in which both the Peterborough and Lakeland clubs will take part, and, in addition, several other refreshments will be obtainable by those who are so inclined. The Peterborough orchestra band will be present and will doubtless contribute largely towards the enjoyment of the occasion. In the evening Mr. Strickland's beautiful grounds will be illuminated and an open air concert will be given, in which the following have kindly promised to assist:—Mrs. Bradigan, Miss McEwen, Mrs. LeVeve, Miss C. Strickland, Mrs. Fort, Mrs. Wright, Mr. Henderson, Mr. J. D. Graham and Mr. Wm. Graham. Arrangements have been made by which the evening train from Lakeland will be held over until 10.30.

BAND.—On Monday evening our band made their first public appearance and played several airs in a first class manner. Certainly great credit is due to all the members for the wonderful progress they have made during the comparatively short time they have been practicing, and in some cases learning. It is to be hoped that they will often play during the evenings in future.

THE LIGHTNING.—On Friday afternoon during a heavy thunder storm Mr. Downs, of Huron, lost a valuable horse, which was killed by lightning.

BEYOND WORK.—Messrs. R. & G. Strickland saw mill has begun cutting for the season.

FOUND DEAD.—Dr. Lloyd, so long missing, was found on Monday at the mouth of Squaw river, in Harvey township, dead.

HO FOR EUROPE.—At the hour of 11 o'clock a. m., on Tuesday last a large number of friends of Rev. S. Weston Jones and lady assembled at the railway station to bid them adieu. The countenances of their parishioners showed clearly the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Jones are held in Lindsay.

CHIEF CONSTABLE ASSAULTED.—On Saturday night last about 11 o'clock, while chief constable Bell was on his way home, he was struck a severe blow on the forehead with a stone weighing two and a half pounds. Mr. Bell was passing along Cambridge street, in front Mrs. Lee's garden, and while walking close to the fence was struck by the stone, which was thrown from the bushes in the garden. The blow knocked the chief flat, and upon recovering himself he found the assailant had escaped. But for the heavy helmet worn by Mr. Bell, there is no doubt the blow would have been fatal. As it is there are severe bruises on the right temple, and the base of the brain is affected. It is supposed some cowardly skunk, angered by the fact that Mr. Bell was to serve summonses in Scott Act cases, lay in ambush and did the deed. In fact there is every reason to suppose the guilty party is known to Mr. Bell, and justice will be added to send him to the penitentiary for a term of years.—Ward.

DOMINION DAY DOINGS.—Dominion day was observed as a general holiday and an occasion of enjoyment. The grand demonstration attracted to town large crowds, and the several features of the day's proceedings were of great interest. Several special excursions from points outside of Lindsay were largely patronized. St. Mary's Church picnic at Hutton's grove was the usual success, the games and sports being well contested.—Ford.

CAMPELLFORD.

THE RACES.—A large crowd attended the races at Campbelford on Monday the two events on the programme being decided as follows:—Three minute trot—Gloucester's "Louis D." first; Park Ketchum's "Bessie K." second and J. K. McGarr's "Rysdyk," third. Running race—Slingshot's mare first, O'Neill's second, and Crain's third. The green trot did not fill. The judges were James Ketchum and James Ross of Belleville, and Mr. Pierce of Toronto. In the trotting race "Little Bear" drew the pole but "Louis D." soon went to the front and led easily to the wire. "Bessie K." and "Little Bear" were sent back for running out of the race, and the best given to Rysdyk. The judges' decision was fair and impartial, while it will tend to make this course famous in future.

A New York Disciple of Pasteur.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Dr. Mott announces that he is ready to inoculate for rabies on the Pasteur plan. He has an excellent collection of virus.

FROM ALL OVER.

Mr. Harrington says the Paracellites are certain to retain $500,000.

Worms often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy worms, and expel them from the system.

The Queen on Friday reviewed the troops at Aldershot. The weather was fine and the attendance was very large.

A CRYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when worms is the cause. Dr. Loys' Worm Syrup safely expels all worms.

To REMOVE Dandruff.—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet.

Mr. Gladstone has been elected by acclamation for both Middleham and Leith boroughs. He will probably sit for the former.

The Great Source of Consumption and many wasting forms of disease, is scrofula lurking in the system. The true specific for this condition is found in Burdock Blood Bitters; the enfeebled frame.

The Serbian peasantry are rioting. They refuse to pay the taxes levied since the unsuccessful war against Bulgaria, and ill-treat the tax collectors.

Never drug the stomach with nauseating and weakening expectorants and opiates; Hagar's Pectoral Balm is pleasant and reliable in its effects, and safe in all throat and lung complaints that, if neglected, end in consumption.

The burning of Watson's spinning mills at Kidderminster on Friday caused a loss of property amounting to $30,000, and threw 100 persons out of employment.

A FORTUNATE ESCAPE.—Mrs. Cyrus Kilborne, Beamsville, Ont., had what was supposed to be a cancer on her nose, she was about to submit to a cancer doctor's treatment, when she concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, internally and externally, a few bottles of which entirely cured her.

The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk railway for the week ending June 28 were $34,124, an increase of $44,068 compared with the corresponding week last year.

A SECRET FOR THE LADIES.—The great secret of beauty is pure blood. Eruptions and all blotches that disfigure the face, may be quickly cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. Annie Heath, of Portland, certifies that she was cured by this remedy, after suffering for two years.

The Republican papers of Paris are filled with alarmist articles and declare that agents of the banished princes are at work forming a Royalist plot against the Government.

WORTH REMEMBERING.—There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagar's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orion, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain.

The Canada Shipping Company's steamship "Lakeland," which sailed from Liverpool for Quebec on the 25th June, was wrecked on Friday on the Irish coast. The passengers and crew were saved.

A USEFUL HINT.—It may be useful for the reader to know that the popular preparation known as Hagar's Yellow Oil has proved a sovereign remedy for deafness, many certified cures being on record. Hagar's Yellow Oil also cures aches, pains, and lameness, and may be used internally as well as outwardly.

The Rev. Dr. Kelly, of Detroit, treasurer of the Irish National League of America, on Friday transmitted $5,000 to Mr. Parnell for the Parliamentary fund, making a total of $65,000 forwarded in one week.

If any of our readers that are afflicted with rheumatism have never tried West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment, we advise them to do so at once, and be convinced of its extraordinary merits. It is a never-failing remedy for cuts, sprains, bruises and all complaints requiring external treatment. Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by J. D. Tully.

For the past quarter of a century West's Cough Syrup has given relief to thousands, and no medicine compound can show such a vast number of unsolicited testimonials. Ask your neighbor as to its merits. It is an unfailing cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung diseases. Price 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Rev. D. G. Falls, Dutton, certifies: "For some years my wife has been troubled with Dyspepsia, and has tried one thing after another recommended with but little or no effect till advised to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial. Since taking the first bottle I have noticed a decided improvement, and can with confidence recommend it to be one of, if not the best medicine extant for Dyspepsia. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at John McKee's Drug Store. Trial bottle, given free."

It is stated that Mr. Parnell is constantly in receipt of letters menacing him with assassination for attempting to "dismember the empire," but he feels secure in the "court of young Irishmen who attend him everywhere."

"Shortness of breath Caused my death." Is inscribed on a tombstone in an English graveyard. In all probability it would never have been necessary, if only the poor unfortunate victim of some disease of the respiratory organs had known of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a panacea for all diseases of the throat and lungs. For consumption it is believed to be the only real specific yet known. For all scrofulous and blood diseases it is unfailing.

McGarr's Remedy.

Who knows what excuse there may have been for "Kantip's" and "Lamp's"? Many women are unattractive, querulous and sour simply because they are suffering from Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," a certain cure for every feminine weakness and derangement, and will restore health and good spirits to the most nervous and shattered female. It is a blessing to her family and the world. A single bottle will prove its surpassing merits. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

Is a well known fact that the "Cable" and "El Padro" brands of cigars are the oldest, most reliable and best value in the market. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of close on to one thousand operatives. Smokers will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above mentioned brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. S. More Improvements.

The Horticultural Society have completed more important improvements in the Gardens. The neat drive which were put down from the fountain to the Court House during the last two weeks, have been prettily painted a slate color. On each tier urns filled with flowers of different kinds—foliage, blooming plants, vines, etc., stand on each side. The appearance of the Gardens is much improved. There are altogether twenty six urns. These were filled by Mr. Mason, to the order of the Society.

Open Air Meeting.

At four o'clock on Sunday afternoon an open air gospel meeting was held in the Horticultural Gardens under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. A male choir of about 20 voices, together with the Rev. I. Tovey, pastor of the George Street Methodist Church, occupied the grand stand. The singing was well given. The theme of the preacher's discourse was "The way of transgressors is hard." There was an unusually large number in the gardens, lying or sitting in the shade of the trees. The words of the preacher could be distinctly heard nearly all over the grounds. The Young Men's Christian Association intend holding these services regularly. The choir will increase in numbers of members.

Not Satisfied.

The Mathews crew, which were awarded the race at the fortnightly regatta on account of their opponents crossing their course, are of opinion that they would have come in first anyway. They therefore propose that the race be rowed over again in a friendly spirit at the next regatta.

A Meeting.

At a meeting of the Directors of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society held in the Secretary's office on Saturday, the amount left to the building committee to spend in erecting the new buildings was reduced from $2,500 to $1,000. The building Committee was widened so as to include the whole Board of Directors. On Tuesday evening the Committee will go to the grounds to take measurements preparatory to the erection of the buildings.

Patriotic.

The closing hymn at the George Street Methodist church service on Sunday evening was sung to the tune of "God Save the Queen" at the end of which all joined in the National Anthem with patriotic fervor. Before the singing of the hymn the pastor addressed a few words to the congregation touching the prospects of this new year of the Dominion's life, and the interest felt by all in the great political movement in the mother land.

Balloon Ascent.

The Fire Brigade Band will give their weekly open air concert in the Park this evening, and the firemen will take this opportunity to set off the balloon, the residue of the mostly free fireworks displayed on the evening of Dominion Day. They invite those who took such an interest in the band as to stand afar off when contributions were wanted to come along and enjoy the free music. They say that special seats will be provided for the dress circle. It is to be regretted that, after counting expenses and receipts, the firemen find their efforts to help the band to pay for the new uniforms by holding the Dominion Day demonstration, resulting in a loss to themselves.

25 to 30 per cent saved now by buying special goods selected for sacrifice at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

Bring them all along, we will make you all comfortable and happy. Take you to Toronto in 3 1/2 hours, and return in the same time, either on that day or the succeeding eight days. By accompanying this excursion you will have an opportunity of witnessing the grandest street parade ever seen in America. Think of the above and we will supply you with more to-morrow.

Fossil Points.

—Torrid, somewhat.

—At half past two o'clock Mr. Schofield's thermometer exposed to the sun, stood on its tip-toes—111.

—At the same time it was 38 degrees in the shade.

—And still the people continue to tramp up to Mr. Beavin's office for dog tags.

—No slaughter of the great untaged has yet been reported.

—But the slaughter of a young man in a certain hotel nearly occurred last night. He was badly cut about the head.

—However, he promenade's the streets to-day in white handkerchief binding.

War Upon Poachers.

HALIFAX, June 3.—The presence of large quantity of mackerel in Prince Edward Island has attracted an American fleet. The mackerel fishing steamer Novelty, ninety-seven tons, of Portland, carrying thirty-five men, the only steamer in the world believed to be engaged in the mackerel fishery, has been hovering around these waters anxiously watching a chance to steal a fare. Her success depends very largely on getting a supply of coal and ice from Nova Scotia ports. Thus armed she could easily dodge and steam away from the cruisers. She put into Miramichi yesterday for a supply and her captain was disgusted to find he could only obtain it at the risk of confiscation. He returns to Portland more convinced than ever of the value of the Washington treaty.

An English Farmer's Delegation.

Mr. Mm. Dodd, of Winsford, Cheshire, England, has arrived here on a tour through the farming districts of Canada as a delegate from the farmers of his country, who are anxious to send out their sons to enter upon farming and cattle raising in the Dominion. Mr. Dodd leaves for Ottawa, and will visit that vicinity and also Toronto, Guelph, Hamilton and London, travelling as far west as Brandon, Manitoba. On his return to England he will state what he thinks of this country, and should his opinion be favorable it is probable a very large immigration of Cheshire agriculturists will take place early next spring.

Another Fishing Schooner Retired.

POWDER MAGAZINES.—Ald. Smeaton created a sensation in the City Council on Monday night by stating that there is a sufficient quantity of explosives along Front street, between the upper and lower bridges, to blow us into Lake Ontario. He said there was a powder magazine in the rear of his store which, he was told, contained at one time 200 kegs of powder. He enquired if there was a by-law regulating or controlling the location of these magazines, and upon being told there was not gave notice of a by-law. In other cities dealers handling and keeping powder in brickly are compelled by law to locate fire proof magazines beyond the city limits.—Intelligencer.

Terrible Shooting Affray.

WEST POINT, Miss., June 28.—A terrible shooting affray occurred here yesterday between John and James McKean, and Will Peace on the one side, and Alex. Board and his father-in-law, N. Stoller, on the other. Board was killed, having received nine shots in his body; James McKean was shot in the arm and thigh; Stoller received a shot through the arm. The cause of the shooting was a remark said to have been made by Board about lady relatives of the McKean and a sister of Peace. Several arrests have been made.

A FENIAN GATHERING.

A Meeting at St. Louis Addressed by a Socialist and O'Donovan Rossa.

St. Louis, Mo., July 5.—A small but enthusiastic audience of Fenians gathered at Lindo Park yesterday afternoon to celebrate independence day and listen to speeches by W. J. Gorusch, a Socialist, of Baltimore, and O'Donovan Rossa, of New York. The Socialists said that Socialism as it existed in this country, was a distinctly American institution. It was not that form of Socialism or Anarchism that existed in France, Germany or Prussia, but a combination of the best features of them all. The speaker advocated this form of government, and expressed sympathy for the persecuted adherents, and especially for those in Chicago and Milwaukee. He denied that they had broken the law. It was the police, those salaried minions of monopolies and enforcers of alleged laws, who were guilty of the murders which had resulted from the labor agitation in those cities.

O'Donovan Rossa spoke exclusively of Ireland and Irish affairs. He said there was no use of grafting a partial local self-government to England's Poland. That was better than the present method of government, but it was only a step toward the goal desired—the entire independence. He said that if the present Parliamentary election should result in a victory for Gladstone, the Fenians would be disappointed. He should finally be granted to Ireland, he should be on account of their fear of the Irish rather than on account of their love of justice or duty to humanity. He wound up with his usual dynamite harangue, and said he could come to-day a hundred men in New York city who were more than willing to shed the world their patriotism, and were only waiting for the word to go to England and work out Ireland's independence. The speeches were greeted with cheers.

MIKADO.

July 7th and 8th.

Struck by a Falling Star.

As a gentleman, a well-known public official, was passing from St. James's Park into Pall Mall by the garden wall of Marlborough House, on Saturday last, at 4.45 in the afternoon, he suddenly received on the right shoulder a violent blow, accompanied by a by a loud cracking noise, which caused him great pain and to stumble forward as he walked. On recovering his footing, and turning round to see who had so unexpectedly struck him, he found that there was no one on the pavement but himself and the policeman on duty at the park end of it. On reaching home the shoulder was submitted to examination, but nothing was at first discovered to account for the pain in it. But in a little while the servant who had taken away the coat to brush brought it back to point out that over the right shoulder the nap was pressed down flat in a long, straight line, exactly as if a hot wire had been sharply drawn across the cloth. The accident is therefore explained as having been caused by the explosion of a minute falling star or meteor. It is an unprecedented and most interesting occurrence, and deserves to be placed on public record.—Left to London Times.

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria and Cancer Mouth. For sale by Ormond & Walsh.

THE SEIZED VESSELS.

Excitement at Portland—Calm Counsel from Washington—Fines Imposed.

HALIFAX, June 5.—A fine of $400 each has been imposed on the seized schooners City Point, Geo. W. Cushing and C. B. Harrington by the collector at Shelburne, by orders from Ottawa.

PORTLAND, Maine, July 5.—The feeling of indignation over the seizure of Portland schooners by the Canadians is intense. The Secretary of State says that the case has been reported by the Consul-General at Halifax, and is receiving attention.

NEW YORK, July 5.—A Washington despatch says that the accounts thus far received of the latest seizures of American fishing vessels have been somewhat indirect but it seems probable that in all cases there was a technical violation on the part of the Yankee skippers. At Shelburne they seem to have begun the work for which they went into the harbor without giving previous notice to the Customs authorities. This was clearly the case with the City Point, which went in there to procure water, a privilege expressly granted under the treaty of 1818, but began to take it aboard without reporting to the authorities.

In addition there are indirect stories of the landing of men with bags or bundles, as if for some unlawful purpose, and there is a general impression that the taking on of water was a cover for other purposes. Be this as it may, there is no doubt that when a fishing vessel enters a Canadian port and intends to exercise either treaty privileges or any rights of trading which it may claim under a general commercial permit, it is bound to conform to the local customs regulations. Even registered vessels, about whose right to trade there is no question, are compelled to submit to these regulations, and it is evident, indeed, that otherwise there would not only be no police regulations for the port, but no opportunity of preventing frauds on the revenue laws. In our own harbors we insist on careful obedience to the revenue laws on the part of foreign vessels, whether registered or unregistered. As to the novelty of the trouble seems to have been the blunder of her captain in going into Pictou for coal, when he might just as well have taken a full supply from Portland. He explains his conduct by saying that there was a report when he left Portland that the Dominion Government had changed its policy, and was about to allow the purchase of supplies in its ports by American fishing vessels. As he had not actually begun to take coal aboard, his vessel was only warned away, instead of being seized. These various experiences show that American captains must strictly obey the present local regulations in visiting Canadian ports, until some settlement of the fishery trouble is effected.

FISHERY QUESTION.

Three American Vessels Seized Within Thirty-six Hours.

HALIFAX, July 4.—Three Portland fishing vessels have been seized in Shelburne harbor within thirty-six hours, and a fourth only escaped seizure at Canoe by the skin of her tooth. The rigorous enforcement of the fishery laws by the Canadian cruisers has been an eye-opener for the Yankee skippers. The schooner City Point was formally seized at Shelburne on Friday for landing men previous to reporting at the custom house. And that day two other American vessels, the C. B. Harrington and Geo. W. Cushing, anchored at the mouth of the harbor, and there captains went ashore and endeavored to secure supplies of bait, but were unsuccessful. They did not report at Shelburne custom house. Late that night Capt. Quigley, of the cruiser Terror, paid them a flying visit, and upon the confession of the captains that they had been ashore and had endeavored to procure bait without having entered at the custom house, he placed armed guards on both vessels and yesterday formally seized them. The captains say they understood that they could get all the bait and supplies they required in Canada now, and would get twenty-four hours notice to leave before being seized.

CAMPBELLFORD.

STOLEN HORSE.—A resident of Brighton township came to Campbellford on Monday, in search of a horse that was stolen from him by gypsies on Friday night last, and two men were employed to look over the neighborhood of Hastings. Messages were sent to persons residing in neighboring villages asking them to be on the look out for the missing animal.

THE TRUST RIVER SERPENT.—We are informed upon authority which is of some value that the great serpent which was seen by Mr. Keller, in the Trent River, about a year ago, was again enjoying itself in the back channel of the Trent River, near Anderson's Island, one day last week. The party who got a glimpse of the monster, this time, was Mr. Thomas Landon, hotel keeper of Hagersville, who was in a canoe, and while approaching what he supposed to be a small log floating, he turned the course of the canoe to prevent the books coming in contact with it. As he did so, and when about 20 or 30 yards distant, the serpent raised his head and dived, and a portion of its body, about 10 feet, as well as he could judge in the short space of time he had to look upon it, was forced out of the water, hoop-shaped. Its body, as Mr. Landon described it, was dark in color above, but lighter, and of a greenish cast on the belly, and carried a head very large and thick, with large bright eyes. He thinks the creature must be fully 20 feet long, and 8 or 10 inches through the body. In rising the serpent caused so great a swell that the water struck the canoe and splashed over its side. Mr. Landon is very positive as to its appearance, and does not vary in his description although his friends press upon him the joke that it was a huge bull-frog that jumped out of a log. Other persons have seen the creature at different times, and one man who saw it at a distance thought it was a dog swimming across the channel.—Herald.

PARIS, July 5.—The reported loss of eight French torpedo boats during the recent storms on the Atlantic is confirmed. Fifty persons were drowned.

FRANCE AND COREA.

ROME, July 5.—Cardinal Jacobini has sent a note to M. De Freycinet, protesting against the treaty between France and Corea, which, he says, sacrifices the rights of Catholic missionaries and residents in Corea. He threatens that the Holy See will assume a protectorate over Corea.

LOST THEIR LIVES IN THE ALPS.

VIENNA, July 5.—Margrave Pallavicini and Mr. Cromatin, secretary of the Dutch embassy here, have been lost while climbing the Alps. It is supposed they slipped on frozen snow down a precipice.

BEECHER IN LONDON.

LONDON, July 5.—Henry Ward Beecher preached in Dr. Parker's temple yesterday to very large congregations. His gestures seemed to astonish the people more than his broad comedy had familiarity. In a conversation afterwards Mr. Beecher was asked what he thought of his audience. He replied, "Oh, I was well enough pleased with it. It was very like my own audiences. But I don't think the English are used to pulpit humor. For my part, I don't think it unworthy to use any of my talents in the service of the Lord."

THE VEIL LIFTED.

WELL may the old Reformers of Canada rub their eyes and wonder if their sight has been deceived, when they read of some of the recent sayings and doings of leaders of the Reform party. Daily the disloyal section of the party, which now comprises their foremost leaders and journalists, grows more outrageous in its attacks upon our constitution. Their latest tract, our step is well described, not by a "Tory organ," but by the staunchly Reform Montreal Witness, under the title "THE VEIL LIFTED." A reporter of the Witness was shown that the notorious "Independence" badges, were in reality double, having an under slip inscribed with the word "Annexation." The real meaning of this Reform "Independence" movement, is, as the Witness remarks, figured with "charming exactitude" by this device.

What a position the formerly great Reform or Liberal party now stands in. What disreputable allies it is seeking. Rebellion in Manitoba and the Northwest, secession in the Maritime Provinces, immunity for French criminals in Quebec, and annexation under the flimsy veil of independence at a meeting of Dominion delegates of the party. All these are welcomed by Reform leaders and Reform organs, their successes are hailed as party victories, their defeats draw forth threats of party vengeance, and if these new party cries seem contradictory, a little reflection shows that they are all consistent in one respect, these "new allies," of the Reform party all agree in aiming at the disruption of the Dominion or of the Empire, if not of both.

But in gaining new allies of such disreputable character, the Reform leaders are losing old supporters. Loyal Reformers, true Liberals, are everywhere expressing their intention of withdrawing themselves from such degradation.

MR. BLAKE ON ESCHEATS.

MR. BLAKE on the platform pretends with surprising dishonesty that he and Mr. Mowat were wholly right in the question of escheats, and that Sir John Macdonald was wrong. Mr. Blake knows that it was Mr. Fournier, the Reform Minister of Justice, who with Mr. Blake's assent vetoed Mr. Mowat's Escheats Bill. He knows that Mr. Mowat was pronounced by Mr. Blake, Minister of Justice, to be in the wrong in one of the two classes of escheats, and that Mr. Mowat assented to his correction. He knows that Mr. Blake, Minister of Justice, conducted litigation against the Province of Quebec to recover escheated property. He knows that Mr. Mowat when begging the Reform Administration to let him have escheated property, meanly pretended that he only wished to establish the principle, but would according to the recognized practice return the property to such claimants as illegitimate children. He knows in the Mercer case that it was not Sir John Macdonald, but the robbed son whose legitimacy was in doubt, who went to law to save his father's property from the clutches of Mr. Mowat, Mr. Edgar and the ladies of the Reformatory.

Mr. Blake in the question of escheats is aware of the blunders and dishonesty of himself and Mr. Mowat, but on the platform he tries to shove them onto the shoulders of Sir John Macdonald.

EXPENSIVE REFORMERS.

We notice that some Reform journals are representing the recent judgment of the Imperial Privy Council for $113,000 in favor of the Windsor and Annapolis Railway as another defeat sustained by Sir John A. Macdonald before the highest court of the realm. The fact is that it is Messrs. Mackenzie and Blake who are defeated. When for a short time they deluded the people of Canada into trusting them with power they took the false step for which the country now has to pay. In order to gain the favor of certain persons connected with the Western Counties Railway, the Mackenzie-Blake Administration seized the Windsor Branch then rightfully in the possession of the Windsor and Annapolis Railway. This tyrannical and dishonest act of the purists led to costly litigation, for which the people of Canada have to pay, besides the amount of $113,000 for which the robbed company has now obtained a final judgment.

And it is in order to enable him once more at the cost of the public treasury to make such presents to his friends that Mr. Blake is entrusting the people of Canada to replace him in office. The electors are hardly likely to think the inducement sufficient even when combined with the motive of aiding the friends of the murderous rebel Riis to obtain vengeance for his execution.

It is not a bad election trick for Mr. Gladstone to pose as "a man of the people" one of the "masses" as opposed to the aristocratic "classes," but it is a pretence very far from being founded on fact. Mr. Gladstone's father was a baronet, his mother could trace her descent from the royal house of Plantagenet of England and the royal house of Bruce of Scotland. His wife is the daughter of a baronet and the grand-daughter of a peer. All this is not very plebeian, and Mr. Gladstone's education and surroundings have been fully in accordance with his aristocratic birth and connections.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE RELIABLES SOLID.

The first general Liberal convention—and a Dominion convention at that—held in Old Canada since the last session of parliament, and comprised of French and English speaking delegates, has discussed the Riis question and endorsed the vote of Mr. Blake in the House of Commons. This vote was carried by the entire convention standing and cheering repeatedly. There was not one dissenting voice, and the proposers were English speaking delegates. This is the Young Liberals' answer to the Tory yarn that Mr. Blake did not enjoy the confidence of his party in that matter, and it must disillusionize the Tories from the belief that they are going to profit by Liberal disaffection. There is no disaffection. —Ottawa Free Press (Reform).

GLARING INCONSISTENCIES.

W. T. K. Preston, who superintends the bribery operations of the Grits, made a speech at the Reform convention on Saturday. He dwelt at great length upon the iniquity of the Government in murdering that great patriot, Riis. But he did not tell his listeners that, in his unsuccessful campaign in East Durham last August, he told the electors that the Tory Government dare not execute "the infamous murderer." Neither did he say that when he found they would not believe so bold a statement, he asked them to pledge their votes to him at the general elections in the event of Riis not being hanged. These glaring inconsistencies too glaring to be mentioned in the same speech and he therefore avoided them. —Nipawee Standard.

LAUGHING AT IT.

Last Saturday's Globe made the statement that "it does not matter a button to the Globe whether either of these gentlemen (a Blake or Mowat) is in or out of office, except that the Globe, like every other business concern in the country, is interested in having good government." Now give us a rest; there is not one man in fifty who reads the above statement but will laugh at the Globe's estimate of public gullibility. —Newmarket Era (Reform).

A "SMALL" SCANDAL.

It was to be deplored that the Young Liberals chose for their president one who has acknowledged having received money which were paid as political bribes, and which he is unwilling to account for; a scandal was a small one, however, and it may be doubted whether the delegates from Ontario understood or even ever heard of the subject. —Montreal Witness (Reform).

THE VEIL LIFTED.

The real meaning of the Canadian independence movement is figured with charming exactness by some of the badges worn at the recent Convention. The independence badge was a French tri-color ribbon on which was printed in gold letters the words "Independence." One of these ribbons shown to a Witness reporter, who was told, however, that they were not all alike, was found to be double. On the inner slip hanging next the heart printed in smaller and fainter letters was the word "Annexation." The honestest would be wear this side out. —Montreal Witness (Reform).

REASONS FOR EACH ATTITUDE.

The Ottawa Citizen refers to the circumstance that Mr. David Mills had several thousand substantial reasons for his attitude on the boundary question. As a matter of fact he had thousands of substantial reasons for each attitude. The Ontario Government paid him five or six thousand dollars for believing and proving that Ontario extended to the Rocky Mountains—Attitude No. 1. Then Mr. Mackenzie took him into the Cabinet and he accepted $7,000 a year to believe and to prove that Ontario extended only to Port Arthur—Attitude No. 2. Then, having resigned from the Cabinet, he had to fall back upon the bounty of Mr. Mowat, and for several thousand more dollars he believed Ontario extended to Rat Portage—Attitude No. 3. Mr. David Mills has done well out of the sale of his opinions, and is now rich. —London Free Press.

Quebec Politics.

The Montreal Star of July 3d says:—The political campaign in this Province may now be said to be fairly under way. Hon. Mr. Mercer, leader of the Liberal party, having yesterday commenced at Mariville a series of speeches on the political situation, which he purposes delivering at the principal centres throughout the province. On Wednesday he will address the electors of Sherbrooke, on Thursday at Baie de St. Paul, on Friday at Fraser Mills, and Sunday at Rimouski. At Mariville, County of Beauport, yesterday, Mr. Mercer spoke on behalf of Mr. Larue, the candidate of the Parti National, who will oppose Mr. Paulin, the present Conservative member. The Riis question yesterday was, of course, the great weapon used by Mr. Mercer and by which he hopes to get into power.

SEVEN PERSONS DROWNED.

A Sad List of Sunday Casualties in the Dominion.

Henry P. Boulton, a grand trunk fireman, lost his life about 9 o'clock on Sunday night in Toronto bay at the foot of Simcoe street. He went in for a swim and is supposed to have been attacked by cramps.

Five small crafts were out on a pleasure trip on Sunday at River du Loup, Que. A gale compelled some of them to put back, while others went on to the wharf. While returning one of them owned by Wilfred Ouellet, who had with him a boy named Deslauriers, a man named Deschênes, Louis Beaud, Silfred Boulet, Leon Allard and Amable Parent, was struck by a gale of wind and upset. Assistance arrived and all were saved but Amable Parent and the boy Deslauriers. The bodies were not recovered.

Two young men named Chas. Wesley Blake and Norton Marks, the latter a Buffalo man, were swimming in the bay at Hamilton on Sunday, and were drowned. On Sunday evening, Willie Atchison, aged 3, a son of Contractor Atchison, fell off a beam at Watt's dam, Brantford, and was drowned. The body was recovered.

Thomas Brown, coachman to Mrs. John Birrell of London South, was drowned on Sunday, while bathing in Hunt's dam. The body was recovered.

British Generals in Canada.

General Sir Donald Stewart, V.C., and Gen. Sir John McNeill of the Imperial Army arrived at the Windsor on Saturday evening. They had spent several pleasant days fishing with Sir George Stephen on his branch of the Metapedia river where they had some excellent sport. General Stewart distinguished himself in India, Afghanistan and recently in Egypt, and Gen. McNeill of Egyptian fame is well known in Canada, having accompanied the Princess Louise to the Dominion. They left for Ottawa where the private car "Saskatchewan" had been forwarded to take them through to Vancouver.

THE COLONIAL EXHIBITION.

The following notes regarding the Indian and Colonial Exhibition, London, Eng., are taken from the London Canadian Gazette of June 10th:—

As is but natural, the agricultural trophy in the Canadian section continues to receive the special attention of visitors. "This is the best thing in the exhibition," is a sentence to be heard continually from their lips. The many questions asked of and fully answered by Mr. Cracknell further indicate the deep interest awakened, for the majority are not satisfied to look and pass on, but wish to be informed as to the locality and conditions of growth of the samples.

It is the hope of many that one result of the present meeting of Canadian and Australian is friendly rivalry may be the creation of an interchange of commodities between their respective parts of the Empire. A step has already been taken in this direction by Messrs. Wallace, Warner & Co., of Western Australia. This firm, attracted by the excellence of the cheeses of Eastern Canada, have opened up negotiations with Mr. T. D. Miller, of Ingersoll, Ontario, for the importation of cheese from Canada to Australia, and that enterprising gentleman is now on his way to the Dominion to carry out the arrangement. There are many other commodities capable of taking part in a satisfactory international trade.

The Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire to be held at the exhibition on the 8th July, will, it is claimed, be the most important commercial congress ever held in any country. The parts of the Empire represented will be—Australia with no less than 13 chambers, Canada with four, China, India, Indo-China, South Africa, with four, British Guiana, the West Indies with three, and the British chamber in Paris. The Canadian delegates will represent respectfully the Board of Trade of Toronto, Montreal, Quebec and Hamilton. It is to be regretted that Winnipeg and Victoria send no one to speak on their behalf.

The Leeds Mercury remarks:—"Pushing Canada comes out bravely with agricultural products and with machinery and implements, being singular in the latter display, as the other colonies do not show a score of implements between them."

The Edinburgh Scotsman compares the Canadian with the Indian section. "India beams forth in all its eastern splendor; Canada comes to the front as a country capable of great things waiting for the development which capital and population can only supply."

FORESTRY CONTINUED.

The commercial aspect of Canada's forestry display at the exhibition is very obvious. Canadians are firmly convinced that the trade with Europe in the hardwoods of their eastern provinces may be largely extended. For the soft woods there is always a sufficient local demand, and Canada is not in a position to compete with the Baltic lumber so far as the soft varieties are concerned. It is therefore the hardwoods of Canada that best adapt themselves to export. At present England imports her hardwoods in immense quantities from the United States, a large number of factories being devoted exclusively to this branch of the trade. There are, however, important indications that the United States supply is fast falling off. A considerable importation does already take place to the United States from New Brunswick, and from Western Ontario, in spite of the present duty, and an agitation is in progress in the States for the free importation of the lumber of Eastern Canada, to prevent the destruction of the forests of the great Republic. On the other hand the supply of eastern Canada is, in many respects, ample. Authorities even declare that there is no perceptible decrease, generally speaking, in that of New Brunswick for instance; while the contemplated railway from Rivière du Loup across to the St. John's river, will open up a large extent of country with very fertile soil though hitherto inaccessible. Thus, with extended effort on the part of the various Provincial Governments, no hindrance need arise in the development of the industry. The authorities of Nova Scotia have not found it necessary or desirable to do much at present in furtherance of this development of the industry.

In Ontario a great part of the country is in the hands of the Provincial Government, but still the lumbermen have extensive limits and husband the timber, cutting only a limited extent. The New Brunswick Government will shortly have the new districts under control, where maple, birch and pine are to be found, and they will it is hoped, take every necessary measure for their proper use and preservation.

ENGLAND'S WOOD EMPORIUM.

Taking eastern Canada as a whole, there is therefore abundance of woods useful for many purposes—the three species of ash, two of elm, basswood, beech, three of maple, three of hickory, six or seven of oak, butternut, black walnut, buttonwood, three species of birch, and several others. And these are at present in extensive use in the manufacturing of Canada. Among the Canadian exhibits—in agricultural and other implements, in machinery, in furniture, and in many other classes nearly all these varieties may be seen in actual use. There Englishmen may realize for themselves what Canadian woods are capable of; and pointing to these exhibits, Canadians naturally ask: "What is to prevent England looking to us, as one of her colonies rather than to the United States, not alone for her raw material, but for the manufactured goods we are equally able to supply?" In Quebec and Ontario alone, there are now sixty-five varieties of trees, of which more than four-fifths are in present use for manufactures in the country and for export. Here then is surely a good field for development, but many Canadians have themselves a lesson to learn. They must realize more fully that it is questionable prudence to cut down forests for the mere purpose of exporting the raw lumber. Indeed in view of the immense importance from a climatic and general point of view of the forests to Canada, such a policy is unwise in the last degree. When land is being cleared for agricultural purposes, then export such lumber rather than burn it; but Canadians must remember the great value in years to come of the vast timber areas now too often so lightly thought of. If proper steps be taken to preserve the forests there will still be ample material to develop to a hitherto unknown extent the wooden manufactures of the country, and bring England and Europe to realize that Canada may be looked to for the supply of much of the manufactured goods now obtained from the United States. And on this point, too, Canadians must not forget that while sentimental feelings and artificial encouragement may do something to extend trade relations with England, future development must largely rest with their own enterprise and with their readiness to meet the full requirements of European markets.

As to the export trade of British Columbia, most competent authorities believe it to be yet in its infancy. The chief woods of the Province that lend themselves to manufacture and export are the red and yellow cedar, Douglas pine, white maple, oak, alder, and dogwood. Of these prominence must be given to the first three. They are invaluable to the Province, growing to an enormous size, and producing an immense amount of the very best of wood for the almost every purpose. Considerable exports already take place to Australia, South America, China, and other parts of the eastern world, for few woods can equal those of the Province for bridges, railway ties, frames and shipping accessories. But the past record is as nothing to what the future is destined to show, not only in the raw material, but also in the highly finished manufactures to which the natural conditions of the Province so readily lend themselves.

The Gazette of June 17th says:—"Among the visitors to the Canadian section last week was a party of four farmers, formerly from the north of Ireland, and now settled near London, Ontario. They are now in England to take out a number of horses for agricultural work, the Canadian stock not being in their opinion at present so heavy and suitable for this purpose as English breeds. They report a very early spring in Ontario, and a generally forward state of growth. Fall wheat promises to be excellent this year, though they find raising cattle for export more profitable."

GENERAL.

Is a well known fact that the "Cable" and "El Padre" brands of cigars are the oldest, most reliable and best value in the market. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of 3,000 men to one thousand operatives. Smokers will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above mentioned brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. S. FROM ALL OVER.

During July and August Brampton merchants will close their places of business at six o'clock every evening of the week except Saturday.

An order-in-Council has been passed making the inspection of sheep in the United States compulsory before the animals are permitted to enter Manitoba or the Northwest Territories in consequence of the reported prevalence of a rab among United States sheep.

The Ridgeway Standard alleges that a colt belonging to a local auctioneer, by kicking its master in the cheek, smashed his leg to pieces and is not likely to recover. The auctioneer was much disappointed that the colt had not better sense.

It is alleged that Mr. John Williams, of Erin, while fishing in a stream in that locality, waded in the water thigh deep and was struck such a violent blow by a trout that he was thrown off his feet and fell headlong into the water. The fish is declared to be three feet long and as thick as a man's leg.

No injurious effects can follow the use of Ayer's Cherry Cure in malarial diseases. It contains a specific and unfailing antidote for malarial poisons, with remedial agents which expel the poisonous humors, purify the system, and leave it healthy and reinvigorated.

A hen belonging to Mr. Robert Wilson, of Eden Mills, is qualifying for an engagement with a freak museum. It has just produced an egg with a tail about an inch long, resembling a snake. The experiment should be continued. Perhaps the next generation will be genuine snake.

In no other medicinal preparation have the results of the most intelligent study and scientific inquiry been so steadily and progressively utilized as in Ayer's Cherry Cure. It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Possesses the greatest possible power to heal and control affections of the throat and lungs, with absolute safety for children or adults. The experience of years has proven it to be of inestimable value as a household medicine, and for professional use. Thousands of physicians and families testify to its great worth. Jas. E. Moring, Highland, Ohio, writes: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for twelve years, and have found that, as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throats, it

Is Unequaled.

J. I. Miller, editor of the "Lutheran Home," Luray, Va., writes: "I advertise nothing that I do not know to be good. I was saved from the grave, I am sure, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and have recommended it to others with the happiest results." L. J. Addison, M. D., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice in medicine, any preparation of so great value as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs; and I constantly recommend it to my patients. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is effective in relieving the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

John J. Uhlman, Brooklyn, N.S., writes: "Twelve years ago, I was afflicted with a severe bronchial trouble, pronounced by a skillful physician to be very dangerous, and liable to terminate in pneumonia. After using one bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I found great relief, and an occasional use of it since that time has, I think, extended my life ten years at least." Mrs. V. M. Thebaud, Montreal, Canada, writes: "Last spring my daughter was attacked by membranous croup, or diphtheria. The doctor prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which cured her of the diphtheria. Being still very weak and sick, she began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which restored her to vigorous health."

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT.

R. N. Roddy the Defendant and Robert J. Saunders the complainant.

At the Police Court this morning R. N. Roddy was charged by Robt. J. Saunders with having on Sunday committed an aggravated assault with a weapon, with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

The defendant pleaded not guilty.
Robt. J. SAUNDERS, sworn said: I was in Roddy's on Sunday night between 10 and 11 o'clock. Roddy was sitting in a rocking chair in the front room. He said to me "You had better get out; you are drunk." I said that I was not drunk. He blamed me for not washing the ice I brought to him before putting it in the refrigerator. Roddy said something about my informing on him for selling whiskey. I said he was the last man I would inform on. I then went outside. I stood near a tree for a minute or two. Roddy came out and stood at the door. He then went down street westward about a hundred yards. He came back and I went toward him, standing in an alleyway near the barber shop. Roddy went through his house and came out to the alleyway. I heard his footsteps and noticed Roddy close to me.

I could see the light coat and vest he had on. I turned but no sooner did so than he, close to me then, struck me on the forehead. My whole body didn't turn; just my head turned. I don't know what he struck me with; it was not his hand. I was knocked against the wall, only for it I would have fallen. I was cut and bruised. He didn't speak after striking me but immediately went back. I went up the street and met John White and Mick Larone, who tied a handkerchief on my head. Afterwards John Jenison took me to Dr. Halliday's. I am quite positive that it wasn't with his fist that Roddy struck me. I was sober.

To Mr. MOORE—My house is in Ashburnham. I left there at six o'clock in the evening with John Connell. We both had something to drink in the afternoon. We had three glasses of beer apiece. We went into the Salvation Army barracks, then to the Queen's hotel, and afterwards to Roddy's. We got there at about ten o'clock. I didn't say that it would cost him $50 or a $100 if he refused. I said that "I suppose you think we'll haul you up" or words to that effect. I don't remember the reason why I said it. I said "you have always had a grudge against me since I commenced bringing your beer." I started the conversation.

DE HALLIDAY, sworn, said: I saw this young man at about 11 o'clock on Sunday night at my office. He came to get a wound dressed. The skin was broken to the extent of about an inch; irregularly. It was bruised around the wound and swelled considerably. The wound might have been made with metal knuckles or any hard smooth substance. I dressed the wound when he came to my office. He was not drunk, though I could tell that he had been drinking. He did not show it much, however. The wound was fresh when I saw it, perhaps an hour old.

John Connell was called corroborating Saunders' evidence in the main, though in details contradicting his statements several times. He said they had both drank several times.

The case was adjourned till three o'clock this afternoon.

Two Young Lives Made Happy.
Not a thousand miles from Peterborough lives a young man, who, although not to the "matron born," is nevertheless a very gentlemanly young fellow, possessed of several good qualifications and a great favour (especially during the ice cream season) with the fair sex. It is unfortunately too frequently the case that true love does not run smooth; and the said young man was finding out that, in this particular instance, he was no exception to the rule. He has for some time been paying his attentions, with a matrimonial view, to a young lady who is said to be heir to a considerable sum of money. The stern guardian of the aforesaid lady, who by the way is amply blessed with a goodly share of this world's goods, did not by word or action show the gallant lover whether his attentions to his ward were received with favor, and continued to hold himself aloof from him whenever he paid a visit to his lady love. The other evening, however, much to the delight of both young people, the old gentleman seemed for the time being, at all events, to "call back to memory the days of long ago," and once more enter into some of the old spirit of his departed youth, by making things quite pleasant and sociable. He succeeded in putting matters before the reticent lover in such a way that before he left his darling, he not only proposed and was accepted, but also asked her to accompany him to Toronto with the Forester's excursion on the 13th inst, which request was also gladly complied with, and the invitation accepted. Such is life.

The New Organ.
The new pipe organ for St. Andrew's Church, manufactured by Messrs Lye & Sons, Toronto, has arrived and is now being put together in the choir gallery of the church. The design of the woodwork trimmings is in harmony with the furniture of the church and is also of the same materials, ash and walnut. It has twenty three registers divided as follows:—Great Organ, nine, swell organ, eight; pedal organ, two; couplers, five. It has altogether one thousand and sixteen pipes. The cost complete will be about $2,000. It is likely that the construction of the organ will be so far advanced by next Sabbath that it will be fit for use. Miss. Hattie Johnston, formerly of St. Paul's, will be the organist and Mr. D. Galletly, the choir master.

It May Be Remembered: —That the Kirk congregation will feel proud of their "chist o' wissies."

—That the Choir will feel relieved a little.
—That it hasn't been proved that Roddy was the man that hit Bobby Saunders.
—That it was a man in the dark with a white coat and a light step.
—That the Board of Education will meet to-night.
—That the chairman should do his best to keep order.
—That he'll win the good opinion of the reporters if he does.
—That the cheese market is in session this afternoon.
—That the balloon went up last night under the auspices of Mr. Jas. English.

Pencil Points.

—Two languidly thermal" as a Boston girl would say.
—Or in the more expressive, if not so elegant language of the Lindsay maiden, "its horridly hot."
—A couple dozen of interested spectators at the Police Court this morning leaned helplessly against the railing, preoccupied, and ogled the Magistrate and Roddy by turns.
—Back or the couple of dozen stood the numerous more unfortunate who sweltered as the trial proceeded.
—Eight carloads of St. Paul's Church Sunday School are enjoying themselves in the Hastings groves of coolness to-day.
—And five cars of those of St. Luke's are enjoying the laughing waves and mild breezes of Clear Lake.
—While the people of town droop in this glare.
—Mr. Layfette Carpenter waited at the court this morning for a hearing in reference to the "hooking" water affair.
—He was heard, said he took two barrels, was advised to do so no more, and was let off.

DEATH OF POUND-MAKER.

The celebrated Cree Chief Killed by Bursting a Blood Vessel.

WINNIPEG, July 5.—The Cree chief, Pound-Maker, who figured so prominently in the rebellion, particularly against Col. Otter's force at Cut Knife Creek, died yesterday at Crowfoot's camp, near Blackfoot Crossing, and was buried to-day. Pound-Maker was discharged from the Stony Mountain penitentiary with other rebel prisoners last spring, and was then in good health. He is related to Crowfoot by marriage, and had been on a visit to him for some duration. About a month ago he took ill, but no fatal result was looked for until yesterday, when he burst a blood vessel and died in a few minutes.

Wholesale Poisoning.

WICHITA, Kansas, July 5.—Wholesale poisoning is reported at Anthony, Harper County. The town was crowded with people to celebrate the fourth of July. The speaker of the day had just begun his address when Judge Blackburn was taken violently sick. He was soon followed by others. The celebration was abandoned. Wagons were made into ambulances, and large outhouses and streets were searched for and hospitals were improvised. All the physicians of the town endeavored to allay the pain of the sufferers. It was soon found that they had been poisoned by drinking lemonade made with tartar emetic. At one time over sixty lay writhing with pain and many lives were despatched of. All however, are now out of danger with the exception of a widow named Northrop.

BAPTISM

The Unscripturalness of Immersion and the Denial of Baptism to Children.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—It is a well understood thing in controversy that if you cannot meet an opponent's arguments fairly and squarely, then, as the next best thing, direct attention by introducing irrelevant matters; and so as, if possible, to create prejudice and ill-will against an antagonist. Such seems to be the policy of the Rev. Mr. Munro in his last letter of July 3rd. He charges me with misrepresentation, with slander, with ten specially enumerated mistakes, with that which would be blasphemous but for being silly, and with mortifying such opprobrium that I am only spared the severest castigation by respect for me as a minister. It is not often one minister charges another after this fashion. How can I lift up my head after this? And who will attend to what arguments I can adduce? Happily for me, Mr. Editor, I have the assurance the whole attempt will prove harmless, and why? Because it lacks the force of truth. Neither your valuable space, sir, nor time nor the public interest would justify me in attempting to reply to all these matters in detail. I can only do so in a general way, and then pass on to the discussion proper.

As to the article which led to this discussion being of Baptist origin, I neither mistake nor slander. It carries the stamp of its paternity upon the very face of it, which is seen and read of all men.

I confess, however, I have made one considerable mistake. I really supposed the revered gentleman was more extensively read and informed. In alluding, for instance, to the English Episcopal Church, I supposed he knew as every "school boy" does that attends her services, that in Canada, in the United States, in Great Britain, everywhere, she baptizes by sprinkling, notwithstanding that she retains in her rubric certain relics of Rome about immersion. It seems to me even the revered gentleman is in ignorance as to her services, for, if he does know her general practice, he has not the candour to acknowledge it, but allows himself to be wholly absorbed with the relics. The Latin Church, she baptizes by immersion, yet "in Russia baptism by sprinkling or affusion is regarded as equally valid." Further, the Rev. D. Chas. Hodge the great theological Divine of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, says vol. 3, p. 534, "The baptismal font still found among the ruins of the most ancient Greek churches in Palestine and going back apparently to very early times, are not large enough to admit of the baptism of adults by immersion." With respect to the Methodist Church, I am very sorry the Rev. Mr. Munro says "where is so very limited indeed. For he says: "I am not acquainted with any eminent scholars of the Methodist Church." We hope that this is not intended as an insuling reflection upon the Methodist body. If not, however, it displays a lack of knowledge with respect to one of the most extensive and active churches in this country and on this continent and in Great Britain that is almost incredible. And really in view of the above I again confess that I did make a mistake, not such as I am charged with, but in supposing what it seems is doubtful, and doubtfully as to the Baptist authorities on nude immersion.

Returning now to the main questions, we call attention to two particulars as to the mode of Baptism. We have seen that when Christ baptized with the spirit He did so by pouring, shedding, and causing it to fall upon the disciples. The Rev. Mr. Munro says, to use such language, as applicable to God the Holy Ghost is silly and approximating the blasphemous. This however is the language employed by the Apostles, and whether it be regarded as figurative or not, it clearly sets forth the mode of the Baptism, the figure employed being not immersion but a descending upon the subject of the heavenly influence or power.

We will now address a case where the Baptism with water was unquestionably administered in like manner by God himself. The case is that of the Israelites, they were all says St. Paul, "Baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the Sea. 1 Cor. 10:2. How was the baptism performed? By immersion? No. It was Pharaoh and his hosts who were immersed; and they were drowned. The Israelites went over on dry ground; the sea standing as a wall on either side. How were they then baptized? By a pouring rain. When the cloud that went before them retreated, and went to the rear, to separate them from the Egyptians, it passed over them surcharged with electricity and a thunder storm ensued. See Psalm 77, 16-20. The clouds, says the Psalmist, "poured out water," and Deborah says "they dropped water." Judges 5, 4, referring to this occasion. Thus were the Israelites baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea.

No, they cannot. I challenge the Rev. Mr. Munro or any one else to do so.

To overthrow my argument proving that children have a right to church membership a great attempt is made to no purpose.

The difficulties and objections raised are imaginary. It is absurd to talk of children being regenerated as are adults, for that implies a knowledge and belief of the truth of which they are not susceptible. They are, however, susceptible of receiving according to their condition and infant souls the Spirit of Life from Christ to quicken and operate as He pleases, and as their case may require, so that dying they are saved. John Baptist was, it is said, filled with the Holy Ghost from his birth. Now suppose the blessed Spirit produced in him the new divine nature, would that destroy in him the old Adamic nature, or original sin? Does it in believing adults? No. The flesh, the old nature, still lasts, says St. Paul, against the spirit, the new nature, and thus it would be with John Baptist, or any other regenerated child.

If this we are assured, the little ones are blessed by Christ and they cannot be secured. As the Good Shepherd he took them to his arms, and no ecclesiastical act or regulation can shut him out from his fold, he excludes these lambs from his fold. Under the old Mosaic economy they were included in the household of God, the church, what shall we have authority to exclude them from it now, under Christ's more gracious government? Let him produce it if he can. It is bad enough to suit a dogma, to seek to represent all the baptized households spoken of in the Acts of the Apostles, childless. But to seek to make God's household so, is preposterous, if not wicked.

Yours respectfully,
G. H. DAVIS.

[NOTE.—The Rev. Messrs. Munro and Davis have now favored us with two letters each on this subject. As our space is limited, we would suggest that if they wish to continue the correspondence they should confine themselves to one more letter each. —Ed. Review.]

The Conservatives Continue to Gain—The Latest Returns.

LONDON, July 6.—Midnight.—Up to this hour 233 Unionists, 99 Gladstonians and 43 Parnellites have been elected. The standing of the parties now is:—

Total number of seats 670
Number of elections held 36
To be held 275
Conservatives elected 210
Unionists 233
Gladstonians 99
Parnellites 43
Conservative and Unionist majority 443

LONDON, July 6.—The Tories continue to gain. Their victories to day include Chester, East Bradford, Clapham, Mile End, East Islington, South Islington, and Bow and Bromley. The Gladstonians have gained Wolverhampton. The net Conservative gain at midnight is 21.

LONDON, July 6.—The tide of Unionist success is unabated. The London divisions are going wholly Unionist. All four seats in Islington, hitherto a Radical stronghold, have returned Unionists. In the workingmen's districts of the Lower Hamlets 5 Unionists and two Gladstonians have been returned. Elections were held to-day in twenty-four county-seats. The results of most of these contests will be known to-morrow. The active stamping of the Unionists is saving the strength of the Gladstonian vote in the farming districts.

A RIOT AT LONDONDEERRY.

DUBLIN, July 6.—C. E. Lewis, Conservative, has been re-elected by 1781 to 1778 in Londonderry over Justin McCarthy. A riot followed the first announcement of the result of the contest. The cause of the disturbance was the discovery after the election had been declared in favor of Lewis of a ballot box, counted. A riot followed which almost made the election a tie, giving it to Lewis by a majority of three. The police interfered and attacked the rioters, who had assembled in front of the hotel where Lewis was staying, and were making a demonstration in celebration of his victory. A large number of persons were injured. There was much excitement in the town over the affair.

There were three counts in Londonderry. The second made the election a tie. The third gave Mr. Lewis a majority of three. Justin McCarthy has given notice that he will demand a scrutiny of the poll, and if necessary a recount of the district.

DEFEAT ACKNOWLEDGED.

LONDON, July 6.—The Full Mail Gazette (Labour), commenting on the results of the election, says:—"We are beaten. The total of the votes polled gives a clear majority against the ministry. The only question remaining is whether the Marquis of Salisbury will not sweep the country."

Mr. G. J. Goschen, Unionist, one of Mr. Gladstone's strongest opponents on Home Rule question, is defeated in East Edinburgh. Mr. Gladstone sits for Milnathort. Mr. Goschen will probably stand for Leith.

DRAINING MR. MOWAT.

A member of Ontario's counties in the Province of Ontario recently held a meeting in Toronto to advocate a scheme for the encouragement of large operations for drainage by advances of public monies.

It is a subject of very grave importance and one which may well be considered, to see if a plan can be devised for carrying on extension drainage works in the most scientific and economical manner.

But from the shape which the proposals took at this meeting it is evident that some incorrigible practical jokers must have had a hand in shaping them, so comical were some of the appeals that were made to Mr. Mowat.

If the first place they assumed with all the gravity of serious believers, that Mr. Mowat has an actual tangible surplus, cash or equivalent to cash, of something like $6,000,000. There was a tangible surplus under the Sandfield Macdonald Administration, but Mr. Mowat and his colleagues have dissipated that, and what they are now pleased to term a surplus is partly imaginary, partly mere book-keeping entries and partly inconceivable. No monies for drainage can be got from that source, for there is the primary impossibility of draining Mr. Mowat.

Then they assumed that the advances asked were to be treated as loans to be repaid to the treasury, and therefore that the people not directly interested in the operations would have no reason to object. They could hardly fail to know that this is not Mr. Mowat's plan of doing drainage business. Where localities are hostile, obstinately hostile and not to be won over, he drains the money back from them into the treasury; where they return supporters, and especially where they return members of the administration, he makes them a present of the money, not from his own resources, but by draining it from the people of Ontario including those who being opponents he has made repay the advances for their own draining.

Again they assumed that Mr. Mowat would consent to the supervising engineers being appointed by the municipalities interested. How the proposer must have laughed in his sleeve, knowing as he must that Mr. Mowat's leading idea is to drain from the municipalities, and local bodies into his own puddle all power of appointing officials, while continuing to drain the localities for money to pay his friends for their double service as public officials and party electing agents.

These worthy Wardens no doubt have much information about draining, but for all that they would find that Mr. Mowat as to certain forms of drainage is an expert, who could open their eyes.
